Donations Top $3800 Thurs. For Koestners

Benefit dinner conducted by the Sons of the American Legion last Thursday, to raise funds to aid the family of Ron Koestner was declared a success by its organizers, who presented Mrs. Joan Koestner with a $3800 check at the conclusion of the event.

Ron, 18, died December 26, in the Grand Forks hospital, following a brief but expensive battle with leukemia. Since he was not attending school at the time he became ill, and was over 18 years old, his expenses were not covered by the family's insurance.

Choked with emotion, Mrs. Koestner commented that words could not express the gratitude which they felt for acts of kindness and generosity which had been shown them since Ron's illness was first diagnosed, noting that they and the hospital had been flooded with offers to donate blood.

Project chairman Gordy Beck noted that over 272 ham dinners were served by the volunteers, with all profits contributed to the Koestner family. Entertainment was donated by "Imagine," a popular area band which played a variety of modern and country music. In addition, the Legion Club contributed a percentage of its profit on beverages.

Additional food, services, cash, and merchandise prizes were contributed by the following businesses and individuals: Plummer Liquor Store, Po Brekke, Plummer Coop Creamery, American Lutheran Church Women of Thief Lake, Thief River Falls liquor store, Thief River Falls Times, Best Western Inn, Bergan Travel, Joppru's, Newfolden Hartz store, Iola and Ormond Johnson, Hartz Warehouse, Falls Bake Shop, Bridgemans, American Legion Post 117, KTRF, KKAQ, Clara Jeanette, Coca Cola Bottling Company, Crookston; Hardware Hank, Newfolden; Health Food Specialties, Ace Hardware, Coast to Coast, Main Street Standard, First Northwestern Bank, Hallmark, T.G. PTA Writer Concerned With Video Invasion

Are electronic video games a friendly or hostile invasion? asks an article in the December-January issue of PTA Today, the National PTA's magazine. This multibillion-dollar entertainment industry has become a source of controversy for many parents and PTAs. Why do some parents object?

"Many parents are concerned about the questionable habits children may pick up at the arcades where they play the games. Youngsters may use up their lunch or bus money or even steal to finance their play; players may lose track of time, stay out too late, and violate curfew; and the parlors that house the games may become hangouts or attract drug dealers," says the article.

Increasing number of parlors and their proximity to schools are two prime concerns, according to a recent statement issued by the National PTA board of directors. Statement added that the possibility of drinking, gambling, drug selling, drug use, and increased gang activities may occur when there is little or no supervision. On the other hand, youngsters who frequent parlors which have adequate supervision and lighting appear to be more interested in the quality of play, the statement continues.

Spokesmen for the electronic video games industry have pointed out some positive contributions of the games, according to the article. These include: an opportunity for youngsters to have a positive introduction to computers; a form of entertainment that involves participation rather than passivity, like TV; development of some skills, such as eye-hand coordination and closer attention to detail; and kinesthetic learnig skills, involving a physical response to cues from the games.

In fact, the article continues, some schools have decided to cash in on the trend and install the games in or near their cafeterias, thus providing entertainment which can be more readily supervised as well as raise money for school activities. One PTA president supported such a program, adding that she saw no harm in having the games in a supervised setting.

Other issues still need to be addressed, according to the article. "What, if any, are the long-range effects of the games on children? Are the games too violent? Do they mesmerize players or put them into a trancelike state that might be unhealthy? Do they cause some children compulsively to play too much and give up their social activities?" Few studies have answered these questions.

Copies of the December-January issue of PTA Today are available for $1 each by sending a check or money order (made payable to National PTA) to National PTA, 700 North Rush Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Warm Winter Permits Late Field Work

Exceptionally mild temperatures and lack of snow cover permitted considerable late field work during most of December, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service.

Harvest of corn for grain, which was estimated at 93 per cent complete on December 15, continued to make good progress at least until Christmas when heavy precipitation occurred and snow began to cover the state again. Tillage of 1982 row crop stubble also continued in December, and was virtually completed in some southern counties.

Despite the long period of thin or non-existent snow cover, frost penetration is shallow. January 1 frost depths ranged from five inches or less in southern Minnesota to over 20 inches at the Canadian border.

Perennial forages and winter grains were vulnerable to damage during the many weeks of bare-ground conditions, but have come through in good shape so far. Care of livestock was made easier and cheaper by the mild weather most of December. Road conditions were good until the end of December in most areas.

From December 25 until mid-January, heavy snowfall and blowing snow as well as freezing rain brought transportation to a halt several times, especially in southwestern and central Minnesota.

MEA Contract Conference Set In Bloomington

More than 700 teachers from throughout the state are preregistered for the seventh biennial master contract conference January 21-22, conducted by the Minnesota Education association (MEA) in Bloomington.

Sponsored cooperatively by MEA's seven state councils for leadership teams, the conference includes 18 seminars designed to prepare for negotiations of teacher-school board contracts for the 1983-85 biennium.

"These are tough times," observes MEA president Donald C. Hill, "and teacher negotiators need all the help they can get for the upcoming negotiations, most of which will begin in March and April."

Hill will keynote the conference at the opening session Friday. Seminar session topics include: Bargaining in Today's Economy; Negotiations Techniques; Master Contract Analysis; School Finance — Basic; School Finance — Revenue Analysis; Mediation; Strikes: To Be or Not To Be; Organizing for Settlement; 1983 MEA Legislative Objectives; Good Faith Bargaining; School Aids Analysis; Negotiating Instructional Issues; Teacher Evaluation; Academic Freedom; Threats from the "New Right"; Fringe Benefits; Bargaining Law Into the Contract; School District Organization: An Historical and Prospective View; and Bargaining Goals and Strategy.

Speaker at the Saturday luncheon will be Tom Triplett, Gov. Rudy Perpich's deputy chief of staff for policy management.

Dr. Heinrichs also served on the clinic board of directors from 1975 to 1980, on clinic and hospital planning committees, and is responsible for university medical school residents who serve at the local facility. Now Is Time To Protect Against Theft

With farm equipment being stored until spring, now is a good time for farmers and ranchers to join operation identification and engrave their permanent identification number (PIN) on all equipment. PIN serves as a deterrent against theft, according to Minnesota crime watch, a program of the Minnesota department of public safety.

Operation identification is a proven program to reduce burglaries and is available free from local police and sheriff departments. Farmers joining the program receive a PIN to mark on machinery with an engraving tool or stamping kit. PIN identifies the owner of the equipment and can be used to trace and return stolen machinery.

"It's a good idea to engrave the PIN in two locations on each piece of equipment. One location known to you and the police or sheriff and another place known only to you," said Charles Rix, crime watch coordinator. "Be sure to keep a private written record of your PIN, the pieces of equipment that are marked, and where the marking was placed.

One inch square operation identification stickers are available from the police or sheriff and also should be put on engraved machinery. Sticker warns a would-be thief that the machinery is marked and will be hard to sell. Also, marked property found in a person's possession is court evidence of guilt.

Farmers should also record machinery serial numbers. Each number is usually on a plate riveted, glued or stamped into the frame. If a serial number is not legible or if its authenticity is questionable, farmers can check with their implement dealer.

Crime Watch recommends these additional steps to prevent farm loss due to theft:

— Close and lock machinery shed doors and windows.

— Install a high pressure, sodium light to increase visibility in the farmyard.

— Locate the farmyard gas tank where it can be seen from the house.

— Mix PIN marked confetti with harvested crops to identify the grain.

— Mark livestock with a brand, tatoo or other system to discourage rustling.

— Secure gas pumps, gas tanks, storage bins and grain elevators with strong padlocks.

— Store chemicals and seed in a locked building. Bags of chemicals and seed should be marked with your PIN.

Other theft prevention tips are in "Rural Crime, Don't Be The Next Victim," a crime watch booklet available free from many police and sheriff departments.

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor:

I agree with the article from "USA Today". At age 17 I joined the Navy; the next few years we sailed to many countries and a few eastern states. During that time I was considered an adult, old enough to legally drink in any bar.

Upon my return to Minnesota after being released from active duty I wasn't allowed to have a legal drink; I was still a child, two weeks from being 21. It still doesn't seem right.

Larry Conely
TRF

To the Editor:

In recent articles of the TIMES pertaining to the Northwest Men's Rights group, opinions were expressed regarding the Martha Rogers Ripley Alliance which I would like to clarify.

The main purpose of the shelter is to provide emergency housing and other services to women who are afraid to stay in their home, and their children. The women we house have been physically abused by their spouses or fear that such abuse could occur, as expressed in Minnesota Statute 609.02. The program is under the direction of the Minnesota state department of corrections.

The shelter staff, referred to as advocates, assist the women in sorting out their problems, inform the women as to what options and resources are available, then support the women in their decisions. The staff of the shelter is highly trained in advocacy for battered women, either by way of personal or professional experiences, and is able to understand what the women are going through in an empathetic manner.

The advocates do not make decisions for the women, nor do they encourage the women to follow a particular course of action such as seeking a divorce. Rather, they let the women know of alternatives which may meet their individual needs. This may include providing the appropriate referrals to legal, social services, counseling (for the woman and-or her spouse), and other agencies depending upon whether the women choose to end the relationship or to return home.

Rev. Marie Fortune, director of a domestic violence program in Washington, once stated that "To suggest that shelters break up families is like saying that hospitals cause auto accidents." When a women experiences physical abuse and terror from a man she once loved, and perhaps still loves, she feels shame, guilt and responsibility for keeping the family together. After numerous attempts to end the violence have failed, she may see no other means of patching up the relationship.

At this point, she may contact the shelter to find out what else can be done to help herself, her spouse and her children, or she may feel no hope that things will change and get out of the relationship. As the above quote implies, if all marriages were free of violence, there would be no need for shelters. Unfortunately, this is not the case.

Sincerely,
Linda Wallerich, Director
Ripley Alliance for Battered Women, Inc.

BBB Resolves 33 Advertising Challenges

Advertising review division of the Better Business Bureau (BBB) of Minnesota resolved 33 formal local advertising challenges during the past month.

Twenty-four of the challenges were the result of the BBB's own monitoring efforts, seven were initiated by consumer complaints and two were brought to the Bureau's attention by competitors.

In seven cases, the advertisers substantiated their claims. Nineteen advertisers revised their claims to comply with the BBB code of advertising and seven agreed to discontinue their claims.

Of the 33 challenges resolved during December, 21 involved advertising claims for local retail stores; 10 cases were claims for automotive dealerships and the remaining two were ones for a mail order establishment and a health spa.

School Health Week Slated January 23-29

To focus public attention on professional school nurses and health service staffs, January 23-29 has been proclaimed the seventh annual SHAPE (School Health - A Positive Environment) week and January 26 as the 11th annual Minnesota school nurse day.

Gov. Rudy Perpich, in a two-part proclamation, says, "We recognize the outstanding contributions made to the well-being of Minnesota children and youth by school nurses as members of the education team" and for their support and enhancement of "the opportunity of all students, including handicapped students, to take full advantage of educational opportunities."

Theme of the observance is "Healthy Kids Are Better Learners."

Sponsor of SHAPE week and school nurse day is the school nurse organization of Minnesota, which is associated with the Minnesota Education association (MEA).

In his proclamation, Gov. Perpich urges "Minnesotans, education agencies, community organizations and news media to join in this recognition by promoting and encouraging the goals of professional school nurses and their staffs as they continue to contribute to the health and welfare of our communities, state and nation."

Engagement Ring SALE!

Buying diamonds direct from the cutter and adding a modest but fair markup to cover the cost of running our business means an everyday price savings to you, our customer. That means a diamond, the gem itself, if it is priced fairly never should go on sale. Some of our mountings, however, have to be sold to make room for new styles, so now you can save up to 50% on the mountings and wedding rings in one group of engagement ring sets.

FRIENDLY CREDIT TERMS AVAILABLE!

Additional State Jobless Benefits Begin

Approximately 17,000 Minnesotans who have exhausted all of their unemployment insurance benefits now are eligible for up to four weeks of additional federal supplemental benefits.

Barbara Beerhalter, Commissioner of the Minnesota department of economic security, said the four-week extension was included in the five-cent gas tax bill signed by President Reagan on January 6.

This is an extension of a program which began in Minnesota September 12, 1982, and will be in effect until March 31, 1983, Beerhalter said. Original legislation, established because of concern over the nation's high unemployment rate, provided up to 10 weeks in benefits, she explained. Maximum now is 14 weeks.

Notices will be mailed by January 12, 1983, to persons who are not now receiving notices but think they may be eligible should contact the nearest unemployment insurance office, she said.

To be eligible for the supplemental benefits, unemployed persons must seek work on their own during each week they claim benefits and provide a written report of their employment contacts, Beerhalter said.

They must apply for suitable work and accept it if it is offered. "Suitable work" is any work a claimant can do that pays gross weekly wages which exceed the claimant's weekly unemployment benefit and equal or exceed the legal minimum wage, Beerhalter said.

Darwin Subject Of Exhibit At Science Display

Over 175 manuscript letters, photographs and other memorabilia will be exhibited at the Science Museum of Minnesota, 30 E. 10th St., St. Paul, from December 20 through February 20, 1983. Exhibit is in conjunction with the museum's Omnitheater film, "Darwin on the Galapagos." Other exhibits and programs will also be offered.

Letters by Darwin, his family and contemporaries such as A. R. Wallace, Grant Allen, Henry W. Bates, J. Brodie Innes and others are included in the Robert M. Stecher collection, one of the outstanding resources in the United States for the study of Charles Darwin. Letters document Darwin's daily life and some of the problems created—for—his contemporaries by his thoughts on evolution.

In addition to the books and letters, Stecher collected articles, reviews and other printed material relating to Darwin and Darwinism. Included are pictures, caricatures, obituaries, original reviews and reactions to "The Origin of Species," and correspondence with famous Darwinian scholars such as Sir Arthur Keith and Sir Geoffrey L. Keynes.

Robert M. Stecher collection belongs to the Cleveland medical library association, part of the Cleveland health sciences library.

Another museum exhibit is titled "The Carapace Caper." It is an exhibit on the shell of the Galapagos tortoise, showing the structural variations of the 13 subspecies distributed among 10 of the islands.

"Profiles in Science: The Young Charles Darwin" is a 40-minute, two-character play which provides insights into the kind of person Darwin was. Performance times are at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. on Thursdays at the museum, and other times and places can be arranged. Admission is $1. For more information call 221-9439.

Museum will also offer "Lunch with a Naturalist on the Galapagos," an illustrated lecture for brown baggers. Lectures are on Wednesdays, January 19, February 23, March 16, April 6, and April 20. Fee is $2.00. For more information call 221-9439. Lunch precedes the 1 p.m. showing of the Omnitheater film "Darwin on the Galapagos."

Museum's Lee and Rose Warner nature center, located near Marine-on-St. Croix, presents its regular programs for school groups. Plant and animal adaption to the local climate will be featured in connection with the film "Darwin on the Galapagos." For information call 221-9444.

Winter schedule for the Science Museum of Minnesota is 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Sunday. Museum will be open Monday December 20 and 27. Admission to the exhibit halls is $3 for adults and $2 for children 12 and under and senior citizens. Museum will close at 5 p.m. on December 24 and will be closed December 25. Museum will be open on January 1.

For program information call 221-9454. For Omnitheater information call 221-9400.

December Weather Gets Top Marks In Minnesota

Temperatures throughout northwestern Minnesota during December averaged 5.2 to 8.0 degrees above normal while precipitation was from .09 to .43 inches below normal — a pleasant combination that met with approval of most area residents.

Extreme temperatures for the month ranged state-wide from 65 degrees at Winona to -17 degrees at International Falls. Within the northwest district, temperatures ranged from a high of 55 degrees at Moorhead and Fosston to a low of -14 degrees at Warroad.

While northwestern Minnesota — more than a third of the state in area — has received less than half an inch of precipitation, some areas such as the Twin Cities) received from 3.09 to 4.27 inches.

Minnesota agricultural statistics service points out that precipitation was light and spotty in most of the state until the last third of December when moderate to heavy rain and snow fell on the southwest, south central, southeast, central and east central districts, bringing the month's totals above normal.

The southeast district received up to seven inches of snow during the first week of December. The next major snowfall did not occur until December 24 and 25 when one to seven inches was received in a band from the southwest through central to northeast districts. State Jobless Benefits May Be Subject To Tax

Minnesota department of economic security reminds persons filing federal tax forms that unemployment insurance benefits paid in 1982 may be subject to federal income tax.

Under the federal law, a single person will be taxed if income, including benefits, is greater than $12,000 a year. Married persons filing a joint income tax return may be taxed if the combined income, including benefits, is greater than $18,000. If a married person files a separate income tax return, all benefits may be taxable.

For tax purposes, unemployment compensation includes all unemployment insurance benefits and trade adjustment allowances.

Before the end of January, the department will send every person who received benefits in 1982 a form, "statement of unemployment insurance benefits," stating the total dollars paid. Department is also required by law to report to the internal revenue service (IRS) unemployment payments which total 10 dollars or more in a calendar year.

Any questions regarding filing federal tax returns should be directed to the IRS. Toll-free number for outstate residents is 1-800-424-1040. Individuals residing in other states can obtain a toll-free number for their area by referring to their federal tax package or the telephone directory for "federal tax information" listed under internal revenue service.

Elect Loeslie President Of Wheat Growers

National Association of Wheat Growers (NAWG) have elected Don Loeslie, a wheat farmer from Warren, as their president for the 1983 year. Loeslie succeeds Wayne Nelson of Winner, S.D. Loeslie had previously served as vice president of the 16-member state wheat organization.

Other officers elected during the national convention in Houston included Earl Pryor of Condon OR, vice president and Henry Neshem of Berthold, ND, secretary-treasurer.

Loeslie takes the helm of the association at a time of depressed conditions in American agriculture. "We are entering the third year of declining economic conditions on our farms," Loeslie said. "However, low farm prices are only a symptom of the real problem for agriculture. The administration and the Congress have not been able to design and implement an aggressive export program that will allow producers to cover their cost of production and receive a reasonable profit from the market place, or to provide an adequate safety net for producers during the current depression.

"It is an indication," Loeslie said, "of a less than full appreciation on the part of government officials and the general public for agriculture and agricultural exports and the important role that agriculture can play toward speeding the recovery of the national economy."

Loeslie said it will be one of his goals as the National Wheat Growers association president to improve communication between the rural and urban populations in order to instill a recognition of the impact that a poor agricultural economy has on city dwellers as well as farmers. He will also attempt to solicit additional urban support for farm related issues.

Loeslie is the first wheat producer from Minnesota or North Dakota to hold the presidency during the 33-year history of the National Wheat Growers association. He has also served as secretary-treasurer of the National Wheat Growers, chairman of the farm programs and membership committees and vice chairman of the NAWG international and domestic marketing committee.

Loeslie has also been active at the state level with the Minnesota association of wheat growers. He served first as legislative coordinator, and later as second vice president. He is currently the first vice president of the Minnesota wheat growers. Last August he was also a member of the first official wheat team to visit the Soviet Union since 1979 as part of the exchange program between the United States and the U.S.S.R.

A life-time resident of the Warren area, Loeslie and his wife Glorianne have five children and seven grandchildren.

Bill To Repeal Savings Tax Is Introduced

A bill to repeal the 10 per cent withholding on tax on personal savings, introduced by Congressman Arlan Stangeland, has been referred to the House ways and means committee.

The bill, (H.R. 693), would prevent the Internal Revenue service from collecting 10 per cent of all interest payments on savings accounts and personal investments. Under the new law, the IRS is taking a dime out of every investment dollar automatically.

"I opposed this tax when it was passed last August, and I don't think it should be allowed to continue," Congressman Stangeland said. "But it will take grassroots support to get the Internal Revenue services teeth out of our passbook accounts."

According to Congressman Stangeland, the withholding tax will have the following negative effects:

+ It will cost local banks $1 billion to set up the new program, then it will cost another $1 billion per year to operate;

+ Those costs will be passed on to savers and investors in the way of higher fees or lower interest payments;

+ People who are saving for their retirement or their children's education will lose some of the compound interest on their savings;

+ The pool of money available to loan to people and small businesses will be reduced during the course of the year and will slow down America's economic recovery;

+ According to a 1981 IRS report, over 96.7 per cent of the taxpayers already pay their fair share of taxes on savings and investment income.

"It seems a shame to spend $1 billion to collect from 3.3 per cent of the taxpayers," Congressman Stangeland said. "Because of the cost of the paperwork, I doubt that the withholding tax will significantly reduce the federal deficit. But it will hurt families that are trying to save for the future, and it will hurt small businesses.

"This tax is nothing more than an interest-free loan to Uncle Sam," he said.

Legislation identical to Congressman Stangeland's bill has been introduced by several other Representatives. The several bills now have the direct support of over 100 House Republicans and Democrats.

Winter Survival Kit Helpful In Emergencies

Don't get caught unprepared to deal with snowdrifts, an iced-up windshield or frozen car door locks. Prepare a winter survival kit, says the Automotive information council (AIC).

To battle the snow, a motorist would be wise to carry a shovel in the trunk. Use it to remove drifting snow from around a parked automobile, or to dig out if stuck in a drift. Traction strips or old pieces of carpeting also should be carried, along with some salt or sand to combat ice.

Ice scraper is a basic item needed to clean frost, ice and frozen snow off the windshield. If a scraper isn't available the edge of a credit card can be used in a pinch to scrape a light coating on the windows. Many ice scrapers come with a brush attached to the other end of the handle. Brush can make snow removal from the car an easy task.

Windshield-washer spray can keep ice from accumulating while driving once the windshield has been cleared, so keep the reservoir filled.

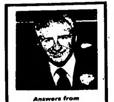
Battery booster cables are another good item to carry. Any car that sits out in the elements during zero temperatures may be difficult to start. Getting a jump start from another vehicle can save a service call.

Can of carburetor de-icer fluid can aid in getting the engine started quickly. Since the fluid is flammable, follow the directions carefully.

Gas-line anti-freeze should be added to the gas tank at the first indication of zero temperatures. Keeping the tank full of fuel is another way to help prevent frozen fuel lines.

Frozen locks can be another problem in cold wather. Lock-thaw solutions come in either spray cans or in squeeze bottles. These products can help unfreeze a lock in a few seconds. Another method often used to unfreeze locks is to heat the door key with a match before inserting it into the lock.

As a final precaution, jot down telephone numbers for road service and keep some spare change handy for emergency phone calls, says AIC.



Answers from the Bible by Pastor Don Peres

Q. Pastor Don, there is so much in the media these days about creation vs. evolution and science.

A. First of all the Bible is not a textbook on science. Its purpose for being written by God is not to explain in technical terms the technical data of the natural world, but to explain God's purpose and His relationship to man concerning spiritual things.

II Tim. 3:16 & 17 says, "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, throughly furnished unto all good works."

We notice from this verse that God's main reason for giving us the scriptures is to instruct us in righteousness and spiritual things and not science.

Science and Scripture do not cancel each other out. They simply look at the world from different perspectives, but are not finally contradictory.

God's purpose in writing the scriptures was not to instruct us in matters of calculus, physics, or chemistry.

A scientist may conclude that the origin of man is a cosmic accident, but the question of man's origin can never be determined by the study of biology. The biologist can describe how things might have happened, but only the Bible tells us how they did happen.

Gen. 1:1 says, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth."

Gen. 2:7 says, "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul."

If you have any questions you would like to have answered from the Bible, please write Pastor Don Peres, Box 129, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Largest crowd of the 1982-83 season was on hand in the Thief River Falls sports arena for last week's Thief River Falls-Roseau Section 8 high school hockey game, won by the Prowlers 5-2, and another good-size turnout is expected to be on hand Saturday when Bemidji will be here for a 7:30 p.m. game.

Bemidji, as everyone knows, made headlines by winning eight straight season-opening games before losing 5-2 to Fergus Falls. The Lumberjacks bounced back into the winning column with a 7-1 drubbing of Moorhead in their next start as the Smith Line fired in four goals. Bemidji hosted East Grand Forks last night (Tuesday), losing 4-3.

After nine games the Lumberjacks' scoring featured the first line feats of twin brothers Don and Ron Smith, plus Tim Webb. Don Smith, figured to be one of the fastest skaters in the state, had 23 goals, 6 assists and 29 points going into last night's game. Ron Smith had 4 goals, 13 assists and 17 points. Webb had 7 goals, 9 assists and 16 points. Mike Sauer, one of the top goalies in Section 8, carried a 2.2 goals-against average with a 92 per cent save figure.

Thief River Falls scoring figures going into last night's game at Warroad were led by the Tim Bergland-Tim Bottem-Tom Kenville combination. Bergland had 14 goals, 9 assists and 23 points; Bottem 9 goals, 5 assists and 14 points; Kenville 2 goals, 8 assists and 10 points. Thief River Falls netminder Kerry Wollin carried a 3.7 goals-against average and an 86 per cent save figure. Wollin's continued improved play, plus help from the forwards and defensemen, saw the Prowlers spot Lake of the Woods, Crookston and Roseau just two goals each as they ran their unbeaten streak to seven games before departing for Warroad, where they won 4-3 in overtime.

That's the longest unbeaten streak for a Thief River Falls hockey team since the 1971-72 season when the Prowlers, after a 3-4 start, won 11 straight games to finish the season 15-5 under coach John Schmitz. The season ended abruptly, though, in a 4-2 first round Region 8 loss to East Grand Forks in the sports arena.

Saturday's game will be the 16th meeting for brothers Wendell and Bryan Grand as coaches of the Prowlers and Lumberjacks. Their first head-to-head match back at the start of the 1976-77 season produced a 2-2 overtime tie at Bemidji. Since then Wendell has a 9-5 edge in the series, although Bryan won 6-4 earlier this season at Bemidji.

TRF, EGF Will Play Friday

Lincoln high school basketball team faces a big assignment Friday when the Prowlers must contend with a tall East Grand Forks front line in a 7:30 p.m. North Half Region 8AA game in the Green Wave gym.

East Grand Forks uses 6-3 senior John Miller, 6-5 senior Dale Johnson and 6-6 sophomore Warren Menge across the front, making the Green Wave outfit one of the tallest in the area.

Figured to be a serious contender for North Half Region 8AA honors this winter, East Grand Forks stumbled last week in a 50-46 loss at Bemidji, a team the Prowlers beat 44-37 the week before.

It was just the third win of the year for the Lumberjacks, who were playing without starting forward Dave Christensen, sidelined with an ankle injury, and had only limited service from Joe Edlund, just recovered from the flu.

That East Grand Forks front line combined for 36 points and 33 rebounds as the Green Wave built a 50-46 lead with three minutes remaining, only to run into turnover problems. Junior Jeff Leyendecker hit a jump shot with 46 seconds to go for a 46-46 tie and came up with a steal moments later to set up a go-ahead lay-up by Govind Nadesan with 14 seconds left. East Grand Forks had time to tie it, but Johnson missed, Leyendecker rebounded and Nadesan was fouled for the final two points at the line. Leyendecker had 16 points and Nadesan 12. Johnson had 16 and Menge 12 for the Green Wave.

It's still a toss-up for the nine North Half Region 8AA teams trying to land a top four spot that will assure a home court edge in the opening round of post-season tournament play in early March. Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt is confident the Prowlers, if they play up to their potential, can be one of those four.

A 57-47 loss last week to Crookston left Thief River Falls 1-2 vs. North Half Region 8AA competition this winter. Seven of the last 10 regular season Thief River Falls games will be played against those people, including a home-and-home series with East Grand Forks, plus additional home games against Detroit Lakes and Bemidji, along with other road trips to Crookston, Fergus Falls and Park Rapids.

Miscellaneous

+ Section 8 statistician Frank Fee of Crookston predicts a final regular season Section 8 hockey finish like this: 1. Fergus Falls; 2. Roseau; 3. Bemidji; 4. Lake of the Woods; 5. Alexandria; 6. Thief River Falls; 7. East Grand Forks, 8. Crookston, 9. Brainerd; 10. Red Lake Falls; 11. Indus; 12. Warroad; 13. Detroit Lakes; 14. Hallock; 15. Little Falls; 16. Moorhead; 17. Crosby-Ironton; 18. SCORING TWO OF his game-high 25 points, Thief River Falls center Randy Naeseth went up between Marshall County Central defenders Scott Anderson (54) and Larry Larson for an easy basket in Tuesday's high school basketball game played in the Lincoln gym. The Prowlers, with Naeseth a key figure, beat the Nordics 63-49.

Naeseth Leads Prowlers To 63-49 Win Over MCC

Randy Naeseth had a big night around the Thief River Falls basket Tuesday as the strong 6-4 senior center collected 25 points in a 63-49 victory over Marshall County Central in a high school basketball game played in the Lincoln gym.

It was the biggest night offensively of the 1982-83 season for both Naeseth and the Prowlers, who evened their record at 4-4. Marshall County Central fell to 3-5.

By design everything Naeseth got was inside. He had 14 points at halftime as Thief River Falls assumed a 30-20 lead.

"We wanted to go inside and I think that was the difference in the ball game," explained Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt. "Randy was the difference, but the big thing was, we had 4-5 people involved in the offense tonight. I thought we played good open court basketball and at times we had the patience to set it up and go inside. The ball movement was by far the best we've had this year."

Senior forward Steve Olson was also a key figure in the outcome with 13 points on a variety of plays, including 10 in the first half when he and Naeseth were a nearly unstoppable combination. Guard Mark Gere, troubled by foul problems early, came back to get 10 points, eight in the second half. Senior forward Larry Larson started to find the shooting range from the outside in the second half and finished with 16 points to lead the Nordics, while senior guard Todd Stokke had 15.

"We just got whipped inside," acknowledged Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. Still, he was satisfied with the Nordics' effort in the rare meeting with the Prowlers — only the third regular season meeting ever between the two, and the first since the 1970-71 season. "Overall we were happy with the way we played. We hustled. We just didn't get the ball to drop."

Season-long shooting problems surfaced again for the Nordics who shot just 33 per cent from the field for the game (21-for-63). The visitors were consistent, if nothing, shooting 33 per cent in both halves. Thief River Falls, meanwhile, used the inside game to shoot 60 per cent from the field in the first half (15-for-25) and 48 per cent for the game (29-for-60).

"We knew we had to shoot well to win and we didn't," noted Ueland.

Marshall County Central had an early edge, but after owning an 8-6 lead on sophomore guard Kevin Boe's 12-foot jump shot with 3:02 remaining in the first quarter the Nordics were never again ahead. They trailed only 14-12 at the first stop, though, and were within 20-18 when Stokke bounced off Naeseth and scored on a short jumper off a drive with 4:25 left in the first half.

But that's when Naeseth and the Prowlers took over. He started a 10-point Thief River Falls burst with a short turnaround jumper on the baseline. Olson then converted on a flurry around the Prowlers' basket that featured three shots and two offensive rebounds following a Marshall County Central turnover. Naeseth got the rest, twice scoring from underneath and once on another turnaround jumper as the lead opened up to 30-18 with 1:23 to go in the half.

Larson finished the half by hitting one from the top of the key with 1:01 on the clock for a 10-point spread at intermission.

Although never really able to threaten the Thief River Falls lead, Marshall County Central still stayed within range until the final stages of the third quarter when two free throws by Jeff Hamerlinck, a 15-foot jumper by John Brandt and a shot from the lane in traffic by Naeseth opened up an 18-point, 50-32 gap with 51 seconds left.

It was 50-36 as the quarter ended.

The never-say-die Nordics were still within 54-42 when Stokke made a pair of free throws with 3:14 to play, but starting with a three-point play by Naeseth, the Prowlers got the next six points as they matched their earlier 18-point spread on a short jumper by Hamerlinck off a fast break with 2:20 on the clock, making it 60-42.

Reserves then finished the game.

"We had some opportunities at the end to get it to go our way, but we just couldn't do it," said Ueland.

"They played good, competitive basketball," said Hunt in praise of the Nordics. "It was a big win for us coming off that loss to Crookston (57-47 Friday), and with East Grand Forks coming up."

Thief River Falls finished the night 5-for-9 at the free-throw line where Marshall County Central was 7-for-8. After building a 21-12 edge on the boards through three quarters, the Prowlers settled for a 32-28 rebound margin at game's end. Thief River Falls also topped the turnover figures 18-12.

Thief River Falls will be at East Grand Forks Friday. Marshall County Central will be at Roseau Friday and will host Lake of the Woods Saturday afternoon in key North Border Conference assignments.

Northland Teams Will Stage Doubleheaders

Basketball teams at Northland community college will be playing a pair of doubleheaders this weekend as the Northmen and Northwomen take on Vermilion and Mesabi in Thief River Falls.

Vermilion will be here Friday night, with the women's game scheduled to be played at 6 and the men's game planned for 8. Mesabi arrives Saturday afternoon, with the women playing at 12 and the men at 2.

It'll be the Minnesota Community College Conference home openers for both teams. Northland opened its 1982-83 MCCC schedule on the road last weekend. The Northmen beat Rainy River 95-81 and edged Hibbing 97-83 to run their overall season record to 9-1. The Northwomen, meanwhile, lost to Rainy River 62-44 while beating Hibbing 61-54 for a 4-4 season mark.

Vermilion and Mesabi are members of the MCCC Northeast Division, but games between teams in the Northwest and Northeast Divisions count in the divisional standings, with the top two finishers in each of the four divisions across the state earning post-season state tournament berths in both men's and women's play.

At 9-1, the Northmen have the best record in the entire 21-team MCCC, which includes four teams in the Northwest Division — Northland, Fergus Falls, University of Minnesota-Crookston, Brainerd; five in the Northeash Division — Hibbing, Itasca, Vermilion, Mesabi, Rainy River; six in the Southern Division — Rochester, Austin, Willmar, Bethany, Worthington, University of Minnesota-Waseca; and six in the Central Division — Golden Valley Lutheran, Minneapolis, Normandale, Lakewood, Inver Hills and Anoka-Ramsey.

Northland's Matt Fontes is currently ranked No. 3 in the state scoring list with a 30.5 average Scott McKeever of the Northmen ranks No. 11 at 22.5. Northland's Duncan Gregory ranks No. 2 in the state-wide assist department with an average of 10 per game. Fontes (Canton, Ohio), McKeever (Middle River) and Gregory (East Chicago, Ind.) are Northland's three sophomore tri-captains.

Northland is also the highest scoring team in the state with a 100.6 scoring average. Rainy River is a distant second at 83.2. The Northmen average 79.2 points per game on defense, ranking somewhere in the middle of the pack, which is led by a 57.2 figure at Anola-Ramsey.

In women's play, Northland, Fergus Falls, Brainerd and University of Minnesota-Crookston all rank 1-1 in Northwest Division-counting games. In addition to Northland's split with Rainy River and Hibbing, Fergus Falls beat Vermilion 61-60 while losing to Mesabi 71-58; Brainerd crushed Vermilion 119-22 but lost to Itasca 45-41; while UMC edged Hibbing 63-52 but lost to Rainy River 52-51.

After a five-game homestand, the Northland community college hockey team will take its show on the road for three games this week, starting tonight (Wednesday) with a 7:30 p.m. game at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC).

Northland, 5-2 in the Minnesota Community college Conference (MCCC) will play a weekend series in Hibbing, meeting the Cardinals Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday afternoon at 1.

"It's going to be a real test to see if we can play on the road for three games," acknowledged Northland coach Tony Dorn, Jr. "We're just going to have to put three good periods of hockey together each game and try to win on the road, that's all."

Northland lost a 7-6 overtime decision at home to UMC last Wednesday, then rebounded to sweep Mesabi 6-3, 10-9 in overtime. The Trojans, meanwhile, added a 7-6, 8-4 weekend sweep over winless Hibbing.

Dan Hoff had a hat trick in the Saturday UMC win, with Tony Sprague getting the game-winner at the 15:46 mark of the third period Friday.

The two-game series produced 45 penalties — 21 on the Trojans who scored six power play goals and gave up two shorthanded goals.

"We're going to get our share of penalties," admitted UMC coach Jim Clauson. "Last year I knew that anything that happened on the ice, our guys would skate away from it. This year we've got some guys who have to learn how to do that yet. Hopefully I'll be able to teach them that before the year is done."

Rochester, although it hasn't faced a league foe for a while, continues to lead the MCCC standings because of a 6-0 start with 24 big points. With the other five teams meeting each other four times during the year each game is worth two points in the standings. However, because of the travel involved, Rochester meets everyone just twice, doubling the game's worth to four points each. If you win them — like Rochester has to date — you're in great shape. But lose them and you lose ground in a hurry.

Prowlers Edge Warriors 4-3

Tim Bottem scored on 1:55 of sudden-death overtime Tuesday to give Thief River Falls a 4-3 Section 8 high school hockey win over Warroad.

It was the Prowlers' seventh win in a current eight-game unbeaten streak dating back to Dec. 21. That string will be tested again Saturday when Bemidji will visit Thief River Falls and on Tuesday when East Grand Forks will be in town.

Although Thief River Falls out-shot Warroad 40-22 for the game, the score remained close throughout the contest. It was tied 1-1 at the end of the first period; deadlocked 2-2 after two; and still knotted at 3-3 as regulation time ended.

Thief River Falls got goals from sophomore Joe Blankenfeld, junior Mitch Semanko and junior Steve Wiskow in regulation time, with each score supplying Thief River Falls with a short-lived one-goal lead.

John Bjorkman scored twice for the Warriors, including the final one at 8:54 of the third period to force overtime. Matt Knox also scored for the host Warroad squad.

Kevin Olson had to make 36 saves in the Warroad net, with Kerry Wollin of the Prowlers kicking out 19 shots, including a pair of saves on breakaways by Bjorkman, one of the top players in Section 8.

"We expected a little bit of a letdown after the big win over Roseau (5-2 Saturday) and with Bemidji coming in," admitted Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand, "and that concern was justified. Warroad played well, but in the last five minutes of the third period and in overtime we played very well. We put on a lot of pressure."

Mustangs Will Wrestle Falcons On Friday Night

Oklee-Plummer, keyed for a Friday night showdown at Fertile-Beltrami, blitzed Fosston 47-12 Tuesday in high school wrestling action at Plummer.

Unbeaten in seven dual meet starts, Oklee-Plummer will be facing its stiffest challenge of the 1982-83 season Friday against the Falcons, the preseason Region 8A favorite.

"We're expecting a good one," said Oklee-Plummer coach Charles Bishop in anticipation of the Mustangs-Falcons clash. "I guess I would have to give the edge to them, but you never know. I'm hopeful."

Last week the Mustangs faced a similar challenge and came out a 28-25 winner at Greenbush, giving Bishop his first dual meet triumph at Greenbush in 13 years of coaching.

TRF YOUTH HOCKEY

by John Michael Anderson

Coached by Scott Bergland, the VFW Bantam B team won a pair of games over the weekend from Fargo South and Fargo Scheels in Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association (TRFAHA) action.

Two third period goals by Marty Levin gave Thief River Falls a come-from-behind 5-3 victory over Fargo Scheels Saturday, with Bret Haugen, Shoan Nelson and Pete Bortnem scoring earlier goals. Playing perhaps the best game of the year, Thief River Falls shut out Fargo South 6-0 Sunday behind the strong goaltending of Kraig Anderson and a balanced scoring attack in which six different players scored: Jason Peterson, Shawn Armstrong, Jason Brunkhorst, Chris Johnson, Chad Gunderson and Nelson.

VFW Bantam A team, coached by Rory Anderson, beat Grafton 5-2 then lost a 4-3 overtime game at Roseau. Brian Maki, Brad Olson and Scott Novak scored against Roseau.

Eagles Pee-Wee A team blasted Grafton 11-2 Saturday, getting 55 shots on goal while allowing only 12. Kent Hamre scored five times while Mitch Wilebski, Rick Looker, Robby Coltom, David Stengrim, Nick Stickler and Grant Larson notched single goals. John Thompson had four assists and Jason Boughton had two. On Sunday, Thief River Falls came back from a 2-0 Bemidji lead to tie the game. Wilebski scored with three minutes remaining in regulation time and the eight-minute overtime failed to break the tie. Terry Hunt played super in goal, making 19 saves and stopping a Bemidji penalty shot late in the game. It was a rough game as Thief River Falls picked up 10 penalties while Bemidji had six. Thief River Falls record is now 8-5-1.

Merchants Pee-Wee B team saw its record fall to 7-6 with a 19-0 loss to Fargo Scheels and a 3-0 loss to Bemidji. Coach Gus Holmes' team, along with the VFW Bantam B team, will travel to Grand Rapids this weekend to play in the Star of the North Pee-Wee and Bantam B tournament, regarded as perhaps the best B tournament anywhere in Minnesota.

Grygla Is Beaten 45-39 By Warroad On Tuesday

Grygla got off to a slow start and never fully recovered Tuesday in a 45-39 North Border Conference loss at home to Warroad. The loss dropped the Eagles to 2-5 for the year, with the five losses coming by a total of 25 points.

Warroad jumped out to a 12-4 first quarter lead and had a 19-12 edge at halftime. The Warriors held on to a 29-26 third quarter advantage.

"We just weren't mentally ready to play, especially in the first half," reported Grygla coach Vern Johnson.

Mike Brateng of Grygla took game-high scoring honors with 17 points, while teammate Rodney Hagen had 14. Joe Hemmelgarn led Warroad with 12 points, while Dave Phillipe and Duane Nelson added 10 each.

Neither team shot very well. Grygla hit more field goals, but was out-scored at the free throw line. The Eagles were 18-for-57 from the field (32 per cent) and 3-for-9 at the line (33 per cent). The Warriors were 15-for-46 from the floor (33 per cent) and 15-for-29 at the line (51 per cent).

Grygla has a pair of home games this weekend, hosting Badger Friday and entertaining Plummer Saturday.

Goodridge 58
RLF 56

Goodridge made it six wins in the past seven starts Tuesday with a final-second 58-56 Polar Conference triumph at Red Lake Falls.

Down 36-28 at halftime, Goodridge pulled within 48-44 at the end of the third quarter and gained a 56-56 tie on a Darin Easthouse basket with two minutes remaining in the game.

Red Lake Falls then elected to hold on to the ball, but after eating up most of the time the Eagles lost possession on a turnover in the final minute.

It was the Huskies' turn to go for the last shot. They were off-target with six seconds left, but a long rebound came out to sophomore guard Scott Goven who grabbed the ball, dribbled by a couple of defenders and hit a 15-foot shot with one second remaining for the dramatic win.

Goodridge coach Rick Nelson was elated with the victory. "That was probably the best steady performance out of everybody we've gotten all year," he pointed out. "We're real happy with the way everybody played." He cited the play of all the Huskies, but gave special praise to Jeff Langan, who came off the bench and played well, and Groven, who scored a game-high 22 points. "He played an outstanding game," said Nelson of Groven. "It was the best game of his life."

Both teams shot well. Goodridge was 27-for-49 from the field (55 per cent) and Red Lake Falls was 26-for-48 (54 per cent). Goodridge was 4-for-6 at the free throw line (67 per cent) while Red Lake Falls was just 3-for-9 (33 per cent). Red Lake Falls had a 27-13 rebound edge and topped the turnover figures 13-12.

"We got beat on the boards really bad at both ends, offensively and defensively, in the first half," explained Nelson. "They're probably the best team we've played, especially their inside people. But we really closed off their inside game in the second half."

Easthouse and Ross Parnow had 12 and 10 points, respectively, for the Huskies to join Goven in double figures. Dan Kees, John Schindler and Kent Brevik — those inside people Nelson alluded to — combined for 38 points for the Eagles.

Goodridge, 6-4, will host East Grand Forks Sacred Heart Friday.

Middle River 65
Badger 45

There was a 32-point turnaround Tuesday as Middle River came from behind to beat Badger 65-45 in a North Border Conference game at Badger.

The Rockets capitalized on a number of Middle River turnovers in jumping out to a 10-0 lead that went to 16-4 and finally 24-12 as the first quarter ended.

But it was all Middle River the rest of the way as the Skippers out-scored the Rockets 53-21 over the final three quarters. Thanks to its early edge, Badger still was able to cling to a 28-26 halftime lead, but Middle River was ahead 40-36 as the third quarter came to a close.

"We finally woke up, started playing some defense and quit turning the ball over," said Middle River coach Eldon Sparby in explaining the Middle River turnaround. "Once we did that we controlled things. I hope this is the turning point for us."

A balanced Middle River attack featured Kevin Roppe and Brad Berg with 12 points each, Kevin McKeever 11 and Nathan Bukowski 10. Mark Frosaker had 17 for Badger.

Grygla Girls Edge Greenbush, 46-38

Grygla used its pressure defense to force 30 Greenbush turnovers Monday as the Eagles posted a 46-38 girls high school basketball win on the road that pushed their record to 7-3 for the year.

"The pressure defense won it for us," pointed out Grygla coach Bill Raduenz. "It was a good team effort. They turned the ball over and we got some easy buckets off the press."

Greenbush led 8-4 at the end of the first quarter, with Grygla going ahead 22-20 at halftime. It was a 28-28 tie at the end of the third quarter.

Both teams made 19 field goals, but the Eagles were 8-for-14 from the free throw line (57 per cent) while the Tigers did not receive a single free throw opportunity. From the field Grygla was 19-for-58 (33 per cent) and Greenbush was 19-for-37 (51 per cent).

Tammy Anderson had 15 points and Kathy Foss added 12 for the winners, who were out-rebounded 28-24, but lost the ball on only 14 turnovers compared to 30 for the losers. Nineteen of them were steals by the Eagles.

It was the third straight game in which Grygla has scored 46 points, a season-high point production for the Eagles. They'll be playing Lake of the Woods Thursday at Baudette before hosting Middle River Tuesday.

DNR NEWS

DNR Flood Study

Department of Natural Resources, Division of Water, recently received federal funding to evaluate the effectiveness of Minnesota's flood plain management program.

Flood plain management program has been in effect since enacted by the legislature in 1969. During the past 13 years, the primary emphasis has been directed towards mapping of flood plains and assisting local units of government in adopting and administering local flood plain management ordinances.

These ordinances are intended to guide future development away from flood prone areas and to protect new development from flood damages — when locating in a flood prone area cannot be avoided. Currently, 250 cities and counties administer approved flood plain ordinances.

Although the DNR believes these ordinances are generally preventing new development from flood damages, officials say flooding "continues to impose a significant drain on the Minnesota economy."

Since it is impossible to prevent or control flooding, they say it is necessary to consider other alternatives to reducing the susceptibility of existing flood prone structures to damages.

Flood warning, flood emergency response and recovery planning, flood proofing, flood insurance, evacuation and relocation and other measures can reduce damages if incorporated into a community plan.

Evaluation effort will focus on how effective past and present measures have been in reducing damages. It will review the role of various local, regional, state and federal agencies in achieving effective flood damage reduction in Minnesota.

Evaluation report will make recommendations relating to the direction the flood plain program should take over the next 10 years and the role that various local, state, and federal agencies should play in reducing Minnesota's flood damages.

Division of Waters will be establishing a work group consisting of 15-20 representatives from local, regional, state and federal agencies to assist in the evaluation process. The evaluation report is scheduled for completion by October 1.

Questions or comments relating to the flood plain program evaluation should be directed to Tom Lutgen or Ron Harnack, Department of Natural Resources, Division of Water, 612-296-9229.

Turkey Permits

Computer drawing for the 1983 spring wild turkey hunt was held by the Department of Natural Resource on January 5. There were 2,100 permits available for the 8,153 individual applicants representing 4,084 hunting parties.

Overall, applicants had about a 1 in 2 chance of being selected. However, the odds varied from 1 in 1 to about 1 in 6 — depending on zone and time period selected.

Representatives of the Minnesota Chapter of the Wild Turkey Federation assisted in the drawing.

Department officials said successful applicants will be notified by mail no later than January 21. Hunters will have until February 4 to return the license application form and a $10 check for a turkey license. Unfilled licenses will then be offered to alternates.

Successful applicants are reminded that a DNR sponsored turkey hunter orientation class must be attended to validate a 1983 turkey hunting license. Successfuls will be notified by mail of dates and location of classes.

New Fire Device

"Fire, the scourge of the forest." For many years this was the prevailing attitude of old time forest rangers.

In recent years, however, this attitude has changed, says the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

In fact, as far back as the early 1900's, far sighted foresters recognized the beneficial role fire could play under controlled conditions.

"It must be emphasized that uncontrolled wildfire is still a major destroyer of our forests," said DNR fire protection chief Dennis Gardner. "However, modern technology has provided the knowledge and tools so that foresters can now use fire to benefit the forests. Skillful use of managed fire is now used not only for forest management but is used extensively to benefit wildlife as well."

One of the newest tools used by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is an aerial ignition system. Because of the high cost of conventional methods of prescribed burning, said Gardner, the DNR has begun using a system for starting fires from the air.

"The objective of developing the aerial ignition system (AIS) is to expand prescribed burning capabilities by developing techniques for hazard reduction, silvicultural burning and wildlife habitat improvement, as well as techniques for backfiring and burning out on wildfires."

He said the concept was originally developed in Australia, was refined by Canadian foresters, and now special adaptions have been developed by the DNR. Small plastic balls which contain a dry chemical are injected with a liquid. After a few seconds the balls ignite with a hot flame. The machine operator is in constant radio contact with the fire boss on the ground.

"The AIS will allow for the increased use of controlled fire as a tool to improve the productivity of Minnesota's forests," claimed Gardner.

THANKS TO OUR IRA. WE RETIRED EASILY...

We got a tax break...and a bundle to retire on...all because we started an Individual Retirement Account! We figured, why pay Uncle Sam any more than we had to, when we could be paying ourselves up to $4000 a year as a working couple! ($2000 a year for individuals.) That's tax deductible money that is set aside and earning interest (which is tax deferred until retirement time! Just imagine how fast that adds up!) It made sense for us...it could make even more sense for you... because the earlier you start, the more you'll have when it comes time to retire!

National Wildlife Federation News Release

More important than the return of the swallows to Capistrano was the return of Puffin number 54 to Eastern Egg Rock Island — the first puffin to nest and raise her young there in over 100 years, according to Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine.

Years ago, Eastern Egg Rock Island in Maine was the spring and summer home of hundreds of puffins busy raising families. The island was soon discovered by humans, who killed the puffins, stole their eggs, plucked puffin feathers for pillows and mattresses, and took their wings to decorate hats. Some people ate puffin meat and used parts of their bodies as fishing bait.

By 1902, only one pair of puffins was left.

Thanks to the efforts of Dr. Stephen Kress and the National Audubon's "puffin project", puffins are returning to nest and raise their young on this Maine island after nearly a century of absence. Kress hopes to spread the puffin population around so that if they become endangered in one place, there will be plentiful puffins elsewhere, according to the monthly children's publication of the National Wildlife Federation (NWF).

In order to repopulate Eastern Egg Rock, Kress collected ten day-old puffin chicks from Newfoundland and brought them to Maine. Now a surrogate father, he dug little underground burrows for the chicks and fed them raw fish twice a day, just like parent puffins do. He didn't handle the chicks any more than necessary or talk too much around them, wanting them to grow up like "wild" puffins.

Wild puffins spend most of their lives on the open ocean. When they are ready to raise families, they return to their birth place. Kress had to "trick" his transported chicks into thinking that Eastern Egg Rock was their real home so they would return there to nest.

Ranger Rick says that one particular bird, Puffin number 54, adapted very well to her new home. She stretched her wings, dug in her little house and came out at night to exercise while her enemies were asleep. When she was 50 days old, she left her burrow for good, swimming into the night to begin four years of growing up. While she was away, Kress moved more puffin chicks to the island in hopes that they would return to nest, as he hoped Puffin 54 would.

On July 4, 1981, his wish came true. Puffin 54 flew into sight with a beak full of fish and slipped into a crack in the rocks. She came out without the fish — a sure sign that she had a chick to feed. After almost 100 years, the first baby puffin had been born on the island. During the summer of 1982, eleven pairs of puffins were nesting on the island, according to Ranger Rick, giving Eastern Egg Rock a permanent population of puffins.

Senator Would Ease Truckers' Tax Increase

Citing the crippling effect which the revised heavy vehicle tax included in the recently approved five cents per gallon tax bill will have on the nation's truckers, Senator Rudy Boschwitz has announced that he will reintroduce legislation designed to ease this burden.

"It is simply unfair to impose this unexpected new tax on an industry hit hard by the recession," Boschwitz said.

"I have no quarrel with the five cents per gallon gas tax, which will help us improve our crumbling roads and will create an estimated 320,000 jobs in the bargain. In fact, I have long promoted such a tax. But many people don't realize that attached to the gas tax bill was a major additional increase in taxes on the trucking industry which is too severe in my judgment."

Heavy vehicles are currently taxes at an annual rate of $3 per 1,000 pounds gross vehicle weight over 26,000 pounds, with an annual maximum of $240 for trucks over 80,000 pounds gross vehicle weight.

As passed during the "lame duck" session of the 97th Congress, the five cents per gallon gas tax bill established a new system of road use taxes for heavy trucks. The annual maximum tax will be increased in stages from the present $240 to $1,600 on July 1, 1984; $1,700 on July 1, 1986; $1,800 on July 1, 1987; and $1,900 on July 1, 1988.

During Senate consideration of the gas tax bill Boschwitz introduced an amendment that would have set the final maximum tax at $1,200. His amendment, which was accepted by the full Senate 96-1, would also have phased in the new tax at a slower rate, with the maximum tax rising to $560 on Jan. 1, 1984; $880 on Jan. 1, 1985 and finally $1,200 on Jan. 1, 1986. However, a House-Senate conference on the gas tax bill eventually settled on a heavy truck use tax that was closer to the much higher tax proposed by the House of Representatives.

"I was disappointed when the conference modified my amendment. But I intend to introduce something very similar to it as a separate bill as soon as the 98th Congress convenes on January 25," Boschwitz said.

"Truckers are greatly affected by tough economic times. When the economy slows down no one wants to ship any goods, and that hurts the truckers. They made only $210 million profit on $44 billion in sales in 1981 which is less than one-half of one per cent return. That's not very good."

Boschwitz noted that in order to pay for the new taxes the trucking industry will have to pay an additional 2 to 2.5 per cent of its operating budget. This increase works out to about $4,401 per truck.

The department of transportation contends that heavy vehicles are not paying their fair share of highway taxes and favors the increased taxes to reduce the inequity. "The administration may have a point when they ask heavy vehicles to pay more," Boschwitz said, "but we don't want to tax the trucker out of business in a recession."

"Furthermore, an administration study which concludes that heavy truckers tear up the roads and should therefore pay more in taxes unfortunately fails to take into account the effects of weather on the roads, which is a big factor in our area of the country. It also fails to note the effects of salt, snowplows and studded snowtires.

"I think my approach is fairer to the truckers than the present arrangement and I'm hopeful we can push it through in the new Congress."

Average Price Of Home Rises To $82,500

With the housing industry on hold, the median price of a home purchased in 1982 moved up grudgingly from $78,220 in 1981 to $82,500, an increase of 5.4 per cent, reports an insurance company following its seventh annual survey of recent home buyers.

Because the median price increase was approximately that of the inflation rate, there was no real gain in 1982. However, those buying a home for the first time in 1982 actually paid less than their counterparts of a year ago, reversing a seven-year trend, the survey reveals.

The median home price paid by first-time buyers in 1982 declined 6.7 per cent, from $63,180 in 1981 to $58,900. However, repeat home buyers took up the slack as the median home price for this group increased from $82,200 to $98,300, a jump of 19.5 per cent.

Recent home buyers were surveyed in 11 representative markets nationwide. Those buying homes for the first time made up 40.6 per cent of the market in 1982, up slightly from 39.4 per cent the previous year.

The lower median home price paid by repeat buyers in 1982 suggests changes in the type of housing selected rather than deflated property values.

A greater percentage of first-time buyers opted for condominium apartment homes instead of single-family residences. Single-family units continued to decline as a percentage of all housing units sold in 1982.

Reason the median home price escalated sharply for repeat buyers was believed to be the greater variety of payment methods available to buyers in the market last year.

Reflecting home prices, the average monthly mortgage payment also declined for first-time buyers and increased for repeat buyers in 1982, the study shows.

For first-time buyers the average monthly mortgage payment, which includes principal, interest, taxes and insurance, dropped from $665 in 1981 to $630 in 1982, a decline of 5.2 per cent. Average monthly mortgage payments for repeat buyers rose 11.3 per cent, from $725 to $807.

CONQUERING CANCER

Facts From The National Cancer Institute

AGAINST THE ODDS

One young woman survived leukemia 20 years ago.

Over 20 years ago, children diagnosed as having acute lymphocytic leukemia, had only one chance in a hundred of living for five more years. The odds now have been reduced to one in two of a child surviving the disease. One woman, Jennette Hubbard Hall, who had that disease years ago is alive and well today.

She was 15 in 1959, when her leukemia was diagnosed, and she was treated on an outpatient basis under one of the early studies of the National Cancer Institute-supported Children's Cancer Study Group. Her treatment was administered by her physician at the University of Southern California Children's Hospital.

She remained on chemotherapy for more than seven years. Currently, children being treated for leukemia, take drugs for two to three years after the disease is in remission.

Shortly before her marriage, she decided to stop treatment, fearing it would interfere with having children. Jennie has had two children, and her health has been so good that she occasionally has trouble convincing doctors she ever had leukemia.

Since Jennie's bout with leukemia, clinical studies at centers throughout the country have defined principles for treating this most common form of childhood cancer.

Now, children receive a combination of drugs until they go into remission. On average, this takes four weeks. They then receive one or more combinations of drugs to kill any surviving cancer cells. Today, all chemotherapy is stopped after two to three years.

Jennie Hubbard and other childhood cancer patients are now adults. They are surviving free of the disease, having children of their own, working and leading normal, productive lives. This is the definition of cure and the goal of all cancer treatment.

Congressman Asks Unity On Nuclear Arms

Congressman Arlan Stangeland has called for "unity among the citizens and officials of the United States" in supporting negotiations to reduce and eliminate the nuclear weapons of the world.

Congressman Stangeland's comments came on the House floor, while he was announcing his support of legislation supporting mutual, balanced and verifiable reductions in nuclear arsenals, leading to a freeze at an equal and significantly lower level.

The bill, House Joint Resolution 4, has been supported by a number of key Democrats and Republicans. Congressman Stangeland said:

"For Americans, there is no greater challenge than the complex task of preserving our liberty, while also backing away from the nuclear 'balance of terror.'

"Survival and freedom must be our equal goals. No matter how complicated this issue becomes, we cannot ignore our responsibilities.

"The only practical way to have both the U.S. and the USSR reduce their arsenals is to engage in face-to-face negotiations. And the best way for such talks to succeed is for the Soviets to realize that America is just as united in its commitment to liberty as it is in its genuine desire for peace and stability.

"At this time, our best hope for improving the situation rests in the two negotiations being held in Geneva. These strategic arms reduction talks (START) could lead America and the Soviet Unition to reduce the long-range and regional nuclear arms in their arsenals, thus lowering the terrible risk of nuclear war.

"On the same day last week, President Reagan and Yuri Andropov expressed optimism about these START talks. I share their optimism, if the American people can present a united front.

"There is room for disagreement on the approaches to preserving our liberty while reducing nuclear arsenals. But at those negotiations, America's envoys must have our full support.

"For that reason, I am cosponsoring H.J. Res. 4. This resolution expresses full Congressional support for our negotiators in seeking mutual, balanced and verifiable nuclear reductions leading to equal and significantly lower weapon levels and decreased risk of nuclear war.

"The resolution also urges negotiators to reduce first those weapons which are so fast that they could trigger nuclear war before world leaders can contact each other. These include the short-range missiles which the soviets have placed in Eastern Europe.

"The resolution also urges negotiators to work for new "confidence-building" proposals, such as improved communications which would reduce the risk of nuclear war starting because of error, misunderstanding, or equipment failure.

"The issues of survival and freedom transcend all factions, all philosophies, all partisan political consideration. Every responsible American must work for the reduction and elimination of nuclear weapons from the arsenals for every nation of the world.

"But we cannot do it alone — the Soviets must cooperate. And the best way to guarantee they will negotiate in good faith is for the Congress to show that it is in full support of our negotiators, who are working to preserve our freedom and survival."

On Top Of The World

A little child doesn't understand bigness. Nor does he understand height and depth and length or any other proportions. But he knows love. He has trust.

Nestled in Mother's arms or held in Father's strong hands, he knows complete faith and security.

Man lives his span of life trusting, believing, hoping. Otherwise, he is no different than a stone—his life is empty.

Why must we have faith? Because it gives us reason for living. Faith in the Creator who fashioned us in His own image is increased by prayer and meditation. What better place to find love and understanding—and hope for a better life—than in the church or synagogue of your choice?

IRS Accountability

Following editorial is from the Philadelphia Inquirer:

If every American complied fully with federal income tax laws, an additional $80 billion would flow into the Treasury every year. That would just about wipe out the federal deficit.

Some Americans — exact numbers unknown, of course — don't give Uncle Sam his due. In an effort to discourage such behavior, the Internal Revenue Service randomly selects income tax returns for audit. How effective is that process in ferreting out tax cheats and similar scoundrels? That's a good question — and the IRS would rather nobody knew the answer.

For the past 12 years, the full force of the IRS has been doing battle with two people who think there should be some accountability at the agency. Phillip and Susan Long of Bellevue, Wash., have pursued their fight believing that the public has a right to know how, and how fairly, tax laws are administered.

Their efforts to date have significantly reformed the system of income tax collection, which until they took up the cause, operated behind a dark curtain of secrecy. As a result of the Longs' legal battles, the IRS was required to make public its "Internal Revenue Manual," the basic textbook on tax law enforcement, as well as training handbooks for IRS employees. Previously there was no way for the public to determine the rules and procedures under which the IRS operated.

Some of the data the Longs have pried out of the IRS show an alarming inequity in enforcement and assessment of penalties. The agency is far more aggressive in pursuing smaller tax cheats than the big-time ones, and those who cheat over a long period of time get off easier than those who do it once and get caught. Such selective enforcement hardly serves the national interest, but until the disparity became public the IRS showed no inclination to treat all taxpayers equally.

Currently, the Longs are seeking release of 58 computer tapes that contain information on the Taxpayer Compliance Measurement Program, which details how the IRS selects returns for audit. The IRS has resisted their requests for the tapes, contending that release of the data would provide "a statistical road map for tax avoidance."

Consistently, the courts — including the Supreme Court — have rejected this and similar IRS arguments and have held that releasing the information would not impede the system of tax collection. The courts have ordered the IRS to release the material sought by the Longs under the federal Freedom of Information Act. Those rulings, however, haven't motivated the IRS. In direct disobedience of the orders, the IRS has been providing the data only when it feels good and ready to do so. That often means a year and a half later and after a lawsuit or two.

Recently, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Frncisco took the unprecedented step of issuing a permanent injunction against the IRS and that sort of conduct. The court noted that the IRS had "offensively" and consistently hindered release of information, abusing the Freedom of Information Act's provisions.

That represented a major victory for the Longs — and certainly for all American taxpayers, who next April 15 will file a total of 145 million tax returns. That process would be a bit less painful financially — and psychologically — if each taxpayer were assured that the collection system is fair and equitable. The only way to do that is to expose it to the kind of public scrutiny the Longs are fighting for.

Why People Won't Work

Following editorial is from U.S. News & World Report:

When the state of Vermont invited 11,674 recipients of jobless benefits to pick apples this fall at up to $5 an hour, only 15 signed up to work. The rest chose to continue collecting tax-free jobless benefits, which amount to as much as $146 per week.

"After taxes, it probably comes out the same — picking applies or staying at home," explains Stuart Verchereau, executive assistant in the state's department of employment and training.

Growers ended up importing 315 Jamaican and Puerto Rican immigrants.

Suzanne Lang, 25, has been unemployed since April when she lost a job at a New York City brokerage firm. She rules out working in a "menial secretarial job" or being "stuck filing papers in some corner."

As for physical labor: "I'm a college graduate — I'll only stoop so low."

Without a job since July, teletype mechanic Richard Mooney, 46, of New York City is holding out for similar work. "I'm not going to work for the minimum wage," says Mooney. "I can get more in unemployment benefits."

A laid-off auto worker in Detroit declares that he will not even begin looking for a job until his unemployment benefits expire. "Why should I look for work when I can get unemployment checks? he asks.

A Colorado farmer has sought harvest help as far away as New Mexico, Texas and Arizona, and has had job openings announced at local high schools — but to no avail.

"It's one thing not to have a job," he complains. "It's another thing to say you don't like the work — that you'd rather stay on unemployment."

Different OPEC?

Following editorial is from the Bemidji Pioneer:

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries is beginning to resemble the Holy Roman Empire, which was neither holy nor Roman nor an empire. Despite its name and reputation, OPEC lacks the organizational discipline to dictate prices and supplies on the petroleum export market.

The OPEC that met recently in Vienna was not the one that quadrupled the price of oil in 1974 and then ran it up from $12.50 to $34 a barrel between 1978 and 1979. The old OPEC was dealing with a world that wanted every drop of oil the 13 members of the organization could produce. The new OPEC cannot find enough takers for its product — the result of recession, new oil discoveries, and a new ethic of fuel conservation spurred by OPEC itself.

The Vienna meeting ended with an announcement that the base price of oil will remain at $34 during 1983 and production will be held to 18.5 million barrels a day. Privately, the oil ministers admitted this was wishful thinking. Oil is already going for as little as $26 a barrel on the spot market. For the past year, the more dollar-hungry OPEC members have been ignoring their assigned production quotas to pump as much oil as they can find customers to buy, and there is no sign they will knuckle under to the new production limits envisioned at Vienna.

Conditions may be ripe for some kind of "price war" in the coming year, especially if recovery from the recession turns out to be as slow-paced as most economists expect. A better way to put it is that the OPEC exporters and others in the oil business will be experiencing the vicissitudes of a free competitive market, something they were spared during the 1970s.

We cannot share the concern expressed by some economists over the possibility of a collapse in the price of oil. They see a strain on the international banking system if Arab exporters are no longer depositing a big surplus of petrodollars. They see economic difficulties for Mexico, Britain, and other non-OPEC countries that will have to cut prices of their oil for export to stay competitive. They see a weakening of U.S. programs to develop synthetic fuels and alternate energy technologies, setting us up for a serious energy crisis if oil again becomes in short supply.

Those conditions all would have to be reckoned with in a prolonged period of oil surplus and lower prices. But to see these as unwelcome developments is like fearing peace at the end of a war because of the adjustments that must be made. Can the world be anything but better off if the price of oil is bid up and down in the marketplace rather than fixed by a council of ministers determined to charge as much as the market will bear?

The OPEC ministers are victims of their own misjudgment about what the market would bear. Their run up of prices sent their customers on a search for ways to avoid buying oil, and helped set the stage for the recession which has added to their woes.

OPEC is looking less and less like a cartel, and more and more like a trade association. Having met at Vienna for a couple of days of shoptalk, the competitors are now back at work, scrambling for customers.

Borrowed Nonsense:

"And what did my little boy do today?" the working mother asked upon her return home.

"I played postman," the youngster replied. "I found a bunch of letters tied with a pink ribbon in your trunk and I delivered them to all the houses on the block."

HIGHWAYS AND LOW TAXES

By Robert B. Priest

With many of America's highways on the road to ruin, American taxpayers are becoming concerned about having to pay more to have those roads repaved.

Fortunately, modern technology has provided a practical alternative to expensive asphalt—an alternative that can save taxpayers money.

Priest

High-performance grinding machines, equipped with diamond saw blades, can rehabilitate old concrete highways by removing bumps and surface imperfections. This may amount to grinding off from one-eighth to one inch of old concrete. Diamond grinding can add from eight to ten years of life to a highway, lasting much longer than a traditional overlay. Moreover, this process can generally be done at one-third the cost of an overlay.

In the past, the problem of worn or out-of-tolerance highways was solved with an asphalt overlay. Spiraling petroleum prices, however, have made asphalt quite costly. A little more than ten years ago, liquid asphalt cost about $25 a ton. Today, it's several hundred dollars a ton.

A textured road looks like corduroy, rides like velvet.

The less expensive diamond grinding process, on the other hand, produces a level as well as a textured surface with a high skid-resistant quality. This means a safer, smoother ride for all motorists.

More federal funds are likely to be available for road repairs soon. If the highways are rehabilitated by the diamond grinding method, they are likely to remain in good condition for a longer time.

For a free brochure about the diamond grinding process, write to the Target Products Division, Federal-Mogul Corporation, 4330 Clary Blvd., Kansas City, MO 64130.

Mr. Priest is General Manager of the Target Products Division of the Federal-Mogul Corp. His company makes the grinding machines and the diamond blades used to rehabilitate highways.

CAPITOL COMMENTARY

by LeRoy Stumpf

State Senator — District 1

A vice chairman of the Senate education committee, I am always happy to have the opportunity to help students learn more about the workings of state government. This winter, I am fortunate to have two students from Northland community college working in my office as interns.

Carolyn Anderson, a sophomore from Thief River Falls, and Tim Finseth, a freshman from McIntosh, are both studying political science at Northland. They will get an insider's view of the Senate as they help me with a wide variety of assignments.

Each student is closely following two of the committees on which I serve. Carolyn is concentrating on the education and transportation committees, while Tim is focusing on the agriculture and natural resources committee and the local and urban government committee. They will attend committee meetings with me and help me stay in touch with constituents about those issues.

During their first week, Tim and Carolyn saw Governor Perpich give his state of the state address to a combined session of the House and Senate. The students agree that they've enjoyed their time in St. Paul thus far and have found the Senate to be a very interesting place. I'm happy to provide them with this opportunity, and I look forward to working with other students in the future.

As the Senate settled down for business this week, I was asked to serve as the chairman of two important subcommittees. As chairman of the rural transportation subcommittee, I will help shape and review legislation on railroads, truck lengths and weights, public safety, aeronautics and waterways.

In light of the passage of the railroad bonding amendment in last November's election, the subcommittee will help develop legislation to provide money for rehabilitating abandoned railroads so they can continue to be used to carry commodities.

I also will serve as chairman of the post-secondary and higher education sub-committee. We are likely to be dealing with such issues as tuition and student financial aid.

Please feel free to contact me at any time by writing me at: 306 State Capitol, St. Paul, MN 55155; or call me at (612) 296-8660.

Making Your World EASIER

Microwave Oven

The recent trend toward health awareness has led to an increased interest between diet and health. Many nutritionists advise that special health foods and expensive vitamin-mineral supplements are not necessary for most people. They recommend choosing a variety of foods from each of the four food groups as the key to a healthy diet.

Vegetables are a valuable and sometimes overlooked source of important vitamins such as A and C as well as fiber. Dark green vegetables also contribute riboflavin, folacin, iron and magnesium.

According to home economists at Whirlpool Corporation, preparation of vegetables in a microwave oven helps preserve some nutrients as well as or better than conventional cooking methods. Because of quicker cooking times and the use of less water in cooking, vitamins and minerals are better preserved. Using your microwave oven and your neighborhood supermarket you can easily incorporate good nutrition into your family's daily meals.

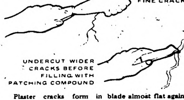
HOW TO... By Dave Petzal Editor Mechanix Illustrated

Fill Cracks in Plaster and Wallboard



PRESS JOINT COMPOUND INTO FINE CRACKS
UNDERCUT WIDER CRACKS BEFORE FILLING WITH PATCHING COMPOUND

Plaster cracks form in walls and ceilings as a result of movement of the support framing, which is caused by normal expansion and contraction of the frame under load and with the change of seasons. They're nothing to be ashamed of, but they can be ugly.

Thomas H. Jones, a regular contributor to Mechanix Illustrated, suggests that they be fixed this way: Hairline cracks are hard to patch because it's difficult to get the patching material deep into the crack. But joint compound, which is thin, can be forced into the crack with a heavy-duty putty knife, pressuring the blade almost flat against the surface and crisscrossing the crack. Remove the excess from the surface and sand smooth when dry.

If the crack is a wide one (¼ inch or more), first scrape it clean and then undercut it with a beer-can opener to make sure the patching material stays in place. Also, because all patching materials shrink, you'll have to pack on a second layer after the first one has dried. If you have gypsum-board cracks where the taped edges of the board join, you may have to re-tape before patching in the standard manner.

COOKING CORNER

Ideas from Betty Crocker's Working Woman's Cookbook

Drizzle sauce on crunchy granola Ice-Cream Squares

Relying on basic recipes is one clever way that many working women use to create different yet delicious dishes for their families with a minimum of fuss. Now that nearly 50 million American women are in the work force, such planning is even more vital.

The people at the Betty Crocker Kitchens have come up with some expert advice for these busy women. They've put it together in a new book called the Working Woman's Cookbook.

It's filled with ideas for main dishes, appetizers, soups, sandwiches and desserts. Many recipes use basic mixes, such as a nutritious granola that you can make ahead and store in the refrigerator. Try it for luscious Ice-Cream Squares, below.

ICE-CREAM SQUARES

4 cups Granola (below)
1/4 cup caramel or chocolate ice-cream topping
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Sprinkle 2 cups of the Granola in ungreased 9x9x2-inch baking pan; drizzle with ice-cream topping. Cut ice cream into about 1-inch slices; place on Granola in pan. Let stand until slightly softened; spread evenly. Sprinkle with remaining Granola. Cover and freeze until firm, about 6 hours. Serve with additional topping if desired. 9 servings.

GRANOLA

3 cups oats
1 cup sunflower nuts
1 cup flaked or shredded coconut
1 cup coarsely chopped cashews or blanched almonds
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup honey
1/2 cup vegetable oil
1 tablespoon vanilla
3/4 teaspoon ground allspice
1/2 teaspoon salt

Mix oats, sunflower nuts, coconut and cashews in four-quart bowl. Mix remaining ingredients and toss with oat mixture until evenly coated. Spread in two ungreased 15 1/2 x 10 1/2 x 1 inch jelly roll pans. Cook uncovered in 325 degree oven, stirring frequently, until golden brown, about 30 minutes. Cool. Store in tightly covered container in refrigerator no longer than two months. About 7 cups granola.

To make ice cream squares, sprinkle two cups of the granola in an ungreased 9x9x2 inch baking pan. Drizzle with 1/4 cup caramel or chocolate ice cream topping. Cut one quart vanilla ice cream into one-inch slices and place on granola. Let stand until slightly softened; spread evenly. Sprinkle with an additional two cups granola. Cover and freeze until firm, about six hours. Cut into nine squares and serve with additional topping, if desired.

The Random House book is available for $10.95 at department and book stores.

Propose Change In Hours For Ports Of Entry

U.S. customs service has proposed to change the hours at ports of entry at Baudette and Warroad and at Dunseith, ND, from 24-hour ports to being open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Recently the immigration and naturalization service (INS) withdrew one inspector at each of these ports for duty elsewhere. Due to budgetary and personnel restraints, the customs service can not now replace the inspectors withdrawn by INS with customs personnel. It is therefore necessary to reduce the operating hours since customs staffing is not adequate to continue to provide the necessary coverage on a 24-hour basis.

Comments on the proposed change may be addressed to the Commissioner of Customs, Attention: Regulations Control Branch, U.S. Customs Service, 1301 Constitution Avenue NW, Room 2426, Washington, DC 20229. It is preferred that comments be in triplicate and they must be received on or before March 7, 1983.

Customs regulations provide that each customs office shall be open for the transaction of customs business between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. on all days of the year except Saturdays, Sundays and national holidays. It also provides that services performed outside a customs office shall be furnished between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Many offices provide service during hours in addition to those specified in the regulations.

Customs and immigration and naturalization service personnel jointly staff a number of ports of entry along the border, including the ones at Warroad, Baudette and Dunseith.

"While the proposed change would result in a substantial reduction in the service hours at the affected ports and may result in some inconvenience to the public," stated a notice in the Federal Register, "these ports would nevertheless remain open beyond the normal business hours set forth in the regulations, and area businesses requiring port service after hours could contact local customs officials for service which would be provided on a reimbursable basis."

Before adopting the proposed change, consideration will be given by the commissioner of customs to any written comments submitted by the March 7 deadline. Comments submitted will be available for public inspection at the same address listed above.

Pennington Tax Delinquency Hits Highest Mark Since '51

Pennington county tax delinquency at the end of 1982 hit 5.11 per cent — the highest average in 31 years and well above the 3.66 per cent recorded at the end of 1981, according to A.E. Jorgenson, county treasurer. For what is believed to be the first time in many years, none of the county's taxing districts were without a tax delinquency. All 21 townships and all three municipalities in the county had at least some taxes unpaid at the end of 1982. Percentage ranged from .56 per cent in Bray township to 12.05 per cent in Cloverleaf. Seven townships and the city of Thief River Falls (5.75 per cent delinquent) had delinquency above the county average of 5.11 per cent.

Although it isn't listed in the averages, the largest delinquency could be attributed to the state of Minnesota, Jorgenson noted. The state has reduced its payments to the county and townships through unreimbursed tax credits by well in excess of $80,000, the treasurer said. If that amount had been added to the tax loss allocated to tax delinquency, the total would increase from 5.11 to 6.18 per cent.

Last year the townships of Bray, Deer Park and Mayfield had no tax delinquency at all. This year the delinquency is .56, 1.97 and 1.67 per cent, respectively. While seven townships had delinquency of less than one per cent at the end of 1981, only Bray was less than one per cent at the end of 1982 and only four townships had less than two per cent delinquency.

All but two townships and one municipality had increases in delinquent tax percentages at the end of 1982, compared to 1981. Black River township decreased its percentage from 3.17 to 1.80, Polk Centre decreased its percentage from 3.49 to 2.73 and the city of Goodridge reduced its percentage from 5.75 to 4.33. Greatest increase was in Highlanding township where the percentage jumped from .35 at the end of 1981 to 9.72 at the end of 1982. Hickory township increased from .35 per cent to 4.65, Silverton from .42 to 2.84 and Sanders from .91 to 2.09.

Delinquency at the end of 1982 was the highest since 5.6 per cent recorded in 1951, according to the county treasurer's records. Next highest since that year was a delinquency of 4.13 per cent in 1954.

Total amount of taxes levied for payment in 1982 was $6,479,742.86 plus special assessments of $299,578.90. Cancellations and abatements totaled $7,623.90 for a net total levy of $6,272,245.82. Credits for homestead, agriculture and-or wetlands totaled $2,021,717.30, leaving $4,404,558.21 in taxes to be paid. Amount delinquent was $345,970.39 or 5.11 per cent.

Effect of one or two large taxpayers being late in tax payment can have a substantial effect on the delinquency percentage in individual townships, Jorgenson pointed out, although weather conditions and crop prices which restricted farm earnings could well have had a greater effect in 1982.

Other than Cloverleaf's delinquency of 10.23 per cent in 1981, no township in the county had a delinquency above 3.76 per cent. At the end of 1982 there were 10 townships with greater than four per cent delinquency and every municipality was above the four per cent mark. Delinquency is figured as of the December 31 cut-off date, and some payments have been received since that time.

While the delinquency percentage at the end of 1982 is a 31-year high, it is slightly more than a third of the record high delinquency rate of 15 per cent set in 1938. Total levy that year was $326,078 — a total less than the 1982 delinquency figure of $345,970. Hickory township in 1938 had tax delinquency of 22.4 per cent, followed by Reiner at 18.5 and Star with 12 per cent.

Total tax levies did not reach the $1 million mark until 1958 when total levy was $1,080,802 and tax delinquency wa only 1.8 per cent. Lowest percentage of tax delinquency in the history of the county is believed to be 1.4 per cent in 1976 on a total levy of $3,568,001.

A list of delinquency percentages from that 1958 year when levies topped the million dollar mark for the first time includes the following: 1959, 1.8 per cent; 1960, 3.04 per cent; 1961, 2.73 per cent; 1962, 2.87 per cent; 1963, 2.59 per cent; 1964, 2.75 per cent; 1965, 2.75 per cent; 1966, 2.53 per cent; 1967, 2.26 per cent; 1968, 2.09 per cent; 1969, 1.89 per cent; 1970, 2.11 per cent; 1971, 2.75 per cent; 1972, 2.77 per cent; 1973, 2.21 per cent; 1974, 2.15 per cent; 1975, 1.74 per cent; 1976, 1.40 per cent; 1977, 1.55 per cent; 1978, NA; 1979, 2.74 per cent; 1980, 3.32 per cent; and 1981, 3.66 per cent. The 1978 figure is not available due to a change in assessment and computation procedures.

Job Training Office In TRF Receives Funds

Thief River Falls job training office has received $487,891 to provide job training to people in Kittson, Marshall, Pennington and Roseau counties, according to Ray Beauchamp, office supervisor.

Beauchamp says that funding levels are similar to those of last year, and will be spent before September 30.

Residents who meet program guidelines are offered three kinds of training through the office: classroom instruction, work experience, and on-the-job training. Employers who participate in training new workers can receive tax breaks and reimbursements.

In the 12 months which ended September 30, the Thief River Falls office provided job training to 343 persons in Pennington county. Of this number, 88 were trained on the job by local employers. Total of 94 persons age 15 through 21 received job training and employment.

REGISTERING AS DONORS for the first blood drive of the new year, Bob Protz and Betty DeHaan checked in at the registration desk with Connie Driscoll, president of American Legion Auxiliary Unit, 117, and Evelyn Homewood. Protz is a member of the local Legion post, and all three ladies are members of the local auxiliary unit, which was volunteered its assistance to United Blood Services in coordinating the drives for the year. Sno-Fest Days At Lincoln H.S. Concluded Sat.

Sno-Fest activities with a theme of "Just You and I," were conducted this past week at Lincoln high school. Wide variety of activities reached a peak in the coronation of senior candidates Steve Olson and Stephanie LeMoine as Sno-Fest king and queen, at an assembly held in the auditorium on Wednesday. Titles were relinquished by last year's royalty Dan Imgrund and Kelli Olson.

Royalty was selected on the basis of competition between the high school classes in five different events, with the seniors gathering the most overall points. Competitive events included button sales, which was won by the seniors with sales of $170; second was the ninth grade, $146; third, 10th grade, $107; and fourth, 11th grade, $75.

Attendance at basketball games held Friday, January 14 and Tuesday, January 18, plus the hockey game held Saturday, January 15, was another of the competitive events. That was won by the 10th grade with 210 students attending; second was the 11th grade, 167; third, 12th grade, 159; and fourth, ninth grade, 146. Tenth grade also received an engraved sportsmanship trophy from the booster club for their good attendance record.

Can collecting competition was won by the 10th grade with $42.75 worth of recyclable aluminum and steel cans. Second place went to the 12th grade with $37.15; third, 11th grade, $33.40; and fourth, the ninth grade with $22.80 worth.

Wall decorating efforts in the cafeteria were judged by a team of four judges, who rated the efforts based on originality, theme development and artistic ability. Decorations of the 11th grade were rated first, 12th grade second, and ninth grade, third; and 10th grade, fourth.

Final competitive event between the classes was the skits, which were done at the coronation assembly on Wednesday. Television game

Short Story Session At Library Thurs.

Northwest regional library and the American association of university women (AAUW) present the second program in the film series "The American Short Story" at 7 p.m. Thursday in the library meeting room in Thief River Falls.

"Paul's Case," by Willa Cather, is the selection for this session, with commentary by Barb Hauger and discussion following the film.

This is Cather's portrayal of a teenage boy, Paul, who cannot live in a world without beauty. He despises the commonness of his turn-of-the-century Pittsburgh neighborhood. Crossing all boundaries of society's expectations of him, Paul is finally able to live surrounded by beauty. Realizing that circumstances will force him back to his previous surroundings, he loses the will to live.

Copies of the story are available on short-term loan at the library. All sessions are free of charge and open to the public. Refreshments will be provided by AAUW.

Series is made possible, in part, by a grant from the Minnesota humanities commission.

FmHA Interest Rates To Drop, Director Says

Significant drop in interest rates for loans made by Farmers Home administration (FmHA) has been announced by John Block, U.S. secretary of agriculture.

"These lower interest rates will be of great benefit to the rural economy and particularly for the nation's farmers who depend heavily on credit," Block said.

It is the third such reduction since October of 1982 by the agency, which makes farm, home and other loans to rural residents and communities which cannot get credit from private lenders.

Block said the reductions are possible because of a general move toward lower interest rates across all sectors of the economy and because of lower costs of federal borrowing.

Russ Bjorhus, Minnesota state director of FmHA, said that he would implement the new reduced interest rates beginning January 17. Interest rates for farm operating loans, used to finance annual costs of production, will drop from 11.5 to 10.25 per cent. Farm ownership rates will drop from 11.5 to 10.75 per cent.

Interest rates for "limited resource" borrowers — those unable to afford the full interest rate — will drop from 8.5 per cent for operating loans to 7.25 per cent. Limited resource farm ownership loans go from 5.75 to 5.25 per cent.

Bjorhus added that interest rate for actual loss loans due to natural disasters remains at eight per cent for those farmers unable to get credit from private lenders. For farmers who can obtain natural disaster loans elsewhere but choose to deal with the Farmers Home administration, the rate remains at 14.25 per cent.

The interest rate for production loans to farmers who need financing above the actual loss and are unable to get credit elsewhere drops from 14 to 13 per cent. The rate for real estate purposes remains at 13 per cent.

Interest rates on long-term loans for soil and water conservation, grazing associations, irrigation and drainage and Indian land acquisition drop from the present 11.5 per cent to 10.75 per cent.

In housing, Bjorhus continued, interest rates for single family homes drops from 11.5 to 10.75 per cent except for borrowers who can afford rates charged by the department of housing and urban development. Their rates remain at 12 per cent. Rural rental housing loan rates go from 11.5 to 10.75 per cent.

On Dec. 31, 1982, rates for water sewer and rural community facility loans were lowered. The "market" interest rate for those communities able to afford it went from 10.625 to 9.750 per cent, and the "intermediate" rate dropped from 7.875 to 7.375 per cent. The poverty-line interest rate remained at five per cent.

City Council Meets Tonight

Thief River Falls city council meets tonight, Monday, at 7:30 p.m. in council chambers at the city auditorium. Topics on the agenda include senior citizen building, taxicab fares, use of sports arena, mayor's appointments to boards and commissions, increasing liability insurance, community development block grants, industrial revenue bonds, tax forfeited land and monthly operating report on power costs.

SKITS WERE ONE of five events used in competition between classes to determine whose candidates would be named Sno-Fest royalty for 1983. First place was taken easily by the seniors with this wild spoof on a television game show called "Name That Faculty Member." Teachers got a pretty heavy ribbing, but the seniors noted that it was all in fun. Couple on their knees in the foregound got a real workout as they represented a cameraman and camera, which for some reason had to be cranked.

University Opposes Role Of Enforcer

College men who apply for federal student aid shouldn't have to prove they've registered for the draft, the University of Minnesota board of regents said in a close vote recently.

By a vote of 7-5 the board passed a resolution opposing federal regulations that would require universities and colleges to help enforce the government's requirement that men over 18 be registered with the selective service system. The resolution expresses concerns that the law will have the greatest impact on poor and minority-group students and that it would be burdensome for the university to administer.

Resolution also instructed university attorneys to file an amicus curiae, or friend of the court, brief in the Minnesota public interest research group (MPIRG) federal court suit challenging the constitutionality of the law. By filing such a brief the university would not become a party in the suit, but would be allowed to voice its opposition to the regulations.

University President C. Peter Magrath said he opposes the law because it would place the university in the role of enforcing the law — a role, he said, that belongs in the judicial system. "I believe the law, on its face, is unconstitutional and I'm not at all uncomfortable with our position," said Magrath, who is considered an expert in constitutional law. "I think it's unfortunate that we were injected into this."

Regent Verne Long, who voted against the resolution, said he fears the public will view the action as opposition to the draft itself. "I feel rather strongly that if we pass this resolution it's going to get back to Jane and John Doe in the hinterland that the university is opposed to the draft," he said.

Long also called the resolution "an exercise in futility" because the federal government has not yet released the specifics of how the regulations are to be enforced. That position was echoed by regents Willis Drake and William Dosland, who along with Lauris Krenik and Charles Casey, voted against the resolution.

Magrath and regent Michael Unger, who introduced the resolution, stressed that the board's action makes no judgment on the desirability of draft registration. "Any confusion created was created by the people who decided to link the two issues" of draft registration and financial aid, Unger said.

The resolution, which will be sent to President Reagan, members of Congress and other government officials, says the law will have "a disproportionate impact on males and (on) minority college students who are the most economically disadvantaged."

The law, which will go into effect in September, makes college men who fail to register for the draft ineligible for federal government loans, grants and work-study programs.

Magrath also listed the "potentially cumbersome and expensive" process of monitoring student records as another reason colleges and universities should oppose the law. The regents' resolution urges higher education institutions to adopt similar policies.

"If we don't object to this type of thing . . . then I wonder if we would ever draw the line," Unger said.

Computer Use: What Parents Should Know

"There is no way to get around it: computers are 'invading' our nation's schools." So says Mary Ann Leveridge, National PTA president, in her introduction to the December-January issue of "PTA Today". The issue is aimed at helping parents understand computers and electronic learning.

"As parents and educators, we need to overcome our initial distrust or fear of computers or we will be on the downside of a growing generation gap with our children and students," Leveridge believes. "If we are well informed we can make decisions that will influence our children's future experience with computers."

Electronic sources of information — TV, videodisc, microcomputers, and computer games — have drastically altered the way in which children learn, says Mary Ann White, electronic learning laboratory, teachers college, Columbia university.

According to White, children who learn electronically derive meaning through the images they have seen rather than the words they have heard. It is possible that, by the time children start school, they have learned a set of strategies from the electronic system which do not apply to the classroom setting, she says. "Teachers need to find a way to use images as a bridge to words because children have been learning by images, and may have learned that meaning is carried by images," says White.

What about equal access to computers? An article on this subject explores why it is necessary to make sure the new computer technology does not create an even wider gap between the "haves" and the "have nots." "If children in the poor areas graduate from school without having been exposed to computers, they will be at a disadvantage in the job market and in many other areas of their lives as well," the article states.

According to the article, states need computer education programs such as the Minnesota educational computing consortium, which coordinates and supplies computer services to 98 per cent of all schools in the state. In addition, school districts need to be more aggressive in pursuing funding from foundations and private sources, and in forming partnerships with industries, university facilities, or concerned citizens. Parents would do better to push for funding to pay for computer education programs rather than purchase computers for their schools, the article points out.

No Arrests Yet For Starting Of Roseau Fires

No arrests have been made at the present time for the setting of fires which destroyed the Roseau Times-Region newspaper office and extensively damaged Nelson's Cafe and the law office of county attorney Martin Berg at Roseau early Friday morning.

The cafe is owned by Ed Turenne of Thief River Falls and the Times-Region has its newspaper printed on the Thief River Falls Times offset press. Investigating the fires were Pat Barry, deputy state fire marshal, and Steve Hagenah, agent for the Minnesota bureau of criminal apprehension, both from Thief River Falls.

Arson was indicated because the newspaper office and law office were a block apart, doors were reportedly forced open, fire in the law office started in four locations and fire in the Times-Region office started in the middle of the building. The cafe was next door to the newspaper office and shared a common wall, the front part of which was wood. The back half of the wall was concrete block, having been replaced after a fire a number of years ago.

Roseau fire department responded to the call to the Berg law office at 4:20 a.m. They had completed extinguishing that fire in 15 to 20 minutes when one of the firemen noticed smoke in the street about a block away. Investigation revealed the Times-Region fire which eventually spread to the front of the cafe. The Coast-to-Coast store, located on the other side of the newspaper office, received smoke and water damage.

W.S. Adams, who purchased the Roseau Times-Region with two of his brothers in 1947 and has operated it since 1949 when he graduated from the University of North Dakota, said every effort will be made to publish on schedule this week. Among items lost in the fire were bound volumes of newspapers dating back to 1893. The contents have been microfilmed at the Minnesota historical society but the actual papers were destroyed.

A spokesman for the Roseau county sheriff's department confirmed this morning that no arrests had yet been made. Several break-ins and robberies occurred about the time of the fires and are believed to be related.

Farmers Adopt Policy For Dairy Support

Farmer delegates who adopt policy for the American farm bureau federation last week called for a national dairy price support program that "will drive supplies down to demand levels," the president of the Minnesota farm bureau federation reports. The nation's largest general farm organization held its annual convention January 9-13 in Dallas, Tex.

Merlyn Lokensgard, St. Peter area cash crop and livestock farmer, says national farm bureau voting delegates adopted a policy which urges adjusting the support level for milk according to the net amount of dairy products the federal government purchases. "This would mean the support price would drop if the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) bought more cheese, butter and nonfat dry milk than in the previous year," explains Lokensgard.

Delegates also voiced their opposition to the controversial 50-cent per cwt. milk assessment that was to take effect December 1, but halted at least temporarily by court injunction after the plan resulted in a number of lawsuits. Noting farm bureau opposed approval of the assessment by congress and its placement by USDA, Lokensgard says the organization's current dairy policy urges lawmakers and dairy industry leaders "to come up with a solution (to the surplus problem) that is both realistic and workable."

In addition, farm bureau member representatives said milk should be marketed on a protein basis as well as on a fat content basis. In this connection, they urged the Food and Drug administration (FDA) to increase minimum standards for milk, using California's current standards.

While the vote margin on the dairy policy was clear-cut, Lokensgard reports there were numerous plans rejected during lengthy debate. Included were ones that would have established a three-tier pricing system; a "voluntary paid diversion" program aimed at cutting government purchases to one-third of the 1982 level; and a base-and-quota system to "provide constraints on production."

Lokensgard says he felt it was significant that an organization representing milk producers from 48 states could arrive at a consensus.

Art Sprengeler Is President Of State Fair

Arthur Sprengeler, Plato, was elected recenty to a one-year term as president of the Minnesota state agricultural society, governing body of the state fair. The election was held during the 124th annual meeting of the society in Bloomington.

Sprengeler, a retired dairy farmer, has been a member of the society's board of managers since 1972 when he was elected from the society's second regional district.

Sprengeler succeeds Logan O. Scow, Osakis, as president of the society. Upon leaving office, Scow was elected to honorary life membership in the society.

Martin Annexstad, St. Peter, was elected to a three-year term on the board of managers as the second district's new representative. Annexstad is associated with various livestock organizations and is a member of the Minnesota livestock hall of fame. He and his son own and operate a farm near St. Peter.

In other elections, Bert O. Lund, St. Paul, was reelected to a two-year term as vice president of the society and Sulo J. Ojakangas, Hibbing, was reelected to a three-year term on the society's board of managers.

Mike Heffron, St. Paul, was reappointed to a seventh one-year term as secretary-general manager of the state fair.

According to financial figures released during the society's general business session, operating expenses for the 1982 state fair reached a record $6.47 million, an increase of over $350,000 from 1981's expense total. Operating income for 1982 was $6.68 million. The operating gain of $201,749.57 represents a return on gross expenses of 3.1 per cent and will be applied to financing the 1983 exposition, August 25 through September 5. The state fair is a financially self-supporting agency of the state.

564 Traffic Death Toll Is 30 Year Low

Based on preliminary figures, the 1982 Minnesota traffic death toll, 564, is the lowest in more than 30 years, according to Paul Tschida, commissioner of the Minnesota department of public safety.

1982 total, reported through Monday, January 10, is 199 below the 763 traffic deaths recorded for all of 1981. Total decrease included 26 fewer pedestrian deaths (74 to 100) and 25 fewer motorcycle deaths (71 to 96). The 763 total was a final figure for 1981 while the 1982 figures are preliminary. Preliminary overall figure will likely be increased by about 25 deaths before the final 1982 total is ascertained. Minnesota now waits 90 days to record deaths which occur from injuries sustained in traffic death totals in Minnesota the past 12 years are: 1981 — 763; 1980 — 863; 1979 — 881; 1978 — 980; 1977 — 856; 1976 — 809; 1975 — 777; 1974 — 852; 1973 — 1,024; 1972 — 1,031; 1971 — 1,024; 1970 — 987. Last time the traffic death total was less than 600 was in 1950 when there were 587.

Reduction in traffic deaths from 1981 to 1982 occurred consistently throughout the year. There were big reductions in January, 1982, (39 less) and in May (40 fewer) compared to similar months in 1981. Only month which showed an increase in 1982 was July with three more. Department of public safety figures also show that there was no significant difference in the percentage of urban to rural fatalities. In 1982 through November, the percentage of rural deaths was 68.3 per cent compared to 66.5 per cent for all of 1981.

Potato Stocks In Minnesota Remain Steady

Estimated stocks of potatoes in Minnesota as of January 1, was 8.1 million hundredweight, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service. This is the same as the Jan. 1, 1982 level but 16 per cent above the Jan. 1, 1981 stocks.

The disappearance during December totaled 900,000 hundredweight, 10 per cent less than one year ago. Estimate of stocks by type show 18 per cent red, 47 per cent white, and 35 per cent russet compared to 22 per cent; 48 per cent and 30 per cent last year.

In the Minnesota-North Dakota Red river valley area, stocks are estimated at 16.3 million hundredweight, which is nine per cent below year earlier levels. The December disappearance totaled 2.5 million hundredweight, compared to 3.1 million in 1981. Stocks by type are estimated at 22 per cent reds, 62 per cent whites, and 16 per cent russets compared to 25 per cent, 63 per cent and 12 per cent a year ago.

U.S. potato stocks January 1 are estimated at 174 million hundredweight, for the 15 major fall producing states. This is up six per cent from last January and 18 per cent above two years ago. Of the total stocks in the 11 objective yield states, 74 per cent are russets, 23 per cent whites and three per cent reds.

Mn/DOT Offers Snowmobile Safety Rules

A few minutes spent reviewing snowmobiling rules before getting out on the trails can add to the enjoyment and safety of snowmobiling, advises the Minnesota department of public safety. State has 223,060 registered snowmobiles, ranking Minnesota among the leaders across the nation in this winter sporting activity.

"State law prohibits snowmobilers from driving within the right-of-way of any interstate highway or freeway," said State Patrol Chief Roger Ledding. "Snowmobilers may not drive on the roadways, shoulders or inside slopes of state trunk highways or state aid county roads. Also, they should be aware that specific regulations differ between municipalities and from county to county."

Snowmobile travel is legal in the ditches and on the outside slopes of ditches of state trunk highways and state-aid county roads. During daytime, snowmobilers can use either the right or left side ditches and outside slopes.

At night snowmobilers must drive in the right side ditch or outside bank, moving in the same direction as traffic on the roadway. This helps keep motorists from being confused by seeing headlights approaching on the wrong side of the road.

A stop is required before crossing the highway. However, persons under 14 years of age are not permitted to drive a snowmobile across a highway. Operators between 14 and 17 years of age may cross a highway, but only if they are carrying a valid snowmobile safety certificate. Only persons 18 years or older may register a snowmobile.

Parents interested in snowmobile safety training courses for their children aged 12 to 17 years old may contact the department of natural resources, Box 47, Centennial building, St. Paul, MN 55155.

State's Apple Crop Estimated At $4.8 Million

According to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service, the state's 1982 utilized production of apples is estimated at 23 million pounds, 10 per cent above 1981. An additional one million pounds of apples are estimated to have been left in the orchards as "unutilized productions."

The large quantity of unharvested fruit this year resulted primarily from poor weather conditions in the early fall which prevented a lot of apples from reaching marketable size and ripeness. The preliminary estimate of prices received by Minnesota apple-growers is 21 cents per pound, which compares with 19.3 cents in 1981. Value of production is estimated at a record-high $4.8 million.

The nation's 1982 utilized production of apples is estimated at 8.20 billion pounds, up six per cent from 1981 but seven per cent below the record year of 1980. Prices received averaged 10.6 cents per pound nationwide, down from 11.1 cents in 1981. Total value of the crop was $869.5 million, up two per cent from 1981.

Washington, the leading state, produced 2.75 billion pounds, fractionally below 1981. Production in New York, the second ranking state, totaled 1.13 billion pounds, up 41 per cent from 1981. Michigan ranked third with 950 million pounds produced, 44 per cent above 1981.

FACTUAL NEWS REPORTING EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING

No Respect For Costs

Publisher John D. Morgan of the Grafton (ND) Record recently underwent open heart surgery. He writes the following in a recent column in the Grafton paper:

This past week Blue Cross paid my hospital bill for two and one-half weeks in St. Luke's Hospital. It came to nearly $17,000, which works out to very close to $1,000 per day. The bill includes operating room, therapist, x-rays and a host of other special services.

Just the other day United Hospital of Grand Forks announced rate increases for hospital rooms which includes a top price of $180 per day for a private room. Some of the news media would like to make a big thing out of this price increase for a single piece of hospital service. My experience would suggest that they should not get too excited about the price of a hospital room, but should be more concerned about costs of other services offered by hospitals. Room costs are only a small fraction of hospital costs.

Individuals of news media might complain about hospital costs as much as they like. It wouldn't change the fact that medical services are increasing in costs at a faster rate then other costs of living. The complaints will not serve to keep those costs down.

The only place that will ever be able to control medical costs in North Dakota is Blue Cross and Blue Shield. As long as Blue Cross and Blue Shield is owned and controlled lock, stock and barrel by the doctors of the state there will never be an effective cost containment program for medical services.

North Dakotans are now hostages of the medical profession of the state. We can't afford to be without medical insurance when one little medical instance can cost thousands of dollars.

Insurance companies other than Blue Cross-Blue Shield are finding that doing business with the medical profession of the state is difficult and unprofitable and are making little effort in the health insurance business. Meanwhile Blue Cross and Blue Shield increase their rates without fear of consequences. For example the rates of our plan at The Record have increased from $129.95 at the beginning of 1981 to $149.00 at the beginning of 1982 with another raise scheduled for this month.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield, in cooperation with other insurance companies, are the only effective means of controlling medical costs in the state. Unfortunately, the Blues do not have the incentives to control costs when they are in effect owned by the medical profession.

Ignoring the costs in the medical profession by the Blues is inviting socialized medicine or state control of the health insurance industry. Yes, I want good medical service and I want doctors to be well rewarded for their fine care. But I don't want to be a captive of their system that has no respect for costs.

Suggested Tax Changes

Following comments were written by Don G. Paterick, executive director of the Minnesota Taxpayers association, as his personal thoughts in supplement to the January MTA newsletter:

The present session of the Minnesota Legislature is faced with financial problems which will set the entire tenor of the session. The simple fact is that there is not enough revenue to fund the budget as we know it. Depending on the level of spending, taxes will bring in about $750 million to $1 billion less than anticipated spending. This "shortfall" figure is a variable one because no budget has been proposed as yet.

There are only three ways to fund a budget deficit: delay payments (shifts), decrease spending, or increase taxes. Governor Perpich in his State of the State speech stated that he would veto any payment shifts. So that leaves only spending cuts and tax increases remaining to fund any anticipated deficits. We have seen in the past two years that tax increases have far outpaced spending cuts in Minnesota.

One problem contributing to the budget deficit is legislation enacted which transfers the sales tax on motor vehicles from the general fund to the trunk highway fund. Beginning next year, 25 per cent of that tax is transferred yearly to the highway fund cummulatively until 100 per cent is transferred. This amounts to over $60 million next biennium and contributes to the general fund deficit. It appears that this transfer will be either delayed or repealed.

Quite a number of tax proposals have and are being discussed to fund the anticipated deficit. If the six per cent sales tax were extended after June, 1983 and if the 10 per cent income tax surtax were extended the budget would almost be balanced. By making the five per cent sales tax permanent the last special session reduced the budget deficit for the next biennium by about $450 million.

Another popular proposal which has been around for some time, and being advocated presently, is the elimination of the federal income tax deduction on an individual's Minnesota income tax return. An alternative is to allow only a portion, e.g. $5,000, of the federal tax paid. In 1971 Minnesota opted for high rates — the highest in the nation for some taxpayers — rather than to eliminate federal deductibility.

Completely eliminating the federal tax deduction without lowering rates would increase the income tax by about $1.5 billion for the next biennium! If this were enacted, the tax rating charts would have to have a separate category as Minnesota would stand alone as a confiscatory state. Capping the federal deduction at a maximum of $5,000 would produce about $420 million for two years which would also be a staggering burden.

Imposing a sales tax on services is another proposal. Presently, the six per cent sales tax is only paid upon the purchase of tangible personal property. The proposed tax would tax consumers on legal accounting, business, advertising, car services and repairs and personal services. Other states do tax these services at a very low rate and in lieu of individual and corporate income taxes. To tax these services at five per cent would produce about $337 million in the next two years. To tax these services would result in many small businesses paying more in sales tax than their income tax burdens!

Other proposals are to extend the sales tax to food, clothing and gasoline which are currently exempt from sales taxation. Taxing gas at five per cent would produce $287 million; taxing food would product $386 million; and taxing clothing would produce $206 million. Some are advocating a refundable credit if food and clothing are made taxable.

The above proposals may seem alarming but they are the major tax changes currently being discussed. Some form of the above proposals are certain to be enacted in the next five months. Minnesota's overall tax ranking will not remain at number 11 for long. What Minnesota needs is more taxpayers — not more taxes.

That Stupid Law

Following letter to the editor by Greg Hibbard of Holtan, MI, was published in a Michigan newspaper but could apply in Minnesota:

Dear Editor:

I would like to tell your readers how mad I was when I was forced to go out and pay $45 for an infant seat, and to top it off we couldn't fit everybody in my pickup truck with that big bulky thing.

On April 2, my wife was forced to go off highway M-120 into a ditch to avoid a collision — that's 55 MPH to a dead stop. The back of the child car seat was facing the windshield (as I was told the law required for four-month-old infants). That seat broke off the ash tray, cracked the dashboard and chipped the windshield. Our baby didn't have a scratch on her.

I would like to thank God and whoever else is responsible for passing that stupid law.

Borrowed Nonsense:

The private went to the mess officer to complain about the bread. "You're a soldier!" the mess officer snapped. "Soldiers must learn not to grumble about every little thing. Enlisted men are getting too soft these days. Why, if our men had had this bread in the trenches during World War I, they would have been totally happy with it."

"Yes, sir," the private said. "But it would have been fresh then, sir."

The argument about the depleted condition of their checking account had been rather heated. "All right, all right," the wife finally said, "I admit I love to spend money. . . but that's my only extravagance."

Asked to locate Copenhagen on the map of Europe, the insolent fifth grader said, "Gee, teach, I don't know where it is." "It's part of the lesson," the teacher persisted, "and you should know." "Well I don't," the youngster smirked, "so why don't you tell me where you think it is?" "Where do I think it is?" the teacher exploded. "I don't think; I know." "Yeah, well," the smart kid retorted, "I don't think I know neither."

CANDIDATES from each of the classes participating in the Goodridge high school sno-fest activities were introduced at a Friday afternoon program in the school gymnasium. Left to right are the following: Seated, Leah Dahlen and Bruce Kiesow, 1982 royalty; Tracy Bishop and Dean Wiskow, 1983 royalty; Darrell Wiskow and Mary Cullen, representing the second place senior class; back row, Jon Peterson and Tami Miller, third place freshman; Danny Roach and LaNae Olson, fourth place eighth graders; Jody Berg and Roy Sunsdahl, fifth place sophomores; and Rosemary Smith and Ross Parnow, sixth place juniors.

No More Embargoes

President Reagan's recent speech in Dallas to the American Farm Bureau was very good news coming at a very bad time for most farmers. It also came at a time when a lot of people were starting to doubt the sensitivity of this administration to the incredible sacrifices being made over the last several years by farmers and just about everyone in rural communities.

While the president's payment-in-kind plan — what he called a "crop swap" program — captured the immediate headlines. I think the lasting news of his speech will be the recognition that trade holds the key to unlocking a brighter future for farmers.

President Reagan used the speech to announce that he would sign into law the Commodity Futures Trading Commission reauthorization bill. That's the legislation that carries my amendment to stop embargoes. Under this so-called "sanctity of contract" no president will be able to use an embargo to stop food export contracts that already have been signed.

This no-embargo law puts the United States back on the road to becoming a reliable trading partner. The administration and Congress finally recognized how crippling the four food embargoes in the last decade have been. The United States isn't an OPEC of grain. Other countries quickly learned that if the United States wouldn't guarantee completion of its export contracts, they could purchase all the grain they needed from Canada, Australia, Argentina and a host of other countries.

If my sanctity of contract provision had been the law of the land in 1980, President Carter's embaro on grain sales to the Soviet Union would not have been so crippling to the American farmer as it turned out to be. In fact, even with Carter's embargo farmers could still have delivered up to 17.5 million metric tons of grain to the Soviet Union in 1980. Instead of that sale, most of the grain found no market and American farmers are still paying the price.

President Reagan hit the nail on the head when he told the Farm Bureau, "Our foreign customers now have the delivery assurance that you've asked for, and we stand ready as a nation to sell them the grain we have and they need."

The big story of sanctity of contract is that farmers will be able to find new markets abroad for their crops. But there is another, largely untold story behind sanctity of contract. That story is the incredible effort put forth by commodity groups and individual farmers.

Without the hard work of farmers and their organizations, my sanctity of contract bill could still be buried in committee. In fact, when I introduced the bill last April few people gave it any change of passing. Then, when the Senate passed the legislation the "experts" were predicting its defeat in the House of Representatives or in the House-Senate conference committee. Finally, the bill cleared Congress and, in the last days of the lame duck session, was sent to President Reagan for his signature. Certainly, said the so-called pros, the people urging the president to veto would win out.

Yet, here we are with sanctity of contract signed into law. The reason? Because at every step of the way farmers and commodity groups rallied support for the bill, explained it, lobbied for it and finally convinced enough people in Congress to vote for and the president to sing the legislation. They deserve a lot of credit. Thanks to them, all farmers are starting out 1983 with quite a New Year's present.

CAPITOL COMMENTARY

by LeRoy Stumpf

State Senator — District 1

This week, I met with Governor Perpich, other state legislators from northern Minnesota, members of our congressional delegation and resort owners to discuss the new regulations recently announced by the government of Ontario for non-residents who hunt, fish or camp in the province.

I am very concerned about the regulations. They would have a devastating effect on resorts and other businesses along Minnesota's northern border.

The regulations would require anyone hunting or fishing in Ontario to have a base of operations in the province. Non-resident campers would have to pay a user's fee, possibly $5 to $7 per day.

The regulations would eliminate the non-resident season's fishing permit now sold in Ontario and replace it with 4- and 21-day licenses. Special stamps would be required for non-residents fishing muskellunge and lake trout. Restrictions also would be added for non-residents hunting in Ontario.

The resort owners from our area told me in a meeting Tuesday that the regulations would cut deeply into their business. The Northwest Angle-Warroad Resort Association has estimated that 14 U.S.-based resorts in the Lake of the Woods area would be 75 per cent shut down because of the new rules. A total of about 350 resorts along the Minnesota-Ontario border would be affected, and millions of dollars in tourist business would be lost to our state.

The regulations originally were supposed to take effect in 1984, but the government of Ontario decided to speed up the process and start a pilot program this year. A portion of our district near Lake of the Woods would be affected by the pilot program. The issue is particularly critical since many resort owners will be advertising at sportmen's shows during the next couple of weeks to try to attract visitors for this year.

I support an immediate moratorium on implementation of the regulations so that we will have time to try to negotiate an agreement with Canadian officials. One possible solution which I believe deserves further consideration is to exempt all of the Minnesota-Ontario boundary waters from the regulations.

Recent events suggest that a compromise may be possible. The Premier of Ontario, William Davis, agreed this week to meet with Governor Perpich in St. Paul on January 27 to discuss the regulations.

Minnesota Senators Dave Durenberger and Rudy Boschwitz and Representatives James Oberstar and Arlan Stangeland have pledged their support in our efforts to work out a solution. Governor Perpich has appointed Lieutenant Governor Marlene Johnson to take charge of the issue.

In the past, the U.S. and Canadian governments have cooperated by signing treaties of mutual benefit; that type of cooperation is needed now. If sportsmen desert the boundary waters area for other fishing spots without such restrictions, all of us will lose.

I will pay close attention to the negotiations on the Ontario regulations in the coming weeks. I look forward to hearing from you about this issue or others of concern. Please feel free to write to me at 306 Capitol Building, St. Paul, Minnesota, 55155, or phone (612) 296-8660.

EGF Wins Thursday Game 41-39 . . .

Third Quarter Problems Cost LHS Girls, Again

Yet another third quarter collapse surfaced again Thursday for the Lincoln high school girls basketball team and the Prowlers, who have now lost six straight games, dropped a 41-39 home court decision to East Grand Forks.

Thief River Falls, after an early 10-0 lead, led 23-16 at halftime. But the Prowlers' offense failed to show up for the third quarter as East Grand Forks out-scored them 18-2 to give the Green Wave a 34-25 advantage.

It was the fifth time the 2-7 Prowlers suffered a third quarter letdown that wiped out strong first half performances.

"That third quarter again. . . . There's no reason the people I have should be scoring only two points in one quarter," said Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer. "We played three quarters of decent basketball again, but one bad quarter kills us. I don't know what to do. We're just going to have to forget about halftime from now on."

Still, Thief River Falls had a couple of chances at the end as the Prowlers reversed themselves and out-scored the Green Wave 14-7 in the quarter to pull within 41-39. Twice in the final minute Thief River Falls rebounded missed East Grand Forks free throws and had a chance to gain at least a tie. But both times resulted in misses.

"We had two chances to win the game at the end, but we couldn't do it," noted Schafer, who praised the Prowlers for their come-back effort.

Paula Meyers and Lynne Culkins of the Prowlers, each with 10 points, were the game's only double figure scorers. Culkins also grabbed 21 rebounds to lead the Prowlers to a big 47-29 edge on the boards over the taller Green Wave.

"We did a job on the boards, and that's what kept us in the game," reported Schafer. "Culkins played a whale of a game under the boards; just super. That was probably the best game of her basketball career."

Shooting figures were similar. Thief River Falls shot 27 per cent from the field (14-for-51) and 44 per cent at the free throw line (11-for-25). East Grand Forks shot 28 per cent from the floor (14-for-47) and 41 per cent at the line (13-for-32). Thief River Falls topped the turnover figures 17-16, having a number of problems handling the Green Wave press in the third quarter.

It was a clean sweep for East Grand Forks as the visitors won the junior varsity game 49-33 and the freshman game 60-35.

Thief River Falls is at Greenbush tonight (Monday).

Prowlers Defeat Greyhounds In Swimming Dual

Lincoln high school swimming team broke into the win column for the first time this season Tuesday with a 71-53 victory over rival Fosston in front of a large Parent's Night crowd at the Franklin middle school pool.

It was the first dual meet triumph of the year after five season-opening losses for the Prowlers.

Thief River Falls came up with six first place finishes, including a double triumph by Oscar Garza with a 2:21.0 in the 200-yard individual medley and a 1:08.39 in the 100-yard backstroke.

Rest of the Prowlers' winners were Todd Wing, 228.00 points in the diving competition; Dave Ose, 1:02.63 in the 100-yard butterfly; Roger Rivera, Wing, Jay Achenbach and Jim Amundson with a 2:03.89 in the 200-yard medley relay; and Rod Helm, Dave Ose, Garza and Eric Ose with a 3:49.38 in 400-yard freestyle relay.

A pair of runner-up finishes behind Fosston's Dave Earls in the 200-yard freestyle and 100-yard breaststroke were still good enough to qualify Dave Ose and Achenbach for post-season Section 4 competition.

REACHING FOR A rebound, Northland guard Kim Phillips was shoved by a Vermilion defender as CeCe Hildebrandt of the Northwomen looked on during Friday's women's community college basketball game played in Thief River Falls. Vermilion won the game 95-50.

Strong Vermilion Team Is Winner Over Northland

Matched against one of the best teams in the state, Northland didn't fare so well Friday in a one-sided 95-40 community college women's basketball loss to Vermilion in Thief River Falls.

Vermilion was a state tournament finalist a year ago and coach Jim Stukel figures his team can be just as successful this winter. A 6-3 record includes a perfect 6-0 mark against Minnesota Community College Conference opponents. The losses came at the hands of teams from Wyoming and Nebraska, plus the University of Minnesota-Duluth junior varsity.

Leading from start to finish, Vermilion was never challenged by the error-prone Northwomen. Vermilion had a 26-13 lead at the 10-minute mark of the first half, expanded that to 41-14 five minutes later and had a 51-23 spread at halftime. Midway through the second half it was 67-35.

"That was excellent," said Stukel when asked to appraise his team's performance that included an impressive 54 per cent shooting figure from the field (41-for-76), many of the shots coming from the outside as sophomore guard Tammy Myers (Silver Bay), freshman guard Susan St. John (Duluth East) and freshman forward Lisa Lindstrom (Duluth Morgan Park) combined on a 20-for-38 shooting show.

"There's three outstanding shooters there that I wish I could take credit for as a coach," smiled Stukel.

St. John finished with 18 points (8-for-17) Lindstrom had 14 (6-for-9) and Myers 12 (6-for-12). Three other Vermilion scorers also hit double figures, while freshman Tara Nicholson (TRF), who hit 12, was the only Northland scorer in double figures.

While Vermilion was swishing shots from the outside, Northland struggled through a 25 per cent shooting night from the field (15-for-61). Northland shot 56 per cent at the free throw line on a busy 20-for-36 night while Vermilion shot 62 per cent with a 13-for-21 showing at the line. Northland finished with a surprising 41-40 edge on the boards as Nicholson grabbed 11, but also topped the turnover figures 33-23.

As impressive as it was, it wasn't the best Vermilion performance of the year, according to Stukel. That came in an earlier 119-22 rout of Northwest Division foe Brainerd. "That was about as well as we could expect to play," he recalled.

Northland	53

Northland lost the ball and the ball game Saturday afternoon when 45 turnovers handed Mesabi a 76-53 win to complete a fruitless weekend homestand for the Northwomen, now 4-6 for the year and 1-3 in league play.

"When you have 45 turnovers there isn't much hope," assessed Northland coach Deb Jacobson.

Mesabi led 34-25 at halftime. The winners' Rhonda Halunen and LaVonne Sauter combined for 44 points. Halunen, a 5-6 sophomore from Virginia, had 24 and Sauter, a 5-5 freshman from Cherry, had 20. LeAnn Paetznick and Tara Nicholson, a pair of Thief River Falls freshman, each had 16 for the Northwomen.

Mesabi shot 41 per cent from the field (30-for-74) and 84 per cent at the free throw line (16-for-19). Northland shot 34 per cent from the floor (20-for-59) and 81 per cent at the line (13-for-16). Mesabi finished with a slight 42-21 rebound edge, with Nicholson getting 13 rebounds for the Northwomen.

Northland will be on the road this weekend, play Friday at 6 p.m. at Brainerd and Saturday at 12 noon vs. Itasca at Grand Rapids.

Middle River	48
Plummer	45

In a match-up of two teams with a combined won-loss record of 16-1, Middle River came out a 48-45 winner over visiting Plummer Saturday afternoon.

Middle River remains unbeaten with a 10-0 record while Plummer fell to 7-2, ending a five-game winning streak.

Despite the loss, Plummer coach Rick Koivisto was satisfied with the play of the Cardinals, who were handicapped in the personnel department. "I thought we played well enough to win," he said.

Plummer was without Helen Jaeger, who suffered a non-basketball related hand injury last week and will be sidelined two weeks, and the Cardinals missed her ball-handling skills in the face of a Middle River press. Meanwhile, double-figure scorers Bonnie Fisher and Jody Pahlen were saddled with foul trouble, both on the bench with five personals when the game was still in doubt at the end.

Plummer jumped out to a 7-0 lead and had a 13-9 edge at the end of the first quarter. It was 24-21 at halftime before the Skippers went ahead 33-31 at the end of the third quarter.

Kari Skoglund of Middle River took game-high scoring honors with 17 points and teammate Paula Rantanen had 10. Sheila Sorenson scored 14 for Plummer, with Pahlen getting 12 and Fisher 10.

Middle River will be facing a busy week, playing at Grygla Tuesday, at Badger Thursday and at home against Warroad Saturday afternoon in a make-up game from a Thursday night postponement. Plummer hosts Strandquist Thursday and the Cardinals, too, have a make-up game Saturday at home against Fisher.

Improved Defense Carries Prowlers

At the beginning of the 1982-83 high school hockey season it appeared the Prowlers would be competitive if they could simply out-gun the opposition. A wealth of forwards and lack of experience in the nets and on the blueline deemed it necessary Thief River Falls score a lot of goals.

But after a 0-3 start it's been the team's remarkable defensive play that has been the key in a current nine-game unbeaten streak. During that stretch the Prowlers have given up just 25 goals, an average of 2.8 per game. And since a 4-4 overtime tie at East Grand Forks, they've given up just 10 goals in their last five games, against some pretty decent competition: Bemidji, Warroad, Roseau, Crookston and Lake of the Woods.

It's a simple formula of success, according to Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand. "Keep the goals down and you're going to win hockey games," he explained.

With three balanced forward lines and solid play on defense, the Prowlers right have to rank among the best in Section 8. But it's been a topsy-turvy season already and the competition is going to be fierce as post-season play approaches; great for the fans; murder on the coaches.

School Programs Defended

In light of the finacial difficulties facing School District 564, plus others throughout the state, an article appearing in the Minnesota Prep Coach, a publication of the Minnesota State High School Coaches Association, makes a point in defense of extra-curricular activites in their battle to remain a part of the budget package:

"Now that tax revolts are commonplace and the educational dollar is limited, boards of education are looking to reduce every expenditure. When budget cuts are called for, co-curricular activities often have taken a disproportionate share of those cuts. Unfortunately, there are some members of the general public, school administrators and school boards around the state who do not recognize the bargain their activity programs are.

Let's examine the facts:

1 — In most Minnesota schools, over 50 per cent of the students (grades 7-12) are involved in school activity programs which include music, drama and other clubs. Educational studies have demonstrated that students who participate in activities tend to have higher grades, better attendance records and to cause fewer discipline problems than non-participants.

2 — American College Testing Service discovered in their research that successful participation in high school activities is the only reliable predictor of success in later life. High school grades, college grades and high scores on aptitude tests had no predictive value.

3 — National Federation of State High School Associations conducted a study on drop-out rates and found that 96 per cent of all drop-outs never participated in a single school activity. Evidence also showed that the drop-out most often failed to reach his full potential and became a problem for society. The rate of delinquency, drug usage and unwed pregnancies seems to be much higher among drop-outs. Dr. Paul Knott's study of juvenile delinquency estimated the cost of institutionalizing a single youngster may be as much as $50,000 a year. If the drop-out had engaged in at least one school activity, the results might have been different.

4 — Student enrollments have declines, but athletic participation has remained stable.

5 — A study of costs of athletic programs show on a state-wide average that school districts are spending two per cent of their general fund for these programs. This includes salaries, transportation, officials, uniforms and equipment. This research documents what many have been saying for years: Sports and other co-curricular activites produce positive returns and give students a purpose and motivation they seldom find elsewhere. All this for two per cent of the educational dollar!"

"Our support of co-curricular activities," the article continues, "is not intended to denigrate the importance of academic student. Competence in academic areas is necessary for success in later life. All school programs, academic of co-curricular, end by losing if students elect not to stay in school or are not motivated to excel. Horace Mann, one of history's greatest authorities on education, said, "He who tries to educate without inspiring the student is hammering on cold steel." It is important to sustain and support those programs which provide valuable experiences for our students."

Miscellaneous

+ After watching the University of Minnesota-Crookston hockey team take a 9-3 Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) win over visiting Northland Wednesday, Frank Fee of Crookston wrote, "UMC Trojans are playing great hockey now. When the Maroon and Gold forecheck and put on the pressure like they can, I don't think there is a junior college team in the state that can skate with them. Jim Clauson has three very balanced lines. In the win over Northland, the Trojans' first period was near awesome."

TRF Defensive Play Shuts Down Lumberjacks

Thief River Falls' steadily improving defensive play stole the show Saturday as the Prowlers bottled up explosive Bemidji for a 3-1 Section 8 high school hockey win in front of a large sports arena crowd.

Unbeaten in nine straight games, the Prowlers completely shut down the Lumberjacks' highly-touted Don Smith-Ron Smith-Tim Webb line. That unit terrorized opponents as Bemidji opened the year with six imressasive wins, including a 6-4 victory over Thief River Falls back on Dec. 14 when Don Smith scored four goals and his line collected nine points.

That left Thief River Falls 0-3 at the time, but the Prowlers have been the hottest team in Section 8 since then, winning eight and tying one. The tie was a controversial 4-4 standoff at East Grand Forks Jan. 4 when a quick whistle took away an apparent game-winning Thief River Falls goal in overtime. Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks meet again Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the sports arena in yet another key Section 8 match-up.

"That was a good high school hockey game," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand Saturday. "Very, very entertaining."

In a match-up of two of the top lines in Section 8, Thief River Falls' Tom Kenville-Tim Bottom-Mitch Semanko unit was used primarily as a checking line against the Smith trio. And they were obviously successful at it.

"With Smith's goal production, you obviously have to play something special against that line," explained Grand. But instead of using a shadow on Don Smith, the Prowlers instead emphasised defending Ron Smith and Webb, he said. "We felt we would simply take his (Don Smith) wings away from him. We felt our defensemen were good enough to handle him if he came down without any wings."

Brian Johnston, Jim Geatz, Jeff Storhaug and Alan Ness were the defensemen who mopped up after the forwards' tight-checking efforts. And senior goalie Kerry Wollin stood his ground as he nursed a shutout into the final stages of the third period.

"We have to be very happy with everybody's play," acknowledged Grand, who, after praising the first line, the defensemen and the goalie, cited the Prowlers' third line combination of Ryan Bakke-Steve Wiskow-Joe Blankenfeld. They got a goal and controlled things when they were on the ice. "I feel again, our third line really played well for us," he said.

That's not to slight the second line, either. They (Tim Bergland-Jerry Hallamek-Rick Spong) were on the ice for two goals.

Wiskow scored the first goal of the game on a fine individual effort — as he straightened up, blocked a Bemidji shot at center ice and came in for a breakaway in the first period. He hit a 15-footer while on the move at 4:06.

Bergland made it 2-0 at 2:08 of the second period as he picked up a loose puck in the slot area in front of Bemidji goalie Mike Sauer and kept the shot on the ice for the goal.

Geatz got the third goal at 4:31 of the third period on a smart play as he teed up a slap shot just inside the attacking zone, waited patiently for an opening through a maze of players in front and fired a long slap shot.

Just when it looked like the Prowlers' fine defensive play was going to be rewarded with a shutout, Bemidji's Pat Braaten scored in unexpected fashion at 10:48. His slap shot while on the move in front of the Thief River Falls player box took a sudden drop in front of Wollin, who didn't have time to react to the change of direction.

Thief River Falls wound up out-shooting Bemidji 30-24, successfully killing four penalties in the process.

"When you can kill penalities against a line of that caliber you know you're doing something right," noted Grand.

Bemidji's coaching triumvirate of Bryan Grand, Lyman Brink and Pete Sullivan were searching for answers in the Lumberjacks' dressing room after the team's third Section 8 loss in their last four starts. Bryan Grand acknowledged the Prowlers' defensive effort against the Smith line. "Obviously teams are aware of them," he said. "Fergus Falls tried to play them extremely close."

"They played a good game; played as hard as any team has against us," pointed out Brink.

Sullivan said the Lumberjacks got beat at the basics: out-hustled, beaten to loose pucks, etc.

Northland Hockey Team Back In Sports Arena This Week . . .

Northmen Lose 3 Road Games

After a disastrous week on the road, Northland community college hockey coach Tony Dorn, Jr. is hoping home ice will help turn things around for the slumping Northmen this week as they host University of Minnesota-Crookston Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., then entertain Rainy River Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday afternoon at 1.

Starting the week in second place in the Minnesota Community College Conference with a 5-2 record, Northland came out of it in fourth place and 5-5 as the Northmen got beat 9-3 at Crookston Wednesday then lost both starts in a weekend series at previously winless Hibbing, a 15-2 shocker Friday and a 5-3 decision Saturday.

"We've lost our momentum," admitted Dorn. "I don't know what's taking place. Things were going so well, and I haven't changed anything. I don't know what the problem is. I might try some different line combinations this week to shake things up."

Only bright spot of the week was a pretty solid Saturday effort at Hibbing, indicated Dorn. "We played three bad periods of hockey in Crookston. Friday, I've never seen as many things go wrong in a hockey game as it did for us that night. It was absolutely incredible. You had to see it to believe it. I've never seen so many things go so bad," he said in trying to describe odd bounces, missed opportunities, etc.

Scott Bellefy, a freshman wing from Taconite, clinched it with his third goal of the game at 17:23 of the third period.

Northland, down 1-0 after one period, stayed within 3-2 in the second as Todd Gregoire and Murray Jorde scored four minutes apart midway through the period. But Mick Sletten and Scott Bellefy scored in the final four minutes of the game for the Cardinals to clinch it.

54-39 Basketball Outcome...

Green Wave Tops Prowlers

A strong start faded away in the second half Friday as Thief River Falls lost a 54-39 North Half Region 8AA high school basketball game at East Grand Forks.

Thief River Falls jumped out to a 16-8 first quarter lead and maintained a 24-19 edge at halftime. East Grand Forks wrestled away a 33-32 lead as the third quarter closed then out-scored Thief River Falls 21-7 in the final eight minutes to win easily.

"I think we played a pretty decent game in the first half," reported Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt. "Our defense had something to do with East Side having a poor start. But progressively we just didn't play very good basketball in the second half."

"I think in the second it was just a matter of us not getting our shots and putting them in the bucket. We've got to go to work on being more consistent," explained Hunt.

Thief River Falls, after shooting 50 per cent from the field in the first half (11-for-22), shot only 28 per cent after intermission (7-for-25).

Pat Lindquist, a 6-1 senior, scored 19 points to lead the Green Wave, with Dale Johnson, a 6-5 senior, getting 12. Seniors Randy Naeseth and Steve Olson duplicated their strong performances in a 63-49 home court win over Marshall County Central earlier in the week with 15 and 10 points, respectively, for the Prowlers. Naeseth also had 10 rebounds.

Thief River Falls wound up shooting 38 per cent from the field for the game (18-for-47) while East Grand Forks shot 42 per cent (24-for-57). The Prowlers shot 59 per cent at the free throw line (3-for-6) where the Green Wave shot 43 per cent (6-for-14). East Grand Forks had a 37-33 edge on the boards with its height advantage and Thief River Falls topped the turnover figures 18-10.

The loss dropped the Prowlers below .500 at 4-5. They'll be at Mahnomen Friday and will host defending North Half Region 8AA champion Detroit Lakes Saturday.

DESPITE THE CLOSE coverage by Vermilion defender Wayde Preston, Northland forward Steve Holloway scored on this fast break lay-up to give the Northmen a 24-17 lead near the 10-minute mark of the first half in Friday's community college basketball game played in Thief River Falls. A freshman from Argyle, Holloway scored eight points in the 93-88 Northland win.

Fontes Sparks Northland Win Over Vermilion 93-88

It's an old, probably worn-out phrase, but the verse, "When the going gets tough, the tough get going," best describes the late-game heroics by Northland community college sophomore forward Matt Fontes Friday as the 6-4 All-American candidate from Canton, Ohio sparked the Northmen past Vermilion 93-88 in a Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) basketball game before a large Northland gymnasium crowd.

Having nearly blown a 16-point second half lead, the Northmen were clinging to a slim 76-74 advantage over the scrappy Ironmen with 6:21 remaining in the game when Fontes suddenly dominated play. Starting with a three-point play, he scored 13 consecutive points for the Northmen, personally out-scoring Vermilion 13-4 over a 3:12 stretch, as the Northland lead shot back to 89-78 with 2:57 left.

Freshman center Shorty Johnson momentarily interrupted Fontes' scoring outburst when he scored from underneath with 2:23 to play, but Fontes came right back with a drive that made it 93-80 with 1:56 on the clock. Northland didn't score after that, meaning Fontes got 15 of the final 17 points for the winners.

"When things got tough he took the ball to the basket," said Northland coach Chet Engelman of Fontes. "He's a good player, no getting around it."

Fontes finished with 37 points, 6½ points above his season average, on a 16-for-19 shooting night. Freshman Kyle Ramsey contributed 14 points, while sophomores Scott McKeever and Duncan Gregory had 13 and 12, respectively, and freshman Steve Holloway played a key role in things while getting 8 points. Sophomore forward Ray Podominick collected 22 points for Mesabi, while his brother, big 6-8 John Podominick, had 18 underneath.

Northland made tough work out what maybe could have been an easy win. The Northmen never did trail after McKeever took a feed from Gregory and scored on a drive to the basket for a 16-15 edge with 12:43 remaining in the first half. That started a 10-2 burst by the Northmen, who had a 24-17 lead as Holloway finished off a fast break with 10:51 left.

They maintained control, matching their biggest lead at 48-36 when Holloway hit a short turn-around jumper to close out the first half.

Fontes gave the Northmen their 16-point spread as he scored on a fast break to make it 65-40 4:42 into the second half.

But that's when Northland started running into turnover problems and John Podominick suddenly became unstoppable around the basket. He muscled his way for eight straight Mesabi points and the Ironmen went on to out-score the error-plagued Northmen 18-4 to close the gap to 60-58 with 11:34 to go.

Three times Northland rebuilt it to an eight-point spread, but Vermilion kept coming back, and finally when Mark Rahja scored on a rebound, the Ironmen were back within 76-74 with 6:21 remaining.

That's when Fontes said enough is enough and took matters into his own hands. His outburst included a fast break lay-up, a drive, a long jumper and three other short-to-medium range jumpers.

"We have trouble putting people away," acknowledged Engelman. "We had a few too many turnovers, but give them credit, they have a nice ball club."

Northland had a great night shooting the ball. The Northmen were 38-for-60 from the field (63 per cent) and 17-for-24 at the free throw line (71 per cent). Vermilion, meanwhile, was 42-for-90 from the field (47 per cent) and 4-for-12 at the line (33 per cent).

Mesabi 69

Things were similar Saturday as Matt Fontes had a 35-point game and Northland, while in command most of the way, again played its see-saw basketball en route to a 78-69 win over Mesabi.

With the weekend sweep over the Iron Range foes the Northmen went to 11-1 for the year, 4-0 in league play.

"The only thing we've done consistently all year is win," smiled Northland coach Chet Engelman.

Mesabi, down 40-36 at halftime, came back from a number of 8-to-10 point deficits to be within 65-63 with 5:07 left in the game. But Fontes came up with a big three-point play with 2:27 left to make it 68-63 as Northland ran an effective control game. In fact, the usually fast-breaking Northmen collected just three field goals over the last 11 minutes. But they were 22-for-32 at the line for the day (69 per cent).

Scott McKeever joined Fontes in double figures with 20 points. Jeff Carlson had 29 to lead Mesabi.

Northland shot 52 per cent from the field (28-for-54) while Mesabi shot 39 per cent (29-for-74). The Norsemen shot 61 per cent from the line (11-for-18), led the rebounding charts 43-42 and had fewer turnover, 25-21. Fontes had 12 rounds and Shorty Johnson 10 for the winners. Kyle Ramsey blocked seven Mesabi shots.

Northland will be at Brainerd Friday for an 8 p.m. game and will be in Grand Rapids Saturday to play Itasca at 2 p.m.

Brateng Leads Grygla To Pair Of Weekend Wins

Grygla's Mike Brateng, a 6-1 senior, collected 44 points and grabbed 37 rebounds over the weekend in leading the Eagles to a pair of high school basketball wins over Badger 68-59 Friday and Plummer 65-43 Saturday.

"Brateng was just dominating," pointed out Grygla coach Vern Johnson. "He had a heck of a weekend. He really found himself."

The wins improved Grygla's season record to 4-5. The Eagles visit Middle River Friday.

A trio of double figure scorers — Rodney Hagen, Mike Brateng and Tony McLean — combined for 56 points as Grygla handled Badger 68-59 Friday.

Hagen finished with 20 points and 11 rebounds, while Brateng and McLean had 18 points apiece. Brateng also grabbed 19 rebounds.

"It was the best game we've played this year," said Grygla coach Vern Johnson. "Basically, our offense worked well."

It was the highest point production of the season for the Eagles, who built quarter leads of 18-12, 31-21 and 49-29.

Mark Frosaker of Badger took game-high scoring honors with 27 points.

Grygla enjoyed a 43 per cent shooting night from the field (26-for-61) while Badger shot 40 per cent (26-for-65). The Eagles shot 45 per cent at the free throw line (16-for-35) where the visiting Rckets shot 54 per cent (7-for-13). Grygla forced Plummer into 33 turnovers Saturday as the host Eagles won 65-43 over the winless Cardinals.

Mike Brateng scored 26 points and had 18 rebounds for the winners, who led at the quarter stops 17-13, 34-22 and 46-32. Rodney Hagen added 15 points and Tony McLean 14. Tim Gagner and Eric Eskeli had 15 points each for Plummer.

Grygla shot 40 per cent from the field (27-for-67) and 50 per cent at the free throw line (11-for-22). Plummer also shot 40 per cent from the field (17-for-42) but got off fewer shots and went just 39 per cent at the line (9-for-23). Plummer had a 37-36 edge on the boards, but the Eagles compensated for that with just 11 turnovers.

Plummer, 0-10, will be at Red Lake Falls Friday and will host Fisher Saturday in a make-up game.

A key three-point play by Scott Anderson late in the fourth quarter helped seal a 67-60 Marshall County Central win at Roseau Friday.

Marshall County Central trailed 16-12 at the end of the first quarter but went ahead 33-31 at halftime and had a 53-49 edge going into the final eight minutes.

"Defensively we did real well," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland, who had special praise for sophomore Kevin Boe's play against Roseau's Craig Singer. "Boe did a super defensive job on Singer," he said.

Larry Larson led the Nordics with 16 points while Anderson collected 14, Todd Stokke 11 and Ted Thompson 10 on his return to the line-up. Mitch Eaton paced Roseau with 16 points.

LOW 44

Marshall County Central watched a 10-point fourth quarter lead all but disappear Saturday afternoon before laying claim to an important 49-44 North Border Conference win over Lake of the Woods.

The victory, worth two points in the league standings since the teams meet just once, evened the Nordics' record at 5-5 for the year. "It was a critical game for us," acknowledged Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland.

Ahead by ten with four minutes left, Marshall County Central went into a delay game, and it nearly backfired. Lake of the Woods cut the gap to a field goal before Ted Thompson salted the game away with a pair of free throws in the final seconds.

Marshall County Central started with a 14-8 first quarter lead, with Lake of the Woods going in front 22-21 at halftime. The Nordics went back on top 33-30 at the end of the third quarter.

Another balanced Marshall County Central effort on offense featured Todd Stokke with 13 points, Scott Anderson and Larry Larson 11 each and Thompson 10. Joe Krouss had 16 points to lead the Bears.

Marshall County Central shot 42 per cent from the field (21-for-50) and 44 per cent at the free throw line (7-for-16). Lake of the Woods shot 38 per cent from the field (20-for-52) and 67 per cent at the line (4-for-6). The Bears had a 29-23 rebound advantage and also led in the turnover department 19-13.

Goodridge defense shut down the East Grand Forks Sacred Heart offense Friday as the host Huskies won a 60-30 Polar Conference decision.

Goodridge had a 16-4 first quarter lead and held Sacred Heart without a field goal for the first 13 minutes of the game.

The Huskies were 23-for-54 from the field (42 per cent) while limiting the Eagles to a 10-for-36 night shooting. Goodridge was 14-for-20 at the free throw line (70 per cent) where Sacred Heart was 10-for-20 (50 per cent). Goodridge had a 36-31 edge on theboards.

Nordics Beat Tigers 51-30

Solid defense and balanced offense — two ingredients that will more often than not produce wins — carried Marshall County Central to a 51-30 victory over Stephen Thursday in a girls high school basketball game played at Newfolden.

"Defensively I thought we played very well and offensively we had good balance," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde.

Stephen started with a 14-13 first quarter lead, but could only muster 16 points the rest of the night as Marshall County Central went ahead 25-17 at halftime and led 37-26 at the end of the third quarter.

Brenda Dahl had "an outstanding game," according to Mjelde with a 19-point performance that included a perfect 9-for-9 night from the field and a 1-for-1 effort at the free throw line. Sue Olson added 14 points and Debbie Peterson 12 from the winners, who hicked their record to 9-1.

Marshall County Central shot 48 per cent from the field (23-for-47) and 56 per cent from the free throw line (5-for-9). Stephen shot 26 per cent from the field (14-for-52) and 40 per cent at the line (2-for-5). Stephen had a 32-27 edge on the boards, but also topped the turnover figures 24-14.

Three games await the Nordics this week: Tuesday vs. Badger; Thursday at Hallock; and Saturday at Lake of the Woods.

LOW 44

After scoring 46 points in three consecutive games, Grygla upped that figure Thursday — to 48 — in a 48-44 triumph over Lake of the Woods at Baudette.

"It was a real good team effort," explained Grygla coach Bill Raduenz as the Eagles' record went to 8-3. Only losses since early December for the team have come at the hands of North Border Conference leaders Middle River and Marshall County Central. They'll get another shot at the Skippers Tuesday in Grygla.

After a 12-10 first quarter lead Thursday, Grygla trailed 26-20 at halftime and was down 34-33 at the end of the third quarter before winning it in the final eight minutes. Grygla led 46-44 and Lake of the Woods missed three opportunities to tie it before the Eagles' Tammy Anderson padded the lead with a pair of free throws at the end.

Denise Wikert scored 15 points for the Eagles while Kathy Foss and Anderson each had 11. Tracy Senkyr of Lake of the Woods led all scorers with 18 points.

Patti Sampson Performs In Dance Concert

Patricia Sampson, a senior in sociology from Thief River Falls, is a member of the all-student Orchesis dance company which will dedicate its 1983 annual dance concert, "A Dancer's Arch of Triumph," to the new music education center at North Dakota state university in Fargo.

"A Dancer's Arch of Triumph," will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, January 27-29 in the Festival concert hall of the Reinecke fine arts center.

Moving from the proscenium arch of the old Festival hall under which Orchesis has performed for the last 23 years in its annual dance concert, to the "magnificent arches" of the new concert hall is a triumph of its own kind, according to Marillyn Nass, associate professor of physical education and director of the company.

The 1983 Orchesis concert will include 24 original dances in a variety of styles and all choreographed by the 33 student members of the company. These styles will range from comedy to serious dance.

Tickets for the concert will be $3.50 at the door or $3 when purchased in advance at the main office of the department of health, physical education, recreation in the old field house.

Student director of the concert is Ann Mulkern, a junior from Fargo. Company includes 25 women and eight men.

Production Of Milk In State Up 4 Per Cent

Fourth quarter milk production totaled 2,349 million pounds for Minnesota, up four per cent from the 2,269 million pounds for October through December of 1981. Production per cow averaged 2,610 pounds, up 89 pounds from a year earlier. Total milk cows were 900,000 head, the same as a year ago.

U.S. milk production during the October-December quarter totaled 32.8 billion pounds, three per cent above the comparable period in 1981, but three per cent below the July-September 1982 quarter. Accumulated milk production during the year at 135 billion pounds was two per cent above 1981 production.

Milk production per cow for the quarter averaged 2,966 pounds, 54 pounds more than the fourth quarter of 1981 and was 110 pounds more than the same period in 1980.

Total milk cows averaged 11.1 million head during the quarter, about one per cent more than the October-December 1981 average.

Homes Sought For European H.S. Students

American families are needed for 20 high school students from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland and Germany for the 1983-84 high school year, by the American Scandinavian student exchange program (ASSE), through the auspices of the Swedish ministry of education.

Interested parties may contact JoAnna Brewer, 1720 Lake Avenue N.E. Bemidji, MN 56601 or telephone 218-751-2921. Letters must contain the writer's address and telephone number.

"The program's high standards assure a quality experience for all participating families and students," says midwest regional director Warren Clague. All students are carefully screened in Europe by their school and the local ASSE office. All are fluent in English and have their own spending money and complete medical and liability insurance. ASSE provides support for families and students during the year through fully trained local volunteer area representatives, available whenever needed. Students, ages 16 and 17, will arrive in late August 1983. They will attend local high schools and return home to Europe in late June or early July 1984.

Families with junior high school age children or younger and those with children no longer living at home, are especially encouraged to apply.

ASSE is also seeking qualified American high school students, ages 16, 17 and 18, who would like to spend a high school year attending school and living with a family in Europe, or take part in a six week family stay in Scandinavia during the summer of 1983.

CPA's Offer Tips On Doing Income Taxes

Without realizing it, you may be paying more taxes than you have to, especially if you prepare your own tax return. Many taxpayers either forget or don't know about many legitimate tax strategies and deductions that can bring them bigger refunds, says the Minnesota Society of CPAs.

Yes, you can still do it yourself, but be careful. Overlooking major deductions is not the only problem. Most common mistakes made on tax returns are simple mathematical errors. Many filers will take an incorrect figure from the tax charts or use the wrong chart for their filing status. IRS generally will catch this kind of error, but it's up to you to be on the look-out for all the benefits you are entitled to.

Could you and your spouse save by filing separate returns: Do you know if you qualify for income averaging? How can you be sure you haven't overlooked deductions you should claim?

Remember that in order to save, you often have to fill out special tax forms in addition to the standard 1040 and 1040A. Before you start to work on your taxes, find out where you can go for such forms as the 2106 ("employee business expenses"), 2441 ("credit for child and dependent care expenses"), or "Schedule G" (for income averaging). Forms are usually available from the IRS, from the post office, some banks, or a CPA or tax preparer.

While most people know about the advantages of itemizing their deductions, some unusual deductions are easily forgotten. For example, did you know that if you have a second job, you can deduct your travel costs for going from one job to the other? This deduction also applies to the costs for travel from work to school, if the education helps advance you within your current profession. If you can deduct your educational costs, you can also deduct the cost of traveling from work to school.

If you had a big jump in income last year — perhaps you became a two-paycheck family — you may find yourself in a higher tax bracket. One way you may be able to reduce the bigger tax bite, CPAs note, is by income averaging.

Best way to see if you benefit from income averaging is to try working it out on "Schedule G." Add up your taxable income for the years 1978 to 1981. Then take 30 per cent of that total and add $3,000. If your taxable income for the year 1982 exceeds that amount, you could qualify for income averaging.

Although most married couples routinely file a joint return because of the lower tax rate, there are times when filing separate returns could actually save money.

This could happen if one spouse had heavy medical expenses during the year. For the 1982 tax year you can only deduct those medical expenses that exceed three per cent of your adjusted gross income. By using separate returns, two-income couples can claim a bigger deduction for the medical costs. For instance, if one spouse had an income of $15,000 and medical expenses of $3,000, a substantial medical deduction can be claimed on a separate return. Three per cent of $15,000 is $450, so $2,550 of the medical expenses are deductible.

When you file separate returns, you will lose the new five per cent marital deduction for two-earner couples. That deduction can only be claimed on a joint return.

However, it doesn't matter in our example because the $2,550 deduction is much greater than the marital deduction (which would be $750 if the income of $15,000 is from the lower-earning spouse).

If you have dependent children, you have still another way to save on your taxes. Most working parents are aware of the special tax credit for child care expenses, but may not know that you can pay a relative, such as a grandparent, to babysit a child and include that pay in your tax credit.

As long as the relative is not also one of your dependents, you can pay him or her for child care and write-off a percentage of the cost from your taxes. Don't forget this credit is subtracted directly from your tax bill, not your income. So, dollar for dollar, a credit is worth more than a deduction.

Gov. Janklow Guest Speaker At Fund Raiser

Governor William Janklow of South Dakota has accepted an invitation from the Independent-Republicans of Minnesota to be the featured speaker at the annual Century club dinner. Dinner will be held at the St. Paul civic center arena on February 12. About 3,000 people are expected to attend what is the largest fund raising event of its kind in the country.

"Needless to say, we are delighted by Governor Janklow's willingness to come to Minnesota for this major fund raising event," said I-R Chairman Bill Morris. According to Morris, Governor Janklow will discuss opportunities for regional development which are much more beneficial than individual efforts.

Governor Janklow, in accepting the invitation, said, "I view this as an opportunity to renew bonds which tie us together as opposed to the political rhetoric which is trying to tear us apart."

Noting that Independent-Republicans have expressed willingness to help Governor Perpich rejuvenate Minnesota's economy, Morris said, "Perhaps this will lead to some constructive conversation on the topic."

"If our Century club dinner can build a warmer and working relationship between Governor Perpich and Governor Janklow, we think we will have already played a major role in moving Minnesota forward," said Morris.

Conference Focuses On Price Support

Since the 1940's the government has played a major role regulating prices for milk. Yet mounting public pressure and budget considerations have forced the current administration to consider ways to reduce the government's support of dairy prices.

One government solution, to deduct money from a farmer's milk check, is being hotly contested by the dairy industry, forcing possible resolution in the courts. William Lesher, assistant secretary, office of economics, U.S.D.A., will present the administration's views on the dairy price support issue and policy alternatives at a day-long seminar, February 17.

How the industry is working to develop new products to increase dairy product demand will be addressed by James Hellmich, manager of dairy products procurement, Kraft, Inc.

Other topics to be discussed include a presentation by G. Edward Schuh, university of Minnesota agricultural economist, on international trade. The dairy policy seminar will be held at the Earle Brown continuing education center on the St. Paul campus of the university of Minnesota.

Tree Planting Helps Control Soil Erosion

Importance of protecting the soil is pointed out by Gary Lane, district technician for the Pennington soil and water conservation district, as he encourages tree planting as one method for reducing wind erosion of soil.

Soil is one of the most important and costly parts of farming, Lane points out, and should be considered very carefully. With January nearly over and very little snow cover to protect area fields, serious wind erosion can become a major problem.

Lane said the Pennington county SWCD can help in protecting fields against wind erosion in the future by providing assistance in planting one-row shelterbelts on the border or boundary lines of fields. ASCS and SWCD offices have cost-sharing available to qualified land owners to help defray the cost of such plantings.

Farming is always an uncertain business with unpredictable weather, fluctuating markets, insect and weed problems and frustrating economic conditions, Lane said. One thing a farmer can do something about is protecting his soil against the wind. For information, contact the SWCD office at 1305 Dale street or call 681-3348.

New Directors Are Elected To Jobs Inc. Board

Bill Ness, Ev Ault, Arve Moser, Arnold Carriere and Dave Strong were elected to the board of Thief River Falls Jobs Incorporated at the annual meeting conducted Tuesday noon at Lon's restaurant in Thief River Falls.

Ault was elected chairman at a reorganization of the board following the meeting, succeeding Terry Gere as head of the local industrial development organization. James Winjum was elected vice chairman with Jerry Sandstrom and Gene Beito reelected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Board members whose terms expired this year were Ness, Bob Dondelinger, Norris Melander, Bob Flynn and Al Christofferson. Continuing as board members in addition to those listed are Gere and Dale Olmstead.

Annual report of the organization showed cash on hand or invested of $27,903.25 with other assets including 4.85 acres of land in the city's industrial park. It was noted at the meeting that an option on 19 acres of land north of the city had been dropped when GTA indicated it was no longer considering location of a grain facility in this area.

Review was given on the star cities program by Jack Quinlivan and an ad hoc committee on jobs by chairman James Winjum. Jerry Wginess, city clerk, noted that about $10,500 had been paid in assessments for the parking district and that others can avoid interest of at least eight per cent by paying assessments soon.

Chairman Gere reported on the organization's involvement, informing the public on the automated flight service station which was supported by the voters in a bond authorization referendum. The city would provide a building and equipment for the FAA if Thief River Falls is selected as the site for such a facility.

Settlement Made With BN Railroad

Thief River Falls city council voted 5-1 Monday evening to accept an out of court settlement of $28,500 from Burlington Northern Railroad on its $51,855.50 assessment for curb and gutter and bituminous paving of Brooks Avenue between Third and Sixth Streets under the 1982 street improvement project. Other major topics of discussion included future of taxicab service in the city and community development block grants.

Decision to accept the Burlington offer was made with Aldermen Bill Penning and James Womack absent, although their presence would not have changed the outcome. Alderman Ken Murphy cast the lone dissenting vote. Decision was made on the recommendations of City Attorney Robert Wurst, "to avoid costly and time consuming litigation" and based on an appraisal of the BN property which had been given to the council by realtor Bob Flynn at a closed "executive session" held January 18, from which members of the news media were excluded.

Mayor Bob Carlson expressed displeasure with the choice of words used in a Times article which described the meeting as "Secret," noting that leaks of information regarding pending litigation could be detrimental to the city's bargaining position. He also objected to statements which indicated that whatever amount the railroad did not pay would have to be paid by the taxpayers of the city. Dave Kildahl, engineer for Stewart

A BIG CHECK was received Tuesday by the group sponsoring a wading pool project for Thief River Falls. Roger Reuter, president of First Northwestern state bank, presented the $500 check to Lori Olson, member of the city parks and recreation board and chairman of the citizens' committee. Tentative plans are to build the wading pool at LaFave park near the swimming beach with the project estimated to cost $20,000 to $35,000. Olson expressed the group's appreciation for the bank's pace-setting donation.

RIC To Recover $5,838 From Former Director

Board of directors of the Regional Inter-district council (RIC) at Newfolden voted at its January meeting Monday to request that former director Darrell Peterson of Thief River Falls return $5,838 to the council by February 11.

The action followed acceptance by the board of a final audit report by the Holcomb, Knudson and company accounting firm which indicated Peterson had used $3,832 of RIC funds for his personal use and had received an advance over-payment on his salary of $2,006. Peterson resigned the directorship on November 8 of last year. The total amount is $205 more than noted in the auditors' preliminary report in November.

Although the board acted Monday evening to recover the funds indicated, no decision was made as to whether any legal action will be taken against the former director. That option was apparently being kept open by the board which presently represents nine participating school districts in northwestern Minnesota.

R. Gene Busch, superintendent of the Marshall county central school system, continues as manager of the RIC office which is located in the Newfolden elementary school building. Authorization was given by the board Monday to advertise for a director to start July 1, 1983, perhaps on a part-time basis.

Men's Rights Group To Meet

Second meeting of the Northwest Men's Rights association will be conducted Thursday, February 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the Thief River Falls city auditorium, according to Myles Koop of Thief River Falls, temporary chairman.

Attorney John Novacek will be in attendance to provide assistance on incorporating the organization. The meeting is open to everyone.

Fund Drive For Wading Pool Is Now Underway

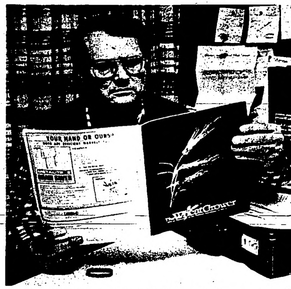
City parks and recreation department and a local citizens committee are involved in a fund-raising project to construct a wading pool in Thief River Falls. Tentative plans are for the pool to be built in LaFave park near the swimming beach at a cost estimated at $20,000 to $25,000.

Lori Olson, a member of the parks and recreation board who also chairs the citizens committee, said the city has allocated $7,500 to the project from its revenue sharing allocation. A donation of $500 from First Northwestern state bank was received Tuesday, she said, and several smaller contributions have also been made.

Thief River Falls Jaycees and the evening Lions club have pledged fund-raising efforts for the wading pool project, she said, and other community organizations are expected to join in offering support. If sufficient funds are raised by the April 1 deadline, construction of the wading pool could take place this year. If not, construction would be deferred until the necessary funds are committed.

Individuals, businesses or organizations who would like to contribute may send donations to the city of Thief River Falls at P.O. Box 528. Checks should be designated for the wading pool fund to avoid confusion with other receipts which the city normally handles.

School Board Considers Extra-Curricular Plan



NATIONAL PRESIDENT of the National Association of Wheat Growers is Don Loeslie of rural Warren, shown here reviewing the official publication of the national organization during one of his brief stops at home. Loeslie was elected at the national convention in Houston, TX, and is the first Minnesotan to hold office in the national group. An interview with Loeslie will be published in the Monday edition of the Times.

Position statement proposed by the extra-curricular advisory committee, calling for establishment of core activities and co-funded or community-funded activities, was accepted by the Thief River Falls board of education during its regular meeting Monday evening in the school district service center. Decisions concerning the proposals should be made in March.

Established in the position statement as core activities which would be district-funded were band, track, basketball and orchestra for boys and girls in grades six through 12; musical, fall play, pep band, cheerleading and spring play for boys and girls in senior high school; football and hockey for boys and tennis and volleyball for girls.

Listed as co-funded activities were boys and girls swimming, high school yearbook, boys tennis and girls softball. These would be funded by the board in proportion to dedicated funds that may be left over after operation of all core activities, and if enough funds could be raised by the community to make up the difference between available district funds and total cost.

Designated as community-funded activities were boys and girls cross-country, golf, speech, debate and boys baseball. These would be offered only if community interest could provide funds for their operation.

Budget-cutting process continued with the board advised on the procedure being used by administration in proposing budget reductions. A budget summary book is to be distributed late this week to board members and a meeting for review of the book will take place Thursday, February 3, at 7 a.m. in the board room. Public meetings on the proposed budget cuts which are expected to approximate $900,000 for 1983-84 should be held the following week.

Business manager Harry Nelson discussed with the board the possibility of borrowing money to complete the current fiscal year. Further study will be made and presentation given to the board for formal action at a future date.

At the request of the St. Hilaire city council to delay advertising for bids for sale of the St. Hilaire school property for 60 days, the board set March 14 as the date to receive bids on the property, including buildings and land.

Employee Benefit Administration company of Minneapolis provided material to the board following a visit and survey of selected portions of the school district on November 17. Major concerns at Lincoln high school were apparent improper ventilation in the chemistry lab area; no available water for use in case of a chemical splash or exposure; and blocking of the main exit from the classroom if an accidental spill or fire would originate in the chemistry lab storage room.

Concern was also expressed that the secondary exit from the band room leads to an enclosed courtyard. It was suggested that Pat Barry, deputy state fire marshal, be contacted regarding the concerns.

Rental agreement with the city of Thief River Falls in the amount of $20,500 for use of the sports arena, downtown area and baseball field for the 1982-83 season was approved.

Board members Hank Hallstrom and Archie Cameron along with Supt. Robert Block were designated to attend the Minnesota school boards association negotiations seminar February 17 at the Best Western inn of Thief River Falls with board member Greg Pribula as alternate.

Jessie Comstock was hired as long-term substitute for fourth grade at Northrop school, Fay Bolin as long-term substitute for fifth grade at Knox school and Anthony Ricci as part-time vocal music instructor in the ExCEL program at Franklin school. Pam Carlson and Judy Schmit were approved as yearbook advisors at Franklin and Lincoln schools, respectively.

Approval was given to repost for the AVTI special needs advisor position because no applicants from the first posting had proper certification. The resignation

Await Reports On Materials In Roseau Fire

Area officials investigating the fires which destroyed the Roseau Times-Region newspaper office and damaged Nelson's cafe and the Martin Berg law offices in Roseau last week are awaiting reports on materials being analyzed by the Minnesota crime bureau laboratory.

Pat Barry of Thief River Falls, deputy state fire marshal, said this morning that items had been submitted for analysis but that the study takes time. No arrests have yet been made as a result of the fires which were apparently intentionally set.

Barry said it did not appear that any accelerants were used in starting the fires since there was an abundance of combustible materials available in both the newspaper office and law office. He speculated that more than one person was involved and that the break-in at the cafe and newspaper preceded the entry at the law office.

The deputy fire marshal also said that the fire in the newspaper office started near the middle of the building and that fires in the law office were set in papers on shelving, on the attorney's desk, in a waste basket under the desk and in a waste basket by a secretary's desk.

The case continues under investigation by the fire marshal's office and the Roseau county sheriff's department.

Linda Hawks of the Ripley Alliance for Battered Women was guest speaker at the Thief River Falls Business and Professional Women's club held January 18 at the American Legion club.

In speaking to the group, Hawks stated that the main purpose of the Ripley Alliance is to provide emergency housing for women and children afraid to stay in their own homes due to physical or mental abuse. She said that the shelter is staffed with highly trained people, well qualified to assist those needing help. Contrary to the beliefs of some people, the staff does not make decisions for the battered women. Alternatives are listed and the women are free to make their own choice of action, whether to return to their homes or to establish living quarters elsewhere.

Information on the Young Careerist program was given by chairman Arlene Forsberg. She asked that the members, together with the interested public, assist in providing suitable candidates.

Star Clusters Give Clues To Galaxy Origin

Clear nights in early January bring a glimpse of two star clusters, which are both strewing stars outward into space from the common cloud cocoons of their births.

Pleiades, a close grouping of six or seven stars, is now visible to the naked eye a little south of the zenith in early evenings. Unlike many constellations, which only appear to be near each other, these stars are actually close together in space. Some 30 are visible through binoculars, several hundred through a telescope.

This cluster of stars was all born together, emerging from the same condensing cloud of gas and dust some 60 million years ago. Young by star standards, the Pleiades are also close to Earth by the standards of space, only about 410 lightyears away.

Second star cluster, the Hyades, is more diffuse, lying across about 20 light-years of space. Like all other open clusters, its stars are gradually scattering into space. Brightest star in the cluster, Aldebaran, can be seen shining south of the zenith, about the width of 40 moons northwest of the shoulder of Orion, the hunter. Fainter stars around it are all also part of the Hyades, though out of some 300 stars, most are not visible to the naked eye. Astronomers have seen many of these stars moving together, visibly pulling away from background stars over a 50-year period.

Although not visually spectacular, the Hyades are an important distance signpost for astronomers. Since the cluster is close enough to Earth that astronomers can measure its speed, scientists think they have an accurate estimate of the Hyades' distance from Earth — 130-light years.

If the distance is known, then astronomers can tell how bright the stars in the cluster really are, as opposed to how bright they appear from here. This knowledge of intrinsic brightness of these stars can then be used to figure the distance of other, farther stars of the same type within our galaxy and beyond it.

In fact, if the distance to the Hyades is ever found to be in error, astronomers will have to recalculate the distances of most objects from 100 light-years away up to a couple of million light-years away, said Doug McElroy, astronomer at the University of Minnesota.

Open clusters like the Pleiades and Hyades lie mostly in the main plane of the galaxy and are filled with young emerging stars. This is in contrast to globular clusters, very old star groupings, inhabiting the "halo" area above the disk of the galaxy. Globular clusters, born probably before the rest of the galaxy, are a clue to its birth. Distribution of heavy elements within them is now being used by McElroy to study our galaxy's origin.

At Northwestern Hospital . .

New Equipment Cuts Radiation

Patients undergoing x-rays at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls will be exposed to 50 per cent less radiation than before with the new Kodak Lanex rare earth x-ray screen-film system just installed in the hospital's radiology department.

Orvel Stocks, chief radiologic technologist at the hospital, said "the 'rare earth' imaging system uses phosphors from the rare earth family of metallic elements. The phosphors, or substances which emit light, are integrated into the intensifying screens that are clamped on each side of the photographic film used in x-ray procedures. The phosphors absorb and convert more x-radiation to light than conventional imaging systems."

Formation of an image when x-rayed is primarily governed by absorbed radiation. Without the screens, less than one per cent of the x-ray beam would be absorbed by the film and little or no image would be formed. The highly efficient and sensitive rare earth materials are used in the x-ray intensifying screens to produce a sharper, more detailed radiographic image of the body, Stocks said.

Rare earth screens, which replace older calcium tungstate screens, offer many benefits to the radiology department and ultimately to the patient. The high efficiency of the rate earth screens require shorter exposure times. If a patient moves during an x-ray procedure the image of the body part may be blurred. The high speed screens reduce the effect of the movement and produce a sharp image regardless of the movement, Stocks explained.

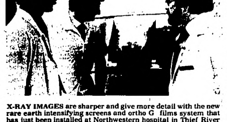
The short exposure also allows the use of a smaller focal spot to gain improved sharpness. The advantages of this system produce high quality radiographs and fewer x-ray retakes. This particular advantage is especially important when x-raying infants or critically ill or injured persons who cannot hold their breath to reduce movement.

The new system promises to be cost efficient for the hospital as well. The film screens will reduce the heat build-up in the x-ray tubes used by the hospital and will help to extend the life of the x-ray equipment. "To replace the seven x-ray tubes used at Northwestern," Stocks said, "would cost between $10,000 and $15,000 each." The x-ray tubes will last between five and 10 years depending on their use. The new system will probably extend the life of the equipment by about 25 per cent. Film for the new system will cost 15 to 17 per cent less than previous film and this savings alone will mean that the system will pay for iteslf in about two years.

Northwestern hospital is the first hospital in the area to install—the rare earth intensifying screens and ortho G film, although the Falls clinic has used the system for about two years.

"Our primary concern in selecting the system was to increase patient safety by reducing radiation exposure," commented Stocks, who has been chief x-ray technologist at Northwestern since 1964. "This is our second upgrading of this area of the department. As a result of the last change we reduced patient radiation exposure by 75 per cent compared to techniques used 10 years ago."

Radiation exposure to x-ray technicians has been quite low because of good safety habits in the department, but the new system will also reduce radiation exposure to technicians, Stocks added.



X-RAY IMAGES are sharper and give more detail with the new rare earth intensifying screens and ortho G films system that has just been installed at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls. Radiologist Donald Douglas, M.D. (right) and x-ray technologists Steve Koch (left) and Orvel Stocks view one of the first studies done using the system. The "rare earth" screen-film combination reduces radiation exposure to patients by 50 per cent and requires fewer retakes because of the fast speed of exposure. The cost effective system is expected to increase the life of x-ray tubes and equipment by producing less heat build-up during use.

ADJUSTING the automatic timing circuit in an x-ray unit during the recent change over to a "rare earth" screen-film x-ray system at Northwestern hospital is Paul L. Spielman of Dakota Medical System of Fargo. The system is expected to cut radiation exposure to patients by 50 per cent of the previous system used and will require fewer x-ray retakes because of the speed of the film.

Kick-Stands On Motorcycles Investigated

An investigation of alleged problems involving the side or kick-stands of an estimated 600,000 motorcycles marketed by U.S. Suzuki Motor corporation is being conducted by the national highway traffic safety administration (NHTSA). Even though the motorcycling season is over in Minnesota, the Minnesota department of public safety recommends that motorcyclists affected by this problem take time to report it.

The investigation is the result of reports of nine accidents, including eight injuries and three fatalities involving both operators and passengers. The operators allegedly lost control of their vehicles due to the side stand being in the down position while the motorcycle was in operation.

This could occur because the operator forgot to raise the stand to the retracted position, or because the stand did not completely retract when raised.

Normally, motorcycles are steered by "leaning" into a turn, but a side stand in the down position can interfere with this maneuver. NHTSA said the failure of a side stand to retract while the vehicle is moving forward is contrary to general industry practice and may not meet the requirements of the federal standard on motorcycle controls and displays.

The agency said the investigation involves the entire fleet of Suzuki motorcycles sold for operation on the highway, starting with the 1975 model year, and includes a variety of side stand designs.

Anyone who has experienced this problem on Suzuki motorcycles or any other motorcycle is urged to report it by writing to NHTSA, Office of Defects Investigation, 400 Seventh St., SW, Washington, D.C. 20590, or by calling the agency's toll-free auto safety hotline at 1-800-424-9393.

In fiscal year 1981, national sponsors of programs for the handicapped served over 5,000 handicapped individuals, resulting in the placement of more than 3,300 in private sector jobs, according to the U.S. Labor Department's 69th annual report.

Debtors Have Protection On Garnishment

If you are recently unemployed because of the recession and cannot pay your bills, you may be experiencing for the first time legal procedures used to collect debts. One of these procedures is called garnishment. Regardless of your circumstances, if your wages or bank account is being garnished, you need to know your legal rights.

Garnishment allows a creditor to get your money from a third person (or garnishee) who controls your money, such as your employer or banker. Although garnishment is legal, try to avoid it if you can. Respond to your creditor's letters or phone calls by explaining your situation, and try to work out some way to revise your payment schedule if at all possible.

To garnish your wages or bank account, your creditor must first start a court lawsuit and obtain a judgment against you (except in certain cases where it's believed you'll take your money and leave the state). If such a suit has been started, act quickly to file an answer to it even if you believe you don't owe the money. If you don't answer the lawsuit, the creditor can obtain a default judgment against you which later may be enforced by garnishment of your wages or bank account.

If the creditor obtains a judgment against you, he or she must send you a garnishment exemption notice 10 days before any garnishment of your wages can occur. It explains that if you receive public assistance or social security, this money is exempt from garnishment; and that the wages of persons who, in the last six month, received public assistance or were released from prison are also exempt.

(Such wages, if deposited in a bank, technically remain exempt from garnishment for 60 days. Yet in practice this money may be garnished without prior notice and it's up to the consumer to prove the money was exempt). If any of your money is exempt, fill out the garnishment exemption form immediately, sign and return it witin 10 days or the creditor will assume he or she has the legal right to garnish your wages.

After 10 days the creditor can serve a garnishment summons on your employer (and must do so each new pay period that money is to be withheld). Your employer has 20 days to disclose the amount owed you. Some of your pay will be frozen, but no more than 110 per cent of what you owe. (State law requires that a certain part of your pay can't be garnished: you must be allowed to keep either 40 times the federal minimum wage multiplied by the number of weeks in the pay period, or 75 per cent of your earnings — whichever is greater. Disposable earnings include sick pay and regular wages minus deductions required by law. This portion of your pay remains exempted for 20 days even after being deposited in your bank account.) Your employer must hold your wages for 180 days. Within this time, on receiving either a "Writ of Execution" or your permission, he or she must pay the creditor the garnished portion of your wages. After 180 days the pay being held must be released to you.

If your creditor tries to garnish (attach) money from your bank account, no prior notice to you is necessary, so keep in mind the following suggestions if a creditor has a judgment against you:

(1) Talk to an attorney about ways to protect any exempt money in your account;

(2) Keep exempt money in a separate account if possible;

(3) Keep careful deposit records and check stubs for evidence if you need to prove that the money which was garnished was exempt.

If exempt money is garnished from your account:

(1) Call the creditor immediately to explain it's exempt;

(2) Send him or her a letter asking for it back and include copies of evidence that the money was exempt;

(3) If it's not released to you, contact an attorney.

And finally, remember that your debts are a civil, not criminal matter. If you owe money you can't be arrested and put in jail, and you can't be fired if your wages were garnished. It pays to know the law!

Council Okays BN Railroad Settlement

and Walker, explained that since Brooks was a state-aid street, the cost was actually paid with state aids. He did add that the funds could have been used on other projects, however.

Wurst noted that in his contracts with BN representatives following the meeting, they had given no indication of changing an offer which had been made in a letter dated January 17. Burlington's objection to the assessment was based on the opinion that their property was not improved in value by the amount of the assessment.

As a result of controversy generated by publicity regarding the closed meeting, Mayor Carlson and Attorney Wurst concurred that "in order to foster better understanding with the members of the news media" they should be invited to attend future executive sessions, with the agreement that they not release information which might be detrimental to the city's bargaining position, until the case had been resolved.

Art Cloutier, owner of Fred's Cab, approached the council and reported that he was experiencing financial difficulties. He credited a number of things with contributing to the decline in profits, including loss of the city scale, investments in new equipment, increased fuel costs, construction of the high-rise senior citizens apartments downtown, and school district bussing of children across town. He also noted that mild winters the last three years had contributed to a decline in customers.

Cloutier's major complaint, however, was that he was forced to compete with the Tri Valley senior citizen buses, which are subsidized by the government. He commented that the bus service could not even pay its fuel expenses at the 45 cent fare which it charges passengers in town. He also noted that although the buses had originally been intended to serve only the aged or handicapped, they were now hauling all types of passengers. He also noted that the bus service had expanded so that it was picking up customers at their homes, and running a "Dial-a-ride" program.

Noting that he was in operation 24 hours per day, he commented that although he could provide better service, including nights, weekends and pickups without waiting, had still lost many of his "bread and butter" customers. He gave the opinion that if he rasied his fares, he would probably lose the few regular customers he did have.

Alderman Milan Borsheim commented that he thought Thief River Falls needed a taxi service. Several ways in which the city might assist Cloutier were discussed, including possibly providing him with office space. On being questioned, Cloutier estimated that if a direct subsidy were offered, it would likely have to be in the vicinity of $10,000. Aldermen Borsheim and Don Goodrich were appointed to meet with Cloutier to discuss possible solutions to his problems.

City Planner Jack Quinlivan made a presentation regarding the city's application for community development block grants from the state. Grants are intended to assist four local businesses in retention of 71 jobs in the manufacturing sector, and create 115 new jobs, by spring of 1984. By providing the four industries with loans to purchase equipment and modernize their buildings, plus creating a revolving loan fund to provide for future job creation or retention, the plan is intended to raise the prevailing wage rate and benefit low and moderate income persons in the community.

Grant being requested is for $531,226 which is to be leveraged with $3,233,480 of private funds, for a private to public ratio of $6 to $1. Estimate was given that public cost per job created or retained in the first year would be $2,856.

Local firms applying for grant funds include the Occupational Development Center, United Satellite Systems, Hydra-Mac and Arctco. Resolutions were passed approving the application, and indicating support of council for any necessary industrial bonds which might be necessary. Hearings would still be required for before any bonds could be issued.

Quinlivan also reported that the possibility of developing a trails area for hikers and cross country skiers was being explored in the area owned by the city near the river west of Greenwood cemetery. He noted that a class from University of Minnesota Crookston would be studying the area and developing plans for a recreation area as a class project, at not cost to the city. He noted that a number of other groups had volunteered services if the project was found feasible.

In other business, the council:

— Approved a request for free use of the sports arena on February 19, for a hockey game with proceeds to be donated to the special olympics. Approval was subject to agreement of scheduling committee at the arena. Request was made by Pat Holmquist, of the office education association at the AVTI;

— Granted approval to increase the city's liability insurance coverage from $1 million to $5 million;

— Passed an ordinace raising building permit fees to $15 minimum for construction estimated to cost $200 through $2,000; plus $4 per thousand through $50,000. Fee for construction estimated to cost more than $50,000 was set at $215 plus $2 per thousand in excess of $50,000.

— Asked City attorneys to draft a resolution controlling size and location of manufactured homes in the city, to replace the mobile home ordinace which has been invalidated as unconstitutional.

— Requested the city planner to get further cost figures regarding tax forfeited land which the city has first option to purchase prior to it being offered for public sale.

— Approved sanitation committee's recommendation to advertise for bids on plastic garbage bags, to be opened at 3:30 p.m. March 1.

— Noted receipt of reserved hockey seat sale revenue of $4,963 from the Sports Boosters club;

— Approved mayor's appointments to boards and commissions for three year terms. Appointments included Gene Gaer to police civil service commission; Don Howe and Ken Wiebolt to park and recreation board; Duane Walton, Edith Etter and Les Sabo to the planning commission; and Carol Ihle and Margaret Saetre to Northwest regional library board; — Approved payment of bills, including: transfer of funds to pay $96,761.70 for purchase of the downtown parking lot from TRF Jobs, Inc.; $475.60 for Senior Meals; $870.57 to Attorney Wurst for termination and replacement proceedings with Republic Airlines; $2,547.03 to Stewart and Walker, Inc. final statement on the parking assessment project; and $8,294 to Tunberg Motors for a 1983 Ford Ranger pickup to be used by the park department for skating rink maintenance and mosquito spraying.

Answers from the Bible by Pastor Don Peres

Q. Pastor Don, there are several preachers on Sunday morning television that continually preach that it is wrong for Christians to be sick. I know many Christians who believe this and support these preachers, yet experience sickness and physical problems like everyone else. This is confusing to me. What does the Bible have to say about all this?

A. I wish that there was one simple answer for this question, but unfortunately there is not. Healing is something that concerns all of us, and also caused our Lord Jesus Christ to be moved with compassion for the multitudes of sick people. (Matt. 14:14)

Since this is such a sensitive subject, and demands a lot of space, I will list several reasons and scriptures that the Bible gives for lack of healings and let you look up some of the verses.

1. Now is not always the time: Ecclesiastes 3:3 says, "There is a time to heal."

   Ecclesiastes 3:1 says, "To everything there is a season and a time to every purpose under heaven."

   a. Some healings are instantaneous: Matt. 8:3
   b. Some healings there is a delay: Lk. 8:43
   c. Some healings are gradual: Mk. 8:22-25
   d. Some healings never occur: II Cor. 12:7-9, Heb. 11:36-40

2. Lack of spiritual growth daily:

   III Jn 2 says, "Beloved, I wish above all things that thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth." (also Prov. 4:20-22)

3. Stressful causes to the human body, such as over-eating, over-working, improper diet, not enough exercise, improper weather exposure, not enought rest, negative emotional stress, etc.:

   Prov. 17:22 says, "a merry heart doeth good like a medicine." (also Isaiah 40:31, Phil. 2:25-30)

4. Unbelief: In Matthew 17:19-20 the disciples asked Jesus why they could not cure this boy, "and Jesus said unto them, because of your unbelief; for verily I say unto you, if ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you." (also Mk. 9:22-24, Matt. 13:58)

5. Sin: Psalms 66:18 says, "If I regard iniquity in my heart, the Lord will not hear me." (also Isaiah 59:1-2, James 4:17)

6. Devil or Demons: Luke 8:2 mentions several women had been healed of evil spirits and infirmities. (also Luke 13:11-16, Matt. 12:22, Matt. 9:32-34)

7. Sometimes God is trying to work something out in our spiritual lives. Job is a good example.

   No matter how much faith Job would have had, or others for him, God was humbling Job from a spirit of pride (Job 42:5-6)

These are just a few of the reasons that the Bible lists for not being healed when people pray for healing.

If you have any questions you would like to have answered from the Bible, please write Pastor Don Peres, Box 129, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Sanctity Of Contract Bill Goes Into Law

Sanctity of contract bill signed by President Reagan will effectively stop the use of grain embargoes as an instrument of foreign policy, according to John Riley, chief counsel to Sen. Dave Durenberger of Minnesota.

Riley, speaking to the southern Minnesota manager's association, said that grain embargoes don't work against totalitarian nations. "Grain embargoes affect people," he said. "These embargoes are only effective where the citizens of a country can affect the attitude of their leaders. And making Russians hungry isn't going to change the policy of the Soviet Union."

The sanctity of contract bill has its roots in Minnesota, Riley told the elevator managers and grain industry representatives. "This was a Minnesota initiative all the way," he said.

At the urging of Minnesota grain growers groups, Sen. Durenberger authored and moved the bill through the lame duck session while facing stiff opposition from members of the President's staff, Riley said.

The sanctity of contract bill does not outlaw embargoes, but it does weaken its effectiveness by, stripping its striking power. In the event of an embargo, all grain contracts existing at that time will be honored for nine months. "No President is going to say, 'We're going to embargo your grain shipments nine months from now,' and expect it to have an impact. Passage of the bill does really end embargoes," Riley said.

Riley said the bill also tells U.S. trading partners that we are serious about restoring our reputation as a reliable source of grain.

Manufactured Housing Institute

It is a fact that 30 percent of single family homes sold in the U.S. last year were mobile/manufactured homes — in spite of certain myths that many people still associate with factory-built homes. For example, there's. . .

"Mobile home? Oh, that's something you hitch up to the back of your station wagon and go, right?"

Wrong. Travel trailers move around, not mobile/manufactured homes. According to the Manufactured Housing Institute, nine out of ten mobile/manufactured homes never leave their original sites. Their owners even add porches, patios, foundations and gardens.

"People who live in mobile/manufactured homes are kind of footloose and fancy-free. They like to move around a lot — change jobs, go to another town."

No more than the owners of site-built houses. Surveys show that the same ratio — 20 percent — of mobile/manufactured home owners and owners of site-built houses move every year.

"Mobile/manufactured homes are flimsy — not well built."

This one is a tall tale. Every mobile/manufactured home must pass tough federal standards and building codes — in many cases more stringent standards than those required for site-built houses!

"Mobile/manufactured homes depreciate in value."

According to a national study of half a million mobile/manufactured home sales around the country, mobile/manufactured homes are appreciating in value, the same as site-built houses. On average, the value of a mobile/manufactured home will increase about 5 percent per year.

These are just some of the myths being dispelled by pleasantly surprised home-seeking Americans who are learning that mobile/manufactured homes are attractive, well-constructed — and affordable!

Meals Program Serves 3,000 Participants

Meals program in this area has just completed another good year. December 31 was the end of the year for both the congregate meals and the home delivered meals programs. Tri-Valley Opportunity council senior meals and activity program and Region I home delivered meals program served 129,083 meals to seniors of Region I in 1982.

Congregate meals are provided at 19 community sites throughout the region. Those communities are Ada, McIntosh, Warren, Crookston, Red Lake Falls, Karlstad, Hallock, Kenenedy, Lake Bronson, Thief River Falls, Twin Valley, Roseau, Badger, Greenbush, Lancaster, East Grand Forks, Newfolden, Oklee and Halma. Over 3,000 different participants took part in the program. The program was able to expand to one new site this past year on a limited basis. If funds permit, expansion will take place in 1983.

Goal of the congregate program is to provide a hot, nutritious meal daily for seniors with an addition to socialization and other services. The meal sites are open 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. the days they are in operation so the seniors can come and participate in activities available.

Region I home delivered meals programs are located at: Ada, McIntosh, Warren, Crookston, Red Lake Falls, Oklee, Newfolden, Twin Valley, Halstad, Shelly, Winger, Alvarado and Erskine. Shelly, Winger, and Erskine started in 1982. Region I home delivered meals is now assisting Thief River Falls with home delivered meals. Goal of this program is to provide meals to homebound seniors who are unable to cook for themselves due to health or other reasons. In 1983, Region I home delivered meals hopes to add new communities. Any community in Region I of Minnesota is welcome to request information.

Seniors contribute what they feel than can afford toward the cost of the meal. Confidentiality is maintained by use of envelopes. Tri-Valley transportation program provides service to many communities. This service allows seniors to attend the meals who have no other means of transportation. Service varies according to various communities. Referrals are made when needed to the weatherization and energy program, Valley chore service and senior employment. Senior meals and home delivered meals staff works with nursing services, doctors and social services to help the seniors in the area remain in their home for a longer length of time.

Volunteers in both programs allow the program to work more efficiently. Over 250 volunteers a quarter spend at least two hours a day assisting the staff at meal sites. Volunteer drivers for home delivered meals are always in demand. Anyone over 60 (and spouse) are eligible to attend the congregate program. Those over 60 who could be eligible for home delivered meals are assessed before receiving meals.

Tri-Valley senior meals and activity program and Region I home delivered meals are sponsored in part by the Northwest regional commission area agency on aging, the Minnesota board on aging and the federal older Americans act. Those who have further questions regarding the meals programs may feel free to call Linda Rethemeier at 281-6495 or your local Coordinator.

Beef Cook-Off Recipe Entries Are Requested

Cooks who have a beef dish that they're particularly proud of are invited to enter it in the national beef cook-off. It could win big prize money.

To enter, send a typed copy of the recipe (using only chuck, round, rump, fresh brisket, plate, shank or ground beef) to National Beef Cook-off, P.O. Box 10291, Chicago, Ill. 60610.

Entries are judged on a state-by-state basis with contestants competing only against entrants from their own state. All recipes are judged by either a state cook-off or a recipe judging panel (depending on the state). State winners will then compete at the national beef cook-off, held September 19-21 in Bismarck, N.D.

Prizes for the national beef cook-off are: first place, $5,000; second place, $2,500; third place, $1,000; and five honorable mentions at $300 each.

Deadline for entry in many states is as early as February 15.

All recipes must contain a minimum of two pounds of beef and not more than five. Meat used must be exclusively beef. Cooking time cannot exceed four hours. The recipe must be specific, with no use of brand names, and must state the number of servings and approximate preparation time. All entries become the property of the American National Cowbelles, Inc.

All recipes are judged according to taste (40 points), ease of preparation and practicality (20), originality (20) and appearance (20).

Contestants must be 18 years or older, with non-professional food status. Any person who has owned one or more head of beef or dairy cattle (or whose immediate family — husband, wife, children — has owned cattle) in the 12 months preceding Oct. 1, 1983 is ineligible. CowBelles and employees of state beef councils or the Beef Industry council of the meat board are also ineligible.

The national beef cook-off is sponsored by the American National Cowbelles in cooperation with the beef industry council.

BSU To Hold "Give Yourself Credit" Session

Important information in an informal setting is the emphasis of the fourth "Give Yourself Credit" session sponsored by the Bemidji State university center for extended learning.

Meeting, scheduled to start at 5:45 p.m. on February 2 in the center's Deputy hall office, is designed to assist non-traditional students in becoming part of the college community.

Non-traditional students are typically older than average individuals who have made a decision to turn to college after pursuing other goals such as family, career or the military. Many consider the earning of a college degree a step toward better qualification in today's job market.

For more information on the "Give Yourself Credit" program, contact the Center for Extended Learning, Deputy hall, Bemidji State university, Bemidji, MN 56601 or call 218-755-2068.

New Technology To Lower Fuel Bills For 1,500

Jerry Everett, executive director, Northwest Petroleum association, said recently that Minnesota's pilot oil furnace retrofit project, an effective energy assistance and energy conservation program, is nearing the final phase of completion in 1,500 Minnesota homes. Many of the association's 1,200 members are participating in the program in cooperation with the Minnesota department of economic security.

Project retrofit '82, using a new oil burner technology, is expected to reduce consumption of retrofitted furnaces by more than 20 per cent. Homes participating in this project were identified by local agencies operating Minnesota's energy assistance and weatherization program.

Patterned after a similar project in Philadelphia, project retrofit is one of the components of the energy assistance program's conservation project. Federal law allows the state to use 15 per cent of its energy assistance block grant for conservation activities.

Burner retrofit's pilot program in Philadelphia was initiated by the alliance to save energy and the institute for human development. It involved 200 burner installations and resulted in an average fuel savings per household of 21 per cent. "The purpose of the program was to provide permanent savings through installation of conservation measures in the homes of the poor as a complement to energy assistance programs," said Wayne Gathers, senior program manager for alliance to save energy. "Because of its success, the program was expanded to eight states for the winter of 1982-1983 and will account for more than 10,000 burner retrofits," added Gathers.

According to Leslie Post, energy assistance program policy coordinator, Minnesota department of economic security, the strategy of the program is to use a portion of funds allocated to low income energy assistance for financing conservation retrofits," . . . making government funds an investment which keeps paying off in the form of energy consumption and eventually reduced need for energy assistance programs."

Alliance to save energy was founded in 1977 by Senator Charles H. Percy and Hubert H. Humphrey as a non-profit, tax exempt coalition of business, government, public interest and labor organizations dedicated to increasing the efficiency of energy use in the United States.

Project retrofit '82 included a training program in retrofit technology for service technicians at various locations around Minnesota. Specific eligibility requirements for the targeted counties and individual dwellings, together with the monitoring system utilizing pre and post retrofit combustion efficiency tests to determine the extent of conservation, were all a part of the program.

"Because of the program's anticipated success, plans are underway for expansion next year," according to Gathers.

According to Jerry Everett, "This new flame retension oil burner technology is now widely available all across Minnesota for any home heated by oil. The documented savings in fuel costs average above 20 per cent. The home heating oil industry expects extensive retrofitting activity throughout the winter season of 1983.

Pedestrian fatalities account for 16 per cent of all highway fatalities and five per cent of all traffic injuries.

PIE-EATING CONTEST was one of the more popular activities during the Goodridge high school sno-fest program Friday afternoon at the Goodridge school gymnasium. The chocolate cream pies had to be consumed without the use of hands or any eating utensils. Among the participants were these varsity cheerleaders who abandoned their femininity in favor of gluttony for a few fleeting seconds. Although they didn't win their contest, they were spirited (and messy) competitors. Left to right are Michelle Henrickson, Cherie Tharaldson, Cheri Nelson and Patty Grabowska.

VA Program Can Reduce Mortgage Cost

Veterans in northern Minnesota have been showing increased interest in a Veterans administration benefit which could substantially reduce their monthly home mortgage payments, a VA official said today.

The program permits a veteran who obtained a VA loan to refinance it with a VA-guaranteed loan at a lesser rate of interest without use of additional loan entitlement.

John O. Gallagher, loan guaranty officer at the VA regional office and insurance center, Fort Snelling, said the provision is designed to assist those veterans who bought their homes at high rates of interest and now see these rates slowly coming down. Effective November 15, the VA decreased its maximum interest rate permitted on their guaranteed home loans from 12½ to 12 per cent.

Gallagher said that the new loan amount cannot exceed the outstanding principal balance of the existing loan plus closing costs. Also, the interest rate on the new loan must be less than on the current loan.

"During the past two or three months, veterans across the country have been expressing interest in renegotiation or refinancing of their original comparatively high interest loans," he said. "This new VA provision could assist many of them in gaining lower interest rates."

However, he emphasized that a number of variables must be taken into account, such as possible closing costs and new bank fees and various types of mortgages. These would all determine if such a move would be beneficial to the veteran.

VA officials were also optimistic that the present relatively low interest rates would spur the sales of VA-acquired property since previously high interest rates were considered a major obstacle to such sales.

Veterans living in a 15-county area in Minnesota closest to the Fargo VA regional office can call toll-free 1-800-437-4668 to have questions about the program answered.

BN Centralized Service Starts Early In 1983

Minnesota department of transportation commissioner Richard Braun has recently adopted the recommendations of Minnesota hearing examiner Richard DeLong to allow Burlington Northern railroad to centralize its northwestern Minnesota freight agency service into a single agency in Crookston.

One exception is the city of Warroad where a local agent is being maintained due to the needs of Marvin Lumber company and the distance between Crookston and Warroad.

The commissioner's ruling allows the railroad to remove its agents from Fosston, Hallock, Roseau, Stephen, Thief River Falls and Warroad. Depots are to be closed in these communities plus Fertile, Hitterdal, Ada, Halstad, Erskine, Donaldson, Argyle, Red Lake Falls, Mentor and Beltrami. The centralized service from Crookston is tentatively scheduled to begin in mid-January of 1983.

Under the adopted ruling, Burlington Northern will enlarge its agency at Crookston to receive phone orders for railcars from shippers around the region via three toll-free phone lines. The traveling agent will also be based in Crookston to handle problems which cannot be resolved over the phone.

If experience proves that one traveling agent is inadequate to serve the area, the Minnesota commissioner of transportation may order the railroad to take remedial action. If incoming shipping orders can not be handled adequately, additional phone lines could be ordered installed.

Northwest regional development commission notes that the concerns, thoughts and opinions expressed by shippers, legislators, community, county and agri-business concerns throughout the public hearing process indicated a strong desire to maintain a viable rail system in the region. It will be important, the NWRDC says, for BN and regional shippers to cooperate in implementing the centralized agency system in order to adapt it to meet the transportation needs of the region.

Your Answers Wanted On Social Security

The bipartisan commission formed by President Reagan to study the financial crisis facing Social Security has unanimously concluded that the retirement system faces a funding shortfall of between $150-$200 billion over the next seven years. The commission has reported to the President and the nation listing the recommendations it believes will keep the fund solvent. Closing a gap this large will require some courageous actions on the part of our elected representatives

To date, Congress has shown no willingness to take the necessary action, mostly because the members are afraid of your reaction.

Well, suppose you were in your congressman's shoes and in order to perform your duties in a statesmanlike manner, you had to vote for a combination of measures that would, in total, close the Social Security funding gap. Let's suppose in this survey that the notion of simply borrowing funds from general revenues to pay Social Security bills is not a viable option since there are no funds in the Treasury from which to borrow.

The most frequently suggested options, which include many suggested by the commission, are listed below. Along side each choice is the appropriate amount that would be saved or raised from 1983 to 1989. Remember, in order to seriously address this problem, your choices must add up to at least $150 billion — preferably $200 billion!

1. Currently, civilian federal employees (including members of Congress) are excused from participating in Social Security. The same is true for the nonprofit employees and many state and local government workers. These employees should be required to participate..
Amount — $110 billion
Yes——— No———

2. Laws are already on the books to increase Social Security payroll taxes on both workers and businesses in 1985, 1986 and 1990. All of the tax increases should be put into effect as of Jan. 1, 1984.
Amount — $133 billion
Yes——— No———

3. Currently, Social Security Benefits are increased every July, at the same percentage that the Consumer Price Index (CPI) went up the previous year. We should delay these increases for six months.
Amount — $40 billion
Yes——— No———

4. We should skip the cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) in 1983, resuming it as usual in 1984.
Amount — $94 billion
Yes——— No———

5. We should still provide COLAs every year, but make these two per cent less than the increase in the CPI.
Amount — $103 billion
Yes——— No———

6. COLAs should be two per cent less than CPI for 1983 and 1984, but then equal to it in the years following.
Yes——— No———

7. Currently, Social Security retirement benefits are not subject to federal income tax. We should make benefits subject to tax, with the proceeds going into the Social Security trust funds. Note: Amount of tax paid if any would still depend on the person's total income from all sources.
Amount — $134 billion
Yes——— No———
Total amount approved———

A Washington Shell Game

And in the beginning, Congress created jobs. . .

To hear House Speaker Tip O'Neill and his allies talk, our legislators, if it were not for the stubbornness of Ronald Reagan, could ordain the end of unemployment by creating millions of public sector jobs.

But another famous saying, also freely paraphrased, more accurately portrays the real effect of these job programs: Congress giveth and Congress taketh away.

Perhaps the most misguided idea circulating in Washington today is that Congress can "do something" about unemployment by passing expensive make-work jobs programs. Various proposals have been bandied about, some costing billions of dollars, which even if they delivered what their sponsors promise, would produce only a small dent in the double-digit unemployment rate.

The problem is that they would not deliver as promised. Yes, there would be a few more billets to be claimed by enterprising bureaucrats and perhaps a few more pork barrel projects to be claimed by enterprising congressmen. But if you look beyond this surface effect, an entirely different picture comes to light.

If Uncle Sam decides to spend a billion dollars to "create" public sector jobs, there are only three places to get that money: from higher taxes, borrowing, or some other spending category in the budget. In each case, any positive effect produced by a jobs program would likely be cancelled out by a negative impact on jobs in those other areas.

For example, taxing American workers and businesses an additional billion dollars would destroy jobs by further depressing economic activity and inhibiting saving, investment and consumer spending — the very things that spur the creation of jobs in private enterprise. Adding a billion to the deficit would have the similar "cancelling-out" effect, because that's one less billion available to private borrowers to use for investment and large consumer purchases. Even a transfer of spending from another area of the budget (defense is most commonly mentioned) to a jobs program would likely eliminate as many jobs in one area as it creates in another.

In other words these so-called jobs bills are nothing of the sort. They are part of a standard Washington shell game, designed to give the impression that prosperity, jobs and happiness flow from Capitol Hill like a fountain, if only the President would be kind enough to let the Speaker turn on the spigot. In fact, the President is doing the unemployed a big favor by resisting these schemes which would add to the debt and the tax burden and delay recovery.

Some may say that I am articulating the old-fashioned trickle-down theory that the benefits of tax cuts, spending cuts, regulatory reform will eventually flow to the unemployed. But if this is trickle down, it's trickle down with a proven track record — unlike the liberal approach which rests its hopes on your tax dollars trickling down from Washington bureaucrats.

The most dependable wellspring of new jobs in our economy is and has always been our small businesses. These are the same enterprises that are most susceptible to high taxes, overregulation, excessive paperwork and high interest rates. If the new Congress really wants to contribute to helping the nation's unemployed, it will stop playing the old shell games and get serious about controlling runaway spending, clamping a lid on tax hikes and weeding our unnecessary regulation.

That's as good a jobs program as has ever been devised.

A Flexible Answer To Promote Healing

A new flexible bandage that clings even to elbows and knees.

Few homes are without them. Yet many people don't like to wear them. What are they? Bandages. Studies suggest women dislike them because they feel they're unattractive. Men may say that a bandage's lack of flexibility prevents it from lasting through an active day.

Nevertheless bandaging wounds can be an extremely important part of the healing process. Bandages provide protection and help to prevent reinfection or reinjury.

A new flexible fabric bandage is now on the market that's both lightweight and body-conforming. It promises to overcome those often-voiced objections to bandages.

Composed of cotton, nylon and polyester fibers, the new Curad Flexible Fabric bandages combine durability with stretchability that helps them stick to "bendable" places like elbows, knees, hands and feet. They're a product of the Curity First-Aid division of Colgate-Palmolive Company.

The new bandages even stick when wet. That, plus their flexibility, can make them the ideal choice for sports-minded people.

An extra plus is the unique "ouchless" Telfa pad designed not to stick to wounds or pull off scabs.

All these assets add up to one bandage that's apt to be the choice even among people who don't like to wear bandages.

Senator Gets Support For Fund Sharing

Calling it "a powerful statement" of support for general purpose federal-local aid, Senator Dave Durenberger, backed by a majority of his colleagues, introduced today a bill to reauthorize the general revenue sharing program.

As of January 21, Durenberger's bill carried 59 cosponsors from a broad political spectrum. The general revenue sharing program, which has been reauthorized twice in its 10-year history, is to expire on Sept. 30, 1983. Durenberger led the drive for early support, warning that delay could imperil local budget planning.

The bill is a simpoe three-year reauthorization, preserving the existing funding level of $4.6 billion per year and the current allocation formula.

"General revenue sharing has provided the very lifeblood of many local governments," Durenberger said. "And although its funding level has not increased in more than six inflationary years, many local governments find revenue sharing funds more essential today than ever before. That is a tribute to the program's effectiveness and to our state and local officials who have shown that they can use these Federal resources wisely. It would be tragically ironic to eliminate the program at this time."

Durenberger cited a National League of Cities survey in which over 40 per cent of all small cities named revenue sharing as their sole source of federal aid. In addition, most cities surveyed said they would have to cut services if the funding program were eliminated or reduced, and many said they would likely have to raise taxes.

General revenue sharing is also consistent with the President's new federalism initiative, Durenberger said, in that the program provides general purpose funding 'with a minimum of red tape and distorting federal intervention," allowing much local discretion in the use of the funds.

Durenberger conceded that general revenue sharing is "flawed and in need of improvement," calling for an in-depth examination of possible changes. "It is important, though, to find a vehicle early in this new Congress to demonstrate strong Senate support for the concept of revenue sharing before we become entangled in the effort to make adjustments," he added.

"I believe the support shown here for a simple reauthorization has made a powerful statement. We have made the point that, while there may well be room to improve the system or broaden it into a more comprehensive new federalism initiative, the existing general revenue sharing program remains the bottom line."

Durenberger Named To Ethics Committee

Senator Dave Durenberger recently was appointed to serve on the select committee on ethics for the U.S. Senate.

Durenberger, who served on the Minnesota state ethical practices board in the 1970s, will be one of six members on the committee.

Senate ethics committee is one of the newest committees in the senate. Committee membership is comprised of three members from each party. The ethics committee oversees enforcement of a code of official conduct for Senate members, officers and employees.

"Our main objective is to assure the public that their representatives are serving the public, and not their private interests," Durenberger said.

Among the areas that fall under the jurisdiction of the ethics committee are public financial disclosure for senators and officers, regulation of gifts to senators and their staffs from individuals or organizations, mailing provileges and certain campaign practices.

The most recent major case investigated by the select committee on ethics was that of Senator Harrison Williams Jr., New Jersey, who resigned from the senate during the ABSCAM investigation.

In addition to the ethics committee, Senator Durenberger serves on the Senate finance committee, Governmental affairs committee, environment and public works committee and the select committee on intelligence.

Courage Center Offers Services To Handicapped

In rehabilitation circles there is a saying: "We are all only temporarily able-bodied."

Everyone has, or will eventually develop, some degree of physical disability. Disabilities can range from simple annoyances such as wearing eyeglasses to using a wheelchair because of accident, illness or the physical limitations imposed by age.

When Pennington county residents with physical disabilities need help, it's available from Courage Center.

Courage Center is a nonprofit United Way rehabilitation organization headquartered in the Minneapolis suburb of Golden Valley. Each year more than 15,000 children and adults with physical disabilities or speech, hearing and vision impairments benefit from Courage Center programs, regardless of ability to pay.

Services available to Pennington county residents include a number of areas.

Camping is probably the best-known of Courage Center's programs are its two residential summer camps: Camp Courage near Maple Lake and Courage North on Lake George near Itasca state park.

Each year hundreds of children and adults with physical disabilities or speech and hearing problems converge on Camp Courage to have fun, experience nature and receive therapy for their special needs. Activities include overnight camping, swimming, horseback riding, fishing, nature study and more, all conducted in a fully-equipped, barrier-free setting.

In addition, Courage North operates a unique leadership training program for teenagers with hearing impairments. Campers are responsible for planning their own activities and helping maintain the camp, from which they develop a sense of independence and self-sufficiency.

For younger children, Courage Center sponsors local day camps in 23 towns in Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Wisconsin. Day campers socialize with other disabled children and partiaipate in enjoyable learning activities. Many day campers go on to attend Camp Courage and Courage North.

Courage residence is a transitional independent living facility housing 64 young men and women with severe physical disabilities. Young adults from throughout the country enter the program to learn the skills necessary to live more independently in the community.

Residents, with staff assistance, plan their own programs, choosing from a variety of Courage Center services including physical therapy, occupational therapy, educational services, vocational rehabilitation, driver training and more.

Courage center homecrafters allows homebound disabled adults to earn extra money while becoming skilled artisans through the homecrafters program. Courage Center homecrafters is a nonprofit service that teaches craft skills to disabled adults and then helps them market the items they produce. Clients are taught to meet rigorous quality standards so that all homecrafters gifts are good-looking and durable. Courage Center homecrafters markets handcarfted toys, clothing, woodcrafts and other items in shops in the Twin Cities and special shopping center, home and business sales in selected cities throughout Minnesota.

All the world is broughtt within reach for physically disabled amateur radio operators through membership in the Courage HANDI-HAM system. The system is an international network of able-bodied and disabled hams dedicated to giving as many handicapped people as possible the opportunity to enjoy amateur radio. Operating out of its headquarters at Courage Center, the system provides license study material, matches students with experienced "one-to-one" instructors and loans equipment to those not ready to purchase it.

The equipment that diasbled people need for mobility and other purposes can be expensive. For those who can't afford to buy them, Courage Center loans wheelchairs, walkers and other devices.

These and other services are available to Pennington county residents, thanks to support from the local United Way, as well as group, organization and individual contributions.

Last year, 28 people in Pennington county made use of Courage Center programs. For information write Courage Center 3915 Golden Valley Road, Golden Valley, Minnesota, 55422 or call 612-588-0811.

Auto Crashes Leading Cause Of Teen Deaths

Leading cause of death among teenagers in Minnesota is auto crashes involving alcohol. Figures compiled by the Minnesota department of public safety indicate that young adult drivers have a disproportionately high rate of traffic deaths when compared with the number of drivers. In 1981, drivers aged 19 or younger constituted 9.5 per cent of the licensed driver population in Minnesota. These same drivers were involved in 16.4 per cent of the fatal accidents.

Grim figures for 1981 in the state indicate that 60 per cent of all teenage drivers who were killed in traffic crashes and who were tested for blood alcohol concentration had consumed alcohol prior to the crashes (Coroners test all drivers who die within four hours of a traffic crash for the presence of alcohol). There were 143 teenagers, aged 15-19, killed in traffic crashes in 1981, 64 of whom were drivers. Another 8,748 teenagers, aged 15-19, were injured in traffic accidents.

New pilot project called "The Control Factor" aims at giving these hard facts to teens across Minnesota, along with techniques in how to "control" situations where there is peer pressure to drink and drive.

"Control Factor" is conducted by the Minnesota department of education and cosponsored by the Minnesota department of public safety and the Minnesota safety council with funding from the national highway traffic safety administration.

Participants are also instructed in how to successfully return to their local schools and instruct their fellow students about the hazards of drinking and driving.

Five "Control Factor" leadership seminars were conducted in the spring of 1982 with 120 youth leaders and 45 school districts participating. The teen leaders (who had been nominated by school officials) in turn conducted individual programs reaching 1,545 students around the state. Those students were surveyed before and after the "Control Factor" instruction. Their test results showed a significant positive change in their attitudes toward drinking and driving.

Ten more leadership candidate training programs took place during the first three weeks of November.

Tom Boerner, director of public safety's office of traffic safety, said that "Appeals to students' sense of responsibility, their fear of failure to maintain self-control or their desire to be in control of a social situation, plus the power of positive peer pressure against drinking and driving seem to be the control factors which have the greatest potential for impacting Minnesota teens who might drink and drive."

Sewage Treatment Important Duty

One of our most important weapons against water pollution could be turned against us if it's improperly handled. This weapon is a wastewater treatment plant, reports the Minnesota pollution control agency.

A wastewater treatment plant is essentially a water-cleaning factory that receives the sewage produced by a city's residents and industries. It cleans this contaminated water so it can be returned to our rivers, lakes and streams without polluting them. Using screens, filters, biological action and chemical processes, a treatment plant removes a variety of human and industrial pollutants, such as bacteria, grit, organic matter, chemicals and viruses.

Like all factories, wastewater plants must be properly operated and maintained in order to function efficiently, and this requires dedicated, well-trained operators. Unfortunately, federal government statistics suggest that as many as four out of 10 sewage plants are not cleaning wastewater as well as they can, in part because they lack qualified operators and proper maintenance.

This means the most expensive public facility in many communities is being allowed to deteriorate through neglect — hundreds of thousands or millions of tax dollars going down the drain. In an extreme situation, an improperly run plant can seriously pollute the water.

The need for skilled operators becomes increasingly urgent as Minnesotans create more wastewater, forcing existing plants to operate closer to capacity. At the same time, the Minnesota pollution control agency (MPCA) has less federal money to distribute for replacing and improving treatment plants. While the agency funded 190 new projects in 1980, it was only able to allocate money for 13 new construction projects this year.

Because our state's sewage plants need skilled staffs to meet these challenges, the MPCA offers training, advice and encouragement to plant operators. More than 20 seminars are offered annually by the agency's operator training unit with courses ranging from basic wastewater treatment to workshops on specific types of equipment. Tuition fees for these seminars are a good investment, saving as much as $90 in treatment and maintenance costs for each dollar of training, according to a U.S. environmental protection agency study.

The MPCA staff also works with designers and builders to create training programs for starting up new plants and "owner's manuals" for their daily operation.

Poorly-trained operators can turn the best plant into a polluter, but conscientious, qualified operators form the backbone of the agency's program to stop water pollution. Recognizing this important role, the MPCA presents annual awards to cities and operators that have maintained high standards of wastewater treatment. These awards are also to encourage other cities and operators to meet state standards at their sewage plants.

There are occasions when a treatment plant is neglected by an operator or city that doesn't recognize its importance. In these instances, the MPCA takes enforcement action to protect public health and the receiving waters. The agency's regional and enforcement staff identify the plant's problem, tell the city and operator how to correct it, and help get the plant working properly. If the city or operator won't cooperate, the agency may have to take legal action to stop the plant from polluting.

Even with the best intentions, plant operators can't do their best job without community support. If you have major problems with your automobile, you take it to a skilled mechanic with the proper tools for the job. Similarly, our sewage plant operators need proper training and funds to do required maintenance and buy needed equipment.

How can you as a citizen help keep your sewage plant working well? The following are some possibilities:

+ Attend community budget meetings, and make sure money is available for repairing and replacing equipment. The most expensive sewage plant can fail to do its job for want of a minor repair.

+ Encourage your community officials to provide adequate laboratory facilities for testing how well your sewage plant is working.

+ Make sure your community hires conscientious, qualified operators and pays them salaries that reflect the valuable service they provide. These people help keep Minnesota's water clean.

+ Make certain elected officials provide operators with adequate training.

+ If your operator has many duties, encourage city officials to give priority to operating and maintaining the sewage plant.

+ Let operators know their work is appreciated. Morale affects their dedication to their jobs.

+ Pay attention to any problems at your sewage plant, and bring them to the attention of your elected officials. Officials will be quicker to solve problems if voters are concerned.

Minnesota's wastewater treatment plants are an essential part of protecting the water we depend on for drinking water, recreation, tourism and commerce. With the help of active community support these plants can continue to perform this important role.

PROGRESS IN MEDICINE

TENS: One Way To Pain Relief

A patient awakens in a postoperative recovery room to experience almost no pain from the incision. At home, a victim of chronic back pain relaxes for the first time in years without the debilitating side effects of drugs.

These are but two examples of a quiet revolution that's occurring in hospitals, clinics and at home, thanks to innovative devices and aids that were mostly unknown a decade ago.

One, the TENS or transcutaneous electric nerve stimulator, is a small, hand-held device which transmits minute electrical impulses through electrodes attached to the skin. The effect reduces and sometimes eliminates pain.

One TENS model, the Gemini, is half the size of a pack of cigarettes yet delivers its harmless, adjustable alternating waveform through one or two pairs of electrodes. Sufferers of low back pain can carry the Gemini in a pocket or clipped to clothing during the day, enjoying complete freedom and relief from discomfort.

TENS is a development of Neuromedics, a subsidiary of Intermedics of Freeport, Texas. It's one of an array of medical products made possible through advances in electronics.

Until recently, drugs and massage were the prime agents for pain alleviation. Drugs included many undesirable side effects, ranging from drowsiness to addiction.

Massage was often less effective and involved costly and time-consuming visits to hospitals or therapists.

Now, thanks to such developments as TENS, patients have an attractive form of therapy with ease of application and lack of undesirable side effects.

Electrodes placed strategically on the body's nerve centers offer noninvasive and nonnarcotic relief from pain.

Close Section 8 Hockey Race

There have been a number of close Section 8 high school hockey races over the years, but 1982-83 is shaping up to be one of the most unpredictable seasons ever. Surprising results are altering nearly everybody's final-finish predictions on a weekly basis.

Bemidji had the hot hand at the start of the year and people were ready to concede a first place finish in the final regular season standings to the Lumberjacks. But a string of losses to Section 8 rivals Fergus Falls, East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls has put Bemidji in a hole.

That's not to say Bemidji isn't among the favorites when talking about the Section 8 tournament itself starting Feb. 25 at East Grand Forks. The Lumberjacks, Fergus Falls, Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks and Roseau are all legitimate contenders. Lake of the Woods is having a fine year, too, and could present a bundle of trouble for any of the leaders, as will teams like Warroad, Crookston and Detroit Lakes.

Detroit Lakes coach Duane Earnest told Ralph Anderson of the Becker County Record that Fergus Falls is the Section 8 favorite at this point.

"Every team in the section has certain strengths and weaknesses," said Earnest, "but Fergus Falls perhaps has the fewest weaknesses. They have depth, with possibly four lines that can play at any level, and good defensemen. Their goaltending has been up and down and that may be their biggest weakness."

Bemidji, said Earnest, has an excellent team, but says the Lumberjacks are small and have trouble with the physical game. Roseau, he added, has tradition on its side, but lacks the one outstanding player of the Don Smith caliber at Bemidji. The Rams have three good lines, he pointed out, but notes, "I would say that Roseau's question marks are defense and goaltending."

Thief River Falls is a potential section champion, indicated Earnest, but with some reservation. "They seem to be rolling along pretty strong, but they needed overtime to beat Warroad and I understand they lack consistent goaltending."

It's obvious that Section 8 hockey is going to be providing an awful lot of entertainment for northwestern Minnesota fans over the next month or so.

Miscellaneous

+ Thief River Falls' Bob Fitzgerald scored in a 7-1 Saturday win and former Prowler Dave Geatz had an assist in a 4-1 Friday victory as the Bemidji State University hockey team swept a weekend series from Wisconsin-River Falls in Bemidji. The sweep enabled the Beavers to replace the Falcons as the NCHA leaders with 18 points to 17 for the losers.

+ Lincoln high school graduate Steve Enderlein, a WCCO radio all-state basketball player during the 1978-79 season with the Prowlers, is a reserve guard at the Northwestern College basketball team in the Twin Cities suburb of Roseville. Northwestern officials said he's come off the bench a number of times to spark the 9-6 Eagles. In a recent game against Lake Head University Enderlein came off the bench to score 15 points in the second half, and as the Eagles went into a delay game to protect a lead, he converted 9 of 11 free throws in his best effort of the season. Northwestern is the three-time Upper Midwest Basketball Conference champion and a qualifier last year to the National Christian College Division II tournament at Springfield, Mo. where they reached the finals before losing to Baptist Bible of Missouri 55-50.

+ Ken Spaeth of Mahnomen, who played at the University of Nebraska as a tight end the same time Thief River Falls' Kent Smith was a defensive back for the Cornhuskers, will be trying to land a spot on the Boston Breakers of the newly-formed United States Football League. He'll head to Florida in early February for a tryout. The USFL plans to start its first season March 6.

+ Golden Valley Lutheran, a Northland community college nemisis in post-season state tournament play in recent years, figures to be a championship contender again in 1982-83. "We're looking to win our sixth straight division championship," coach Steve Dove of the Royals told Dave Irvin of the North Hennepin Post. "If we keep progressing, we can realistically get back in the national tournament this year. If we play the way we are now we couldn't do it. But if we keep progressing we have the talent to win the state and region championships."

Schedule This Week

Fri., Jan. 28 — UMC at Itasca, Northland at Brainerd.

Sat., Jan. 29 — Northland at Itasca, UMC at Brainerd.

There are six games scheduled Friday and Saturday for the basketball teams at Lincoln high school and Northland community college, but only one of them — a Saturday night match-up between the Prowlers and Detroit Lakes in the Lincoln gym — will be played in Thief River Falls. The others are all on the road.

Northland men and women will be playing Minnesota Community College Conference (MCC) games Friday night at Brainerd and Saturday afternoon vs. Itasca at Grand Rapids. The Northwomen, 4-6 for the year and 1-3 in league play, will be on the court at 6 p.m. Friday and at 12-noon Saturday. The Northmen, 11-1 for the year and 4-0 against MCCC opponents, will play at 8 p.m. Friday and at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Brainerd games will be the first Northwest Division contests for the Northmen and Northwomen, whose MCCC records to date have been based upon play against Northeast Division teams. Top two finishers in each of the four divisions across the state earn post-season state tournament berths in both men's and women's play.

After the Itasca game, the final five Northland outings of the 1982-83 season will be against Northwest Division rivals. Northland will play Thurs., Feb. 3, at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC); Mon., Feb. 7, vs. Fergus Falls; Sat., Feb. 12, vs. Brainerd; Mon., Feb. 14, at Fergus Falls; and Thurs., Feb. 17, vs. UMC. All of those dates feature men's and women's doubleheaders.

Last weekend at home, the Northmen swept Vermilion 93-88 and Mesabi 78-69 while the Northwomen lost to Vermillion 95-50 and fell to Mesabi 76-53.

Sophomore Matt Fontes of the Northmen is the leading scorer in the state with a 33.3-point average and fellow sophomore Scott McKeever ranks 14th on the scoring shart with a 19.5 figure. Fontes is also No. 1 on the state field goal percentage chart with a .771 effort on a 54-for-70 shooting clip. Duncan Gregory, the third member of Northland's sophomore tri-captains, ranks second in the state assist department with 9.5 per game.

Meanwhile, the Lincoln high school boys basketball team, 4-5 for the year, will make a Friday trip to Mahnomen for an 8 p.m. game and will return home to host defending North Half Region 8AA champion Detroit Lakes Saturday at 7:30 p.m. That'll be the only home appearance for the Prowlers between now and Feb. 18.

Detroit Lakes is coming off a 55-51 Friday night Mid-State Conference win at Staples where co-captain Bryan Harris led the Lakers with 18 points and was joined in double figures by co-captain Dennis Priem with 14 and Doug Imholte with 10.

If Thief River Falls harbors any hopes of a favorable seed in post-season tournament play the Prowlers will have to come up with some wins against North Half Region 8AA competition. Thief River Falls is just 1-3 against those teams to date, beating Bemidji but losing to Moorhead, Crookston and East Grand Forks. Beginning with the Detroit Lakes game, six of the final eight Thief River Falls starts will be against North Half Region 8AA opponents: Sat., Jan. 29, vs. Detroit Lakes; Sat., Feb. 5, at Crookston; Fri., Feb. 11, at Fergus Falls; Tues., Feb. 15, at Park Rapids; Fri., Feb. 18, vs. Bemidji; and Fri., Feb. 25, vs. East Grand Forks. The Prowlers will also have home games Sat., Feb. 19, vs. Middle River and Fri., March 4, vs. Warren, a pair of Region 8A teams.

Northland community college hockey team, featuring a 4-1 record at home but an opposite 1-4 mark on the road, returns to the friendly confines of the Thief River Falls sports arena this week for three Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) games.

Tonight (Wednesday) Northland hosts rival University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) at 7:30. The Trojans handed the Northmen their only home ice loss of the 1982-83 season, a come-from-behind 7-6 overtime victory two weeks ago. Last Wednesday, UMC, ranked No. 5 in national polls announced this week by the NJCAA, routed Northland 9-3 at Crookston.

This weekend Northland will entertain Rainy River in a two-game series, with games planned Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday afternoon at 1. The Northmen and Voyageurs started the year against each other back in mid-December when Northland won the series opener at International Falls 5-4 in overtime and Rainy River pulled out a last-second 6-5 decision the next afternoon.

After losing at Crookston last Wednesday, Northland went to Hibbing where the previously winless Cardinals stunned the Northmen 15-2, 5-2.

That left Northland at 5-5 for the year in the struggle to finish among the first four teams in the six-team MCCC standings who earn post-season tournament berths.

First-year Northland coach Tony Dorn, Jr. mentioned the possibility of wholesale line changes after the disastrous week on the road, but changed his mind after a sharp practice Monday and will make only minor alterations in the line-up.

"There's no doubt in my mind there is ability on the team," explained Dorn. "It's just that somewhere along the line the intensity left them. I guess that's my job as coach to motivate these guys."

One player change will find Fergus Falls freshman Vic Evavold moving from a forward to defense while Fargo North freshman Jeff Toussaint moves into regular duty up front.

Prowlers Shut Out East Grand Forks

Just when everybody thought Thief River Falls had reached a defensive peak last Saturday with a 3-1 win over high-scoring Bemidji, the Prowlers went right back out and did themselves one better Tuesday by shutting out defending Section 8 high school hockey champoin East Grand Forks 4-0 before an appreciative sports arena crowd.

Solid-checking forwards; puck-clearing defensemen; and the goaltending of senior Kerry Wollin produced the Prowlers' first shutout of the 1982-83 season as they ran their current unbeaten streak to ten games and upped their record to 9-3-1.

Four different Thief River Falls players scored goals — two in each of the first two periods — as the Prowlers made amends for a 4-4 overtime tie at East Grand Forks Jan. 4, the only blemish on their record since three season-opening losses back in early December.

"Thief River has a real nice team," pointed out East Grand Forks coach Tony Palmiscno. "Obviously right now they're the team to beat in Section 8."

It was the first time Palmiscno has seen his Green Wave shut out in his four years as head coach. "Right now we're a frustrated hockey team," he said. And a big part of the frustration has to do with the absence of senior Jeff Bowen and sophomore Corey Olson, who have 25 of the 54 East Grand Forks goals this winter. Bowen is out for the season after running into a goal post recently at Bemidji and Olson is serving a two-week suspension. Bowen scored twice in that controversial first-game tie when the Prowlers' apparent game-winning goal in overtime was killed by a quick whistle.

Assigned to handle the post-game interview for the Prowlers, assistant coach Dave Peterson said the win was "a combination of three things: they had a key player out; a clash between their defensive style and our offensive style; and just plain desire."

The clash in styles, explained Peterson, was the Green Wave Penchant for playing "high in our end. We'd cover their wingers and send our forecheckers in. We've been working hard at that, and its worked well for us."

Mitch Semanko, Tom Kenville, Ryan Bakke and Chris Jorde were the Thief River Falls goal-scorers.

Semanko got his right away. East Grand Forks lost the puck trying to break out of their own end and Semanko went in on goalie Joel Duray alone, beating him from close range just 74 seconds into the game.

Kenville blasted a power play goal past Duray from about 15 feet at 4:43 to make it 2-0.

Bakke scored on a shorthanded situation early in the second period. He managed to elude a desparate lunge by East Grand Forks defenseman Craig Mack to pull him down on a partial breakaway and scored from point-blank range at 3:11.

Just 1:21 later Jorde made it 4-0 on a nice feed from Kenville, scoring on a close-in backhand at 4:32. Jorde, a spare forward who sees limited playing time, made the most of an opportunity to play, replacing Tim Bottem on a line with Kenville and Semanko when Bottem hobbled off the ice after blocking a hard shot. He missed only two shifts, though, with Jorde scoring just moments after stepping onto the ice.

Meanwhile, Wollin, who lost a shutout bid against Bemidji in the third period, turned aside all 28 East Grand Forks shots to lower his goals-against average over the last six games to an impressive 1.67 figure.

"It must have been a good game to watch," offered Peterson. For the Prowlers, yes. For the Green Wave, who are now 5-5-3, no.

Greenbush Rally Tops TRF 54-51 . . .

Losing Streak Continues For Lincoln Girls Squad

Frustration of a seven-game losing streak hit a new low Monday when the Lincoln high school girls basketball team saw a seven-point lead evaporate in the final two minutes as the Prowlers dropped a 54-51 decision at Greenbush.

"I really thought we had that one," sighed Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer. "It was a good game. We played about as well as could have, except for the last two minutes. Things were going our way until then."

Greenbush had opened with a 16-6 first quarter lead thanks to the inside play of Karen Sovde and Tammy Gjovik. Shooting 52 per cent from the field (13-for-25), Greenbush had a 29-24 halftime lead. Thief River Falls finally managed to overtake the Tigers 41-37 in the third quarter, but the Prowlers surrendered 17 fourth quarter points as their record fell to 2-8 for the year.

Ahead 54-47, Thief River Falls twice got burned when Greenbush dribbled through its half-court trap defense and set up Sovde for easy shots. The Tigers were much more effective with their press, forcing a pair of bad Thief River Falls passes that led to the game-winning points at the end.

Sovde finished as the game's leading scorer with 24 points. Guard Michelle Olson had 17 for the Prowlers and Lynette Huot contributed 12.

Greenbush wound up shooting 45 per cent from the field (22-for-49) and 56 per cent at the free throw line (10-for-18), including a 7-for-8 effort in the fourth quarter. Thief River Falls shot 31 per cent from the field (22-for-70) and 54 per cent at the line (7-for-13). Greenbush had a 34-25 rebound advantage and also topped the turnover charts 27-20.

Thief River Falls junior varsity improved its record to 4-6 with a 49-33 win over Greenbush.

Winless since Dec. 11, Thief River Falls will wait until Tuesday to visit Fertile-Beltrami for an 8 p.m. game.

Sat., Jan. 29 — Lake of the Woods at Badger, Littlefork-Big Falls at Warroad.

Middle River went over the .500 mark for the first time since a season-opening 94-53 win over Roseau with a 63-58 North Border Conference high school basketball victory over those same Rams Tuesday at Roseau, lifting the Skippers to 5-4 for the year.

But it wasn't easy, according to Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We played just well enough to win," he said. "We didn't play very aggressively."

Roseau led 12-11 and 30-28 at the first two quarter stops before Middle River took a 49-46 third quarter edge.

Middle River could have put the game away in the fourth quarter, but instead the Skippers missed five times on the front ends of 1-and-1 free throw opportunities to keep Roseau close. The Rams, though, weren't able to take advantage of the opportunity.

"Our field goal shooting was pretty good, but our free throw shooting was terrible," confirmed Sparby.

Middle River shot 54 per cent from the field (28-for-52) but only 37 per cent at the free throw line (7-for-19). Roseau shot 42 per cent from the field (27-for-64) and 67 per cent at the line (4-for-6). Roseau had a 38-31 rebound edge and topped the turnover charts 15-9.

The Rams' Greg Welin led all scorers with 29 points. Kevin Roppe had 21 for the Skippers, mostly from the outside. Sparby also cited the play of freshman Tom Neumann, who did a good job for the shorthanded Skippers. They were operating without 6-2 Dale Olson, a strong rebounder out because of illness, and had a big part of their bench strength erased by two-week MSHSL rules violations suspensions.

"We were hurting for numbers," admitted Sparby, who wasn't able to use pressure defense, the team's best weapon, because of the shortage in personnel.

Middle River will host Grygla Friday.

Skippers Are Unbeaten With Victory At Grygla

Unbeaten status of Middle River remained intact Tuesday as the Skippers posted a 47-36 North Border Conference win at Grygla.

It was an 18-18 standoff at halftime before Middle River went ahead 34-28 in the third quarter.

"We were in the game all the way," reported Grygla coach Bill Raduenz, whose team took a 55-28 pounding at the hands of Middle River back in early December. "We're real satisfied with our effort."

Paula Rantanen led a balanced Middle River attack with 15 points, while Kari Skoglund scored 14 and Diane Black 10. Kathy Foss and Judy Verbout had 14 and 13 points, respectively, for Grygla.

Middle River shot an impressive 51 per cent from the field (18-for-35) while Grygla shot only 29 per cent (15-for-52). The Skippers shot 52 per cent at the free throw line (11-for-21) where the Eagles shot 75 per cent (6-for-8). Rebounds were even at 29-apiece according to Grygla charts and the Eagles topped the turnover figures 19-16.

The loss ended a four-game losing streak for Grygla, 8-4 for the year. The Eagles will be at Roseau Monday. Middle River, 11-0, will visit Badger Thursday and will entertain Warroad Saturday afternoon in a make-up contest.

Middle River coach Tom Neibauer was far from satisfied with the Skippers' play. "We had way too many turnovers," he said. The Skippers, though, are still trying to shake a flu bug that has been slowing the team most of January.

Badger 37

Marshall County Central exploded for 30 second quarter points Tuesday en route to a 78-37 home court North Border Conference win over Badger.

Ahead 15-6 at the end of the first quarter, the 10-1 Nordics ran up a 45-12 halftime bulge.

"I was pleased with the offensive output," acknowledged Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde, who watched four Nordics hit double figures: Brenda Dahl with 24, Sue Olson 20, Shelly Anderson 12 and Nancy Nelson 10. Joni Nelson had 17 for the losers.

Marshall County Central shot 41 per cent from the field (32-for-77) and 47 per cent at the free throw line (14-for-29). Badger shot 33 per cent from the field (15-for-45) and 70 per cent at the line (7-for-10). The Nordics had a big 47-22 edge on the boards, including 21 offensive rebounds, and forced Badger into 43 turnovers. The Nordics lost the ball 21 times. Olson had 19 rebounds to go along with her 20 points.

Playing without two starters — Julie Gustafson, who is sick, and Debbie Peterson, who is sidelined indefinitely with a knee injury — the Nordics nevertheless hit their offensive high of the year. They'll be at Hallock Thursday and at Lake of the Woods Saturday.

Joe Blankenfeld, Bob Huot and Chad Bottem also scored for the winners, who led 1-0 and 2-0 in the first two period stops.

Goalies Al Sorum, Lee Generux and Steve Solheim combined to stop 21 of the 22 shots by East Grand Forks, a 3-1 winner in their first meeting earlier this year. Thief River Falls is 8-4-1 for the season.

On Saturday, Thief River Falls beat Fosston 72-50 but was out-scored by Fergus Falls 74-50 in the double dual encounter at the Franklin middle school pool. The Otters, in turn, decisioned the Greyhounds 74-36.

Thief River Falls is 2-7 in dual meet competition, with both wins coming against Fosston.

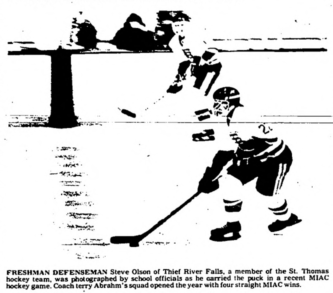
EAST GRAND FORKS goalie Joel Duray made the glove save, then had to contend with Thief River Falls forward Mitch Semanko, who bumped into the Green Wave netminder in the first period of the Section 8 high school hockey game played Tuesday in the Thief River Falls sports arena. Semanko scored the game's first goal in the Prowlers' 4-0 victory.



FRESHMAN DEFENSEMAN Steve Olson of Thief River Falls, a member of the St. Thomas hockey team, was photographed by school officials as he carried the puck in a recent MIAC hockey game. Coach terry Abrahm's squad opened the year with four straight MIAC wins.

DNR NEWS

Arrest of 41 suspected violators of the state game and fish laws during December under the Turn In Poachers (TIP) program brought to 310 the total arrests through the program for 1982, the DNR announced.

The program offers cash rewards and guarantees anonymity to citizens who provide the DNR enforcement division with information that leads to an arrest.

A total of $4,150 in reward money was paid out during December, bringing the total for the year to $16,240. Officials noted that many persons refuse the reward offer.

Greatest number of arrests for the year (175) were for violations of the deer hunting regulations. Fish, waterfowl and small game violations followed in that order.

Record Fish

Minnesota anglers who caught state record fish during 1982 will be honored at an awards ceremony on Jan. 28 in St. Paul.

Department of Natural Resources will present record fish awards to nine anglers at a ceremony at DNR headquarters in the Centennial Building at 1 p.m.

Presenting the awards will be Commissioner of Natural Resources Joseph Alexander. "This is the fourth consecutive year we have made these awards," he said. "Our intent is to encourage the idea that fishing is a quality sport and not a mere 'meat gathering' enterprise."

A couple of familiar names appear in the following list of new record catches. Michael Chiovitte if the son of the current walleye record holder, LeRoy Chiovitte is the son of the current walleye record holder, LeRoy Chiovitte of Hermantown.

Dan Gapen is a tackle manufacturer and outdoor writer whose name has been prominent for many years in connection with natural resource causes.

Record catches in Minnesota in 1982 included:

Michael Chiovitte, 8-lbs., 9-oz. Atlantic Salmon, Lake Superior; Norman Flagstad, 14-lb., 1 oz. Burbot Eelpout, Lake of the Woods; Edward Krawiecki, 5 lb., 15 oz. American Eel, Mississippi River; Dan Swanson, 1 lb., 5.5 oz. Black Bullhead, Big Birch Lake, Todd County; Timothy Clark, 7 lb., 6-oz. Silver Redhorse, Mississippi River; Kidd Snowden, 9-lb., 3-oz. River Redhorse, Mississippi River; Dan Gapen, Sr., 5-lb., 7.5-oz. Shorthead Redhorse, Mississippi River; Douglas Fullerton, 16-lb., 12-oz. Longnose Gar, St. Croix River; Richard Nesgoda, 2-lb. Goldeye, Minnesota River

The ceremony will be held in the DNR conference room on the Third Floor of the Centennial Building.

Timber Sales

Volume of timber sold and harvested from state owned land last year declined 14,200 cords from 1981 but still amounted to more than 400,000 cords, the Department of Natural Resources reports.

Sales produced $3,270,000 for the state treasury, down $55,000 from the previous year.

Department foresters blamed the decline on a general reduction in economic activity during 1982, but they noted that the value of timber harvested during the first quarter of fiscal year 1983 ($452,700) was nearly double the figure for the same period in 1982.

Fishing Meeting

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources has scheduled another public meeting to hear the views of fishermen, in addition to those announced earlier.

DNR announced that a meeting will be held in Bemidji on Tuesday, Feb. 8, in the Hagg-Sauer Hall of Bemidji State University, starting at 7 p.m.

Commissioner of Natural Resources Joseph Alexander said the meetings are aimed at obtaining the opinion of sportsmen regarding fishing regulations and fisheries management.

"At the same time," he said, "it gives us a chance to explain the reasons for our policies, management measures and rules."

Dave Gobell had 11 points for the winners, with Jeff Anderson and Tracy Peterson getting 10 each. Thief River Falls will be at South junior high in Grand Forks Thursday for a 4 p.m. game.

Game Fishing Group Plans EGF Banquet

Save Our Game Fish Committe has announced plans for a sport anglers banquet Thurs., Feb. 3, at 7 p.m. in the East Grand Forks Eagles Club.

Featured speaker will be Senator Collin Peterson of Detroit Lakes, a chairman of the sub-committee on natural resources.

Tickets for the dinner, which will include roast beef, barbecue ribs and chicken, are priced at $20, with proceeds going to the club in its efforts to lobby for new and better fishing legislation in Minnesota.

Tickets may be obtained from members of several sports clubs throughout the area, including the Red River Chapter of Muskie, Inc.; Stephen Sportsman's Club; Lake of the Woods Resort Association; Western Roseau County Sportsman's Club; Red Lake Falls Sportsman's Club; Argyle Sportsman's Club; Agassiz Rod and Gun Club of Newfolden; and Eastern Kittson County Sportsman's Club; plus Jim's Fishing Headquarters of Roseau; Wahl Bros. Live Bait of Greenbush; and Roger Kovar, banquet coordinator, 1032, So. E. Rhinehart, Dr., East Grand Forks, MN 56721.

DNR Has Sale Of Confiscated Outdoor Gear

Sale of confiscated fish and wildlife, furs, traps, guns and other items of hunting and fishing equipment produced $118,818 for the state game and fish fund during 1982, the Department of Natural Resources reports.

Most of the fish, animals, furs and equipment were taken from violators of the state's hunting, fishing and trapping laws. However, the figure also includes the sale of deer and other wildlife killed in auto accidents.

Deposits from the sale of car-killed deer and other perishable fish and wildlife produced $68,448 for the fund last year.

Sales of confiscated furs netted $20,895. Another $976 resulted from the sale of confiscated traps, and the sale of confiscated firearms, rods and reels and other hunting and fishing gear produced $28,497.

Enforcement officials noted that among the confiscated furs were 208 pine marten pelts, indicating a significant recovery of a species once considered very scarce.

Trout Fishing Regulations Noted By DNR

Trout anglers are reminded that the winter season for stream trout and lake trout in lakes outside, or partly outside of the Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness in northeastern Minnesota opened January 15.

For lakes that lie entirely within the BWCAW the season opened January 1.

Season for fishing of both stream trout and lake trout in lakes outside, or partly outside, the BWCAW will close March 15. However, the season on lakes entirely within the BWCAW will close March 31.

Department of Natural Resources listed the following lakes as lying partly outside of the BWCAW: Alton, Snowbank, Seagull, Magnetic, Clearwater and Ram.

STRAIGHT TALK

Albert D. Hattis, Associate Professor of Business and Holder of the Schwan Endowed Chair for Free Enterprise, Southwest State University, Marshall

Our health care system is in serious trouble. The costs have gone through the roof and are on their way into outer space. Our health care system violates every rule of the free enterprise system, and gouges us much like the mob using its protection racket.

Let's begin by recognizing that the friendly and interested family doctor has, for the most part, disappeared at about the same time that Dr. Marcus Welby went off TV. He has been replaced by a businessman who sells us medical services, is computerized, never visits a patient at home, and knows about all tax shelters and the latest stock quotes.

This new businessman must realize that in making this change he is now subject to the same rules that guide all other businesses in our society. His second place of work, a hospital, has to be operated efficiently, just like other places of business.

The concealment of what has been inflating medical care charges at more than double the normal inflation rate has occurred primarily because of the third party payment system. Insurance companies, including Blue Cross-Blue Shield (which covers half of the insured American public), make payments for almost 190,000,000 Americans. . . . government takes care of a good many of the balance.

There are 8,000,000 Americans who get full medical service on a prepaid basis (fixed monthly payment) from health maintenance organizations (HMO's).

Blue Cross and Blue Shield are interesting organizations. Blue Cross is sponsored by hospitals and pays hospital bills. Blue Shield is sponsored by doctors and pays doctor bills. The sponsors have a good deal going . . . . they just encourage higher rates, some of which they develop and provide to the "Blues." As the charges go up, at twice the inflation rate, the "Blues" and other insurance carriers just increase our monthly insurance rates, some paid by our employers, some paid by us. Most of us never connect the health care industry with the ever increasing health insurance premiums we pay.

A study indicates how inefficient the system really is. Average cost data on different ailments from different hospitals in one major metropolitan area tell the story. For example, an appendectomy could cost, for hospital services alone, from $1,462 to $3,603, excluding doctor bills, depending upon the hospital. The doctor charges, covering surgery and anesthesia, for the appendectomy, in addition to the hospital bill, could vary from $700 to $1,700. A normal child delivery hospital bill, in the same metropolitan area, could vary from $666 to $1,303, with doctor charges ranging from $250 to $900.

If we had to pay these bills from our hard earned checks, directly, it wouldn't be long before we were a lynch mob, based on what has been happening, with charges escalating faster than the OPEC price of oil. The hospitals expand, increase their overhead, pay fantastic wage levels and the doctors just multiply their charges, assuming that we need the care and will pay whatever is charged without complaining, primarily because most of the money comes from us, indirectly, through an insurance carrier. With more doctors and hospital beds, and less business, the doctors have increased rates to maintain their income levels, and the hospitals follow the same practice.

I don't like having my pocket picked by a careless industry which abuses every principle of our free enterprise system. I certainly didn't like it when doctor rates skyrocketed, but I knew that these rates would encourage the production of more doctors, and when the supply increased and we started getting competition, the rates would start to come down to earth. I didn't like it when hospital rates skyrocketed, but I believed that these rates would come down once we got better management with tighter cost control.

Now that we are getting competition with more doctors than we will need coming out of medical schools, the doctors want us to turn off the medical schools and reduce the number of graduates so that they can continue their OPEC-type ways. The hospitals have lots of excuses for not responding to a situation of so many empty beds that the higher rates are causing as we use hospitals less and less. Many hospitals have begun to advertise to stir up "business." Many hospitals have set up separate corporations to operate medical office buildings and side businesses, to keep the profits from reducing costs and charges.

It is time for us to put a stop to the health care industry monopolistic practices that gouge us more than OPEC and the oil industry. It is time to expect our doctors and hospitals to respond to the same supply-demand pressures that effect everyone else and learn to live a little leaner. The situation is so far out of hand that the alternative to a voluntary solution is an industry regulated and controlled like other monopolies, with appointed rate commissions to protect the public interest. I hope this doesn't need to happen. That really depends on the greed of those who continue the health care industry!

That's Straight Talk!

Lyle Mandt too has been seriously ill with the flue but is feeling better now. Abegail Chervestad had the misfortune of cutting off the tips of her fingers and was rished to the hospital and is doing fine. Therese Radniecki has also had the flu bug for a week but is getting over it now.

The first musical advertising jingle ever aired was for Wheaties. A barbershop quartet — made up of an undertaker, a bailiff, a printer, and a businessman — sang the tune for the first time over the radio on Dec. 24, 1929. Each singer was paid $6 a week for his efforts, and they sang the jingle for six years.

Unity Service Held Sunday At Redeemer

Approximately 300 people participated in a ecumenical choral prayer service for Christian unity Sunday evening at Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls. The service was the highlight of a week of prayer for Christian unity sponsored by the Thief River Falls ministerial association representing the Christian churches of the greater Thief River Falls area.

Participation choirs for the prayer service included the United Methodist hand bell and adult choirs, St. Bernard's adult choir, Redeemer Lutheran adult choir and the Zion Lutheran adult choir. The service began with a prelude by the hand bell choir and a call to worship sung by Rev Gary Moore, pastor of the St. Hilaire parish. Rev Melvyn Budke, president of the ministerial association, gave the greeting and Rev. Don Knudson, of Redeemer Lutheran church gave the benediction.

The evening of prayer consisted of scripture readings, individual choral numbers by the participating choirs and several songs by the mass choir consisting of all the participating choirs under the direction of Tony Ricci. Courage Camps Accept Summer Registrations

A tradition of fun and adventure for physically disabled people of all ages will continue this summer at Camp Courage and Courage North.

Children and adults with physical disabilities or speech, hearing and vision impairments are encouraged to register for summer sessions at Camp Courage, near Maple Lake, and Courage North, on Lake George near Itasca state park in northern Minnesota.

Since 1955 Camp Courage has provided an outdoor adventure for disabled people of all ages. In an eccessible setting under medical supervision, campers can enjoy traditional summer activities such as swimming, fishing, camping-out, boating, horseback riding, sports, nature study and more. A section of the camp provides therapy and serves other special needs of campers with speech and hearing impairments.

Courage North offers most of the same activities for physically disabled campers and also features a deaf leadership program for teenagers with hearing impairments which teaches leadership skills and group decision-making.

A wheelchair sports session for children and a fishing camp for adults will also be offered this year.

Campers' families are asked to pay what they can, although campers are accepted regardless of their ability to pay. Both facilities are operated by Courage Center, a nonprofit United Way organization headquartered in Golden Valley, Minnesota, which provides a variety of programs for people with physical disabilities and those with speech, hearing and vision impairments.

More information about the camping program and other services is available from Courage Center, 3915 Golden Valley Road, Golden Valley, MN 55422; (612) 588-0811.

U'M' Increases Academic Help For Athletes

Intercollegiate athletics programs are likely to improve over the next several years on the University of Minnesota Twin Cities campus, especially in the realm of academic achievement.

That's the word the Board of Regents got Friday, January 14 in a report by administrators and athletics officials about the current health of the athletic programs and the plans for change.

Academic performance of student-athletes is the single most important issue in athletics today, an issue brought to attention last week during a hard-fought battle for academic standards reform at the National collegiate athletic association (NCAA) convention, said Nils Hasselmo, vice preisdent for administration.

University President C. Peter Magrath was one of the university presidents who spoke at the convention in favor of raising the minimum grade point average for incoming athletes and requiring a satisfactory high school record in a set of core courses.

But even before the debate at the convention, the university had put together a plan to improve academic performance of student-athletes at Minnesota, Hasselmo said. That plan calls for the creation of a new position that would oversee the academic welfare of athletes in both men's and women's athletics, he said. Relations between the athletic programs and the college advising offices and the financial aid and admissions offices will also be tightened.

Men's athletic director Paul Giel said he was relieved the NCAA agreed to tighten eligibility standards for freshmen. "I've been sick and tired of being asked about graduation rates over the past 11 years when all that's been required across the country is a two-point average, a warm body and can you pump the ball," he said.

Coaches have been expected to maintain competitive programs with other schools that recruit talented athletes who are ill-prepared academically, "and then we're supposed to get them out in four or five years with a meaningful degree," Giel said.

Hasselmo also told the board that:

— Men's and women's intercollegiate athletics programs will remain functionally separate for at least the next several years. (Minnesota and Iowa are the only two big 10 schools with that structure).

— Financial aid budget for women's athletics will be increased for 1983-84 to make it more comparable to the men's aid package.

— Because of the costs involved, it is unlikely the university will be able to increase the number of varsity sports.

— Attendance at football games in the domed stadium is likely to remain permanently higher than attendance at Memorial stadium. Giel said average attendance at home games this year was 17,000 higher per game, with the increase for the season exceeding 100,000. Increase in revenue is nearly half a million dollars, Hasselmo said.

Special attention for special kids

CHILDREN WITH DOWN SYNDROME, a genetic birth defect that affects all races and usually causes mental retardation, deserve special attention. Early intervention and a loving home can help children with Down Syndrome, like Gary and Lee-Ann pictured above with Tom Seaver, achieve their dreams and become active and useful members in their communities, according to the National Down Syndrome Society. Move To Bigger Herds, Flocks Will Continue Until about the 1950's, farms were very diversified. Feeding outdoor flocks of chickens, grazing a few head of cattle, and raising some hogs used to be common practice on the average farm, reminds the Minnesota agricultural statistics service.

Farming, however, is a business like any other, and when one method is shown to be more cost-efficient over another, the farming industry normally "opts" for that method. This has been the case with specialization in the livestock industry.

Larger flocks of broilers and larger cattle herds are more manageable and profitable with more intensive management and closer confinement of the animals. In the case of the broiler industry, this has led to "integration." ("Integration" in an industry means that the industry produces, processes and sells the product — in other words, it takes the product along almost the entire marketing chain.)

The cattle industry's small feedlots made way for fewer larger ones. In 1980, 40 per cent of all fed beef came from feedlots with a capacity of over 16,000 head.

What was behind these moves?

Engineers designed new animal-housing units and feed-handling, watering and waste removal equipment — all of which cut down on labor requirements. Biologists improved breeds, developed drugs for diseases common to close confinement, and formulated rations needed in the different growth stages of the animals.

The hog industry shows the potential for going the way of broilers and there are parallels between the two industries: seasonality of hog production bas decreased and financing may move more to nonfarm companies like it has with the broiler industry.

Hog farms are increasing in inventory size while the total number of hog farms is declining. In 1982, five per cent of all U.S. hog operations held almost half of the inventory.

MN Restraint Law Celebrates First Birthday

Parents and young children should be wishing a happy birthday to Minnesota's child passenger protection law, according to the state department of transportation. It took effect January 1, 1982. Law and an immense amount of positive publicity have encouraged many parents to buckle their infants into car safety seats when traveling on Minnesota roadways.

Each year approximately 800 children younger than four years of age die in Minnesota with about 10 deaths due to motor vehicle crashes. In addition, approximately 1,000 infants and toddlers are seriously injured in vehicle accidents annually.

Recent Minnesota department of public safety survey indicates that more than 70 per cent of the parents with infants have obtained car safety seats. However, only 40 per cent of all infants are being buckled in regularly. Toddlers and older children in overwhelming numbers continue to ride unrestrained in motor vehicles.

Nearly 90 per cent of Minnesota drivers with children said they are now familiar with the law. The same percentage of motorists indicated that they approved of Minnesota having such a law.

Minnesota is one of 20 states to enact a child restraint law. Laws differ widely, ranging from Nebraska's which applies only to providers of day care services, to Wisconsin where financial penalties of up to $200 can be levied against some second-time offenders. Hawaii provides positive incentives for parents by allowing tax credits for the purchase of safety seats certified as meeting federal standards.

Minnesota law stipulates that a hazard warning be issued for an infraction and parents are only required to have a safety seat in the vehicle. Minnesota state patrol and local law enforcement agencies have been actively enforcing the child restraint law.

"Because the Patrol believes very strongly that our job is to prevent people from becoming road fatalities, we are strongly advocating to parents that they protect their youngsters by buckling them into car seats whenever they're on the road," said Minnesota state patrol chief Roger Ledding.

Car safety seat laws have stimulated the creation of programs to loan car seats to parents. In Minnesota, the number of loaner seat programs has dramatically increased with 6,250 car safety seats now available from hospitals, community and health maintenance organizations.

Minnesota department of public safety expects the number of loaner seat programs to take another jump and their availability to spread throughout the state into areas not currently served. Minnesota academy of family physicians is encouraging every family practice clinic in the state to set up its own loaner program with at least eight seats for newborns. In April, about 1,000 new safety seats will be made available to parents of infants through physicians.

Suppose you were given the keys that would unlock the mysteries of the universe. With them, you could answer the "whys" that plague all of us. You'd know what was going to happen to you and those around you tomorrow—next month—next year.

Would you use them?

Of course, you say! Think again. And, once you've thought, you might shake your head, hand them back, and say, "No thank you."

Common sense tells us that man was not meant to understand every mystery of life. The reasons "why" remain as they are because our Creator and His wisdom thoroughly knows just how much man can both stand and understand.

God has a greater gift for you than these, or any other keys . . . the gift of Faith. You will find it by worshipping regularly.

YOU GOTTA HAVE HEART! — When it comes to Valentine's Day, all you really need is heart — a jewelled heart — the Jewelry Industry Council advises. It's the nicest way to say "I love you" with a heart pendant for her. Take your choice of a plump cushion heart, a personalized heart with her birthstone gem inset, a cutout heart, a free form heart, hearts with small diamond paves, or the familiar classic, the gold heart locket. It's one gift that keeps on saying you love her all year through — long after February 14th, and candy and flowers are gone, says the Council.

NEWSWORTHY TRENDS

THE AGE OF ELECTRONICS

Every year more than 200 million Americans purchase almost $15 billion worth of consumer electronic products.

In fact, many experts are saying that this should be called the Age of Consumer Electronics. Consumer electronics products, however, are not only the major form of entertainment and information for these 200 million Americans, it is one of the vital links they have with each other, and with the great artists, entertainers, teachers and thinkers of the world.

What are some of the products that are part of this new "Age of Electronics?"

Here is just a partial list: audio compacts and consoles, audio components and systems, car audio, tape hardware and software. Also included are AM-FM-CB-SW radio, video cassette recorders, videodiscs, video games, personal computers, calculators, watches, television security systems and more.

Aware of these trends are many high school seniors as well as those who have already graduated. Because of the many new products being introduced each year the opportunities are there for electronics-oriented young men and women who can learn to keep all these electronic marvels functioning as they should...the electronic systems technician.

A free booklet on how to prepare for this field, as well as the opportunities in the field, is available by writing to: Electronic Industries Association, Consumer Electronics Group, Dept. N, 2001 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

Those electronic products we buy every day are the main source of information and entertainment for more than 200 million Americans.

Oil Stock Alert

Chairman Michael Hatch of the Minnesota commerce commission warns that the recently-publicized oil strike at Brooten is likely to create a large increase in attempts to sell oil "investments".

"Before committing any money to an oil contract or lease or purchase of land which is alleged to contain oil," Hatch writes, "the investor should understand the high risk nature. Be suspect of fantastic promises of extraordinary returns. Too-good-to-be-true offers are usually just that."

He encourages caution when salespeople make contacts by "cold" phone calls, unannounced visits to the home or through mailing lists, and he urges any investor to "get it in writing".

"Avoid any investment where the salesperson has little or no written information about the company or written information about past performances. All oil drilling investments sold to more than one investor in this state must have an offering circular filed with the Minnesota department of commerce. Read it or obtain help reading it before you sign a purchase order to pay for an investment."

Determine where your money will be until the time it is expended on drilling, he suggests, and find out your rights to unexpended funds and the return of your money should the promoter fail to raise sufficient funds to complete the project. Most of all, he says, because of the high risks in this type of investment, invest only what you can afford to lose and be prepared to lose the total amount you invest.

Information on companies or individual selling investments may be obtained by calling the securities and real estate department at 612-296-2594.

So Much For The Honeymoon

Following column was written by John Camp in the St. Paul Pioneer Press:

Following the inauguration of a new president of governor, there follows what media folk call a honeymoon.

That is, nobody says much bad about the guy. Most reporters figure he ought to have a chance to prove himself. Gov. Rudy Perpich was inaugurated 13 days ago. That's long enough.

While I am not yet fully prepared to argue the screwball thesis — i.e., that Perpich is one — his record since election has been more than spotty. What has he done, you ask?

— He killed one of the nation's most progressive systems for appointing new state judges — a system approved by almost everybody with standing in the legal system — and replaced it with a thoroughly political system dominated by ex-DFL politicians, old Perpich cronies and fund-raisers. Then he let go with some ideas of who might make good judges, before the new commission even has a chance to get together.

— He issued an executive order requiring the state cars to use gasohol. The cost of the new fuel would be as much as eight cents a gallon more than gasoline. Total additional cost would amount to a half-million dollars a year, an expense that returns nothing because we get the same mileage as gasoline. Since none of the major alcohol producers are in Minnesota — and none will be here unless the state is willing to subsidize another money-losing business — all that money will be shipped out of state, which won't help our farmers at all. So it's just another half-million state dollars down the drain when we've already got our backs to the wall on state finances.

— He allowed the firings of top Health Department officials so they could be replaced by members of a special interest group.

And then there's my favorite.

Perpich's new welfare commissioner, Honest Leonard Levine, as we fondly call him in St. Paul, fired the top professional non-partisan welfare officials. The best of them, a man respected by both sides of the Legislature, was replaced by a Perpich crony from up on the Range.

Asked if the action were suggested by Perpich, Honest Leonard said no. When Perpich was asked if he suggested the new man for the job, Perpich, to his credit, said yes. But that left Perpich and his commissioner at odds, and something had to give.

Predictably, what caved in was Honest Leonard. He said that he forgot that the new No. 2 man in the department had been suggested by the governor.

Right. That's why we call him Honest Leonard. He doesn't lie; he just forgets.

Anyway, a pattern seems to be emerging here, and for lack of a better word, the pattern seems to be typified by stupidity.

We know welfare is going to be a terrible problem in the next few years. The outgoing welfare commissioner, a man widely recognized for his professionalism, has suggested state welfare could outstrip the cost of education during Perpich's term. If you think about that a minute, you realize what a terrible crunch we're headed for.

To get us out of it — to craft the new laws that will be needed to handle the welfare comments, and perhaps limit further commitments, will take every bit of skill that the Welfare Department, governor, and Legislature can get together. But then a long-time, highly-respected, non-partisan welfare official, who occupies a critical legislative liaison slot, gets fired and is replaced by a former St. Louis County Commissioner and good old buddy of Rudy Perpich.

Even if the governor's buddy is able — and he may well be — his presence alone will be a sore spot with the people who must work out our new welfare program. If Perpich wanted to help Range employment or something, why couldn't he slug his friend away in some harmless political aide's job somewhere?

Well, we shall see. I have no great faith in the future, however.

And I will tell you something else. Remember that idiotic controversy Perpich's mouth got us into, about whether South Dakota was 50th in everything? He was not only dumb, he was dead wrong.

South Dakota couldn't possibly be worse than 49th in the depth of its political bull.

Getting The First Share

Following article was written by Derry Brownfield and first appeared in the Rural Missouri Magazine:

"What would happen if each of the nation's farmers failed to produce a crop next year? Suppose farmers organized and joined the A-A (Agriculture Anonymous). Under the A-A plan farmers would borrow enough money to plant a crop just like they normally do; however, they would not plant the crop. Instead they would buy their production on the Futures Market.

If a farmer produced 10,000 bushels of soybeans, he would buy 10,000 bushels on the "Big Board." If he sold 1,500 market hogs annually he would buy that many hogs on the Mercantile Exchange. Whatever he would normally produce is what he would purchase on the future market.

When planting season arrived, the farmers would take their families on vacation to a foreign country. Farmers like to produce and it would be dangerous to leave then near a tractor when planting time occurs.

Here's where A-A enters the picture. Farming is not only a habit but a chronic illness. Farmers like plowed soil. They become intoxicated with the fragrance of a spring morning and the sound of a diesel engine. As robins sing and earthworms squirm up from the thawing earth they will lose complete control of their senses and plow out the fence rows and plant road-ditch to road-ditch. When the symptoms arise and the farmer feels himself slipping into that state of mind where he must plow and plant, he is to telephone one of his A-A members. The A-A member will rush over to his pad where they will open a jug and drink until they forget about planting a crop.

Once it becomes known that there will be no production on American farms for one entire season, prices will advance to the point that the farmers can sell their commodities back to the traders and speculators for enough money to settle their accounts, pay off the mortgage on the farm and have enough money left over to put out a crop next year.

This entire plan sounds a little farfetched, but so do $60,000 combines, 18 per cent interest and $2 corn. If America is to prosper, farmers must profit.

Saint Paul summed up the situation in his second letter to Timothy, where he said, "An athlete who runs in a race cannot win a prize unless he obeys the rules. And the farmer who has done the hard work should have the first share of the harvest."

Borrowed Nonsense:

Thought for the day: Maybe one way to improve the quality of political campaigns would be to make the winners re-run their radio and TV commercials on prime time three months after they have taken office.

Career Opportunities

Wanted: Electronic Systems Technicians

There is a wide variety of interesting, solid jobs waiting for qualified electronic systems technicians.

More and more bright young Americans who are plugged into today's job market are exploring the career opportunities in consumer electronics.

Building a high performance future for yourself in electronics takes work, but the rewards in income, security and prestige in the field make those efforts worthwhile.

The experts at the Electronic Industries Association, the national industrial organization of electronics manufacturers in the United States, give this advice:

To start preparing yourself now, you will need to take training programs which develop logical thinking, orderly procedures and good study habits.

Specifically, you should sign up for Math, Basic Electricity and Basic Electronics—as well as courses in the language and use of calculators and computers. Technical courses are valuable because they develop manual dexterity and machine tool know-how.

The experts also point out that electronics is much more than a "subject" to take, pass and then forget. It is a profession requiring positive individuals who like what they're doing—and take pride in doing it well. That is why for most technicians, electronics is much more than a job—it is also an after hours hobby.

After class, you might consider participating in your school science or radio clubs, or try your hand at building electronic kits.

As an Electronic Systems Technician, you would be expected to apply technical-logical skills to widely varying problems of operation, maintenance, and repair of electronic apparatus. The same talents and knowledge can also lead to many interesting solid jobs in manufacturing, design, technical writing, marketing and advertising.

In general, the salary of a service technician ranges from just under seven dollars per hour to well over twelve dollars per hour.

A free booklet on career opportunities in consumer electronics is available by writing to: Electronic Industries Association, Dept. N, 2001 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

Help Your Heart

American Heart Association

Dangers of Excess Weight

Do I weigh too much? Does excess weight increase my risk of developing a disease? These questions are particularly pertinent now because many Americans have stepped on the bathroom scales and watched them register a new high, the price of scrumptuous meals consumed during the holiday season.

Most people attain their full height and ideal weight between age 18 and 21. Weight varies according to body build, age, and other factors. Most of all, weight varies according to caloric intake of foods. Many calories consumed and few calories "burned" equals an excess deposited as fat.

The American Heart Association's Nutrition Committee, under chairman Scott M. Grundy, M.D., Ph.D., is constantly surveying the scientific literature to come up with recommendations for the public. Dr. Grundy, director of the Center for Human Nutrition at the University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas, points out that AHA's basic recommendation about weight is that Americans should consume "a caloric intake adjusted to achieve and maintain ideal body weight."

Being overweight can contribute to a number of diseases. It may increase the severity of existing heart disease because it makes the heart work harder and pump more blood, Dr. Grundy says. Excess weight can also worsen heart pain and increase the chances of damage to the heart muscle. It can drive up your blood pressure and increase the level of cholesterol and other fats circulating in your blood, he adds.

Obesity may trigger diabetes in adults with a defect in their ability to metabolize sugar, Dr. Grundy continues. Diabetics have an increased risk of cardiovascular disease. Too much weight also promotes the degeneration of weight-bearing joints, accentuates back pain, aggravates diseases of the veins, and often has adverse psychological effects, Dr. Grundy says.

Dr. Scott M. Grundy

Help your heart! Maintain an ideal weight for your body build and height by following a prudent diet that includes fresh fruits and vegetables, carbohydrates, and lean cuts of meat, fish and poultry. If you drink, do so in moderation because alcoholic beverages are high in calories. "The best way to control your weight is to control your intake of calories," says Dr. Grundy.

LIVESTOCK HEALTH TIPS

From the Animal Health Institute

Keep Livestock Healthy During Cold Days Ahead

Weather forecasters are calling for another winter of record, bone-chilling cold.

That's bad news for people . . . twice as bad for livestock. Frigid temperatures cut disease resistance. Pigs get hit with bacterial scours and coccidiosis. Calves, too, plus shipping fever complex. Pneumonia attacks all species.

With recent, relatively higher prices in the livestock markets, you want those extra weight gains from disease-free animals. So it's vital to protect herd health.

Shelter your animals from the cold, especially the wind. Feed them well. Keep them clean. You know this will make a good start.

You can also draw on an arsenal of more than 650 pharmaceutical and feed additive products and some 300 veterinary biologicals products to help prevent and fight disease, according to the Animal Health Institute, Alexandria, Va. Be sure to consult your veterinarian if you need advice on specific problems and the products used to treat them.

When drawing on that arsenal, there's one important point to keep in mind. Read the label. Take time to follow the label. That's what the eye-clock symbol reminds you to do.

And read the label each time you use a particular drug or medicated feed. Labels change. So do approved uses.

It's important to feed or administer only the dosage recommended on the label or feed tag. These dosages are scientifically determined for effective and safe use following years of research and examination by both the manufacturer and the federal regulatory agencies.

Don't overdose. . .the adage "if a little bit is good, then a whole lot more is better" definitely does not apply to animal drugs. By the same token, don't underdose. You need enough of the active drug ingredient in the animal's system to do the job.

Observe withdrawal periods, if required. When recommended dosages and uses are not observed, illegal residues may occur, and the consequences may be disastrous to your bankbook. If just one animal with a violative residue is found by federal inspectors, the entire shipment will be held and tests run to determine whether other animals contain residues. You won't be paid for condemned carcasses.

Federal authorities can also prosecute the producer for repeated violations. The first conviction may bring a maximum fine of $1,000 and/or one year in jail; the second, $10,000 and three years.

Perhaps the greatest penalty for misuse of a drug can fall on all of livestock agriculture through the loss of a valuable health product. If misuse persists, it can happen. The federal government has the power to remove misused products from the market. It has happened before.

Finally, those rigors of winter can play havoc with animal health products. The freezing and thawing that can take place outdoors or even in a cold barn or shed can affect animal drugs. Check the label for storage instructions.

So protect your animals from the frigid blasts of winter. Feed them well. Keep them clean. And use animal health products wisely by taking time to read and follow the label.

Sunny or gray outside, it doesn't matter — the pancake urge can strike anytime! Next time it grabs you, give Mini Banana Pancakes a try. They're sweetened with ripe bananas.

Pancake batter is so simple, all you do is measure and mix. The bananas are easily whirred to a smooth consistency in the blender.

Top your stack of pancakes with sliced bananas and some maple syrup.

MINI BANANA PANCAKES

2 ripe, small Dole Bananas, peeled
2 cups milk
2 eggs
¼ cup butter, melted
1½ cups flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt

Slice bananas into blender. Whir until puréed. Combine bananas, milk, eggs and butter. Combine flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Add liquid to dry ingredients and mix until just blended. FARMER UPDATE
Many bushels of wheat coming out of the farmer-held reserve have now been contracted. Approximately 40% of the wheat coming out in this area has been contracted, in contrast to 10% to 20% in many other areas. For this reason, we feel the market could slip further when the farmers haul in their wheat for cash on the maturity date of their loan.
We are also seeing a lot of bushels being forward-contracted for August through January delivery from farmers who are signing up in the P.I.K. program. We feel you should be watching these forward markets closely and take advantage of these marketing strategies when you feel they are favorable.
We appreciate your confidence in us doing the best possible job of marketing your grain and purchasing your supplies.

Don Loeslie Heads National Wheat Growers Ass'n.

"Everybody is Somebody in Thief River Falls"

(USPS 627-360) Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Monday, January 31, 1983 Number 9

Gone are the days when a farmer could work the land from dawn to dark and be satisfied that he was doing all he could in his chosen vocation. Now farmers need to be increasingly involved in marketing the products of their labor.

That is the feeling held by Don Loeslie of rural Warren, recently elected president of the National Association of Wheat Growers at the convention in Houston, TX. His office will take him to many places and into many circumstances in the next year as he serves wheat producers in 16 member states as their official representative.

First and foremost in his newly-elected position Loeslie will be working to reduce the huge surplus of wheat which is hanging over the market and keeping prices disastrously low. And the key to reducing that surplus is to increase exports, selling wheat to countries which need it to feed their people.

"If the government had left the wheat industry alone, we wouldn't be in the position we find ourselves today," Loeslie said. "With very little government assistance, we increased our exports from 357 million bushels in 1957 to 1.75 billion bushels in 1982. We did this despite five embargoes and two major strikes during that time. Had the government only left us alone, I am confident our exports would be over two billion bushels and we wouldn't have today's surplus problems."

Loeslie took time out from his frantic schedule to visit about his new job last week at his farm home about four miles northeast of Warren. A television cameraman and reporter also found him at home that same afternoon for an interview and taping session.

A 1956 graduate of Warren high school who, according to his wife, is an avid reader, Loeslie is a recent newcomer to the public scene. Work with the Minnesota and national wheat councils began as an outlet for emotions and has continued as the acceptance of a challenge.

"We had a personal family tradedy in 1977," Loeslie explained. (A child of the Loeslie's died at birth and a 14-month-old granddaughter died of cancer.) "All of a sudden we realized that our world was only the size of our work and we needed to expand outside of that narrow interest. The wheat growers organization became a field of interest for us."

The Loeslies traveled to San Francisco for the national convention in 1979 and were impressed by what they saw and learned. They found varied interests and concerns within the wheat industry itself, from the white wheat producers of the Pacific Northwest with yields of 100 to 120 bushels per acre to the hard dark northern wheat producers of the midwest who were producers of high quality milling wheat varieties but smaller yields.

Minnesota was a young, energetic state association in the national group and Loeslie was encouraged to be the first Minnesotan to seek national office. He was elected national secretary-treasurer in 1981 at the convention in Minneapolis and elevated to vice president in 1982 at the meeting in Washington, DC. Producer delegates elected him to the presidency in Houston earlier this month and he became the instant focal point and spokesman for wheat producers.

(While we talked in the Loeslie dining room, a telephone call came from the national office. Don abruptly changed his plans from a meeting two days later in Minneapolis to a flight to Washington, DC. National officials, including the secretary of agriculture, wanted grower input in discussions prior to an overseas tour by U.S. government officials. It was an early entry into what promises to be a whirlwind year.)

Evidence of his extensive reading and retention of information, Loeslie uses relevant statistics to discuss problems and solutions for the wheat industry.

For instance, the 16 states represented in the National Wheat Growers association produce 80 per cent of the wheat grown in the United States. Thirteen of those states, including Minnesota, have a wheat check-off which provides funding for wheat marketing and research. Matching funds from the government and private industry swell the $2 million in farmers' check-off money to a pool of $11.2 million available for promotion and research use.

The states of Kansas and North Dakota alone produce enough wheat for the domestic needs of the entire United States annually. There is presently a domestic four-year supply of wheat on hand and prices are at a depressed level. Domestic consumption ranges from 600 million to 800 million bushels per year and the current surplus is 1.6 billion bushels.

"Agriculture is the key to prosperity on a national basis," Loeslie says emphatically. "Our country needs a strong agriculture for a good economic base. Art Howard of Warren probably said it best when he said, 'When times get tough, farmers get short arms and deep pockets'. Nobody is a better spender than a farmer when he has money to spend."

Loeslie and his organization favor the much-heralded payment-in-kind (PIK) program, but Loeslie adds that it must be administered properly. He also notes that the government should make an early announcement that the program will be continued for the 1984 crop year. And he advocates an "export PIK" program, where selected countries would be given bonus wheat if they purchased their supplies from the United States.

TYPING UP orders taken over the phone, Maurice Benson, depot agent for the Burlington Northern Railroad at Thief River Falls, completed his final days in the room which has been his office since 1975. Benson chose to take severance pay from the company, rather than move to another location for the two years remaining until his retirement date. BN has closed down depots along all of its branch lines north of Crookston, as part of a centralization plan. Customers shipping freight by the line, will now deal with the central office in Crookston by calling the toll-free number, 1-800-862-0874.

Local BN Depot Agent Benson Retires Today

Times Reporter

Today, Monday, January 31, was the last day on the job for Burlington Northern railroad depot agent Maurice Benson of Thief River Falls.

At 58, Benson still has two years to go before he can draw his pension, but from the options available to him under the company's centralization plan, he says he chose to "take the payoff."

Payoff for him means a lump-sum payment for 365 days of labor at his present wage level. Although he would make more money if he continued to work until retirement age, Maurice jokes that "fishing beats working for a living."

Actually, Benson is one of numerous depot agents on branch lines north and east of Crookston who were forced to make difficult decisions as a result of the centralization plan of the company which goes into effect tomorrow. Under that plan, all depots north of Crookston will be closed, with the exception of Warroad, which has obtained a special court action to keep their depot open for an indefinite time. Agents at those depots were faced with a choice of moving into central offices at Crookston or Grand Forks, or accepting severance pay.

Actually, Maurice noted that he had another option open, which would have meant "bumping" the depot agent at Warroad, who has less time with the company than he has. Although that move would have placed him closer to Lake of the Woods, where he spends "as much time as possible fishing", he says he chose to "pull the pin", since he still has his home here in Thief River Falls, and would rather have the time off "so I can go fishing". He says he owns some property at Springsteel, and has a fish house on Long Point, but isn't ready to start building another house yet.

Benson says he first started with the railroad at Argyle, coming to Thief River Falls in 1948. His first regular job was as a telegraph operator, a skill which he learned from "Great Northern Ole" (Ness) who retired as depot agent at Thief River Falls in 1969. After training under Ole, Benson says he served on the extra board, filling in as temporary agent wherever he was needed when regular agents were ill, died or went on vacation. He notes that he worked at just about all of the branch line depots at one time or another.

His first permanent location as a depot agent was at Larimore and Lakota, ND, a job he says he got "thanks to Ole," who helped him in filling out his bid. Over the years, he

Area Legislator Feelings Mixed On State Budget

Special to The Times
by Jim Robbins
Northern Star
News Service

Gov. Rudy Perpich unveiled a grim-looking budget situation at the State Capitol last week. There was more to the news than budget shortfall and continued bad economic times in Minnesota.

Legislators and the public learned some key details of the Perpich budget plan, including:

+ Departmental requests amount to $10.07 billion, up 22 per cent from two years ago;

+ Local governments would share the risk of further shortfalls, losing as much as four per cent of expected state aids;

+ There is a projected gap of $500 million between budget requests and the anticipated revenues for the upcoming budget period from mid-1983 to mid-1985.

Senator LeRoy Stumpf, Plummer, is encouraged by the Governor's commitment to improve the economy, but has mixed feelings about how it should be done. Stumpf doesn't feel a budget forecast can tell what the actual budget will be like.

"I have two feelings about the budget in this biennium," he said. "Number one, it's going to be doggone tough the next few years. Number two, Minnesota will be in better shape than most states because we faced the situation now and are going to tackle it head on."

His initial feeling about the shared risk proposal is that he is not in favor of it.

"For us along the border and far from the metro area, we would be at a disadvantage, especially in our educational system," Stumpf said.

Stumpf said he would like to examine a shared risk proposal that is workable for the people of his district.

To Rep. Wallace Sparby, Thief River Falls, the budget as forcast would be startling and a little scary. He sees a need for cutting the budget now, before it gets out of proportion later.

"Each department will have to make cuts itself," he said. "They'll have to make do with what we give them."

WCTU Studies Following God's Guidelines

Following God's Guidelines was the lesson studied at the meeting of the Alice Mae Stuart Thief River Falls Woman's Christian Temperance Union held January 21 at the social room at the Riverside Terrace apartments.

Leading the lesson was Mrs. Olga Larson. She read Joshua 3:1-7, stressing "The Lord will do wonders among you," and "As I was with Moses, so I will be with thee." She stated that just as God promised not to fail or forsake Joshua as he led the Israelites into Canaan, in like manner He does not ask people today to do a task without His leading and guidance. She urged that people take time for spiritual inventory, checking spiritual growth and progress. She concluded by saying that it was a necessity to follow God's guidance every day, every hour.

The meeting began with the hymn "This is My Father's World." Two leaflets "Prohibition Success," and "Prohibition, the Way it Was," were also read. It was decided that copies of both leaflets should be included in the Youth Temperance Education materials to be distributed in April. The Public Opinion letter written by David Grothe and published in the November 3 edition of the Times, was read by Mrs. Marie Gustafson.

The members participated in individual prayers and in the Parliamentary law quiz in the "Minnesota White Ribbon magazine. Members also signed birthday cards for Valborg Hanson, Hildur Lian, Olga Engelstad and Mrs. Emil Thune.

A potluck lunch followed the meeting.

Slow Down and Live

WHEELCHAIR LIFT on the new van purchased by Northwestern hospital services is demonstrated by employees of the convalescent and nursing care unit as hospital president Dick Spyhalski watches. The van was purchased with a grant from the department of transportation and has a capacity for 11 passengers, including three wheelchair positions. Drivers and attendants for the vehicle will be CNC, nursing and social services staff.

Hospital Buys Van To Accept Wheelchairs

Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls has been awarded a grant from the department of transportation to purchase an 11-passenger van equipped with wheelchair tie-downs and a hydraulic wheelchair lift.

The van will be used to transport residents of the convalescent and nursing care unit to community events, during the summer and to personal, medical or dental appointments in town.

Delivered in late December, the van is equipped with three wheelchair tie-downs and can transport eight additional passengers who are not confined to wheelchairs.

The vehicle was custom designed for Northwestern hospital as a result of a department of transportation 16(b) (2) vehicle grant made to Northwestern early in 1982. It was designed by the Minnesota Body and Equipment company in Shakopee.

The wheelchair capacity and hydraulic lift will allow staff of the convalescent and nursing care unit to take residents who are in wheelchairs on outings without having to transfer them out of wheelchairs. This is an added safety measure for the skilled nursing care residents.

In addition it will increase their mobility outside of the convalescent and nursing care unit. In the past staff have had to transfer residents from their wheelchairs into a car or station wagon to attend activities outside of the residence. With the 11-passenger van more residents can attend activities at the same time. Other departments in the hospital may use the van for patients to attend activites.

Drivers for the new vehicle will include convalescent and nursing care activities and nursing staff and social services staff.

The convalescent and nursing care unit provides many activities for the residents in and out of the facility including shopping trips, trips for personal needs, movies, theater events, dinner out, as well as entertainment and daily living activities within the residence.

DID YOU KNOW?

WITCHCRAFT BONFIRES

by Selma Halverson

A preacher stood looking at a stack of ouija boards piled high in a department store. They looked harmless enough, like Christmas toys for children. But he knew the dangers of experimenting with them and other forms of witchcraft. People could open up to the entrance of demon spirits!

As he stood there, he felt an urge to pray. He cursed the ouija boards in the name of Jesus, praying that Satan be defeated!

Sometime later, he happened to be in this store just as the manager was giving orders to one of his clerks, "Take all of those ouija boards down in the basement and put them way back on some shelf. People are returning them with complaints they do not work!"

There is power in the name of Jesus!

Many of the Jewish and Greek believers at Ephesus went a step further — they made a big bonfire and burned their witchcraft materials.

"Many of them also which used curious arts, brought their books together, and burned them before all men: and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thousand pieces of silver.

So mightily grew the word of God and prevailed" (Acts 19:19, 20).

Recently in a neighboring city, a 28-year-old pastor of a Full Gospel church checked with the city officials and obtained permission for a bonfire in the parking lot of their church. For three days this church had been having spiritual meetings on the Rapture — and now they were ready to search their homes for any Satanic materials to burn.

About 250 people gathered late on a Sunday night to watch the burning. It was estimated that $3,000 worth of rock record albums, books, magazines and idols were thrown in the fire while the crowd sang "In the name of Jesus, in the name of Jesus!" The youth, ages 5-19, were most enthusiastic in keeping the fire burning.

The young pastor, a former drug addict who had been interested in rock music said, "I wanted to warn our young people about the demons in rock music! They are real! When young people are listening to this music, they are begging those demons to enter their homes and their lives."

"Neither give place to the devil" (Ephesians 4:27).

There had been some phone calls objecting to the bonfire, their newspaper stated, but there were no incidents. Some protestors were standing around but the people continued to sing and testify to the change Jesus had made in their lives.

Why not have a witchcraft bonfire in your community? It could start revival fires burning in your churches as it did at Ephesus — "So mightly grew the word of God and prevailed" (Acts 19:20)

Reich Directs RL Electric Department

Kevin Reich has been named the Red Lake electric cooperative's member services director. Position became available when Les Keifenheim retired after 36 years of employment.

Reich has spent over eight years working within the member services department. He began Aug. 1, 1974, as an assistant appliance serviceman and was promoted to appliance serviceman in 1981. In addition to his appliance-related duties he has been involved with the load management program in ripple receiver installation and maintenance.

Reich is originally from Aitkin (northeast of Brainerd) and graduated from Aitkin high school in 1973. He enrolled in an appliance repair course at the Alexandria area technical school and graduated in July, 1974.

Kevin and his wife, Sheila, are parents of three girls, Faith and Charity, nine, and Lisa, two. They reside at rural Red Lake Falls and are members of Bethany Lutheran church of Red Lake Falls where Kevin has served as a member of the Bethany church council. He is currently a member of the Red Lake Falls volunteer ambulance service and serves on its board of directors.

Legislator Feelings On Budget Mixed

Sparby recognizes a controversial issue in the shared risk proposal and is concerned that it too, will get out of proportion.

"Local governments may be capable of handling it (the program) themselves," he said, "but sharing the problem may just augment it."

It will take a great deal of time to study and perfect such a proposal, Sparby said, but the idea is a beginning for reform.

Perpich indicated that, by no means, would this be a no-growth budget for state government. Re-emphasizing his strong support for public education, Perpich said. "We want brain-power, not brawn-power. We have our commitment."

However, some IR legislators feel that commitment may be going too far already. They don't like the idea of the biennial budget increasing $1.75 billion when business, farmers and individuals see a bleak economic picture ahead in the next two years.

Perpich is also running into some opposition to his variable local aids plan, tabbed as "risk-sharing". He unveiled the proposal last week. A budget reserve of one percent would take care of minor shortfalls, while local governments would have to share in losses from one to five per cent — a net loss of up to four per cent of expected aids to local governments.

DFL leaders have been critical of risk-sharing and IR legislators have taken a wait-and-see attitude. Some IRs argue that more flexible aids should translate into more flexible program administration and the lifting of levy limits on property taxes for local governments.

Perpich is hoping to pick up more support for risk-sharing because the proposal is moderate, jeopardizing no more than four per cent of expected local aids.

While the news for the next two budgeting years doesn't look good, the immediate situation isn't any better. Although a cushion had been built in during the December budget fix, projections already show an $8 million deficit appears likely at the end of this budgeting period just five months ahead.

The state is legally bound to finish the year with its accounts balanced.

To deal with the problem, Perpich ordered a freeze on hiring and large purchases and prohibited unnecessary travel by state employees. Perpich was asked if that meant he would be curtailing his frequent jaunts designed to promote Minnesota products. He indicated that out-of-state travel expenses are not taken out of state expenses.

Perpich's order will remain in effect until the economic conditions improve.

Full details of Perpich's budget proposals will become available in mid-February when the governor unveils the budget to the legislature.

Don Loeslie Heads National Wheat Growers

Also favored is a long-term trade agreement with the Soviet Union. Due to embargoes which have spurred other countries to become greater competitors of the United States, the Soviet Union has gone from a point where it purchased 71 per cent of its imported wheat from the United States to only 17 per cent.

Citing the importance of agriculture to the economy, Loeslie points out that in the so-called "glory years" of agriculture, all 16 states in the national wheat growers association had treasury surpluses. Now every one of them is having financial trouble.

Loeslie also believes that developing nations do have money they could use to purchase wheat. "The problem has been that they can't afford to buy both food and weapons," Loeslie said, "and that their governments have chosen to buy weapons. Control of the military has been the key to power in most of the third world countries."

Don is married to the former Glorianne Alms of Ada and they have five children and seven grandchildren. Lynn is married to Roger Dauner of Gary and they have four children. Dale is married to Roger's sister Carolyn and they farm south of Warren with their two children. DrueAnn is married to Jeff Beaudry of Argyle and they have one child. Kipp attends the East Grand Forks AVTI where he is a second year student in farm management and 12-year-old Doni attends school in Warren.

Glorianne acknowledges that this will be a busy year for the Loeslies but she is looking forward to it. "I haven't met anyone in the wheat association that hasn't impressed me," she said. "They have all seemed to be very friendly and very capable people."

Loeslie said it is sometimes difficult to be specific about accomplishments of the wheat growers association. He notes that the target price concept has been maintained through wheat growers efforts. And he points out that frequently success comes in the form of what the organization can prevent from happening rather than wheat it makes happen.

East state appoints its own representatives to the national board of the wheat growers association. The board presently consists of 48 members, including six from Minnesota. Dues for membership in state associations range from $50 to $200 annually.

"We're a truly grassroots organization where everyone has an equal voice," Loeslie said. "None of us on the national board believes he is smart enough to know all the answers. We are dedicated to the family farm and believe it would be a mistake to turn away from that concept."

Loeslie doesn't like to talk about his own farming operation with the press. "I've been very fortunate," he said. "Everything hit right when I made my biggest gamble in expansion. A year earlier and I would have been bankrupt; maybe a year later, too. I don't deny that I could be considered a well-to-do farmer, but I don't believe that has any bearing on my work with the wheat growers. We're all trying to make a living on the farm, regardless of size. How we can be effective in making that happen is what's important."

worked at a number of different depots, including Stephen, Hallock, Warren and seven years in Devils Lake, ND. "We used to do lots and lots of business then," he says, adding, "It's not like it used to be."

He credits the economic situation with some of the decline in shipping, noting that when Arctic Enterprises was in operation, they did approximately $750,000 worth of shipping with the railroad per year. He says that much of the business now is agriculture related, including machinery, chemicals and of course, crops. Hartz Wholesale's warehouse is also a major local customer, but he notes that business with them has also declined with the economy.

Maurice's job as depot agent has included taking orders, messages, billing out freight, and assisting with problems or claims. He noted that agents were sometimes called "mavericks", because they would usually be out on the line checking on things. "It hasn't been just a desk job," he said.

Lines which will be centralized into the Crookston office include the Noyes Line which includes depots at Warren, Hallock and points between; Warroad Line, which includes Red Lake Falls, Thief River Falls, Greenbush, Roseau and points in between; Ada Line; Halstad Line; and the Cass Lake Line, of which points west of Bemidji will be served by the Crookston central office.

Customers who wish to use the railway's freight service will no longer call their local depot agent, but may call the Crookston agency at its toll free WATS number, 1-800-862-0874. That service will be available 24 hours per day. Customers will be issued a SPINS number which will be used by the company's computer system to determine where cars are to be picked up or left for loading. Customers will be asked to furnish specific information at the time they call, including weight, routing, commodity contract numbers, special handling instructions, etc. Complaints or tracing matters will also be handled through that office.

Thief River Falls depot will still remain as a base of operations for a three-man section crew. That building, located at the corner of First Street and the tracks, was built several years ago, when the old depot was moved to make room for construction of the Riverside Terrace apartments. That old depot was preserved as a historical exhibit at the Pioneer village museum in Thief River Falls.

Train service will continue its normal schedule through the city, which makes a cycle every third day. Train crews travel from Crookston to Greenbush the first day, where they stay overnight. On the second day they go from Greenbush to Warroad, and back again; and on the third day, they return to Crookston.

Over the years, Maurice and his wife Geraldine have been active in community affairs. He has been a member of the Elks, Eagles, Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars. He served as Legion commander three times, plus "most of the other offices from adjutant to commander". In addition he also served as a county commander when he lived in North Dakota.

Their five children are all grown now, with sons, Dean in Thief River Falls and Lowell in Grand Forks, ND; daughters, Nancy (Mrs. Larry) Johnson, in Dahlgren, IL; Cindy Johnson in McLeansborough, IL; and Susette (Mrs. Steve) Mosbeck in North Glenn, CO.

On Friday, Maurice handed up his orders to the engineer of the moving train for the last time, tying them to a forked stick, which he described as being "four years older than Methuselah." Maurice noted that he had eaten a lot of dust and dirt using that method over the years, adding that the train sometimes came through as fast as 50 mph. "I haven't got too many complaints about my job though," he said, "but I'd rather be fishing."

Film Series On Short Story To Continue Thurs.

Northwest regional library and the American association of university women (AAUW) will present the third program in the film series "The American Short Story" at 7 p.m. Thursday, February 3, in the library meeting room in Thief River Falls.

"The Jilting of Granny Weatherall", by Katherine Porter, is the selection for this session, with commentary by Rich Lyttle and discussion following the film.

On her death bed, a stubborn and once domineering matriarch played by Geraldine Fitzgerald, faces the long suppressed realization that all the accomplishments and acts of her adult life cannot console her nor compensate for the shame-filled day she was left standing at the altar. Still, her indomitable will to live and to act independently infuses the last day of her life.

Copies of the story are available on short-term loan at the library and all sessions are free of charge and open to the public. Refreshments will be provided by AAUW.

American Short Story series is made possible in part by a grant from the Minnesota humanities commission.

Winterfest Is Set Feb. 11-20

As preparations for the Winterfest celebration from February 11 to 20 become more finalized, Thief River Falls Jaycees chairman Al Rux has asked that members of other clubs or organizations which would like to sponsor events, contact him to coordinate scheduling.

Events which are currently planned include: snowmobile races sponsored by the Thief River Falls Sno-Drifters; broomball tournaments, snoftball tournaments, old-timers hockey, bonspiels, a benefit dance at the Eagles club, films for kids, a treasure hunt, an old gun and antique show, and Retail Business Association promotion.

Rux says that the Jaycees plan to make the winterfest an annual event between Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays, and notes that participation of any organizations which would like to run events would be welcomed. Participants may contact Rux at 681-8122.

10th Toothpick Bridge Contest Set For Feb. 23

Fargo-Moorhead engineering club will hold its 10th annual toothpick engineering contest at 7 p.m. February 23 in West Acres Mall.

Object of the event is to build a model span bridge by gluing together roughly 500 round, wooden toothpicks. Structure's total weight, however, can't exceed 85 grams (.1875 pounds).

Bridges should be strong enough and built to support nine inch metal weights while clearing a 22-inch span. During the contest weights are stacked on top of each model and the one that supports the heaviest load before collapsing, wins.

In 1980 Paul Juhnke of Laramoure, ND, built a toothpick bridge that supported a 1,235-pound load. That's still the local record, if not the world's record, according to Charles Martin, chairman of the pre-engineering program at Moorhead state university and organizer of toothpick bridge contests here for the past 10 years.

Martin says he isn't sure how many contests there are like this in other parts of the country. Very few, he imagines. But he's sure that 1,235 pounds is a world title mark and he's been trying to get that feat registered in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Any student — elementary school through college — who would like to enter the contest, or receive detailed rules, should write or call Martin at MSU, (218) 236-2240, Ext. 2104.

Conest will be held at the main entrance of West Acres north mall in Fargo. Entries should be brought there by 6 p.m. Pre-registration isn't required.

Fargo-Moorhead engineering club will offer a $100 first, $75 second and $50 third prize with $25 awards going to best in these classes: elementary, junior high, high school and college students.

Martin says he uses toothpick engineering contests in his freshmen orientation classes. They're not only a break in the routine, he says, but some aspects of constructing toothpick bridges can be used as an introduction to engineering design, weight distribution and problem solving.

Contest will be held in conjunction with National engineering week February 20-26.

Export Prices Main Problem In Dairy Sales

Last year, U.S. dairy exports soared to $304 million but were still only one per cent of U.S. production. Why are dairy exports so poor? Simply because U.S. export prices are among the highest in the world, according to Carroll Rock, agricultural statistician in charge for the Minnesota agricultural statistics service.

Government purchases determine the dairy support price. These purchases put a floor under the market for fluid milk and manufactured products. October's support price was $13.10 per hundredweight, making U.S. price levels one and one-half to two times greater than world prices.

The European Community (EC) and New Zealand claim 90 per cent of the world trade in dairy products. New Zealand is the world's most efficient milk producer. Its weather and year-round grazing mean far less concentrate feeding and milk can then be sold at lower prices.

The 10 members of the EC together rank as the world's largest milk producer and claim the lion's share of dairy exports. Why does the EC have such a "hold" on the market?

The EC supports domestic milk prices at levels close to those in the U.S. The big "plus", though, is that the EC uses export subsidies when selling outside the EC. This makes it competitive in third-country markets and explains why the EC sets world prices, Rock said.

Here in the U.S., all of the CCC's dairy funds go to support domestic dairy prices. But the EC spends nearly half its annual ag budget of $7½ billion to subsidize the sale of surplus dairy products on the world market. Last May, EC's subsidy for butter was $1,278 per ton.

It is subsidies like these that have enabled the EC to cut its dairy stocks from an all-time high of 60 per cent of the world total in 1978 to around 30 per cent in 1982, even though world stocks stayed the same. (The U.S. now holds about 45 per cent of the world dairy stocks.)

"Export subsidies are expensive, but in the near term, exporting may be the only way to bring U.S. surplus stock levels down to levels that are manageable," Rock said.

Secretary of agriculture Block has suggested increasing the use of surplus stocks in donation programs overseas. With appropriate legislation, CCC-owned stocks would go to foreign countries as grants through voluntary agencies.

In the long run, however, the bottom line is that U.S. dairy products need to be price-competitive in world markets.

U of M Reports Enrollment Drop In Quarter

Slight drop in the number of students taking classes at the University of Minnesota winter quarter marks the first decline in regular-quarter enrollment since the spring of 1978.

Enrollment at the university's five campuses totaled 55,712 — a .7 per cent decrease from the record 56,091 students signed up for classes winter quarter last year.

Total enrollment fall quarter was 58,962. Historically, enrollment has dipped after fall quarter. The last enrollment decline occurred during the second five-week summer session in 1982, when 4.9 per cent fewer students were enrolled compared to the previous second summer term.

Twin cities campus closely reflected the overall drop with a .5 per cent decrease in enrollment, which brought the number of students to 44,702 — 240 fewer than winter quarter 1982.

Largest percentage drop was at the Morris campus, which reported 92 fewer students than last quarter for a 5.6 per cent decline to 1,527 students. Duluth campus enrollment also fell, by one per cent, to 7,124 — a loss of 79 students.

Crookston and Waseca campuses reported a rise in student enrollment over last winter. Crookston's 2.3 per cent increase boosted its enrollment by 25 students to 1,094. Waseca's .5 per cent increase brought that campus total enrollment to 1,265 — seven more students than last winter.

Despite the small drop in Twin cities enrollment, some units showed gains. The institute of technology reported 250 more students than last winter — a 4.4 per cent increase. Enrollment at the school of management is up by 148 students for a 12.1 per cent rise.

With a 1.5 per cent decline in enrollment, the college of liberal arts has 260 fewer students than last winter, but with 16,659 students it remains the largest single unit at the university.

FARMER UPDATE

Many bushels of wheat coming out of the farmer-held reserve have now been contracted. Approximately 40% of the wheat coming out in this area has been contracted, in contrast to 10% to 20% in many other areas. For this reason, we feel the market could slip further when the farmers haul in their wheat for cash on the maturity date of their loan.

We are also seeing a lot of bushels being forward-contracted for August through January delivery from farmers who are signing up in the P.I.K. program. We feel you should be watching these forward markets closely and take advantage of these marketing strategies when you feel they are favorable.

We appreciate your confidence in us doing the best possible job of marketing your grain and purchasing your supplies.

Building will remain as a base station for a three-man maintenance crew, but freight service will now be handled through the central office at Crookston, via a toll free telephone number, 1-800-862-0894. Local depot agent Maurice Benson will be taking an early retirement, effective today.

New Electric Rates Set By Red Lake Co-op

Retail rate schedules for 1983 adopted by the Red Lake electric cooperative board of directors at their December 22 meeting will be applied to bills which members receive March 19, 1983.

Cost of 1,000 kilowatt hours (Kwh) per month will rise from $48.75 to $56.50, an increase of 15.9 per cent. Levels of monthly usage lower than 1,000 kwh will increase somewhat less than 15.9 per cent while usage more than 1,000 kwh per month will increase slightly more.

New general service rate will be: $5 monthly facilities charge, first 500 kilowatt hours at 6.2 cents, and usage over 500 kwh at 4.1 cents.

Dual heating discount will increase from 1.2 cents to 1.6 cents per kilowatt hour. This will make the net cost of electricity for dual heating 2.5 cents per kwh, up from the present 2.2 cents.

A 20 per cent increase in wholesale power rates in 1983 is the primary reason for the retail increase. This results in wholesale power cost being about $500,000 more in 1983 than it was in 1982.

This retail rate increase and many other pertinent items will be covered at the cooperative's upcoming district and informational meetings. All members are urged to attend.

Honor Roll At Marshall Co. Central Listed

Eight students at Marshall county central high school earned grade point averages of 4.00 or higher during the second quarter of the current school year, according to David Kragness, principal. Extra points are awarded for certain courses which makes the grade beyond 4.0 possible.

Gaining the top positions were seniors Bruce McKenzie, 4.20; Alan Melvie, 4.08; and Julie Gustafson, 4.00; juniors Stacey Gonshorowski, 4.50; Kim Stokke, 4.17; and Brenda Berggren, 4.07; sophomore Bret Hanson, 4.07; and eighth grader Jon Kragness, 4.00.

Eighty-four out of the 223 students enrolled at Marshall county central gained honor roll placement for 37.7 per cent, Kragness said. On the grading scale 4.0 is equivalent to an A and 2.67 is equivalent to a B.

Other honor students listed include the following:

Safety Awards Competition Is Announced

Minnesota safety council invites state businesses and industries to participate in the Governor's occupational safety awards contest. The awards program judges on-the-job safety performance by companies according to type of industry, amount and degree of hazard.

Safety awards in three categories will be presented as a part of the Minnesota safety conference on May 24-25 at the St. Paul Radisson hotel. Categories are: Award of honor for exceptional safety accomplishment; outstanding achievement award for continuing improvement in incidence rate and-or continuing outstanding record; meritorious achievement award for better than average performance in incidence rate dependent upon type of industry.

Deadline for submitting entry forms for the awards competition is February 15. Award entry forms may be obtained from the Minnesota safety council, 555 Wabasha street, suite 102, St. Paul, Minnesota 55102, or its northeast area service office at 30 West Superior street, suite 500, Duluth, Minnesota 55802. There is no entry fee.

Minn. Aviation Conference Held Feb. 10-12

Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) aeronautics division is sponsoring the conference, which is open to all aviation mechanics and student mechanics as well as pilots interested in maintenance, said Richard B. Keinz, assistant commissioner, aeronautics division.

Co-sponsors are the federal aviation administration (FFA) general aviation district office, Minneapolis, and the Minnesota aviation trades association (MATA).

In addition to the professional technical presentations and safety information to be presented by more than 17 speakers, there will be exhibits by aviation manufacturers, distributors and fixed airplane base operators.

Registration fee is $30 a person and may be paid through pre-registration or at the conference. For pre-registration forms or other information, phone Neil Hyink, aviation representative (612) 296-1141.

Minnesota IRA Investors Get Extra Tax Break

Minnesota residents get a little something extra from individual retirement accounts (IRAs) that is often overlooked: a state tax break.

Any working American can deduct IRA contributions to an annual maximum of $2,000 a year from income reported to the IRS on federal tax forms. But not all states allow such deductions on state tax forms, as well, according to the investment company institute.

Minnesota allows a deduction of $1,500 on state tax forms, as well — if the taxpayer was eligible for an IRA prior to Jan. 1, 1982. (Before that date, only those persons not covered by employers' pension plans could have IRAs).

Actual tax savings, of course, depend on both the amount contributed to an IRA in a given year, and the tax bracket of the investor. Anyone in about the 30 per cent bracket — probably earning around $23,000 a year — who contributes $2,000 to an IRA will save about $600 on federal taxes. State tax breaks vary from state to state, but in many cases will mean an additional tax saving of $100 or more.

Fighting Words

Following editorial is from the Bemidji Pioneer:

Cooler heads will have to prevail later this year if the Minnesota Education Association hopes to get anywhere in '83-'85 salary negotiations. If the statements made by MEA president Donald Hill during the biennial contract conference last weekend are any indication, "bitter" will be too mild a word to describe the dispute that will develop between the teachers and their employers.

Hill said, in words and tones for all of Minnesota to hear quite clearly, that the teachers don't intend to be "the soft spot" in the state's budget balancing push. If there is going to be budget cutting, it won't be at MEA's expense, said the association's top spokesman. "If that means strikes, that means strikes," he told a news conference.

Those are fighting words. And if the MEA was talking about progressive and gradual steps across the salary spectrum, working with the administrations to raise the scales when impossible state cutbacks are expected, we could understand the wrathful language.

But when the MEA bluntly and disdainfully says they want 30 per cent more by the '84-'85 school year, regardless of what the state does to district bugets, we begin to question Hill's rationale: "We want a meaningful salary schedule to attract good people to our profession."

When 30 per cent biennial pay hikes are granted in a period of tremendous deficits and cutbacks, many of those people who were attracted would be on the street.

Public sector unions have to bargain for their increases just like any other unions. Because tax base and funding pressures are getting worse rather than better, the MEA may be figuring it has to aim a little higher than usual.

We will be the first to agree that there is room for professional upgrading by raising the salary level for a starting teacher. To magically bring that grade up to $19,000 around the state is a little more than unreasonable.

Members of the MEA, particularly in tightly-budgeted areas of the state where the tax base is not growing, but the tax bills have (including the North Country region), may be a little shocked themselves at the demands being cited.

Bemidji Education Association President Max Boyer, in fact, has said he is disappointed with the MEA and their attitude. "The MEA is ignoring the present financial problems," Boyer told The Pioneer Monday.

The MEA demands are not what Minnesotans want to hear right now, and Hill and any others sharing his very difinite ideas are just going to close the door before anything can be accomplished.

And there are probably a few teachers as well who are not enthralled with the MEA posture at the moment.

What Happened To The Tax Cut?

Following editorial is from the Morris Tribune:

This is supposed to be the year in which the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 actually makes a significant difference in the taxes you have to pay. But if the business-as-usual politicians in Washington have their way, the promised tax cut will never materialize.

In an article in Friday's Wall Street Journal, Paul Craig Roberts points out how little is left of the tax cut enacted in 1981: According to government estimates, the 1981 tax cut amounted to about $960 billion over the 1982-87 period. It was 69 per cent repealed before it was passed by scheduled Social Security tax increases and bracket creep of $660 billion, leaving a net tax cut of about $300 billion. The 1982 tax increase repealed another $229 billion, leaving a $71 billion tax cut. The recent gasoline tax hike then took away another $16 billion, leaving $55 billion of the original $960 billion tax cut — slightly more than five per cent.

And Congress is threatening more tax increases. The Social Security bailout plan, revealed Sunday by the president's Commission on Social Security Reform, relies on tax increases and general revenue reimbursements for about three-fourths of its "solution" to the deficit problem. Meanwhile, there is talk in Congress of deferring for three years the tax indexing that was to take effect this year.

The politicians who want another tax increase claim that it is needed to reduce federal deficits. If they are so concerned with deficits, why don't they cut federal spending?

When President Reagan threw his support behind last year's tax increase, he claimed that he would get Congress to accept $3 in spending cuts for every $1 of increased taxes. It now looks as if Mr. Reagan will get 50 cents in spending increases for every $1 in increased taxes.

The 1982 tax increase was touted as a remedy for big deficits. Instead, the tax hike brought soaring deficits and an earthbound economy.

The tax increases threatened for this year would dampen consumer spending and hurt prospects for recovery. In all likelihood, additional tax increases would also add to the deficit again, since recession automatically results in bigger government outlays.

Congressman Vin Weber was harshly criticized by Common Cause last year for voting against the tax increase package. Now more and more people are becoming aware that the tax increase was just another rip-off by Washington politicians. A grass roots movement has been started to fight the 10 per cent withholding of interest and dividend income scheduled to start July 1. Weber, who calls the interest withholding scheme "one of the worst provisions of the tax increase bill," has introduced a bill to repeal this part of the tax hike.

We support Weber's bill, and we urge everyone to write Weber, Senator Durenberger, and Senator Boschwitz to protest the planned payroll tax increases. With the federal government gobbling up a record 24 per cent of the GNP, we don't need any more tax increases!

Tourism Looking Up

Following editorial is from the Ely Echo:

It may come as a shock to a lot of people, but 1983 shapes up as a banner year in tourism. In fact, 1982 was pretty doggone good, one of the best on record. With 10 per cent of the population out of work and all manner of gloom and doom being reported by TV commentators (all of whom make a half million or more each year), it is hard to believe that a large part of the U.S. population is gearing up for extensive summer vacations. . . but that is exactly the case.

Tourist operators returning to Ely from sport shows around the U.S. report interest up. . . more than last year. Trips are being booked in record numbers and people are buying outdoor equipment like it is their last chance. If you can believe it, sales of RV's are booming and boat sales are hitting new peaks. America is going outdoors next summer and it is going in style.

There must be sound reasons for this and we can only guess at some: (1) the 90 per cent of the population which is still employed is making darn good money, more than they ever made. (2) The tax break for upper income people has put a lot of extra cash in the pockets of people who have the time to spend it. (3) Inflation is down right now and prices are holding steady. . . a genuine incentive to buy goods or services.

These are guesses, but there is no question that inquiries are up, interest in summer vacations is up (and winter vacations, too). . . and that Ely will have somewhat of a tourist boom next summer. It could not come at a better time, with employment spotty in the mines. How far down the road this recreational activity will be reflected in manufacturing and the need for steel and iron is questionable, but there will be an effect somewhere in sales of cars, trucks, boats, motors and other items people use for recreation.

There is also a steady increase in building and an anticipation of summer home building. The Kainz Logging Co., is reportedly ready to reopen on a limited basis to cut up some dimension lumber, anticipating next summer's building.

The economy in the country may be down, but it isn't out. . . and the indications of improvement are beginning to appear.

Interesting Opinions:

"Love is friendship that has caught fire. It is quiet understanding, mutual confidence, sharing and forgiving. It is loyalty through good times and bad. It settles for less than perfection and makes allowances for human weaknesses.

"Love is content with the present, it hopes for the future and it doesn't brood over the past. It's the day-in-and-day-out chronicles of irritations, problems, compromises, small disappointments, big victories and common goals.

"If you have love in your life, it can make up for the great many things you lack. If you don't have it, no matter what else there is, it's not enough."

SHIPPING ORDERS WERE handed up to the engineer of the moving Burlington Northern train by Thief River Falls depot agent Maurice Benson for the last time on Friday. Depot service on the branch lines has been curtailed, and frieght requests will now be handled through the Crookston central office by telephone. Benson noted that he had eaten a lot of dust and dirt while passing the orders up with the forked stick over the years.

Enrollment For Winter Quarter Rises At UMC

An enrollment increase of 2.3 per cent over a year ago has been recorded at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC), according to official University of Minnesota statistics announced recently.

"I'm surprised," said Dr. Stanley D. Dahlstrom, provost of the Crookston campus. "But we are very pleased that students recognize the quality of instruction offered at UMC and that they realize the need for technical collegiate education preparing for employment."

UMC's official winter quarter enrollment of 1094 is up from 1069 in 1982. Largest increase is in the number of men enrolled. There are 632 this quarter compared with 572 a year ago. This represents an increase of 10.4 per cent. At the same time the total number of women enrolled is down seven per cent, from 479 a year ago to 462 this quarter.

"In difficult times it is important to be prepared for job opportunities, and our goal at UMC is to prepare people for employment," added Sahlstrom.

All of the University campuses indicated a decrease with the exception of Crookston and Waseca. In terms of actual head count, the Twin Cities campus enrolled 44,702 students, down .5 per cent; Duluth, 7,124, down 1 per cent; Morris 1,527, down 5.6 per cent; and Waseca, 1,265, up .5 per cent. As a whole, the university system enrollment this winter quarter of 55,712 is down .7 per cent.

Stangeland Has Ranking On Subcommittee

Congressman Arlan Stangeland, who represents America's largest sugar-beet district, has been named as the top-ranking Republican on the agriculture subcommittee which handles legislation affecting the sugar industry.

"Over 50,000 jobs in the Red river valley depend on our domestic sugar industry," the Congressman said, "I'll be better equipped to protect those jobs with this position."

Congressman Stangeland was the author of the new sugar program which was included in the 1981 farm bill. "That program has kept the U.S. in the sugar beet business," he said. "By preventing foreign nations from dumping their sugar in America, we have saved a lot of family farms.

"Since that program expires in 1985, we must begin work now on extending it in the next four-year farm bill," Congressman Stangeland said. "We also must make sure that no other legislation will undermine our beet-growers."

At the same time, Congressman Stangeland was also chosen as the second-ranking GOP member of the subcommittee on wheat, soybeans and food grains.

"This is also important for our district," he said. "On that subcommittee, we must improve federal programs for surplus reduction and export expansion," he said.

In keeping with that goal, Congressman Stangeland sponsored H.R. 992, a bill which would modify the payment-in-kind (PIK) program to reduce surpluses.

The bill would allow farmers in the PIK program to accept USDA loans for PIK commodities at the rates of $3.65 per bushel for wheat and $2.65 for corn.

"This would establish a floor price for PIK commodities," he said. "It will prevent our farmers from being paid off dirt-cheap to participate in PIK program. The more farmers who participate in PIK, the more effective the program will be.

"I am looking forward to working closely with Don Loeslie of Warren, who is the new president of the National Association of Wheat Growers," Congressman Stangeland said.

The Congressman's subcommittee assignments on the public works and transportation committee will be announced next week.

New Emergency I.D. Card Is Available Now

Minnesota safety council has a new wallet-sized laminated card which could save your life. Card carries vital medical data on a strip of microfilm and has a built-in lens system which allows the card to be read anywhere.

Medical information card contains identification information, medical data including any complicating conditions, physician's name and telephone number, insurance information and a signed authorization from the card bearer allowing for treatment and surgery in case he or she is in an accident and is unconscious or unable to sign a release form at the hospital. It also contains organ donor information and releases. In an emergency, a rescuer need only bend the plastic card to bring the lens and microfilm together to read the card owner's medical history on the spot.

Carriers of the medical information card are provided with a set of self-adhesive stickers that can be placed on a wallet or a driver's license. In an emergency, the stickers will alert rescuers that the victim carries a card with vital medical information.

Medical information card could be a lifesaver for people with a history of heart disease (an EKG strip can be added to the card), those with chronic disabilities, people in high-risk occupations, joggers, travelers and anyone who could be involved in an accident. Card allows rescuers, emergency teams and physicians to begin the safest and quickest care to card carriers involved in an accident or other illness leaving the victim unable to communicate with emergency medical personnel.

Medical information card is available from the Minnesota safety council for $9.95 plus $1.25 for postage, handling and sales tax. For more information and a free application form, contact the Minnesota safety council, 555 Wabasha street, suite 102, St. Paul, Minnesota 55102, or its northern area service office at 30 West Superior street, suite 500, Duluth, 55802.

AIC Tells Of Winter Driving Techniques

You won't let snow and icy roads stall you this winter if you follow some tips provided by the automotive information council (AIC).

For the best traction, apply slow and steady pressure to the accelerator. This gives the tires a chance to grip the road surface. Pull out slowly, picking up speed only when the tires take firm hold. Try to avoid spinning the wheels. When one wheel is stuck and the other is spinning freely, the free wheel can spin at twice the speedometer reading. Tire spinning that rapidly can explode because of excessive heat build-up.

Many common practices used to increase traction are no longer considered safe. Putting extra weight in the trunk of your car for better traction may help slightly, but the steering can be adversely affected. Distance it takes to stop the car can also increase. Likewise, don't reduce tire pressure in an attempt to increase traction. That also can affect steering and tire wear will be increased.

Remember to watch your speed on icy roads. It's easy to lose contact with the road surface if you drive too fast. Provide more time to stop and turn the automobile and allow more distance between you and the car ahead.

Be on the lookout for danger spots. Bridges and overpasses freeze before other road surfaces. Shaded underpasses can hide ice patches.

When you come to a stop don't pump the brakes rapidly. Disc brakes don't release as quickly as older drum brakes. Pumping disc brakes rapidly may cause the brakes to lock, causing a skid. Squeeze the disc brake pedal with a slow steady pressure, release the brakes and apply pressure again.

Using these driving techniques and tips can lead to a safer winter season, says AIC.

BSU Awarded $83,390 Grant By Commission

Minnesota humanities commission has awarded a grant of $3,390 to Bemidji state university to help present a conference that will explore American - Candian relationships.

Conference, entitled "In Pursuit of Common Ground: Canadian and American Studies and the Border Between," aims to increase the awareness of scholars, students, and the public in the similarities and differences in Canadian and American attitudes. These attitudes include the subjects of history, politics, commerce, literature, and the border.

Six Canadian and 11 American scholars will discuss these topics during a series of panel discussions and lectures open to the public.

Grants from the Minnesota humanities commission are made possible through funds provided by the national endowment for the humanities and the Minnesota state legislature.

Conference will be held in Hagg-Sauer hall on the BSU campus April 21-23. For further information, contact program director Dr. William Elliott, Hagg-Sauer hall, Bemidji state university, Bemidji, MN 56601 (755-2183).

Radar Run Had Locals Out To Beat The Pro's

"Beat The Pros" radar run for snowmobile drivers was sponsored by the Thief River Falls Sno-Drifters club on Sunday, January 23, with 54 drivers competing in seven stock classes on the Red Lake River, between Third and Eighth Street bridges.

Drivers were started near the front of Bill LaFave Park, with Sno-Drifters Queen Julie Odegaard and other members of the club organizing entries and checking the starts. Straight course was delineated by rows of flags down both sides, with a radar unit mounted on a vehicle at the finish line to record the speeds at the end of the 750 foot run. Radar unit was furnished by Dave Thompson, and operated by him and Dick Krogstad. Speeds were radioed back to the starting line and announced over the public address system by Tom Wang, president of the Sno-Drifters.

Drivers attempted to improve on speeds established by factory racers on 1983 snowmobiles, with those who succeeded being rewarded with a "Beat The Pros" certificate. Qualifiers will also have their names published in Snow Week magazine, which was one of the promoters of the event along with the Heileman Brewing Company and Dennis Kirk parts and accessories.

NCC Faces Divisional Opponents

Boasting the best record in Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) play, the Northland community college basketball team will put its 13-1 mark on the line over the next two weeks when the Northmen finish the 1982-83 regular season schedule with five consecutive games against Northwest Division rivals.

Northland is 6-0 in Northwest Division-counting play but just one of those games came against a Northwest Division opponent — Brainerd Friday. The others came against Northeast Division teams Rainy River, Hibbing, Vermilion, Mesabi and Itasca.

Top two teams in each of the four divisions across the state earn MCCC state tournament berths. Fergus Falls and Northland are the two favorites in the Northwest Division where the University of Minnesota-Crookston and Brainerd round out the field.

Northland owns a current 11-game winning streak dating back to Dec. 10. The Northmen lost their only game by a 124-112 margin to the Grand Forks Air Force Base in the finals of the Red River invitational in Winnipeg back on Dec. 4.

The Northmen end the season with games Thursday at UMC; Monday vs. Fergus Falls; Sat., Feb. 12, vs. Brainerd; Mon., Feb. 14, at Fergus Falls; and Thurs., Feb. 17, vs. UMC. Those are all key games in Northland's bid for Northwest Division honors and post-season playoff hopes.

Northland and Northland sophomore Matt Fontes continue to maintain their rankings in National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) charts. In the latest listing, Northland was No. 3 in the scoring parade with an average of 100.6 points per game and Fontes, the 6-4 forward from South high school in Canton, Ohio, was holding down the No. 3 spot in the national scoring charts with an average of 30.6 per game.

Fontes, after a big 72-point weekend recently against Vermilion (37) and Mesabi (35), moved into third place on the Northland career scoring list. He went into Friday's game at Brainerd with 848 points for the Northmen, trailing only Terry Harris, who finished his two-year career here with 1,440 points, and David Dickey, who has 1,073.

Section 8 Tournament Nears

With post-season Section 8 high school hockey tournament play fast-approaching, followers of the sport are beginning to worry that the Section 8 quarterfinal field Feb. 25-26 in East Grand Forks won't necessarily feature the best eight hockey teams in this part of the state.

New playoff format this year may leave some of the perennial contenders on the sidelines while other not-so-qualified teams take their spots in the Section 8 field.

As in the past, the top four finishers — based upon a won-lost percentage within Section 8 play — will earn automatic berths into the Section 8 quarterfinals. That leaves 14 other teams battling for the other four berths through sub-sectional play.

However, instead of the others thrown into one big sub-sectional field as has been the case in recent years, a new North-South format this winter features Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks, Roseau, Warroad, Crookston, Lake of the Woods, Hallock, Indus and Red Lake Falls in the North while Fergus Falls, Bemidji, Alexandria, Brainerd, Detroit Lakes, Moorhead, Little Falls, Bagley and Crosby-Ironton in the South.

What you might find is a top four finish of Fergus Falls, Alexandria, Bemidji and Lake of the Woods. Rest of the Section 8 quarterfinal field will include the top two finishers in the North Sub-Section and the top two finishers in the South Sub-Section playoffs. That means teams like Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks, Roseau, Warroad and Crookston would be battling for only two available tournament berths. The South line-up doesn't look as impressive. You might have East Grand Forks and Roseau playing for a North Sub-Sectional qualifying spot while at the same time Detroit Lakes could be playing Bagley for a South position.

Change in tournament format was prompted because of a concern over travel. Detroit Lakes officials pushed for the change after the Lakers found themselves playing at Baudette one night and then right back at Warroad the following night in recent sub-sectional draw. The Region 8 representatives went against wishes of the coaches who wanted to conduct the tournament in the same fashion.

In a section that goes from the Canadian border to Little Falls, travel is obviously a problem. But it seems the Section 8 tournament should feature the best teams, not just the most convient ones.

Thief River Falls' bid for a top four finish will find the Prowlers playing season-ending games Tuesday vs. Crookston; Saturday at Roseau; Tues., Feb. 8, at Hallock; Fri., Feb. 11, vs. Detroit Lakes; and Tues., Feb. 15, vs. Warroad.

Miscellaneous

+ When Lake of the Woods followed a 6-3 win over Warroad on Dec. 14 with a 4-2 victory over Roseau on Jan. 18, it represented the first time since 1966-67 that the Bears were able to beat both the Rams and Warriors in the same high school hockey season.

RAINY RIVER DEFENSEMAN Steve Kebiner spilled Northland forward Todd Bergland and gained possession of the puck in the third period of Friday's Minnesota Community College Conference (MCC) hockey game played in the Thief River Falls sports arena. The Voyageurs spilled the Northmen 4-3 in the final minute of play.

Community College Hockey Series . . .

Rainy River Wins 4-3 In Final Minute Of Opener

If it wasn't for bad luck, the Northland community college hocky team wouldn't have any luck at all.

Trying to snap a four-game losing streak, the Northmen played a strong game against Rainy River Friday to open a Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) weekend series in the Thief River Falls sports arena, only to come out a toughluck loser, 4-3 in the final minute of play.

And the game-winning goal was a real bummer; a crazy-bouncing shot from the center ice area by the Voyageurs' Blake Peterson that skipped by Northland goalie Billy Bye, who played an outstanding game for the Northmen.

"It was a freaky bounce," explained Northland coach Tony Dorn, Jr. "It happens in the game of hockey, and it seems like its happening to us more than the other guys."

Unlike most MCCC encounters that end up being wild shoot-outs, this one was a close-checking defensive game. It was scoreless through the first period and Northland had a 1-0 edge when Tom Raymond stuffed in a rebound that came out the other side on Rainy River goalie Chris Langenbrunner at 16:56 of the second period.

Northland made it a sudden 2-0 just 48 seconds into the third period when Todd Bergland, sitting on the goalie's left shoulder, scored on a rebound off a shot by defenseman Keith Huerd.

"We out-played them the first two periods," pointed out Dorn. "Overall, it's the best hockey game we've played in probably our last five games. We forechecked well. We had opportunity on opportunity, but we just couldn't put the puck in the net."

Rainy River finally broke into the scoring column during a 4-on-3 power play at 7:44 when George McDonald blasted a slap shot by Bye, who came way out of the net on the play to cut down the angle.

Two minutes later it was a 2-2 tie as highly-regarded International Falls freshman Gerald Bolstad tipped one past Bye on a slap shot from the point by Mike Grandaw.

Northland regained the lead, 3-2, when Ladd Bjugson scored on a power play rebound at 11:38, putting the puck in the net after Langenbrunner stopped Tom Ose in front.

Rainy River tied it again on another tip-in, this one by Rainy River, Ont. freshman Dean Armstrong, who combined with Bolstad to give the Voyaguers a potent one-two punch, at 15:16.

Peterson then got the game winner with just 35 seconds remaining in a 3-3 game.

"We didn't play well," said Rainy River athletic director George Schlieff, who was coaching the team in absence of Terry Thompson, hospitalized back at International Falls with pneumonia. "We were out-played. Northland deserved to win," added Schlieff, who coached high school hockey in Thief River Falls from the 1963-64 season through 1968-69. "I will say, though, that our kids didn't quit. We got good goaltending and they hung in there."

Northwomen Gain Split In Weekend Road Games

A weekend split on the road left the Northland community college women's basketball team with a 5-7 season record, 2-4 in Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) play.

The Northwomen lost a 42-38 decision at Brainerd Friday night before winning by a 48-44 margin over Itasca Saturday afternoon at Grand Rapids.

Northland will be at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) Thursday for a 6 p.m. game.

Brainerd 42
Northland 38

Ahead by 10 points with 4½ minutes remaining, Brainerd managed to hold on for a 42-38 win over Northland Friday night in a game delayed by 45 minutes at the start when officials failed to show up.

Brainerd led 17-13 at halftime, a margin that proved to be the winning spread as both sides scored 25 points in the second half.

"A loss is tough to take, especially when its a game that you should have won," explained Northland coach Deb Jacobson, "if we would have played our game. It wasn't a matter of them forcing us out of our game, either. Rather, we never got going, or at least until it was too late."

It was not a great offensive game for either side. Northland shot only 24 per cent from the field (14-for-58) and 56 per cent at the free throw line (10-for-18). Brainerd shot 33 per cent from the floor (12-for-36) and 62 per cent at the line (18-for-29).

Thief River Falls freshmen Tara Nicholson and LeAnn Paetznick led Northland both offensively and defensively as the Northwomen edged Itasca 48-44 Saturday.

Trailing most of the first half, Northland rallied in the final two minutes to take a 26-25 edge into intermission. It was close throughout the second half, with the Northwomen getting a couple of press-breaking lay-ups at the end to seal the victory.

Nicholson finished with 15 points and 10 rebounds while Paetznick had 14 points and 7 rebounds for the Northwomen. Laurie Ehalt, a sophomore from Greenway, scored 22 points for the losers.

Northland shot 33 per cent from the field (18-for-55) and 71 per cent at the free throw line (12-for-17). Itasca shot 36 per cent from the floor (18-for-50) and 72 per cent at the line (8-for-13). Itasca had a 36-34 edge on the boards.

Detroit Lakes Out-Scores Thief River Falls 69-66

Thief River Falls' best offensive effort of the 1982-83 season was sabotaged by the Prowlers' poorest defensive performance of the year and the net result was a 69-66 high school basketball loss at the hands of Detroit Lakes Saturday in the Lincoln gym.

"We cooked our own goose," said Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt. "They were just too quick for us. We needed to control the tempo of the game; keep the ball out of their hands." But the Prowlers didn't, and instead got caught up in the faster-paced Lakers running game. "We don't feel we'll be successful with the up-tempo," explained Hunt. He was right.

The 66 points represented a season-high on offense for the Prowlers, but the 69 points also were a season-high on defense. The numbers didn't surprise Detroit Lakes coach John Erickson. "Offensively I'm pleased," he said after watching the Lakers shoot 52 per cent from the field (32-for-61), many of them from long range outside the Thief River Falls zone. "We've been doing well on our perimeter shooting," he acknowledged. "Defensively we've had our trouble this year."

Still, the Lakers are 6-3 for the year, 5-1 against North Half Region 8AA teams where the defending champions have lost only to Moorhead 72-62. Meanwhile, Thief River Falls fell below .500 again at 5-6, with a 1-4 mark against Class AA foes.

After jumping out to an 8-0 headstart, Thief River Falls settled for an 18-18 first quarter draw with Detroit Lakes. The Prowlers' best basketball of the night opened up a 34-25 spread following a pair of Jeff Hamerlinck free throws with 1:49 remaining in the first half. But they let the momentum get away as the Lakers scored six half-ending points to pull within 34-31 at intermission.

"Turning point in the game was when he had a nine-point lead in the first half and we failed to control the tempo," pointed out Hunt.

Detroit Lakes never led in the first half, but the Lakers finally managed to over take the Prowlers 39-38 when guard Bryan Harris banked in a short jumper with 5:39 left in the third quarter. John Brandt put in a lay-up off a feed from Mark Gere to put the Prowlers temporarily back on top 44-43 with 2:56 remaining, but that was to be their final lead. Detroit Lakes took control with a 10-0 surge at that point as five different Lakers hit baskets en route to a 53-45 cushion at the quarter break.

Thief River Falls never got closer than eight points during the fourth quarter until a late charge made things interesting at the end.

A rebound basket by Randy Naeseth and a 12-foot jumper by Brandt pulled the Prowlers within 67-62 with 1:45 to play. They had a chance to narrow the gap to three points, but lost the ball underneath with 1:17 on the clock. Detroit Lakes' David Douglas made both ends of a bonus free throw situation for a 69-62 edge with 54 seconds left. But the scrappy Prowlers refused to give up. Naeseth scored from underneath with 45 seconds showing to make it 69-64 and after the Lakers missed the front end of another bonus opportunity, Brandt was found alone under the basket as the gap closed to 69-66 with 22 seconds remaining.

Center Doug Imholte followed with a miss on a 1-and-1 situation at the line with 15 seconds to go and the Prowlers rebounded. But they missed two jumpers and the clock finally ran out on them.

"The kids didn't quit, but Detroit Lakes was just a lot quicker than we were," noted Hunt. "That was probably the most uncontested baskets we've given up. We couldn't get back."

Brandt and Gere had 19 points apiece for the Prowlers, who also had a good night shooting, hitting at 60 per cent clip (28-for-47). Guard Dennis Priem had 18 to pace four Lakers in double figures.

Thief River Falls was 10-for-19 at the free throw line, where Detroit Lakes was just 5-for-13. The Prowlers finished with a slight 24-23 edge on the boards and topped the turnover figures 20-13.

Crookston will be the Prowlers' next opponent on the road Saturday.

Northmen Impressive In Weekend Sweep On Road

Winning streak for the Northland community college basketball team reached 11 games as the Northmen collected a weekend sweep on the road against Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) opponents.

Northland out-scored Northwest Division rival Brainerd 117-96 Friday night and handled Itasca 72-35 Saturday afternoon, and Northland coach Chet Engelman was elated with the results.

"The best weekend of basketball on the road in Northland history," is the way he described the play of the Northmen, 13-1 for the year and 6-0 in MCCC play. "We've never had back-to-back games on the road where we've played so well. We really played well."

The Northmen play just one game this week, an 8 p.m. contest Thursday at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

A 60 per cent shooting night from the field and 29 points at the free throw line enabled Northland to out-score Brainered 117-96 Friday in the first Northland assignment of the season against a Northwest Division rival.

The Northmen were 44-for-73 from the field (60.3 per cent) and a productive 29-for-37 at the free throw line (78.4 per cent). Brainered, meanwhile, was 42-for-86 from the floor (48.8) and 12-for-19 at the line (63.2).

Matt Fontes continued his season-long role as the Northland leader, scoring 34 points, grabbing 11 rebounds and handing out five assists. He wasn't alone, however, as Kyle Ramsey scored 22 points, Shorty Johnson 20 and Scott McKeever, 19, while Duncan Gregory was credited with 12 assists.

Northland had a 62-45 halftime lead and Brainered was never closer than 10 points in the second half.

The Northmen finished with a 47-38 rebound advantage and Brainerd topped the turnover figures 24-23.

Itasca 35

Itasca's attempt to play a slow-down game against fast-breaking Northland worked in the first half when the underdog Vikings stayed within 14-12 of the Northmen, but it didn't contain the visitors in the second half of what turned out to be a 72-35 rout.

Ahead 14-12 midway through the first half, the Northmen elected to follow suit and went into a holding pattern, too, instead of wearing themselves out playing defense against a team that wasn't interested in much offense, anyway, explained coach Chet Engelman. The Northmen held onto the ball for a full seven-minute stretch at that point to end the first half.

Northland came out and scored the first six points of the second half and out-scored Itasca 20-4 over the first eight minutes to lead 34-16. Even then, the Vikings refused to open up offensively.

"The guys did a good job and kept their composure," explained Engelman. "They didn't like it (slow-down tactics) and I didn't either, but they handled the situation well."

It was another outstanding shooting performance for the winners, who were 30-for-48 from the field (63 per cent) and 12-for-17 at the free throw line (12-for-17). Itasca was just 12-for-42 from the field (29 per cent) and 11-for-14 at the line (79 per cent).

Matt Fontes scored 29 points for the winners, with Kyle Ramsey getting 16 and Scott McKeever 12, with Shorty Johnson grabbing 12 rebounds and Duncan Gregory handing out eight assists.

Skippers Beat Eagles In North Border Play 77-47

Middle River, with four scorers finishing in double figures, jumped out to a 25-8 first quarter lead and rolled over Grygla 77-47 Friday in North Border Conference high school basketball action.

"We played well," reported Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We moved the ball extremely well; we got a lot of easy shots."

Kevin Roppe led the host Skippers with 21 points, but Nathan Bukowski added 17, Kevin McKeever 13 and Brad Berg 10. Mike Brateng had 17 for the Eagles.

The outcome left Middle River at 6-4 and dropped Grygla to 4-6.

Middle River enjoyed a 56 per cent shooting night from the field (33-for-59), including a 62 per cent, 10-for-16 first quarter. Grygla shot only 35 per cent (20-for-57). Middle River didn't fare as well at the free throw line, shooting just 44 per cent (11-for-25) while the Eagles shot 50 per cent (7-for-14). Middle River finished with a big 42-25 rebound edge, getting 15 offensive rebounds in the process to only six for Grygla. The Eagles doubled the Skippers in turnovers, 19-9.

Both teams will be in action Friday and Saturday. Middle River hosts Lake of the Woods Friday and visits Tri-County at Karlstad Saturday. Grygla will be at home both nights, vs. Marshall County Central Friday and vs. Greenbush Saturday.

Goodridge lost for just the second time in its last nine games Friday, dropping a 43-42 Polar Conference decision at Stephen.

Trailing 41-40, Goodridge missed two shots in the final minute of play that would have given the Huskies the lead. After their second miss, with six seconds left, Stephen iced the game with a pair of free throws. Goodridge hit one at the buzzer for the one-point margin.

"I was happy withthe way we came back and played in the second half," said Goodridge coach Rick Nelson. "We started out a little sluggish."

Tied 18-18 midway through the second quarter, Goodridge turned the ball over on three consecutive possessions and Stephen turned each one of them into points for a 24-18 halftime lead. The Tigers had a 33-28 third quarter edge.

Jeff Langan scored 21 points for the Huskies, with Darin Easthouse adding 10.

Goodridge shot 41 per cent from the field (18-for-44) and 55 per cent at the free throw line (6-for-11). "Free throws kind of killed us," explained Nelson. The Huskies missed twice on the front ends of bonus situations in the fourth quarter. Stephen shot 51 per cent from the field (18-for-35) and 54 per cent at the line (7-for-13). Goodridge had a 19-15 rebound edge and Stephen topped the turnover figures 15-9.

Mark Frosaker scored 30 points, including a basket in the final seconds of regulation time to tie it, as Badger edged Marshall County Central 66-63 Friday in North Border Conference play.

Frosaker's basket tied it 59-59, and the Rockets scored at the start of the three-minute overtime for a lead they never relinquished. Five of their seven overtime points came at the free throw line.

Marshall County Central, dropping below .500 at 5-6, hurt its own cause with 26 turnovers, including several down the stretch.

"It was our turnovers," explained Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We boarded well and we hustled, but in the critical part of the game we didn't play with any composure."

Scott Anderson led the Nordics with 22 points.

Marshall County Central shot 47 per cent from the field (28-for-60) and 50 per cent at the free throw line (7-for-14). Badger shot 48 per cent from the field (27-for-56) and 71 per cent at the line (12-for-17). The Nordics had a 33-23 rebound edge.

Despite the loss, the Nordics can still clinch at least a share of the North Border Conference title this winter, said Ueland, with key games this week Tuesday at Warroad and Friday at Grygla.

Plummer 33

Poor shooting continued to plague Plummer as the 0-12 Cardinals lost a 53-33 home court decision to Fisher Saturday in a make-up game.

Fisher built a 30-14 halftime lead and pushed the difference to 46-19 in the third quarter.

"We played pretty good defense in both (weekend) games," mentioned Plummer coach Jim Baron, "but we just can't shoot."

Fisher's John Erickson, who scored 16 points, was the game's only double figure scorer.

UMC Continues Edge Over Northland Squad

In a game of numbers, the University of Minnesota-Crookston definitely has Northland's. Wednesday it was 8-3 for the Trojans in the third of their four month-long, mid-week Minnesota Community College Conference hockey meetings with the Northmen. It was achieved basically by Northland's puny 12 shots on goal for the 60 minutes of hockey, and it gave the Trojans a sweep to date over the Northmen. In fact, the numbers now read 20 UMC wins in the last 24 games with Northland.

"We're just not shooting the puck," fumed Northland coach Tony Dorn, Jr. "We're making dumb passes that are costing us. Instead of finishing the play with a good, hard shot they've got to screw around with it."

It started in fine fashion for the Northmen, who put early pressure on the Trojans and got off to a 2-0 start. Fargo North freshman Jeff Toussaint got credit for a power play goal at 3:27 of the first period when his centering pass from behind the UMC net was knocked across the goal line by netminder Jeff Burke in a feeble attempt to clear the puck. East Grand Forks sophomore Todd Gregoire converted a nice pass from Thief River Falls freshman Murray Jorde into a 2-0 edge at 11:27 on a point-blank shot while both teams skated a man short.

UMC tied it in a space of 54 seconds later in the period as Neil Stanaway scored at 15:19 and Dennis LaCoursiere put in a goal mouth tip at 16:15.

Keith Jansen zipped a quick, hard slap shot by Northland goalie Bill Bye at 17:50 of the second period for a 3-2 UMC lead and the third period was a complete waste for the Northmen, who gave up two shorthanded goals 57 seconds apart, surrendered two goals in a space of 10 seconds a few minutes later and allowed two UMC power play goals in the process as they fell behind 8-2. Fargo North Freshman Ladd Bjugson scored on a rebound at 18:32 for the Northmen to complete the penalty-slowed game.

"You can't play a period, period-and-a-half of hockey in this league and expect to win," said Dorn as he shook his head at Northland's fourth straight loss after a fine 5-2 start this winter.

UMC coach Jim Clauson took the win, but he was nearly as upset as Dorn as he talked about the steady stream of 23 players parading to the penalty box — 12 on Northland, 11 on UMC.

"We're the luckiest 9-2 team in the league winning the way we played tonight," he said. "All that pushing and shoving is pathetic. If these two teams wanted to go out and give 100 per cent, it could be a whale of a game. It could be such hockey, but it isn't. If we keep this stuff up people won't come back to watch. The players have to realize we're trying to draw fans, produce revenue. But people don't want to see this stuff."

Both coaches cited Bye, a big freshman from Fargo North. "I thought their goaltender played a really excellent hockey game," said Clauson. "Billy played a helluva hockey game for what he had to do out there. We didn't give him much support," noted Dorn.

The two teams will go at it again Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Crookston.

Prowlers Edge Indians 46-44

Junior John Brandt hit a jump shot at the buzzer from about 18 feet Friday to give Thief River Falls a dramatic 46-44 come-from-behind high school basketball victory at Mahnomen.

It was Brandt who came up with a steal and a basket to tie the game at 44-44 with 16 seconds remaining and Mark Gere then held his ground to draw a charging foul on the Indians with 10 seconds left, a possession that led to Brandt's game-winning basket.

"We just wanted to get an open shot," said Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt about the Prowlers' final play strategy. Gere, Brandt or Steve Olson were the primary shooters, and Brandt wound up with it.

"Going down the stretch a lot of things went our way," admitted Hunt, "but we did force some turnovers when we had our backs to the wall."

Mahnomen led at the first three quarter stops 14-8, 25-20 and 36-30. The Indians were playing without the services of their top player, Ken Muckenhirn, who missed the game because of illness. Ironically, he also missed last year's Thief River Falls-Mahnomen meeting, won by the Prowlers 53-50.

"We were fortunate to win," acknowledged Hunt. Mahnomen missed three bonus free throw opportunities in the final two minutes that could have opened things up for the Indians.

Brandt and Gere led the Prowlers with 15 and 12 points, respectively, and most of those came in the second half when Brandt scored 13 and Gere had 10. Gere also had 11 rebounds as the Prowlers built a 36-27 edge on the boards, a total that featured 19 offensive rebounds.

Thief River Falls shot 36 per cent from the field (20-for-55) and 40 per cent from the free throw line (6-for-15). Mahnomen shot 55 per cent from the floor (18-for-33) and 42 per cent at the line (8-for-19). The Indians topped the turnover figures 17-13.

Bears Upset Nordics 38-30

A Marshall County Central offense that produced a 78-37 win over Badger earlier in the week was shut down Thursday as the Nordics lost a 38-30 girls high school basketball game at Hallock.

It was just the second loss in 12 starts for the Nordics, a season-low on offense where Marshall County Central had been averaging 58.5 points per game.

"They played better than we did. We just got beat, that's all there is to it," offered Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "It was the worst game I've seen us play in years."

In defense of the Nordics, they were playing without two starters — Julie Gustafson, who has been sick, and Debbie Peterson, sidelined with a knee injury — and had two others — Sue Olson and Barb Garthus — run into early foul trouble.

Despite the personnel shortage, Marshall County Central had quarter leads of 9-6, 15-12 and 26-20 before a fourth quarter turnaround made the Bears winners.

During the final eight minutes Marshall County Central went into a 2-for-9 shooting slump and watched as Hallock went 10-for-12 at the free throw line.

Game's only double figure scorer was Colleen Loeffler of the Bears, who had 11 points.

For the game, Hallock was a productive 14-for-18 at the free throw line (78 per cent) while Marshall County Central was just 4-for-10 (40 per cent). From the field, Marshall County Central was 13-for-42 (31 per cent) and Hallock was 12-for-50 (24 per cent). Hallock owned the boards 32-22, including 17 offensive rebounds. The Bears topped the turnover figures 19-16.

Badger 25

Middle River spotted Badger a 10-9 first quarter lead then out-scored the host Rockets 46-15 the rest of the way en route to a 55-25 North Border Conference win Thursday.

The Skippers led 23-16 at halftime and 34-20 at the end of the third quarter.

Paula Rantanen led the Skippers with 18 points. Heidi Johnson had 10 for the Rockets.

Middle River coach Tom Neibauer wasn't completely satisfied with the Skippers' performance. "We didn't play very well," he said. "We haven't had a good game for a long time."

Plummer 57
Strandquist 26

Plummer, featuring a line-up with an eighth grader, a freshman, a sophomore, a junior and a senior, had little trouble beating Strandquist 57-26 Thursday.

Jody Pahlen scored 24 points in about 2½ quarters of playing time to lead the host Cardinals, who led at the quarter stops 13-4, 33-10 and 49-15. Sheila Jaeger added 11 points for the winners, playing without junior Sheila Sorenson, who is sidelined with a back injury.

Plummer shot 35 per cent from the field (22-for-62) and enjoyed a 76 per cent night at the free throw line (13-for-17). Strandquist shot just 15 per cent from the field (8-for-53) and 59 per cent at the line (10-for-17). Plummer had a slight 32-31 rebound edge but an effective full court press by the Cardinals forced Strandquist into 35 turnovers while the winners lost the ball 19 times.

Warroad 23

Middle River started with a 20-4 first quarter lead and went on to crush Warroad 66-23 Saturday in a North Border Conference make-up game at Middle River.

Unbeaten in 13 starts, the Skippers led it 34-8 at halftime and had a 49-12 third quarter cushion.

Kari Skoglund scored 23 points for the winners, with Paula Rantanen adding 16 and Diane Black 10. Skoglund was also praised by coach Tom Neibauer for her defensive work against the Warriors' Robin Marvin, who was held to just 10 points, only two field goals. Warroad, in fact, managed to get just one shot off in the first quarter and made just seven field goals all day.

"That's the bet game we've played this year," said Neibauer.

Middle River hosts Hallock Tuesday and visits Roseau Thursday.

School Board Proceedings

January 31, 1983
Meet and Confer Session
Ind. School Dist. No. 564
Thief River Falls, Minnesota
January 10, 1983

A Meet and Confer Session was held with the Board of Education of School District No. 564 and the TRF Education Association Meet and Confer Committee at 7:30 p.m. on January 10, 1983 in the Board Room of the School District Service Center.

The following Board members were present: Arnt Aune, Archie Cameron, Myrle Carlson, Hank Hallstrom, Larry McDowell, Greg Pribula, and Harry Sjulson. TRFEA members present included Mike Lehrer, Al Dalen, Cheryl Hinschberger, and Edith Etter. Also present was Robert Block, Superintendent.

Chairman Harry Sjulson called the meeting to order at 7:30 p.m. and Clerk Arnt Aune established that a quorum was present.

A number of items were discussed including the following:

1. Four-Day Week — The possibility of the necessity of going to a four-day week or a variation of one was discussed and it was suggested that a committee be established to study implications of such a change. Members of the committee would include the Superintendent and representatives from the Board; Principals group; teachers from each area including the AVTI, High School, Middle School, and elementary schools; and parents.

2. 1983-84 K-12 Calendar — According to the master contract, a calendar must be formulated by April 1. Concern has been expressed over doing so because with negotiations and cutbacks, changes may need to be made in various aspects of the calendar. Two proposed calendars were presented and discussed but no recommendation was made to the Board at this time. Another Meet and Confer Session will be scheduled in about a month to formalize the calendar.

1983-84 AVTI Calendar — No proposals were presented at this time. However, one will be obtained for discussion at the next session.

3. 1982-83 K-12 Calendar Change — Two changes in the calendar were recommended including establishing the floating district-wide inservice day as February 18 and changing the elementary parent-teacher conferences from January 20 and 21 to January 21 and 24 to enable all staff to attend an ECSU Workshop dealing with the needs of handicapped students on Thursday, January 20. Consequently, there would be no school on January 20, 21, and 24. Secondary staff would be working through curriculum changes and upcoming budget reductions on the 24th.

4. Continuing Contract Salaries — A brief discussion was held regarding the advancement of teachers to the next step on the salary schedule if the contract is still being negotiated. In compliance with an earlier arbitration award, this advancement will take place the beginning of the 1983-84 school year even though the contract may not have been settled. This also holds true for lane change adjustments.

5. Elementary Prep Time — Concern has been expressed by some elementary teachers that they are working more than the 300-minute day. However, there has been some differences of opinion in the interpretation of those 300 minutes. The Superintendent asked the Committee to provide him with a list of those teachers who feel they are over so that he and the elementary principals can discuss this issue.

6. Unrequested Leave for Part-Time Certified Personnel — The Superintendent informed the Committee that he would be recommending to the Board that if it becomes necessary to place staff on unrequested leave, more-seniored part-time teachers will bump less-seniored full-time teachers. The Committee stated they would have to go back to their Council regarding this issue and asked the Superintendent to send them information supporting this recommendation.

The next Meet and Confer Session will be held in about one month.

Meeting adjourned at 8:00 p.m.

Bears Upset Nordics 38-30 On Thursday

"For the first 21 minutes we played really well," pointed out Plummer coach Rick Koivisto. That's when the Cardinals were enjoying a 44-29 lead late in the third quarter. Fisher chopped that to 60-58 near the end, but Bonnie Fisher grabbed a rebound, was fouled, and made a free throw with 18 seconds left to hold off the Flyers' rally.

Plummer used a busy 18-for-37 game at the free throw line (49 per cent) to offset a deficit in the field goal department. The Cardinals were 22-for-61 from the field (36 per cent), with the Flyers going 27-for-80 (34 per cent). Fisher was 4-for-8 at the line (50 per cent). Fisher had a 46-35 rebound edge but also topped the turnover figures 27-25.

Playing just once this week, Plummer hosts Red Lake Falls Thursday.

Prowlers Beat Moorhead 8-3

Thief River Falls built a 6-0 lead through two period then settled for an 8-3 Section 8 high school hockey win at Moorhead Saturday.

Tim Bergland collected a three-goal hat trick for the Prowlers, who ran their unbeaten streak to 11 games as their record climbed to 10-3-1 for the year.

Mitch Semanko, Gary Cornell, Steve Wiskow, Brian Johnston and Joe Blankenfeld also scored for the Prowlers, who opened with a 2-0 first period lead and played a strong second period for the six-goal spread. Cornell, a junior defenseman, was making his varsity debut after being sidelined with a knee injury in a Dec. 14 game at Bemidji.

Goalie Kerry Wollin, who shut out East Grand Forks 4-0 in his last start, blanked the Spuds through two periods before giving way to junior Lee Genereux.

Moorhead managed to cut the gap in half to 6-3 in the first 6:19 of the third period, but a goal by Blankenfeld at 9:02 cut off the Spuds' rally and Bergland got his hat trick goal at 13:56 to finish it.

The Prowlers, who gave up just 10 goals in their six previous games, might have matched that defensive effort against a Moorhead team they beat 5-1 earlier this winter, but Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand elected to use everybody on the team instead of working towards the shutout.

"It's a team game," he explained. "We don't emphasize the personal part of it. We had a chance to use everybody."

Goodridge 100 Snowmobile Race Feb. 12

Goodridge area Jaycees' sixth annual 100 mile cross country snowmobile race will be held Saturday, February 12. The 1983 "Goodridge 100" will feature four performance rated stock classes, a masters class for competitors over 40 years of age, a powder puff class for women, and a pro class for sanctioned 56 horsepower cross country sleds.

In order to give all snowmobilers a fair chance, regardless of the model snowmobile, they ride, four performance rated stock classes of A, B, C and D, are being offered again this year. These stock classes are classified under a performance rating system where any given model's horsepower, engine size, weight, type of cooling, handling characteristics and other factors are taken into consideration in determining which class a snowmobile is in.

Engine size by itself is not necessarily a determining factor, but machines of comparable performance levels are placed in classes where they are expected to be competitive.

The pro class will be open to drivers with qualified cross country sleds and carries a $75 entry fee. The stock classes entry fee has been lowered $10 this year to $25 and the masters and powder puff entry fee is only $10, according to project chairman Alan Swanson.

The Powder Puff entries will race approximately 30 miles, the masters approximately 60 miles while the pro and stock classes race the entire 100 miles over ditch, river and cross country terrain.

Registration and entry fee will be accepted from 8 to 11 a.m. at the Goodridge school on the day of the race. A drivers meeting will be held at 11 a.m. at the school with the race scheduled to start at 1 p.m. near the south edge of Goodridge. Gas and oil for refueling will be provided through donations from Swenson's distributors, Midland Co-op of Middle River and Cenex of Goodridge and Thief River Falls.

Participants under 18 years of age require their guardians' written approval. A cash payback is awarded to the pro and stock classes as well as trophies to the first three places in all classes. For additional information contact Clint Hoffman at 378-4553 or Mike Hanson at 378-4588.

MEA Calls For $19,000 Salary Level To Start

Based on studies of current economic status of Minnesota teachers and comparable professionals, the Minnesota education association (MEA) announces that one of its negotiations goals for the 1983-85 biennium is a minimum $19,000 base salary for teachers with baccalaureate degrees.

"There already are problems," say MEA President Donald C. Hill, "with attracting persons with high potential to the profession of teaching — and that's not limited to math and science teachers.

"Not only that, too many good teachers are quitting — teachers with considerable experience and status. And sex discrimination still is with us.

"If this keeps up, there won't be a new generation of teachers to teach the new generations of students."

Hill emphasizes that pertinent studies support his contentions. So do statistics.

"An example," Hill continues, "is in the consumer price index (CPI) figures for the Twin Cities. In 1971-72, teachers already were behind fellow professionals. Ten years later — in order to keep up with the rise in the CPI, and starting from a low point — beginning salaries should have been between $17,400 and $18,900."

"Everyone knows they were not."

Other bargaining goals of the MEA for 1983-85, which local associations are encouraged to negotiate are:

— Reduction in the number of steps on the salary schedule (many range up to 15-20, unheard of in other fields).

— Equal preparation time for all teachers (secondary teachers now have, through state department of education rule, elementary teachers have it only where negotiated into the contract).

— Minimum of three personal leave days with pay (most local contracts provide for some personal leave).

— Insurances fully paid by the school district — employee and dependent health, medical and dental (only a handful do not have hospitalization-medical, one out of four have dental); employee disability insurance providing two-thirds of annual salary (nearly three out of five have it); employee term life insurance equal to twice annual salary (a benefit in nearly half the local contracts).

In addition to the above goals, the MEA strongly recommends, Hill explains, that local associations negotiate provisions to achieve full credit for prior teaching experience upon hire; voluntary acceptance of extracurricular assignments; substantial early retirement (at least 55 years of age) and severance incentives (already in some contracts); fair transfer and assignment provisions.

"We've been slipping," Hill concludes, "in our commitment to public education — a per cent per year in the state's budget for more than a decade — which is reflected in Minnesota dropping from near the top in quality of education to lower than tenth."

POLICE OFFICERS Dave Schneider of Thief River Falls and Bob Onsgard of Halstad were "volunteered" to participate in a role-playing session with domestic abuse specialists Jeff Janacek and Maggie Arzdorf Schubbe, little realizing that when they reentered the room in response to a disturbance call, they would be faced with a case of husband abuse. Although not as common as the reverse situation, the crime remains the same, and the two officers made the correct decision and arrested Maggie.

Domestic Violence Training Is Given

Over 20 police and sheriff's officers, several public attorneys and a number of battered women's advocates attended a six hour training seminar on response to domestic assault cases which was held last Thursday at the Pennington County law enforcement center. Seminar was sponsored by the Martha Rogers Ripley alliance for battered women.

Law enforcement personnel attending came from the seven county area served by the Ripley Shelter in Thief River Falls. That area includes counties of Pennington, Polk, Norman, Marshall, Roseau, Red Lake and Kittson.

Following registration, welcome and introductions were made by Linda Wallerich, director of the Ripley Shelter. She also presented an overview of the problem of domestic violence, and explained resources which are available through the shelter. Services include a 24-hour phone and referral service, a house in which women and their children can stay, advocates to help women decide what they should do and then help enforce their rights in the legal, medical, welfare and financial systems; support groups, counseling, and community education. Officers are urged to refer women in abuse situations to the shelter.

Film, "The Rites of Violence" was shown, dealing with attitudes regarding violence and its acceptability in our socety.

One of the special instructors for the training session was Maggie Arzdorf Schubbe, director of the battered women's program for the Minnesota department of corrections. She is responsible for the administration of funds and training for 17 battered women's shelters in Minnesota, with one in each regional development area and seven in the metro area.

400 Attend Lions Conference Here

Approximately 400 members from 55 Lions clubs and 11 Lioness clubs in District 5M-11 attended the annual mid-winter conference Friday through Sunday at the Best Western inn of Thief River Falls. Hosting the event were Lions clubs from Goodridge, Grygla and Newfolden and Lioness clubs from Grygla and Goodridge.

Harry Puffe, Moorhead, was elected governor-elect and will succeed Keith Bisson of East Grand Forks as district governor at the end of this Lions year June 30. The election was one of the main items of business prior to conclusion of the conference Saturday. A joint religious service Sunday morning prior to the concluding business session was conducted by a group of singers from the Grygla-Gatzke area.

Main speaker at the convention banquet Friday evening was Charlie Boyd of Gadsden, AL, a director on the board of Lions International. Boyd, a semi-retired businessman, is a past district governor with 100 per cent designation by the Lions organization. His presentation included an overview of efforts by the international organization with which District 5M-11 and local clubs are affiliated.

Among Saturday speakers who impressed the Lions attending the conference was Bill Haden of Lynchberg, VA, a field representative for the Lead Dog program for the blind. Haden was 44 years old when he became blind 12 years ago and his German Shepherd Leader Dog "Rex" is now nine years old.

Leader Dog is a program conducted in Rochester, Michigan, which is supported by Lions clubs from throughout the nation. Ellsworth Jorgenson of Thief River Falls is district Leader Dog chairman and noted that the goal for the district is to contribute an average of one dollar per member to the program annually. There are about 2,400 members in District 5M-11.

Haden pointed out that the Leader Dog program has been expanded since its start in 1939. It now provides about 300 dogs a year and has supplied about 3,000 dogs to blind persons since it started. It currently costs about $6,000 for the five-month training program for each dog and the one-month program to train the dog and new owner together.

Haden told the Lions that the dog he received had contributed to a turn-around in his life. Having at one time contemplated suicide, he said, the independence he has

Poet-In-The-Schools Teaches Students At Franklin

UNDER THE WATCHFUL EYE of an eighth grade student, poet John Minczeski reads one of the student's attempts at creating poetry. Minczeski was at Franklin middle school for four days last week to spur creative writing among students in grades four through eight. Minczeski is on a Bush Foundation fellowship for creative writing for a year and appeared here through the writers-in-the-schools program of COMPAS, a statewide community art agency. Partial funding also came from foundations and public agencies in addition to the local school district and community groups. Minczeski also had two public readings of some of his own poetry at the Northwest regional library and the Franklin middle school library.

Although he hated poetry as a youngster in school — primarily because of the way it was introduced in the classroom — John Minczeski of St. Paul has become a poet himself and a teacher of writing to others. His classroom four days last week was at Franklin middle school in Thief River Falls.

Minczeski's appearance here was arranged through the "Writers-in-the-Schools" program of COMPAS, a statewide community arts agency. Funding came from the state legislature through the state arts board, endowments and grants and from the local school district and community groups.

The poet has received a creative writing grant for a year in the form of a fellowship from the Bush foundation and is therefore available for such activities as the COMPAS program. But he has worked in the program since 1975 on a limited basis and has been to a number of schools.

"The purpose of the writers-in-the-schools program is not to make poets out of the students," he said, "but to put students into contact with people who are actively writing. There is an increasing consciousness of poetry, the audience has grown in the past 10 years and poetry book sales are increasing." Minczeski has had two poetry books and a number of his works published.

But he also laments the fact that opportunity to be creative and for poets to be published seems to be on the decline. Many poetry journals are suspending publication because subsidized funding sources are decreasing. "The military band budget is bigger than the endowment for the arts budget," he said.

Virtually no poets make a living from their writing alone, Minczeski said. He operates a typesetting business in St. Paul. The most money he made from poetry last year was setting type for the COMPAS student work summary book, "Walk Down the Tiger's Tail." Two Thief River Falls students had their writings published in that book.

But Minczeski feels compelled to write; it is his obsession. "It is a deeper urge than a financial or public one," he said. "It is a desire to recreate, to capture spirit, to communicate with others. It is a necessity; I must write."

Despite his early dislike for poetry, especially the memorization required of poems he despised, his feelings changed as he grew older. At the age of 17 he read T.S. Eliot's "The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock" and "it really got inside me," he said. "I must have read it 20 times."

He began writing more seriously and even went to Italy for a year "to teach myself how to write." A person could live fairly cheaply there at the time, he said, and the self-teaching concept did meet with some success. "I have written a lot of bad poetry," he said in self-

THE HONEY-SWEET CITY

The Valentine city was different than any other.
The streets were lined with chocolate bars and candy hearts.
Red was the official color.
The shops were full of chocolate-covered cherries and cream-filled butterscotches.
The people are always happy, smiling and loving.
Taffy and caramel
apples' sweet rich smell fill the air.
The laughter and singing fills the stores and overflows onto the sidewalk.
The thick, gooey, tangy sweets melt in your mouth.
As you walk along the sticky hot melting paths, you sing a candied song
The people here
sleep on marshmallows
They sell candy and spread the new chocolate streets
School is taught in a gingerbread house Valentine's day is the biggest holiday around. Parades, fireworks, free sugar
corn syrup and honey.
A toothbrush and toothpaste factory are the second biggest industry.
People here die early.
They are buried in the coffin flavor of their choice.

I am a friend of the blowing wind that shakes the rooftops when it blows.
The wind is air that people breathe to keep them alive when in need.
I am a friend of the tossing sea that can be good and be bad.
The sea is full of little things that people can not see, but those little things mean a lot, for bigger things can't live without.
I am the friend of time gone by, that gives you good feelings and it gives you bad. Time is like a windmill that keeps going around.
I am the friend of books that you read. Books can give you an image of how good life can be.
Books are like music that keeps flowing on, that receives you or makes you stand still, while at the same time a book can keep you awake or make you fall dead asleep.

I am the friend of all destruction.
I live in wealth while others are in poverty.
I am the friend of violence
I am the almighty and everything revolves around me.

I bring waves of terror and fear with me.
People run in horror when they hear my rough voice.
People call me the father of grief.

Anderson And Larson Vows Said At Grygla

Sherri Rae Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Anderson of Grygla, became the bride of Randy Glenn Larson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Larson of Gatzke, on November 20 at the Grace Lutheran church at Grygla.

Rev. Robert Amundson officiated at the double-ring, candlelight ceremony. Ada Smerek, pianist, and Tom Monson, trumpeter, played "Trumpet Tune," and "Trumpet Voluntary" for the processional, and "The Rejoicing," for the recessional. Vocal selections were "My Sweet Lady," by Terry Ruud, Tom Bernstein, Gene Lunsetter and Mike Sistad; "Through the Eyes of Love," by Sandi Nordby; and "The Lord's Prayer," by Van Swanson. During the lighting of the unity candle and the presentation of roses to the mothers, the bride's mother sang "Walk Hand in Hand With Me." As a special feature, the groom played the guitar and sang a love song he's written for the bride. Acolytes were Gwen Erickson, friend of the couple, and Lori Holthusen, a cousin of the groom.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her parents. She was attired in a gown of Chantilly lace and chiffon, styled with a fitted lace bodice, chiffon bishop sleeves, a lace mandarin collar and a tulle yoke trimmed with English embroidery. Her full chiffon skirt which extended into a chapel length train was complemented by an overlay of Crystal pleated Chantilly lace in apron effect. A mantilla styled lace headpiece with pearl trim held a veil of imported bridal illusion with rolled eged. She carried an open white Bible topped with white stephanotis, matching the flowers tied to flowing ribbon streamers.

Maid of honor was Kim McLean, a friend of the bride. Other attendants were Sara Amundson and Bonnie Verbout, friends of the couple; Susan Kanarr, sister of the groom; and Sandi Nordby, a cousin of the bride. Their gowns in huckleberry purple were fashioned with sweetheart necklines with shirring on the bodice and capelet sleeves. Each carried three long-stemmed, white roses.

Lowell Larson of Anoka attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Dayle Anderson, brother of the bride; Randy McMillan, Roger Thomas and Al Lunsetter, friends of the couple. Serving as ushers were Scott and Tim Anderson, brothers of the bride, and Dan Schulz and Duane Sletten, friends of the couple. All wore silver gray tuxedos with white shirts. The groom wore an all white tuxedo with a cluster of stephanotis pinned on his lapel.

Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nordby, grandparents of the bride, and Emil Larson, grandfather of the groom.

Hosts and hostesses were Roy Nordby, Orvis and Shirley Nordby, and Gerald and Donna McLean. Anella Larson and Jean Verbout were in charge of the flowers. Tom and Carol Bray, friends of the couple, presided at the guest book, and Adam and Brian Kanarr, and Darrin, Dustin and Douglas Larson nephews of the groom, served as gift bearers.

At the reception that followed in the church parlors, Kim Kanarr and Geri Larson, nieces of the groom, served the punch. Mrs. Carol Lee, St. Cloud, and Mrs. Myrna Kjos, Anoka, aunts of the bride, cut and served the wedding cake baked and decorated by Janice Peterson. Pouring coffee were Mrs. Ardell Roen and Mrs. Donny McMillan, aunts of the groom.

Waitresses were Tami Peterson, Tammy Thomas and Sandi and Janie Verbout, friends of the couple.

Following the ceremony, a private party was hosted at the Grygla Community center by the parents of the bride and groom.

Tax Questions Answered In New Booklet

When congress lowers taxes one year and raises taxes the next year, the right to tax is more readily seen in a different light: The power to confuse.

Taxpayers beware: The 97th Congress, which has eased into history, devoted more time to revising tax laws than any congress in memory.

"Barely a year after enacting the largest tax cut in history, congress passed a bill that many call the largest income tax increase in history," Dr. Richard W. Rahn, chief economist of the U.S. chamber of commerce, notes in the foreword of a new tax booklet published by the chamber.

Besides raising and lowering taxes by record-setting amounts, congress also made countless changes in rules that will affect individual taxpayers. As might be expected, the changes will help some taxpayers and hurt others. Taxpayers will learn how they fared when they compute the final tax bill for 1982 and future years.

Between now and April 15, when 1982 tax returns are due, both business executives and ordinary taxpayers face a learning process. To help its members cope with the changes, the tax policy center of the chamber has published a 43-page booklet, "The 1982 Tax Law: What It Does to You and Your Business." Not surprisingly, it is a sequel to a booklet published after the 1981 tax law, entitled "The New Tax Law: What's in It for You and Your Business."

Publications deal not only with corporate and business taxes but also with numerous changes affecting individual taxpayers. Why? Over 90 per cent of the chamber's members employ fewer than 100 persons, and most owners of businesses of that size file returns and pay taxes as individuals, rather than as corporate entities.

The 1982 booklet, which deals with the tax equity and fiscal responsibility act of 1982 and the Subchapter S revision act, which concerns some small businesses, also summarizes key changes of both the 1981 and 1982 laws.

Some major revisions applicable to 1982 returns (effective January 1, 1982, unless otherwise indicated):

— Individual income tax rates are lowered by 10 per cent. Taxpayers saw the difference in tax withheld from their paychecks, starting last July 1.

— Top tax rate for investment income — such as dividends and interest — is lowered from 70 to 50 per cent.

— So-called marriage "penalty" tax is reduced for working couples. Five per cent (up to $1,500) of the first $30,000 of income of the lesser-earning spouse is tax free. In 1983, this exclusion rises to 10 per cent.

— Americans working abroad may earn $75,000 and a housing allowance tax free. Exclusion jumps by $5,000 a year until 1986.

— Taxpayers who do not itemize deductions may deduct charitable contributions up to $25.

—Credits for child and dependent care are increased. Amounts spent up to $2,400 for one child or dependent and $4,800 for two or more are eligible for credit, computed at 20 per cent for those with adjusted gross income above $28,000 and 30 per cent for those with $10,000 or less.

—First $100 ($200 on a joint return) of income from dividends is tax free but all interest income — even amounts below $100 — is taxable.

—Individuals covered by employer pension programs for the first time may set up their own individual retirement accounts. Up to $2,000 ($2,250 on a joint return) may be invested tax free in a future investment. Money invested through April 15, 1983, may be deducted from 1982 income.

—Self-employed taxpayers may put aside up to $2,000 in an IRA, in addition to their Keogh fund.

—Self-employed may double the amount — to a maximum of $15,000 a year — they can invest tax free in their Keogh or other retirement fund.

New year also features important adjustments effective Jan. 1, 1983 (unless noted otherwise):

—Individual tax rates are reduced 10 per cent effective July 1.

—Banks, savings and loans and other payers must start withholding 10 per cent as tax on dividend and interest payments of over $150 a year, effective July 1.

—Pension, profit-sharing and annuity plan managers must withhold 10 per cent tax on pension checks and annuities, unless recipients elect against it.

—Only medical expenses over 5 per cent of adjusted gross income are eligible for deduction, compared with expenses of over three per cent in the past.

—Casualty loss may be deducted only for amounts exceeding 10 per cent of adjusted gross income.

—Telephone tax is raised from one to three per cent.

—Cigarette tax is raised from 8 to 16 cents a pack.

And don't forget, the gasoline tax is raised from four to nine cents a gallon, starting April 1.

Massachusetts adopted the first state minimum wage act for women and minors in 1912, according to "Important Events in American Labor History," a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Stumpf, Sparby Support Perpich Farm Proposals

Special To The Times
by Jim Robins
Northern Star
News Service

Promoting agriculture is seen as a key to getting the state economy moving again. Many legislators are willing to go along with Gov. Rudy Perpich on his plan to promote Minnesota agriculture. Encouraging in-state processing of raw materials is another cornerstone of the legislative agenda for agriculture.

Other agricultural issues expected to receive consideration include:

+ Cooperation with other states on minimum pricing levels for agricultural products;

+ A mortgage moratorium aiding farmers in danger of farm foreclosure;

+ Stepped-up conservation efforts;

+ Increased dairy inspection, possibly providing for state-certified private inspectors;

+ Property tax reform with an eye towards preventing a heavier tax burden on agricultural producers.

Rep. Wallace Sparby of Thief River Falls is behind Gov. Perpich's encouragement of in-state agricultural processing. He said more processing is a "great idea." It is important to encourage agriculture, Sparby said.

To finance processing plants to do the job, Sparby speculated that the funds would come through an agreement between industry and the state.

Sparby has not formed an opinion on the mortgage moratorium proposal, which would allow a judge to decide if a farmer qualifies for a one year holiday from debt. The bill is still in the House appropriations committee, but Sparby said he's "looking forward to the debate. . . to see the pros and cons."

Sen. Leroy Stumpf of Plummer appears ready to author bills to help farm financing and energy production in Minnesota.

Interest rates have been dropping but not enough to help the farmer, Stumpf said. They must come down to eight per cent before there is any effect on farmers, he said.

Another proposal Stumpf would author is an energy alternative bill that he says would "open opportunities for agri-business." Possible products are ethanol and alcohol, which can be used to boost octane levels in gasoline. This proposal would "fit in nicely" with Gov. Perpich's advocacy of in-state agricultural processing, he said.

Stumpf is less sure of the benefits of the mortgage moratorium proposal. "I support legislation to keep farmers farming if it can be done without sacrificing financial institutions," Stumpf said. He doesn't know if the state would lose or gain if the proposal were put into practice.

Traditionally, the agriculture department hasn't been a flashy, visible part of the state bureaucracy. In the last few years, it has been kept busy just trying to maintain its inspections and other services while cutting back staff.

A change in emphasis seems to be on the way. The department will be working to promote agriculture and can be expected to be more visible in the Perpich administration.

At the head of the department if Jim Nichols, commissioner. "You have to be a spokesman for farmers. I've tried to do that," Nichols said. Legislation supported by the department will be designed to help fund agricultural promotion councils and guarantee loans for processing raw materials in the state.

"We call it value-adding," Nichols said. He is particularly interested in getting more gasohol production started in the state. "Why don't we do that instead of just talking about the bad business climate in the state?" Nichols asked. He feels that issue is largely in the minds of IR legislators, not tatally based in reality. As a Lake Benton farmer, he is quick to point out that agricultural property taxes are higher in neighboring South Dakota.

Some of the most controversial legislation expected this year is the effort to bring agricultural states together in setting minimum grain pricing and changes in mortgage moratorium laws to help farmers stave off foreclosure.

Gov. Perpich stresses that minimum pricing is a voluntary proposal for farmers. "We're not forcing anyone to get involved and it won't cost the state of Minnesota a cent," Perpich said.

Perpich is also urging close study of the farm foreclosure situation, but has backed away from pushing for a mortgage moratorium. "A person has to know what's going on out there. It doesn't mean we are in favor or against."

Nichols is also calling for a "go slow approach" on any possible farm foreclosure legislation. "We don't want to destroy agricultural credit," he said.

The legislature passed some significant conservation legislation last year, but wasn't able to fund it. Nichols has won awards for conservation on his farm and is personally in favor of stepping up efforts, but there won't be an official department position on funding.

It would take 10 more inspectors to bring Minnesota up to federally recommended standards for dairy inspection and Nichols sees no way of making that change in these economic times. "If legislators want to fund those positions, then we'll accept it," he said. Nichols is also willing to look at state certification of some private dairy inspectors.

Although it isn't considered an agriculture department concern, Nichols also will be keeping an eye on tax changes affecting farmers. "We need to look into high property taxes on farms. I'm always talking about that with legislators," he said.

NOT ALL cases of domestic abuse involve men who beat up on women, as Maggie Arzdorf Schubbe demonstrated on Jeff Janacek during the role-playing session conducted as part of a training seminar for law enforcement personnel which was conducted last Thursday at the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center in Thief River Falls. Police and sheriff's officers and attorneys from the seven county area served by the Martha Rogers Ripley shelter for battered women, attended the six hour session to learn how to deal with domestic disturbances. Training was sponsored by the Ripley Shelter in Thief River Falls.

Harness Racing Possibility For '83 County Fair

Harness racing will be a possibility for the Pennington county fair in 1983 but parimutuel betting on the results may be at least a year away. That was the word received by directors of the Pennington county fair association at its meeting Monday evening in the courthouse meeting room.

Ev Ault is chairman of the harness racing effort for the fair board and making arrangements for the event. Present plans call for the harness racing to be either Wednesday or Thursday night, July 20 or 21, with a teen night to be scheduled on the alternate night. The fair will actually begin with entry day on July 21 and continue through Sunday, July 24, but the carnival will be set up and operating on Wednesday.

Friday night will feature a professional music program with arrangements being made in cooperation with radio station KTRF which will share in half the cost of the attraction, according to Oliver "Skip" Swanson, president of the association.

Saturday afternoon will feature the tractor pulling contest with open class entries as well as out-of-field and antique divisions and some competition for area 4-wheel drive pickups. Co-chairmen of the tractor pull are Richard Jorde, Cecil Anderson and Randy Adamson.

Saturday evening is expected to feature a number of local participation events such as challenge tug-of-war, backseat driving contest, cow chip tossing and other events. Sunday afternoon will include the 4-H style revue and other activities with the demolition derby planned for Sunday night.

Leo Nelson and Cecil Anderson are on a committee to investigate the possibilities of a threshing bee and expanded antique machinery display for the fair. Dale Svendsgaard, Tarry Edington and Thelma Holen were named to a committee to develop more fair attractions of interest to farmers.

Additional barn space is being investigated by a committee including Ron Broten, Terry Courneya and Ev Ault.

Nominated for at-large directors on the fair board were Bernard Myers, Bill Ulrich, Lorraine Steiger, Wayne Erickson, Conrad Iverson, Ron Broten, Terry Edington, Norris Thune, Leo Nelson, Cecil Anderson, Ev Ault and Judy Machal.

Membership in the association ($5 for a life membership) is again being promoted to broaden the base of county fair operations. Memberships are available from Richard Jorde at Thief River Grain company.

SALON PERM VS. HOME PERM: CONSIDER THE FACTS.

A perm can change your life! No more nightly setting, no more struggling to build body, no more limp, boring hair. So why not do it yourself? Consider these facts first:
- Perm chemicals actually break down your hair structure, then put it back together in a new shape. Without training, it's easy to damage your hair.
- Setting your hair correctly is 50% of how your perm turns out. Winding the rods too tightly, too loosely, or at the wrong angle can ruin the look you want.
- The condition of your hair can make or break your perm. Some perms work best on fine hair, some on tinted hair...and some hair shouldn't be permed at all. Do you know enough about the different kinds of perms to make the right choice?
- Only professional hair stylists are trained in the use of perm chemicals, setting techniques, and hair analysis. Our stylists know the do's and don'ts of successful perming. And we use scientifically formulated perms from Redken® to give you the best possible results. So, if you want to change your life with a perm, let us help you change it for the better.

memory: no one knows what I am thinking for I hide it secretly.
I wonder if they'll ever know what I do or where I go into the past or future that holds nothing for me.
A fallen angel, lonely star, sweeps down across the sky.
No one ever knows, it seems, what to do, where, when or why.
That's why the earth is spinning still; no one has ever tried, so when it stops it won't be by someone's brainless mind.
But the stars, when they unite, will echo across the sky and in my mind. Oh, I will think, "I knew it all the time."

Deadly harvests marching to war;
Deep, dark war, not the kind you and I know.
There are no artillery weapons, shiny tanks, or rugged combat boots, no, not like any war we have fought before.
This war is fought in our minds, where your worst dreams become realities, where no man, woman or child can live. Where people have died and come back to life. Where real life and fake life are the same. Yes, this is truly the worst kind of war yet. The war in our minds where Santa Claus and the Easter Bunny are dead forever and nothing can bring them back.

Explorers who fall asleep are dunces that turn red; they are people who lose time, time that can't come back.
They are people who won't own the shoe lace market of the world or the bookend business of the state.
Explorers who fall asleep are as reliable as a teacher not getting mad at you for not getting your homework done.
I can't believe an explorer who falls asleep, but if I did, I would believe in purple cats.

I have learned to go back to that lake shore
so long ago,
yet only yesterday.
The deep blue mountains frosted with glaciers throw long shadows over the tranquil waters.
I feel the warm, mossy rock beneath my feet.
And as the smell of steak and hot dogs fills the air, my heart longs to stay forever.
The fresh mountain air fills my lungs.
The green grass around me,
the glistening pebbles on the shore. I press them into my memory.
I must remember this place forever.

As the sun begins to set, the chill wind blows over my thin clothes.
The laughter of the children playing, the waves lapping on the shore, I feel myself drifting, remembering my life-long dream of seeing the Rocky Mountains, and as the fog begins to set in, the mist takes over my mind.

Minczeski writes his poetry in longhand although he is a good typist. He likes the contact of thought, pencil and paper. He believes that inspiration plays a big part in writing but that revision is important in clarifying thoughts and strengthening word patterns. He writes free verse almost exclusively, noting that rhyme is no longer often used in poetry.

"Rhyme shouldn't be too intrusive — it can get in the way of a poem," he said. "I believe that content should be at least equal to the form."

Answers from the Bible by Pastor Don Peres

Q. Pastor Don, I get so upset at people who call themselves Evangelical Christians, and are always telling people that if they don't become Christians they will be punished forever and ever. I don't believe a loving God would ever send people to a place to be punished forever and ever. The Bible says, "God is love."

A. First of all, I am in total agreement with you that God is love, but I also believe that the Bible teaches that God is a God of justice.

Jn. 3:16 says, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

II Pet. 3:9 says, "God is longsuffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance."

God definitely loves us and has a deep concern for our eternal welfare, and has made every provision for us to be saved, forgiven, cleansed, transformed, and prepared for eternity.

The decision for our eternal destiny is not up to God, but up to us. He has made the provisions and left the choice up to us, as God has always allowed us to be free moral agents making our own decisions. Sad to say, many people make the wrong decisions.

The everlasting torment and punishment which anyone may endure will be simply the inevitable result of his own deliberate and persistant choice of sin.

In Deuteronomy 11:26 & 27 God said, "Behold, I set before you this day a blessing and a curse. A blessing if you obey the commandments of the Lord your God, . . . and a curse if you will not obey the commandments of the Lord your God."

You would think with a choice like that, that everyone would choose to obey. Not so, most of Israel disobeyed, and had to suffer the consequences for their wrong decision.

In the N.T. we see that Jn. 3:18 says, "He that believeth in Him (Christ) is not condemned, but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God."

With a choice like that you would think that everyone would believe in Christ and live for Him so they would not be condemned. But many, many people are making the wrong choice when they do not choose Christ and His way of life.

I realize that in our humanistic society justice and punishment do not go together. The good guy is portrayed as the bad guy and the bad guy is portrayed as the good guy, and everything and anything we want to do is okay, and we should not have to face punishment for wrong doing. But the Bible teaches differently.

Hell is real, and its punishment is forever and ever.

If you have not made the right choice, please bow your head, and pray, and invite Jesus Christ into your heart, and let Him become a permanent part of your daily life, enjoy the spiritual benefits of His presence in your life.

If you have any questions you would like to have answered from the Bible, please write Pastor Don Peres, Box 129, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Garbage Truck Operators Hit By New Taxes

Though much attention has been paid to the affect of the new federal gas and highway taxes on over-the-road truckers, it has been overlooked that these new taxes will also be a heavy burden on many other types of truckers — including local garbage haulers.

Five cents per gallon increase in the gas tax is but one aspect of the new federal law, although garbage trucks, with the stop-and-go nature of the refuse collection routes, average far less than five miles per gallon.

Most crippling part of the new federal law is the increase in the "highway use tax" for heavy trucks such as garbage trucks. Present maximum annual truck highway use tax is $240 per truck. New federal law will increase that maximum highway use tax to $1,600 per truck per year.

New federal law also increases the excise tax on heavy truck tires. Tax on tires for garbage trucks will increase from $14 per tire to $40 per tire. Conditions at landfills quickly destory tires on garbage trucks, so this excise tax will be paid frequently.

In addition to these federal tax increases, the state of Minnesota has increased vehicle license fees for garbage trucks by 78 per cent from 1982 to 1984. In 1982 the license fee for an urban garbage truck was $355. In 1984 that same truck will pay a license fee of $632.

Wheat Growers Want Barley In PIK Program

National Association of Wheat Growers is urging the agriculture department to include barley in its 1983 PIK program, according to Don Loeslie of Warren, president of the NAWG.

"The PIK program must be extended to all major grains which are in oversupply, and USDA should not depend solely on its corn programs to correct the barley problem," Loeslie said. He said that ending stocks of barley will be 70 per cent greater than two years ago, and that a PIK acreage reduction program should be implemented "to curtail output and clear excess supplies from the market."

"The department has argued that loan and farmer reserve supplies of barley were too low to operate an effective program, but there is no reason why barley growers should not be able to use a portion of their 1983 harvest for PIK purposes," according to Loeslie.

In comments on the PIK program submitted to USDA's analysis division, the NAWG has also urged a multi-year program, which could include reduced acreage, paid diversion and PIK components to reduce the wheat carryover to the level of domestic use (600-800 million bushels). It has also urged that cash or in-kind deficiency payments should be paid on PIK acres, and that wheat farmers be allowed to enter wheat in the 1982 reserve for use in the PIK program until the sign-up period ends on March 11.

The NAWG has further recommended that grain reserve stocks be utilized in an export "bonus" program, with forfeited stocks receiving the same storage payments as reserve wheat used in the domestic PIK program.

Winter Shows Program Topic Is Technology

"High Technology: A Challenge for Rural Education" is the theme for education day held at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) as part of the Red River Valley winter shows on Tuesday, February 22.

Speaking on the topic of "Agriculture: America's High Technology" will be Dr. William F. Hueg, deputy vice president for agriculture at the university of Minnesota. He will speak at the luncheon scheduled for 12:30 p.m. in the UMC food service building.

During the 10 a.m. morning seminar, Dr. Gary McVey, chairman of UMC's agriculture division, will discuss "Extending and Strengthening Agricultural Education in Northern Minnesota." Session will be held in Dowell hall 204.

Reacting to McVey's address will be Dr. James Noonan, superintendent of the East Grand Forks school district; Ed Sisler, area coordinator for the vocational agriculture teachers of northwest Minnesota; Ralph Taylor, president of Dahlgren and Company; and Erman Ueland, associate professor of agriculture economics at UMC.

Planned by a committee of the area public school superintendents in conjunction with UMC, the seminar and luncheon are both open to the public. Registration begins at 9 A.M.

and college classes, and picked up a lot of information in the process of doing his job. He assists in conducting training seminars for fellow police officers, up to several times a year, with travel sponsored by the Ripley Alliance.

Jeff made presentations on officer discretion and prosecution of domestics. Interesting point made in his presentation was that under the law, a peace officer may arrest a person anywhere, including at his place of residence, if the officer has probable cause to believe the person has assaulted his spouse or other person with whom he resides within the past four hours. He emphasized that under the proper circumstances, an officer did not need a signed complaint from the battered person, and noted that an officer could actually be held more liable for actions which might occur as a result of his failure to make an arrest, than he could for falsely arresting someone.

Janacek noted that responding to domestic disturbances could actually be one of the most dangerous situations an officer could encounter since he never knew what he might be walking into. He said that suspects sometimes had the attitude that "this is my home and I can do whatever I want to here."

Film shown on "Officer Safety," verified his statements demonstrating the number of hidden weapons which be available in a home. Film showed methods of intervening and calming people without undue danger.

Maggie discussed issues surrounding domestic violence, noting that it can run in cycles, with children following the example of their parents. She explained some of the reasons why women stay in situations where they are abused, citing frustration, fear of retribution, shame, children, financial dependence and family pressure. She noted that problems were not simple, and neither were solutions.

Panel discussion by three women who had been abused by their husbands or the men they lived with, verified the statements. Backgrounds of the women varied greatly, with only one of them coming from a family in which her mother had been abused. They spoke about their fears and insecurities. One of the women noted that "in spite of the beatings, I still loved that man." Believing that the situation was only temporary, was also cited by the women, who noted that they thought that love would change things.

Oifficers were chosen to respond to staged situations in a role playing session. Two officers would be sent out of the room, and would then be called back in, to respond to a call of a domestic disturbance. Maggie and Jeff would play the roles of fighting couples, and the officers were expected to decide if there was probable cause for arrest. To their credit, the officers chosen made the correct decisions in most cases, noting in one case of a woman beat up by her ex-boyfriend that since they were not living together, they could not arrest him unless she signed a complaint.

Surprise situation was sprung in one case, when the officers entered to find a man who had been beaten by his wife. Although the man would not sign a complaint against her, she was correctly arrested, since evidence existed that she had been responsible for injuries inflicted on him.

Program was completed with a panel discussion and question and answer session featuring Wallerich, Arzdorf and Janacek. Officers were given an opportunity to ask questions relating to specific cases which they had encountered. In wrapping up the program, officers were reminded that assault is a crime, regardless of where it takes place, and that they had a responsibility to arrest the criminal. They were also urged to refer women involved in domestic abuse cases to the local shelter.

REPORT

From The Minnesota House of Representatives

by Rep. Wallace Sparby
District 1B

I've heard two common sayings since I've been at the Legislature. One is "no one's life, liberty or property is safe when the Legislature is in session." That one is a humorous saying favored by some of the reporters in the Capitol press room.

The second saying that makes sense is "good information makes good laws" — and I have already seen the effects of trying to acquire enough good information to make good laws.

In the first week of the current session, it was already clear to me that we will receive a tremendous amount of information on a wide variety of subjects — from disposal of low level radioactive wastes and the shortage of math and science teachers to all the issues the governor discussed in his state of the state address.

It might surprise a lot of people that the time Represenatives and Senators actually spend on the floor of the House or Senate is relatively little. Most of our time is spent meeting constituents, answering constituents phone calls and letters and otherwise providing services to the folks back home.

We also spend a great deal of time gathering and reviewing information through committee hearings, workshops, printed materials sent to us, and meeting with people representing organizations, interest groups and all sides of issues.

In this first month, too, I've learned a lot about what it means to be a public servant. I have been most impressed by my fellow representatives who see themselves as public servants. They work very hard because they believe their responsibility is to serve the public interest.

If you have any questions about the work of the legislature or any information you want to send me about issues, you can reach me at Room 283, State Office Building, St. Paul 55155, phone (612) 296-9918.

Ag Exports To Be Boosted In Boschwitz Bill

Sagging international market for U.S. agricultural commodities would get a substantial boost from legislation introduced by Senator Rudy Boschwitz in the U.S. Senate.

"International markets for agricultural products have been on the downswing for over two years," Boschwitz said. "Last year, U.S. agricultural exports declined by over 10 per cent in value compared to the previous year. This was the first such decline in over a decade. The picture for the coming year is equally bleak. Indications are that exports will decline an additional five per cent, the first time that exports have declined for two successive years in over 15 years.

"Declining exports have contributed to increased stocks and CCC inventories, which have depressed commodity prices, increased farm program costs and stagnated farm income," he added. "This is because U.S. agriculture tends to absorb most of the shocks resulting from downswings in international markets. When the markets are tight, U.S. exports tend to rise more rapidly than competitor exports, commodity prices strengthen and U.S. stocks and CCC inventories are reduced."

The "Agricultural Free and Fair Trade Act of 1983" strengthens the secretary of agriculture's ability to deal effectively within international markets. It allows him to deal with:

+ Excessive stocks through selling off current Commodity Credit corporation (CCC) surpluses and when necessary, farmer-owned reserves;

+ High interest rates by allowing commodities to be financed on favorable terms using direct credits, risk assurance guarantees, blended credits, concessional credits or any combination;

+ High export subsidies by competing countries by allowing the secretary to meet dollar-for-dollar (or better) any subsidies through a variety of programs; and

+ Exchange rate irregularities by allowing him to deal with excessive supplies that come about through an appreciation of the dollar through terms of credit, mix of credit, or other distribution methods.

The second title of the bill concentrates on market development by shoring up the financial backing of foreign market development and cooperator funds, encouraging the sale of value-added products, and establishing an increased number of trade offices throughout the world.

"Only about 10 per cent of world agricultural production finds its way onto the world market," Boschwitz said. "Because the U.S. is the largest surplus food producer, we are normally the single largest factor in the international marketplace. If we take the lead, a free marketplace could indeed become a reality on a continuing basis. That is the purpose of this act.

"Since only 10 per cent of the world's food production enters the international marketplace, if world food production rises by two per cent or economic conditions cause consumption to drop by two per cent, this represents 20 per cent of world trade," he added. "Clearly, events around the world can have a tremendous impact on commodity prices and farm income here in the United States."

Intern Program For Nurses Set By Air Force

U.S. Air Force has established an internship program for nurses in key air force medical training centers. Selected nurses enter active duty shortly after passing state board examinations. Program provides five months training designed to foster the concept of independent practice in the clinical setting.

New air force nurses are encouraged to expand and integrate their basic theoretical knowledge and professional nursing skills through an individualized clinical nursing practicum. While participating in the program, nurses are assisted in identifying their potentials. Emphasis is placed on the development of a spirit of inquiry which encourages nursing excellence and a continued quest for education. The program aids the nurse in developing leadership and organizational skills in order to establish patient care priorities in the management of nursing care.

To be eligible, nurses must be currently enrolled in an approved BSN program and meet all other commissioning criteria. Those interested in obtaining further information concerning the Air Force's early commissioning program should contact Captain Louise May and MSgt John Fasig, Air Force Nurse Recruiters, 2829 University Ave SE Suite 444, Minneapolis, Minnesota or call at (612) 331-2856 (collect).

MID-WINTER

LEADER DOGS for the blind are part of the program of Lions clubs throughout the country. Bill Haden of Lynchburg, VA, who became blind 12 years ago at 44 years of age, was guest speaker at the District 5M-11 Lions mid-winter conference in Thief River Falls last week. At right is Ellsworth Jorgenson of Thief River Falls, district Leader Dog chairman. Haden had had his Leader dog "Rex" for about eight years. Because Haden had partial paralysis from a stroke, the dog was specially trained to work from Haden's strong side.

Changes Affect Most State Taxpayers

Minnesota individual income tax forms and instructions are now in post offices and have been mailed out to individuals, according to state revenue commissioner Arthur C. Roemer. If you didn't receive forms, and you need them, visit your post office, or call 297-3737 if you live in the metropolitan area, or 1-800-652-9041 if you life outstate. Watch for these 1982 changes that will affect most Minnesota taxpayers:

New short form, M-1A for 450,000 single people: If you are single, do not itemize deductions, and make less than $40,000, you may be eligible to use the new one page short form. Personal credits, the surtax, and the standard deduction are all included in the tax table.

Rent and property tax refund can no longer be used to reduce your income tax bill or increase you refund: Those of you who had claimed the rent or property tax credit on your income tax return will no longer be able to do so. You will now have to complete the separate form M-1PR, and mail it in the envelope with the gold edge. Renters will receive their refund no earlier than August 15. Property owners will receive their refund between October 1 and October 15. This now applies to all individuals, including senior citizens and disabled.

Medical deduction now same as federal: Minnesota now limits medical deductions in the same manner that the Internal Revenue service does.

Individual retirement account (IRA) interest will increase your Minnesota tax: If you are a member of a qualified employee pension plan, you will be required to add back to Minnesota income the amount subtracted on your federal return. If you are not a member of a qualified plan, see your Minnesota instruction booklet.

All savers certificate interest taxable in Minnesota: Minnesota has not adopted this federal provision; you must include this as an item of income on your return.

In-person tax assistance eliminated in state offices: Due to budget limitations, we will no longer provide direct assistance in return preparation anywhere in the state.

Help is available from volunteers after February 1 to senior citizens, disabled, and low income persons: If you are disabled, a low income person, or a senior citizen, and you need help with your return, call 297-3724 if you live in St. Paul; 297-3725 if you live in Minneapolis; or 1-800-652-9094 outside the metro area for the location of the nearest volunteer office.

Some blank forms for practitioners will be later this year: Because of possible changes by the special session of the legislature, the printing of forms was held up. This caused a delay in the mailing of forms to practitioners. Roemer anticipates having all bulk form orders mailed by the end of January.

Want refund faster? file early - but - Roemer said it is important for those expecting refunds to file early, but to be sure that all information; e.g., wages, interest income, dividends, etc., is included. This will accelerate the refund. Roemer added that taxpayers who need help filling out their forms should first check their instruction booklets. Most questions are answered in the instruction booklet, and by looking there, taxpayers will save time. If a question remains, call 1-800-652-9094.

U.S.-Chinese Trade Talks Affect Wheat

Recent breakdown in U.S.-Chinese textile trade talks can have serious repercussions for American wheat producers. Strained relations between the two countries could jeopardize the largest single export market for U.S. wheat.

U.S. Wheat associates' chairman Harrell Ridley has telegrammed President Reagan expressing concern over the suspension of U.S.-Chinese textile trade talks.

Ridley told the President that the nation's wheat farmers have a "vital interest" in the resolution of this issue in a "mutually satisfactory and timely manner."

Ridley, a Colorado wheat producer, expressed his hope that the Reagan Administration would not lose sight of the importance of the Chinese markets, especially in view of the extraordinary efforts by the U.S. department of agriculture and agriculture marketing organizations in a period of weak export markets.

"China has been our major cash market in the world," he told the President "and in order to continue to buy products from the U.S., the Chinese must have access to U.S. markets as well as others to earn foreign exchange."

U.S. Wheat associates headquartered in Washington, D.C., with 13 regional offices throughout the world is the foreign market development organization of the U.S. wheat industry. U.S. Wheat is supported by per bushel check-off funds from wheat producers in Colorado, Idaho, South Dakota, Texas, Washington and Wyoming; and by funds from the foreign agricultural service of the U.S. department of agriculture.

FU Official Outraged At USDA Bonuses

In a year marked by foreclosures and bankruptcies for many of the nation's farmers and when the rest of Minnesota's farmers are hanging tough just to keep their family business, 54 top professionals in the United States department of agriculture received more than a farmer's annual wages just in bonuses in 1982, according to USDA figures reported by the Minnesota Farmers Union.

Bonuses paid to top appointed executives in USDA are not token amounts, but range from $6,000 to $11,000 each, on top of annual wages. A news release from the department states that agriculture's cabinet member, secretary John Block, personally okayed the cash bonuses, which add up to $396,000.

While the bonus system is authorized by legislation as a way to keep top people in USDA from entering the private sector where salaries may be higher, Minnesota Farmers Union president Cy Carpenter insists that the economic conditions of 1982 should have affected the decision to award huge bonuses last year.

"This is an insult to the hard working farmers who, through no fault of their own, are going to show a deficit for last year," said Carpenter. "Just one of those bonuses would have kept many young couples and their farms in business for another year, or would have provided a job for an unemployed worker."

Net farm income is expected to drop drastically in Minnesota from the last recorded statistic of $14,945 per farm in 1981. In Oklahoma, for example, it was recently announced that net income per farm was $1.

"Officials named as receiving bonuses are the same people who, perhaps unwittingly, contributed to the low commodity prices and poor farm conditions by the policies they administer," Carpenter said.

He also stressed that his objections to the bonuses paid has nothing to do with the individuals who received them.

"But that doesn't change the fact that bonuses as large as $11,130 were paid when millions of people in the United States are unemployed. President Reagan himself said Wednesday that all federal salaries, including military salaries, should be frozen. This is not so much a question of administrative policy as it is a question of ethics," Carpenter said.

He urged U.S. Senator Rudy Boschwitz as a member of the senate agriculture committee to call for an explanation of the moral propriety of the huge bonuses awarded.

Boschwitz should seek assurance not only that this will not happen in 1983 within USDA, but that it is not already happening in other branches of government, Carpenter said.

Copies of Carpenter's letter to Boschwitz were sent to all other members of the Minnesota Congressional delegation.

Daily Comics Had Start Back In '07

by Linda St. Thomas
Smithsonian News Service

"Mr. A. Mutt Starts in to Play the Races" may not sound like much of an attention grabber, but its birth on November 15, 1907, launched America's endless adventure with the daily comic strip.

Seventy-six years and thousands of strips later, the questions remain: What was — and still is — so funny about skinny Mutt, harassed but ever hopeful of a killing at the race track, and Jeff, his sawed-off, top-hatted sidekick? More important, why are so many of us hooked on the comics?

Laughing at ourselves, whether in the person of Lucy or Hagar or Beetle Bailey, is what newspaper comics are all about. "It is the human qualities of these characters that we remember for years, not the specific gags or clever artwork," comics editor Bill Yates of King Features syndicate says.

To use the language of the '70s, readers "relate" to their favorite characters' faults, though those faults are often exaggerated to the point of straining credulity — Momma's nagging, Garfield's greediness, Charlie Brown's insecurity, Wimpy's ("I'll gladly pay you Tuesday for a hamburger today") selfishness.

"All good comedians know all the jokes. So do all good cartoonists," says Martin Williams, co-editor of the Smithsonian collection of newspaper comics. "What makes the difference is attitude, strength of personality and interpretation."

Comic strip personality's traits and idiosyncrasies may be timeless, but a strip itself is often a reflection of its time. Here strips blossomed in the depression because it was comforting in those grim days to believe that someone — Flash Gordon, Superman, Buck Rogers, Tarzan or Dick Tracy — could perform wondrous deeds and right injustice. Complex '70s found a spokesman in Garry Trudeau's Doonesbury, who punctured balloons of pomposity and tackled political, social and sexual issues once considered taboo on the funny pages.

Back in the '20s, Popeye was introduced in a strip called Thimble Theater, an anti-utopian satire in an era of utopian thinking. "This idea of founding a perfect society was everywhere, in popular literature, among psychologists and so on," explains Alan Gowans, guest curator of a Popeye exhibition scheduled to open in March at the Smithsonian's national museum of American history in Washington, D.C. Popeye's creator, E.C. Segar, reacted strongly and negatively to such idealism. "It's ironic that the one who saw problems with a so-called perfect community — the one with his feet on the ground — was a cartoonist."

Social historians think of the 1930s and early '40s as the heyday of the comics, in part because it was a period of intense competition among newspapers for subscribers. "... the comic strip was given increasing space and prominence, with editors vying for the newest, strongest and most original," Bill Blackbeard writes in the Smithsonian collection of newspaper comics. "As a result, the comic strip was to be seen at its most varied, inventive, colorful and exciting plenty — a peak of creativity and popularity it has not held since."

What happened? For one thing, television happened. Today, Gowans says, the animated cartoon, invited into every American home via television, "does what comics once did — it appeals to the widest possible audience." What's more, Archie and Edith Bunker and the characters in "As the World Turns" and the other soaps are inevitably more alive than the stick figures in the comic pages.

Market also shrank. Days of newspaper circulation wars within a city dwindled away. Today, only 49 cities have more than one separately owned daily newspaper.

Economics too played a role. World War II brought paper shortages, the post-war era brought an endless spiral of newsprint costs. Strips became smaller and smaller. In the 1940s, Prince Valiant, with its elaborate and colorful artwork and dialogue, took up a full page in the Sunday paper; in the 1950s, it was down to a third that size.

But small was beautiful for some cartoonists. Charles Schulz, who introduced Peanuts in 1950, was "the first to simplify sketches, cut dialogue and reduce the size of each panel without sacrificing the quality or genius of his strip," says Bill Blackbeard, founder of the San Francisco academy of comic art.

In pre-Peanuts times, a daily strip might have run four inches high by five to six columns wide. Nowadays, a typical strip is about an inch-and-a-half high and about three columns wide.

Number of cartoonists followed Schulz's road to success. Mell Lazarus (Miss Peach and Momma), the studio of Johnny Hart (B.C., Wizard of Id, Goosemeyer, Croc) and Howie Schneider (Eek and Meek) all offered starkly clean-looking cartoons. Mort Walker, whose Beetle Bailey was born the same year as Peanuts, gradually simplified shaded areas and backgrounds to the point where today he produces small, completely unshaded black-and-white line drawings.

To Bill Blackbeard, Doonesbury and Jim Davis' Garfield (1978) are "fundamentally the further development of the Peanuts-size strip." Trudeau took simplification to an extreme — he frequently repeated the same drawing, often the white house, in every panel of a given day's presentation, changing only the talking balloons.

Whether because we have all become more accustomed to them or because generally they have become more sophisticated, comic strips are now quite respectable or, as Popeye would say, socially "correck." In 1966, the Smithsonian made history of a sort by becoming the first museum to mount a major exhibition of newspaper comics. Louvre and other museums followed. In 1975, Doonesbury became the first comic strip to win a Pulitzer prize. Original artwork, once thrown out by the bagful, is now a collector's item; last year, the Jane Haslem gallery in Washington, D.C., offered Trudeau cartoons for $285 per daily strip, $425 for a Sunday strip.

"For years, some intellectuals denied ever reading the comics, never mind discussing them," says Brian Walker, co-director of the museum of cartoon art in Portchester, N.Y. Today, they can be found laboring over the comics, following trends and character development and finding significance in every word balloon.

And, despite the competition from television and — the newest rival — electronic games, the comics are holding their own. Most of the 1,730 U.S. daily newspapers and many weekly newspapers carry comics. The current superstars, according to the syndicates, are Blondie (53 years old, but still going strong with 1,800 subscribers), Peanuts (1,800), Beetle Bailey (1,600 papers), Hagar the Horrible (1,300), Garfield (1,100), Born Loser (1,000) and Frank and Ernest (1,000).

They may be comic to you, but the business is a serious one. There are newspaper editors who admit that millions of people read newspapers just to see the funnies. Comic readers are anything but shy when it comes to letting editors know how they feel, according to Dan Griffin, an assistant features—editor at the Washington post. "When we take out a comic or even shift its position on the page, people will call in or write to us immediately," he says.

Competition to get strips into these papers is fierce. Last year, Bill Yates of King features reviewed more than 2,000 new strips. He chose only two — one was about a high-society pedigree dog, the other about a couple who "move" in time from one era to another.

New strips will always appear, but some cartoonists, such as Mort (Beetle Bailey) Walker, believe the era of major changes in the world of the comic strip is over for a time. In the cartoon world, however, every day will bring its laughs and its wry comments on the human condition. As Puck said in Shakespeare's "Midsummer's Night Dream" — words for many years printed on the masthead of the Sunday comic supplement of the Hearst newspapers — "What fools these mortals be!"

Helpful Information From Revenue Canada Customs and Excise Canada

CANADA BY CAR

Canada is such a beautiful country to visit by car. When you enter you'll need something more formal than a driving license. If you were born in the U.S., your birth or baptismal certificate will do. Otherwise, bring your naturalization certificate or alien registration card.

Youngsters under 18 not accompanied by an adult should take a letter from a parent or guardian giving them permission to travel in Canada.

If you arrive in Canada by car or camper, you'll find your current license valid in Canada. When you drive in Canada, you must always carry the motor vehicle registration permit and proof of insurance. When you're in Canada, you should be the one to drive your car. If a Canadian resident is caught driving a U.S.-registered vehicle and is not accompanied by the U.S. owner, the Canadian can be in a lot of trouble.

Your own insurance company or automobile club may help you obtain auto insurance to cover you in Canada. Otherwise, contact an insurance company that has international affiliations. This arrangement cannot be handled satisfactorily after you arrive in Canada.

If you're driving a rented vehicle, you'll need to carry a copy of the rental contract. If the car was rented outside of Canada, be sure that the contract specifies that the car may be driven in Canada.

If your vehicle is borrowed, carry a letter from the registered owner authorizing your use of the vehicle.

Trailers are allowed into Canada tax- and duty-free for a short while, but they must be taken with you when your vacation is over. Camper trucks or trailers more than nine feet wide are not allowed into Canada for ordinary tourist purposes.

Happy traveling!

Special Film Shown Sunday At Lincoln HS

"The Minnesota Connection," a 60-minute motion picture dealing with teenage prostitution, will be shown Sunday at 7 p.m. at Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls.

Starring in the film are Joseph Campanella, 30-year veteran of filmmaking; Sarah Rush, a regular on the "Quincy" television series; Rosey Grier, former NFL football player turned actor; and Al Palmquist. Public attendance is encouraged by the several local churches sponsoring the showing. Free will offering will be received.

A Minneapolis policeman, Palmquist founded Midwest Challenge in 1972 to help rehabilitate drug abusers and troubled youth. The nonprofit organization became "Midwest Challenge-Safe House" in 1978 after Palmquist learned how widespread teenage prostitution had become. He opened a place of refuge — a "safe house" — to youngsters trapped in the underworld of crime and big money.

Born from the safe house experience, as well as Palmquist's best-selling book by the same name, "The Minnesota Connection" movie is a real life dramatization intended to educate parents and their children, targeting especially on potential teen runaways.

Last year "The Minnesota Connection" was awarded the highest honor conferred by Religion In Media — the "Silver Angel", the "Oscar" of the religious world.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

It seems to me that the fishing has definitely been on the increase since our river was dredged in the mid-sixties. There has also been an increase in wild rice in the last couple years. So naturally I was shocked to see the Minnesota Highway Department dumping snow off the Third street bridge and on the banks of the public access to drain into the river.

This snow contains gas, oil, chloride, etc. Also what happens to the rest of the contaminated snow? We were all worried about the hazardous waste site issue in our area. Now I think we should take a look at some of the things we take for granted.

It seems to me that we are having enough trouble with our drinking water the way it is. Let's stop this senseless pollution.

'U'M Settles Dispute Over Attorney Fees

University of Minnesota and the attorneys who represented the plaintiffs in the Shyamala Rajender class action sex discrimination case against the university have agreed to settle a dispute over court-awarded attorneys' fees.

Rajender class action case was settled in August 1980 when U.S. District Judge Miles W. Lord approved an extensive consent decree resolving the complex seven-year-old case. As part of the decree the university agreed to pay attorneys' fees in an amount to be fixed by the court. On July 23, 1982, Judge Lord ordered the university to pay the Minneapolis law firm of Sprenger, Olson and Shutes the amount of $1.4 million and $550,000 to another firm, Johnson, Sands, Lizee, Fricker and McCloskey, plus interest to both firms, all payable over two years.

University will pay the Sprenger firm $1,175,000 and $300,000 to Johnson, Sands on February 1.

Settlement was reached with the aid of Leonard Lindquist, a special master appointed by Judge Lord under the decree. Mr. Lindquist had recommended the settlement to both sides and noted that "if the university had appealed and lost, it would probably have had to pay up to $2.4 million or more to cover the award and further fees and costs of the appeal and interest. Settlement thus (1) represents a significant savings to the university, (2) compensates the lawyers for years of work, including months of trial and (3) acknowledges the importance which the law attaches to equal rights for women and the Rajender consent decree."

Paul Sprenger, lead attorney for plaintiffs, stated that "the receipt of fees now rather than over two years as Judge Lord had ordered had induced him to waive interest and discount the fee award."

University general counsel Stephen Dunham stated that "the university is seeking to recover the full amount of the settlement from three insurance companies. One of the insurance companies has already agreed to pay $800,000 for the university's costs in the Rajender case. University has sued the two other insurance companies in a case which is expected to go to trial in early 1983."

Greek Hunter, Lights Up Winter Sky

Orion, the dominant constellation of the winter sky, now decorates the night. High in the southern sky, the constellation — named for the hunter in Greek mythology — looks like a giant, lopsided rectangle with the hunter's belt formed by three stars across the middle and his sword made up of three stars pointing downward.

This constellation is one of the most easily recognizable in the sky and has been mentioned in the literature of many cultures — traditionally depicted as a warrior. Four bright stars form a quadrangle marking the warrior's shoulders and feet.

Each of these stellar features tells a story. Look first for a slight haze near Orion's sword. This blur is actually a giant cloud of gas and dust about 1,600 light-years away. Four young stars have already been born from this condensing cocoon and more will surely emerge from the blazing cloud.

Also in Orion is the star Betelgeuse, Orion's brightest shoulder. This red supergiant star, about 15,000 times more luminous than our sun, is shrouded in a turbulent, fiery red shell.

Star birth like this is not well understood by astronomers. The force that causes gas and dust clouds to begin contracting is probably created by a supernova, or massive star explosion, nearby. Shock wave from it bends and compresses the cloud, then gravity takes over, gathering the particles eventually into stars.

Invisible to the naked eye, but just above Orion is the Crab Nebula, a vestige of a massive explosion, noticed from Earth in 1054 by Chinese astronomers as the sudden brightenening of an undistinguished star. Exploding star's material has been hurtling out into space ever since, still moving at about 5 million miles per hour.

Weary Worker Likely To Have Health Problem

Employees dissatisfied with jobs they feel helpless to change are more likely to develop health problems than those who feel they can change their work, an industrial relations professor currently at the university of Minnesota has found.

Joseph G. Rosse, a visiting professor at the university's school of management, found that employees deal with unhappiness with their jobs by adapting — for the better or for the worse. Those who adopt a positive approach attempt to change the disagreeable aspects of their jobs. But the more frustrated workers who feel helpless to change the system elect to adapt in negative ways — arriving late leaving early, taking longer breaks, missing work more often or even quitting.

"The results of this part of the study suggest that employers should strive for an atmosphere where change is welcome," said Rosse, who is working at the university's industrial relations center while on leave from the university of Colorado. "If employees sense that it is possible to effect change, they tend to register greater job satisfaction."

When employees feel they cannot alter their jobs, they will report increasingly higher numbers of symptoms of health problems, Rosse said.

Rosse's study looked at 42 new hospital employees who were interviewed ten times over 23 weeks. Symptoms of health problems reported by 21 employees who eventually quit their jobs increased by 95 per cent before they resigned. Most frequently reported symptoms included physical and mental exhaustion, headaches, trouble getting up in the morning, depression, neck and lower back pain and the inability to fall asleep and to remain alseep.

Previous research has found that people are less likely to quit or to be absent from their jobs during periods of high unemployment. "Consequently, health disorders are probably higher during the current recession and this period of high unemployment," Rosse said. "In addition, during tough economic times, employers may be less interested in increasing benefits and providing tangible incentives to increase job satisfaction since the turnover rate is relatively low during this period. However, when the economy turns around, employers may find problems surfacing at a fairly rapid rate."

"But," Rosse said, "the results of this study, which sampled only hospital employees, aren't applicable to the work force in general. Hospital employees are probably less likely to sabotage their work environment because their jobs can deal with life and death. Absence, tardiness, drinking on the job and taking long breaks probably show up less among hospital employees than with workers in general." Rosse said he expects his future studies will probably find an even higher correlation of health problems and job dissatisfaction in other work settings.

Big Drop In Oil Prices — Good Or Bad?

by Walter W. Heller
University of Minnesota

There's been much hand wringing lately in oil and banking circles over the threat of a big drop in the price of oil if the OPEC cartel falls apart. OPEC is trying to maintain prices without production quotas for its member countries — a nice trick if they can do it, but as cartels go, it would be a first. What if the world price of oil — which most Persian Gulf wells pump for $1 a barrel or less — plummets from $34 to $25 or even $20?

"Disaster" cry the oil experts here and abroad. And there would be harsh effects (1) on oil profits, (2) on oil exporting countries like Mexico and Nigeria, already in tight financial binds and (3) on banks with big loans to oil producers here and abroad. Echo effects would hit gas and coal as well. And incentives for conservation might be weakened.

These are the minuses. But let's look at the pluses. Assume a $10 drop per barrel:

— U.S. energy users would get a dividend of $50 billion on the 5 billion barrels they consume each year.

— Sick U.S. economy would get just the tonic the doctor ordered: the equivalent of a $50 billion excise tax cut that would unleash consumer spending, boost business profits (outside the energy industry) and give a special life to the ailing auto industry.

+ And that's not all: falling energy prices would make a further dent in inflation and high interest rates.

— For oil-shocked economies the world over — both in advanced and developing countries — a major roadblock to recovery would be removed. Economic tonic would be worldwide.

Softening of oil prices is more likely than a dramatic drop. But if best comes to best and we see $20 to $25 oil again, use part of the economic bonanza to tide over the banks and the Mexicos until economies recover and energy demand rises. As for the rest of it: enjoy!

Pump Implant New Hope To Cancer Patients

Of the 50,000 people in the United States who die each year from cancer of the colon, half die because the cancer spreads to the liver. Today there's new hope for these patients in the form of a simple implantable pump that looks more like a hockey puck than a revolutionary way of delivering chemotherapy.

Implanted under the skin of the abdomen, the pump dispenses anti-cancer drugs directly to the liver, according to Dr. Michael Lobell, an oncologist at United hospitals of St. Paul. United hospitals is among 100 medical centers where doctors are further evaluating the pump, which was approved by the federal drug administration last April.

Pump, made from titanium, stainless steel and silicone rubber, consists of two chambers separated by a flexible bellows. There are no batteries or other electronic power supplies. One chamber acts as a drug reservoir; the other is a sealed power supply containing a charging fluid that expands to vapor from the body's warmth. Vapor pressure exerts constant pressure on the bellows, forcing the drugs from the reservoir into a silicone catheter leading to the liver.

Colon cancer that has spread to the liver is, at best, very difficult to treat. Surgery is usually impossible because the disease tends to affect the entire liver. Radiation in high enough doses to destory the tumor also destroys the entire liver. Chemotherapy is the traditional, but not always effective, method of treatment. Once a patient develops metastatic colon cancer to the liver, the average survival is about six months.

According to Dr. Lobell, the implantable infusion pump represents an exciting possibility for treating colon cancer that has spread to the liver. Pump is implanted under the skin of the abdomen by a surgeon. Pump provides a precise and continuous flow of anti-cancer drugs to the liver, increasing up to 400 times the amount of drug concentration possible with the traditional intravenous method. Pump is refilled with a needle so it doesn't need to be removed from the abdomen.

Patients appreciate the pump because it allows them to go about their normal daily activities while receiving chemotherapy. Other method for delivering anti-cancer drugs directly to the liver requires a two to three week hospitalization while the drugs are infused by an intravenous method.

However, not all patients with the metastatic colon cancer are candidates for the pump, according to Dr. Lobell. Patients are selected on the basis of specific criteria, including good general health and absence of other sites of tumor activity in their bodies.

Using the pump, some researchers have found they can double or triple the average life expectancy for patients with liver cancer spread from the colon. In some single institution studies researchers report response rates — meaning the number of cases in which there is either a decrease or no change in tumor size after a three to six month period — of 60 to 70 per cent with the pump. Response rates with traditional methods are about 20 per cent, Dr. Lobell said.

Lobell cautions studies have only begun in the last several years. So far the studies have been single-site studies, which often yield more positive results. "What is needed is a randomized, prospective study to evaluate this mothod of treating liver tumor. Until that is done, the pump must be considered experimental," he said.

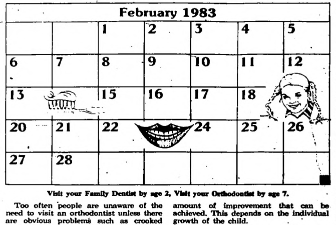
February Is Dental Health Month



Visit your Family Dentist by age 2, Visit your Orthodontist by age 7.

Too often people are unaware of the need to visit an orthodontist unless there are obvious problems such as crooked teeth. But also too often, hidden orthodontic problems develop or become more serious than they may have if discovered or prevented at an early age. Early diagnosis and treatment can help to reduce costs and length of treatment time.

The American Association of Orthodontists recommends that a child visit the family dentist by age 2. By this time, a childs teeth have erupted and can be checked and cleaned easily. An orthodontic visit is recommended by age 7.

Early consultation with an orthodontist can be a preventive measure. If a potential problem is discovered, treatment may not begin immediately. But the orthodontist, who has had at least two years of advanced, continuous training after dental school, and who is a qualified member of the AAO, can determine the "best" time for treatment to begin based upon the amount of improvement that can be achieved. This depends on the individual growth of the child.

Untreated problems can cause more than unattractive smiles. Protruding or crooked teeth, or teeth that don't function properly can harm one's general health. There can be problems with speaking or chewing. Often a child's self-esteem is affected which may interfere with his/her emotional and social growth. Sometimes improperly aligned teeth later can be the cause of clicking noises in the jaws, headaches and extreme facial pain.

Acceptable smiles and seemingly straight teeth can hide problems. It is best that every child have an orthodontic exam—even if only once.

For more information, write the American Association of Orthodontists, 460 North Lindbergh Blvd., St. Louis, Missouri 63141. Ask for the free booklet "Age 2, Age 7."

MACI To Back Overhaul Of Worker Comp.

The 65 member board of directors of the Minnesota Association of Commerce and Industry, the state's largest business lobby organization, has approved a legislative platform focusing on a wide range of economic development steps including massive overhauls of Minnesota's workers' compensation system. "In essence," explained MACI President Win Borden, "it is a program to really help generate jobs for thousands of Minnesotans who so desperately need them."

In officially releasing the policy positions of the 4000 plus member organization of businesses, chambers of commerce, and trade associations, Borden noted that the board also voted to support Governor Perpich's plan to nearly quadruple Minnesota's tourism promotion budget to $6.2 million. Borden said studies show that every dollar spent on tourism promotion garners about $43 in revenue for the state's hard pressed tourist industry, much of which is located in economically troubled northern Minnesota.

MACI's recommendations on workers' compensation focus around the central goal of making Minnesota's system competitive with those in neighboring states. Workers' compensation resolution calls for a "return to simplicity and to the basics" for the system, including "prompt payment of benfits when they are due, expeditious dispute resolution, and return of the injured employee to work as soon as possible."

Resolution goes on to say that benefits "should be paid only to the extent that the disability is actually caused" by the employee's job. MACI will also continue to oppose a state fund for compensation, supporting instead private sector insurance which "is fully responsive to the price forces in the marketplace."

Borden explained that MACI's legislative policy positions are developed annually after extensive consultation with member businesses, trade associations, and chambers of commerce. Meetings were held throughout the state late last year to lay the groundwork for the positions adopted by the board on January 4.

Other MACI policy position highlights include:

+ Support for tax measures to continue indexing, repeal unitary apportionment statutes on corporations, simplification of the entire tax system and opposition to extending the sales tax to business and professional services;

+ Support for a wide-ranging plan to restructure Minnesota's unemployment compensation system to encourage unemployed persons to accept available work and encourage the public and private sectors to work more closely together to locate and fill available jobs;

+ Support for an equitable superfund bill under which those who are responsible for hazardous waste pay clean-up costs, and support for regulations giving employees who work with hazardous materials the right to know about possible harmful effects;

+ Support for a system by which punitive damage awards from product liability cases are directed to an independent source to promote better safety in the use of consumer and industrial products;

+ Support for Governor Perpich's plan to increase state tourism promotion funding to $6.2 million;

+ Support for legislation increasing mathmatics, science and computer skills in educational curricula;

+ Support for a broad range of measures to encourage Minnesota's international trade capacity while abolishing or altering certain aspects of federal and state law which tend to discourage trade;

+ Support for a series of economic recovery strategies based on the special resources and capabilities of Minnesota's various regions.

Senator Urges Commitment On Nutrition

Calling on Congress to "continue its commitment to meeting nutritional needs of the citizens of the United States," Senator Rudy Boschwitz has introduced a resolution entitled "Preventing Hunger at Home."

"In the face of this sluggish economy and high unemployment it is particularly urgent that Congress tell the nation that the federal government will continue to ensure that the nutritional needs of our citizens are met."

Boschwitz said he believes that the programs to meet these needs already are in place with efforts like school lunch, school breakfasts, child-care food, special supplemental food for women, infants and children (WIC), food stamps and others.

"The time is ripe to express Congressional resolve to maintain our efforts in the nutrition area," Boschwitz said.

The resolution declares it the sense of the Congress that:

+ The federal nutrition programs, including the food stamp, child nutrition, and elderly feeding programs, should be protected from budget cuts that would prevent them from responding effectively to nutritional needs in the U.S.;

+ The special supplemental food program for women, infants and children (WIC) should continue to be funded at the full level authorized by law;

+ The federal government should maintain primary responsibility for nutritional programs.

"Congress has closely scrutinized and made significant changes in both child nutrition and food stamps over the past two years in an effort to achieve budgetary savings, but now our focus must shift to ensuring that the nutrition programs remain effective in reducing hunger and malnutrition in the United States," the senator said.

The resolution expresses concern about a reduction in federal involvement and commitment in nutrition programs at a time when it is crucial that these programs respond effectively to nutritional needs in the United States. It also states that the WIC program should continue to be funded at the full level authorized by law. (The WIC program is authorized and appropriated at $1.06 billion for FY83 and is authorized at $1.126 billion for FY84).

Fine Arts Fest Planned For Arrowhead CC

Plans for a five-campus Arrowhead community college fine arts festival to be held on the Hibbing campus on April 21 and 22 were announced today to Provost Orville Olson.

"It should be quite an event," Olson said. "We plan to invite Northland community college students from Thief River Falls."

At a joint meeting of art, music and theatre instructors from each Arrowhead campus, the decision was made to concentrate specifically on workshops in which the public, as well as students of all ages, could participate.

Tentative plans were made to hold concurrent workshops in areas such as stage movement, opera and children's theatre, musical comedy, mime, dance, nonsilver photography, lifedrawing, watercolors, printmaking, pottery casting, sculpture, film animation, weaving and sound sculpture.

Suggestions were also made to hold one evening of theatre cuttings, and one evening of mass band presentations.

Pre-registrations in each of the workshops will be required.

Grygla SWCD Office Fills Cost-Sharing

"Inquiries are still coming in and it looks like we may be able to encumber all our allocated state cost-share funds this year. This puts us in a better position when it comes to allocating funds next fiscal year," states Ralph Rundell of the Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district.

District farmers who have a project and are interested in applying for cost-share assistance should contact the SWCD office in Grygla. Even if funds are all encumbered for this year, application can be made to the state for additional funding if projects are ready to approve. This funding would come from other districts unable to use all the money they received.

"You can also make an application now if you have a project you won't be starting on until after July," Rundell said. "You would be top priority for the 1983-84 funding program. This may be helpful if you are planning a project on your set-aside land under the ASCS-PIK program."

Practices eligible for costshare on are erosion control structures, stripcropping, diversions, stormwater control system, field windbreaks, animal waste control system and critical area stabilization. Stop by or call the soil conservation office for more information.

STRAIGHT TALK

Albert D. Hattis, Associate Professor of Business and Holder of the Schwan Endowed Chair for Free Enterprise, Southwest State University, Marshall

Some time ago I met a dedicated man who was working hard to achieve certain personal goals. Most of our first conversation was spent with this man complaining about his car, house, job, boss, kids, wife, weather, government, inflation, interest rates, and even the size of a certain fast food chain's hamburger patties.

A few months later, I got a call from him with some news that he thought might be good material for a column. He was still griping, always seeing the negative side of everything and everyone. He was one of those people who always sees a half empty glass instead of a half full glass.

Then he called again. He mentioned a bad back problem, had visited his doctor, been sent to a specialist who had advised corrective surgery. He entered a hospital, was given the preliminary tests preceding the operation, and got the news that he had a terminal cancer condition. Because of that condition, the doctors saw no reason to put him through an operation with a recuperation period that would exceed his anticipated life span.

He was obviously depressed, concerned and very "down".

A few weeks later, I visited him at his office. He was working a full schedule, had lots of plans and anticipated doing what he could until he could work no longer. This significant factor that I observed was a complete change in attitude.

No longer negative, his whole perspective on life had changed. Knowing that he had a limited amount of time to spend, he no longer was irritated by the insignificant, like the weather, car and equipment breakdowns, the length of his sons' hair, a house roof leak, clerical deficiencies, and all of those little things that formerly bugged him. Now he awakened each day appreciating that previous day, the time he had available, and the opportunities that were his. He made plans to make the most of every hour he had left.

He particularly changed his attitude toward his family. He spent as much time as he could with his wife and kids, enjoying every minute with them. He became a good listener instead of an avid preacher. He saw so many things in his family that made him very proud. He took the time to appreciate each family member, individually, and as a family member.

He became a very positive thinking guy. Every day that he felt up to living was an opportunity to enjoy life, or at least that portion of life that remained to him. He was fun to be with and talk to. It was difficult to believe that this man was dying, knew that he was dying, and yet was living more than he ever had before.

As he pointed out to me, each day was valuable. He knew that. He used each day to its fullest, making the most of every opportunity and relationship. He no longer was preoccupied with the petty and the insignificant. Only the big issues and important activities were of real concern to him.

He reminded me of some advice I once received from a frustrated basketball coach who repeatedly told me to keep my eye on the ball. This man was now watching the "ball" all of the time and not wasting his precious time and energy on diversions. His wife, whom I had met along the way, said that it was difficult to believe that her husband had only a short time to live.

At this point, I wish that I could tell you that a miracle occurred, that this man was cured, and that he was now in perfect condition with a long life to enjoy. The truth is that his wife called the other day to let me know that he had died. She also said that he had lived more in the last few months than she recalled over a good many years. She felt that he had died happy, and she knew that the family was more "together" than they had ever been.

It is really a shame that so many of us have such a poor perspective on life and waste so much of our lives on the frivolous and unimportant. It is also a shame that it sometimes takes a tragedy to get us to finally focus in on the significant. I was hoping that this true-life situation might help some of us do just that. . . to truly appreciate what we do have, not what we are without, and to make the most of our opportunities. . . "to keep our eye on the ball", as it were.

Credit Cards: How They Began

Herbert N. Myers (right), senior vice president of Diners Club, presents Andre Soltner, owner of the world famous Lutece Restaurant, with a copy of "The Master Chefs of America Recipe Book" at a reception at New York's Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

In 1950, a couple of bright business people came up with a concept destined to overcome the hassles of carrying cash and called it the Diners Club card. It established instant credit for its possessor and in a number of different establishments. The beginnings were modest. There were only 200 cardmembers that first year and a mere 28 restaurants honoring the card.

Thirty-two years later, over four million cardmembers may use their cards in more than 550,000 establishments worldwide.

At the beginning, Diners Club was "the only game in town" but its success made imitation inevitable. Credit cards proliferated. It seemed that anyone with a product or service to sell issued a credit card.

Then the classic "thinning out" process began. The weak cards folded and the viable ones remained. Diners Club was among the survivors.

About a year and a half ago, Citicorp, one of the world's largest and most prestigious financial services institutions, acquired Diners Club.

Over 25,000 new establishments have been signed, according to Herbert H. Myers, senior vice president in charge of Establishment Marketing and Sales.

"We've concentrated on offering our cardmembers the widest range of restaurants, hotels, motels and retail stores from which to choose," Myers says. "For instance, we've recently signed not only the prestigious La Côte Basque Restaurant in New York but the Rusty Scupper chain of popular restaurants."

In the retail area, Diners Club is honored by Bonwit Teller, I. Magnin and Saks—some of America's premier specialty shops—as well as the 1,500 outlets of Radio Shack.

"It is this broad establishment base that has contributed to a doubling, in the last year, of the U.S. corporations whose employees are issued the Diners Club card exclusively for their travel and entertainment expenses," he said. Recent corporate signings include IBM, United Technologies, NCR, Proctor & Gamble, Allstate Insurance and Federated Department Stores.

Diners Club's association with Citicorp permits it to offer cardmembers a number of benefits not usually associated with travel and entertainment cards—the right to cash up to $1,000 in personal checks overseas at any Citibank branch; the ability to buy or sell foreign currency without fee; and the reimbursement of the service charges paid by cardholders for Citicorp Travellers Checks, which, in essence, means no-fee checks.

It's no exaggeration, says Myers, that Diners Club changed the American way of life.

Over the past few years, many people have insulated their homes, installed setback thermostats and automatic damper closers, covered their windows, all in an effort to cut their fuel consumption. They find that they are using much less fuel to heat their homes this winter, but their utility and heating fuel bills are up 10 to 20 per cent. Our fuel reserves are higher than ever, we have an oil-gas-coal glut from coast-to-coast, and inflation is way down. In a free enterprise system, when supply is up and there is a glut, the cost should go down, not up, but that isn't happening with energy. Rates are up 20 to 40 per cent in most parts of the country. Something is wrong!

Under our free enterprise system, the consumer is king or queen, makes demands for what is needed and business attempts to satisfy those needs. When consumers make excessive demands and there is a shortage of what is wanted, the price rises, the profit increases, and there is an incentive to more businesses to jump in along with increased production by existing suppliers, to help satisfy the demand. Once the supply increases, prices should come down.

If you have doubts about the system, take a look at new products and observe, even with inflation, what happens to prices. My current wrist watch is superior to the multihundred dollar digital watch I bought in the 1960's, and it cost 10 to 20 per cent of that original watch price in today's inflated dollars. My younger daughter's new calculator does more than the one I bought in 1966, and sells for about one fourth the price. My new personal home computer was selling for five to six times its present price just one year ago.

Why, then, with the glut in fuel for energy, isn't the free market reducing costs?

Since no one denies that there is a glut in fuel and that reserves are growing, or that inflation is way down, and that the fuel industries have been living "high off the hog" with excessive profits designed to encourage development, growth and a glut to reduce prices, why do prices keep going up? Since no one denies that we encouraged conservation to cut demand for energy, increase available suppy and reduce cost, why do prices keep going up?

Why are Americans facing higher fuel bills when they are using less and the gas, oil and coal surplus keeps rising? In most businesses there would be sales at reduced prices. Yet here some of our biggest advocates of freedom and decontrol are not letting the free market system work. That is hurting all Americans.

The truth, simply stated, is that our natural gas industry is interestingly organized. Sometimes we find the public utility which sells energy to the customers has rates based on the ability to pass through whatever costs it incurs in buying from pipeline companies, so there is no incentive to buy at a low price. Sometimes the public utility which sells the energy to the customers also owns or is involved with the pipeline company that keeps increasing prices, and it may even be associated with the company that develops and operates the wells.

To get around possible claims of interference with the market, some utilities have separated themselves from their pipeline and development entities, who were financed and grew with utility profits. The separation eliminates the profits the utility made from its pipeline and oil and gas properties.

In some cases, the utility may not be involved with a sister company, but may have entered into stupid contracts at excessive prices, based on its ability to pass through to you and to me this higher cost. Those contracts are not in the public interest and like contracts by the mob "to kill" should not be enforced.

You have to know that there is something wrong when you see market forces of excess supply and reduced demand, while prices go up at the expense of consumers. Instead of talking about it, our state and federal agencies that look at our utility monoplies should jump in and do a little shaking up. The fuel industry people ought to restudy how our free enterprise system is supposed to work. It would appear that some of the fuel-energy industry people are understudying J.R. Ewing and his crew of selfish and self centered "pigs" from that "Dallas" TV show.

When are the leaders in the fuel or energy industry going to wake up to the simple fact that Americans will not tolerate getting kicked around, mugged and having their pockets picked. They never learn! They shouldn't wonder about the reaction which is coming.

U.S. Senator Rudy Boschwitz reports to Minnesota

Since the first of January this year, I have received a huge volume of mail — almost 50,000 pieces — urging that the withholding provisions be repealed. Letters from constituents are most often helpful, and this volume certainly get our attention.

From some of the mail, I see that there may be some misunderstanding about how this withholding works. First, this is not a new tax. Instead, it is a way to collect taxes that will be paid on interest and dividends — just like taxes on wages are collected by withholding tax from a paycheck. As always, if too much tax is withheld, the amount over paid will be refunded.

With this in mind, I'd like to share a little background on how the withholding provisions came about. The withholding provisions were just one part of a large tax bill that was passed last August to lower the projected budget deficit by closing tax loopholes, and improving the process of collecting tax that is owed, but not always paid.

While its true that most people pay their taxes, the Treasury Department says that a lot of tax revenue is lost from people who receive interest and dividends but evade the taxes.

The Treasury Department estimates that $7.7 billion of taxes due on interest and dividends were not paid in 1981 — almost 12 per cent of all the taxes evaded in that year. Withholding will collect almost $17 billion that would not be collected otherwise.

Under the withholding provisions, the financial institutions will in effect collect tax on interest and dividends for the government.

I opposed withholding in the past because of the regulatory burden it imposes on finacial institutions and because it could adversely affect low and moderate income people who depend on interest and dividends for much of their income. This, of course, is still a concern, but I felt that the tax bill on which it was passed took this into account and eliminated some of the more onerous burdens, especially for the elderly.

Not everyone will be subject to the withholding provisions — people with small tax liabilities will be exempt. Since the exemption is based on tax liability, instead of income, Social Security benefits and other nontaxable pension and disability benefits will not be counted as income in determining whether a person with a tax liability of under $600 (income of $7,450) and married people with a tax liability of under $1,000 (income of $12,438) are exempt from withholding. In addition, a single elderly person with a tax liability of under $1,500 (income of $13,232, other than Social Security) and an elderly married couple with tax liability of $2,500 (income of $22,214) will be exempt. This will exempt almost 90 per cent of all people over the age of 65.

In addition to the concerns mentioned above, I'm concerned that an attempt to repeal the withholding tax provision could open up every other part of the tax bill for repeal, but I'm also alarmed by the large and vocal response this has generated in the state. It is something worth considering. Should circumstances change within the next few months, I will certainly re-evaluate the withholding provisions.

And even though my office has been inundated with mail concerning this issue, I'd be happy to hear from you if you have an opinion on it or would like to receive more information.

CONGRESS WANTS A PIECE OF YOUR SAVINGS!

WHAT THEY NEED IS A PIECE OF YOUR MIND!

TO OUR VALUED CUSTOMER:

IF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT HAS ITS WAY, 10% OF YOUR INTEREST AND DIVIDEND INCOME WILL BE WITHHELD FROM YOU NEXT YEAR!!!

The United States Congress recently passed a law that will adversely affect you and other savers in the nation. Under this law, all banks, savings and loans, money market funds, credit unions, mutual savings banks, and other payers of interest or dividends will be required to automatically withhold 10% of the interest and dividends earned by their saving dollars and transmit this amount to the IRS. You already have to pay income taxes on your earnings — but now the IRS wants to take 10% of your total interest in advance!

This rule is wrong for the following reasons:

1) Withholding will cut the amount of cash you have available during the year from your interest income.

2) The amount withheld may not be correct for your tax bracket. If overwithholding occurs, you will have to file for a tax refund to get back your own money.

3) Your total interest earnings will be reduced because of less income from reinvestment and compounding.

4) Elderly persons and low income individuals (including children) will have to file an exemption certificate for each and every account they have in order to avoid withholding. If the exemption is not filed in time, a tax return must be filed the next year -- or the withheld money will be forfeited to the government.

Unless Congress acts to stop the withholding rules, it will go into effect on July 1, 1983. This bank is working to do away with the rule, but we need your help. IT'S YOUR MONEY.

Please write to your Congressman and U.S. Senators! Give us a call if you have any questions or need information! Let's put a stop to withholding before it begins!!

Football Playoff Format Tabled

Board of directors of the Minnesota State High School League voted last week to delay implementation of the proposed high school football playoff format until the fall of 1984.

Under the proposed format, state football playoffs would be conducted with sectional tournaments in each of the five classes leading to the state championship games at the Prep Bowl.

The plan was drawn up last fall and presented with the idea of using the format for the 1983 season. However, the MSHSL board decided to establish a committee to refine the idea, with another board vote planned on the revised format in March.

Meanwhile, the current playoff system, featuring conference champions and qualified independents in the five classes, will be retained for 1983.

That will leave Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks and Crookston informally unified as Class A independents, one of them qualifying for the playoffs with a better than .500 record and an edge in the three-way series against each other. East Grand Forks used that method to reach the Class A championship game last fall.

Decision to delay the use of the new playoff format also finalized Thief River Falls' 1983 football schedule when the Prowlers will be playing six home games and only three on the road — reversing the 1982 slate. Visiting Thief River Falls next fall will be Detroit Lakes, Mahnomen, Breckenridge, Moorhead, Bemidji and Crookston. The Prowlers will make trips to Grand Forks Red River, Fergus Falls and East Grand Forks.

Under the proposed playoff system teams would have cut their regular season schedules from nine to eight games to accomodate the expanded post-season play. Thief River Falls was expected to drop Moorhead from its schedule under those conditions.

Hockey Streak Longest Since 1959-60

Current 12-game unbeaten streak by the Lincoln high school hockey team represents the longest unbeaten string by the Prowlers since the 1959-60 season when Thief River Falls finished with a 15-0-3 regular season record.

With their win over Crookston, the Prowlers surpassed a pair of 11-game unbeaten streaks in 1971-72, when they finished 15-5, and 1967-68 when they opened the year 9-0-2 and finished 16-2. That 1971-72 squad lost to East Grand Forks 4-2 in the first round of the 1972 Region 8 tournament, while the 1967-68 team reached the Region 8 finals before losing to Roseau 3-2, then fell to Greenway-Coleraine 4-1 in the old "Back-Door" Region 3 state tournament playoff game between the Regions 8 and 8 runner-ups.

That 1959-60 squad was the last Thief River Falls Region 8-Section 8 championship team, beating Warroad 4-1 in the finals. At the 1960 state tournament in St. Paul, Thief River Falls lost a 3-2 double overtime first round game to South St. Paul and fell to Minneapolis Washburn 4-3 in consolation play.

Only other state tournament trip for the Prowlers since 1960 came in 1964-65, when Thief River Falls followed a 12-3-4 regular season with a 3-1 loss to Roseau in the Region 8 finals but posted a 2-1 win over Duluth East in that Region 3 game. In the 1965 state tournament the Prowlers lost to Bloomington 4-2 and St. Paul Ramsey 5-0.

Miscellaneous

+ University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) hockey coach Jim Clauson got his point across Sunday when his Trojans lost a penalty-filled 7-5 game at Hibbing after winning the series opener 10-3 Saturday. The Trojans took just three penalties in the win, 13 in the loss. "I kept telling the guys that sooner or later all the penalties we get in a game were going to hurt us," Clauson told Lori Mateer of the Crookston Times. "It's something I've been harping about all year, but I just haven't had the example to wave in front of them (because UMC was 10-2 record-wise). Now I can finally show where these penalties actually cost us a chance to win the game." Among the UMC penalties was a game misconduct against defenseman Tony Sprague for arguing a penalty call with an official. He'll have to sit out tonight's (Wednesday) game against Northland community college. "I didn't have a good angle on the call, but Tony had no reason to even argue with the official on it," explained Clauson. "I keep telling these guys with short fuses to just walk away from the situation. Now maybe it'll start to sink in."

KEEPING AN eye on the puck, Northland community college freshman goalie Bill Bye made a second period save against Rainy River during Friday's hockey game played in the sports arena. The Northmen split the weekend series with the Voyageurs, losing 4-3 in the final minute and winning 7-4 Saturday. Northland visits the University of Minnesota-Crookston tonight (Wednesday) and closes out its 1982-83 home schedule with a Friday night-Saturday afternoon series here vs. league-leading Rochester.

Next-to-the-last week of the 1982-83 season offers the Northland community college hockey team a chance to move up — or down — in the six-team Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) standings, where the top four finishers earn spots in the 1983 MCCC state hockey tournament Feb. 19-20 at Rochester.

Northland, 6-7 for the year, will complete its month-long string of Wednesday night games against area rival University of Minnesota-Crookston tonight at 7:30 in Crookston, then host league-leading Rochester in a weekend series here that will feature games Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday afternoon at 1 in the sports arena. That will be Northland's final home appearance of the year.

UMC took all three earlier meetings this winter against Northland, 7-6 in overtime, 9-3 and 8-3 last week.

Games against Rochester will be worth four points each in the standings, double their normal value because the Yellowjackets play each of the other five teams just twice — a single weekend series — instead of the normal four meetings due to the travel involved.

Rochester is 6-0 in MCCC play with series sweeps over Rainy River, Hibbing and Mesabi — all earlier this season — for 24 points. UMC is second in the standings with a 10-3 record for 20 points. The Yellowjackets and Trojans meet each other Feb. 12-13 in Rochester, a week before the state tournament.

Carrying a 10-4 overall record, Rochester hasn't played a conference game since Jan. 7-8. The Yellowjackets have kept themselves busy with games against the College of DuPage (Ill.), University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse, the Rochester Lancers (a senior amateur team) and last weekend split a series against an Edina Junior B team, winning 5-2 and losing 6-3 even though they out-shot the opposition 50-27. Rochester was ranked No. 1 in the NJCAA polls before losing both games to the strong DuPage squad.

Fourth-year Rochester coach Mark Janes said the 1982-83 Yellowjackets are true title contenders. "We feel we have our best skating team. We came out of that early conference schedule smelling like a rose. Now we're going to shoot for 8-0; then 10-0. We've never won the league title before and the kids are geared up for it."

Opposing coaches are complaining about the Yellowjackets' four-point games and eight-point weekends. It's an unfair advantage, they say, where Rochester can win a league title with fewer victories.

Janes said people don't complain when they win those points, only when they lose them. "There's just as much pressure on us as anybody else to win those games," he said. "We can lose ground in a hurry if we don't win."

So far they're winning. And the formula is simple. "We score a lot," explained Janes, whose Yellowjackets put 45-to-50 shots on goal during the course of a game. Northland has had trouble hitting the 30-shot figure.

A balanced team featuring four lines, three sets of defensemen and two alternating goalies, Rochester's scoring includes Brad Johnson (Mayo) with 26 points, Shawn Daly (Duluth) 20; Brian Blomquist (Spring Lake Park) 20 and John Seiver (Mayo) 18.

Janes, he pointed out, has enjoyed a great deal of success against Northland. In six previous meetings, his Yellowjackets are 5-0-1 against the Northmen. A year ago there was a 5-5 tie and a 5-4 Rochester victory in the series.

Prowlers Defeat Pirates . . .

TRF Extends Unbeaten Streak With 3-1 Victory

Three second period goals — one of them shorthanded and another on the power play — Carried Thief River Falls past Crookston 3-1 Tuesday in a Section 8 high school hockey game played in the sports arena.

It was not a particularly impressive performance by the Prowlers — at least not in comparison to some of the work they've turned in during a current 12-game unbeaten streak — but it nevertheless did keep the streak intact and did solidify Thief River Falls' third place position in the Section 8 standings where the top four regular, season finishers earn automatic Section 8 tournament berths.

"We'll take the win," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand, who indicated he wasn't overly pleased with the Prowlers' play. "We should have finished more of the good scoring opportunities we had."

Indeed, Thief River Falls peppered Crookston sophomore goalie Derek Bray with 14 first period shots but didn't get anything out of it, and out-shot Crookston for the game 34-22, including a 27-9 difference through two periods.

After the unproductive first period, Thief River Falls scored in the first minute of the second period when Jerry Hallamek came up with a clean breakaway. He scored at the 35-second mark, putting the puck over Bray and just under the cross bar.

Niftiest play of the night really turned the game around as Tim Bergland came up with a brilliant individual effort on a shorthanded situation at the 6:20 mark. By himself vs. three Crookston skaters, Bergland stole the puck behind the Crookston net, skated in front, maintained possession and shot it over Bray for a 2-0 game.

That was all the scoring until Crookston spoiled Thief River Falls goalie Kerry Wollin's shutout bid at the 12:37 mark of the third period on a deflection during a power play. Mike Hastings got the goal as he caromed a slap shot from the point off a Thief River Falls defender, with the puck changing directions on sharp angle and skipping through Wollin's pads.

Thief River Falls improved its record to 11-3-1 with the decision. The Prowlers were without third line center Ryan Bakke and defenseman Allan Ness, both out of the line-up because of the flu. Steve Wiskow moved into Bakke's center position from his wing spot on that line, with Chris Jorde taking over at wing. Gary Cornell, who returned to the line-up on a parttime basis at Moorhead over the weekend after a long-lay-off because of a leg injury, was used full time on defense.

Crookston, meanwhile, fell to 4-11 with the loss. The Pirates, featuring a young line-up hit hard by injuries, are struggling through a long season. A year ago the future looked extremely bright as the Pirates skated a freshman line of Rick Dahle, Rich Clauson and Monte French that ranked with the best in Section 8. This year French is playing hockey in Canada, Clauson suffered a shoulder injury early in the season and Dahle was erased from the line-up this week because of mononucleosus.

"You can't lose a player like him," sighed Crookston coach Mike Lundby. "He's as good as they come. We played hard, and I guess that's about all you can ask; just do the best we can."

Thief River Falls visits Roseau Saturday and will be at Hallock Tuesday.

Falcons Defeat Prowlers 61-50

Fertile-Beltrami took a one-point third quarter ball game and turned it into an 11-point victory over Thief River Falls Tuesday in girls high school basketball action at Fertile.

Shooting figures were mainly responsible for the fourth quarter turnaround. Fertile-Beltrami, ahead 40-39 at the third quarter stop and behind briefly 41-40 at the start of the fourth quarter, shot 60 per cent from the field over the final eight minutes (8-for-14) while Thief River Falls shot just 21 per cent during that stretch (3-for-14).

"That was the difference right there," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer. "We had a poor shooting night all the way around. Had we shot in the mid-30's we would have won the game. We didn't play poorly, we just short poorly."

Fertile-Beltrami had a 14-12 first quarter lead and owned a 28-19 halftime advantage before Thief River Falls, normally a poor third quarter club, out-scored the Falcons 20-12 after intermission to make a game of it.

Deanna Broden put in 26 points for the winners, with Nancy Erickson adding 12 and Tindy Roragen 10. Michelle Olson scored 15 for the Prowlers, with Pia Tymberg turning in a strong 14-point, 15-rebound game and Paula Meyers collecting 10 points.

For the game, Thief River Falls shot only 27 per cent from the field (20-for-74), which included a handfull of close-in misses in the first quarter. The Prowlers shot 59 per cent at the free throw line (10-for-17). Fertile-Beltrami shot 46 per cent from the field (27-for-59) and 41 per cent at the line (7-for-17). Thief River Falls had a 38-29 rebound edge. The teams split 28 turnovers.

It was the eighth straight loss for the 2-9 Prowlers, who visit Bemidji Monday.

NCC Basketball Teams Tackle Division Rivals

Five season-ending games against three Northwest Division rivals will put a climatic finish on the 1982-83 Northland community college basketball schedule.

It starts Thursday with an 8 p.m. game at the University of Minnesota-Crookston, and includes games Monday vs. Fergus Falls; Sat., Feb. 12, vs. Brainerd; Mon., Feb. 14, at Fergus Falls; and Thurs., Feb. 17, vs. UMC.

Simple arithmetic comes into play here: win and you get to the state tournament. Top two finishers in the Northwest Division will join the top two teams in the Northeast, Southern and Central Divisions for the 1983 Minnesota Community College state basketball tournament later this month at Normandale in Bloomington.

Northland is 6-0 in MCCC play, 5-0 against Northeast Division teams and a 117-96 winner at Brainerd last Friday.

He averages 6.3 points per game.

Rest of the Northland starting line-up includes 5-10 sophomore guard Scott McKeever of Middle River with a 17.1 scoring average; 6-4 freshman forward Kyle Ramsey of Milwaukee, Wis. with a 14.8 average; and 6-4 freshman center Shorty Johnson of Kenai, Alaska with an 8.1 scoring average and 8.8 rebounds per game, second on the team behind Fontes' 9.3 figure.

Northland carries an impressive 60.4 shooting percentage from the field and a 72.4 mark at the free throw line. Opponents are shooting 45.4 and 59.1, respectively. The 13-1 Northmen are out-scoring opponents 90.3 to 75.3.

Before the start of every game the Northmen play will be a game featuring the Northwomen, who play UMC at 6 p.m. Thursday. They're 5-7 for the year, 2-4 in the Northwest Division.

Rams Upset Eagles 36-31

Roseau surprised Grygla 36-31 Monday in North Border Conference girls high school basketball action, prompting Eagles coach Bill Raduenz to call it the "worst coached-played game we've had by far."

It was the second straight loss for the 8-5 Eagles, who will be at Marshall County Central Thursday in another tough North Border assignment.

"We were flat as a pancake," added Raduenz. "We just stood around."

Grygla led 8-6 at the end of the first quarter, but fell behind 14-13 at halftime and trailed 26-20 at the end of the third quarter.

Pam Achman led the Rams with 13 points. Tammy Anderson had 12 for the Eagles.

Grygla shot just 26 per cent from the field (10-for-38) while Roseau shot 34 per cent (14-for-41). The Eagles shot 52 per cent at the free throw line (11-for-21) while the Rams shot at a 50 per cent clip (8-for-16). Grygla had a 26-24 rebound edge and topped the turnover charts 17-11.

Unbeaten Skippers Down Bears 38-25

Middle River girls high school basketball team remained unbeaten Tuesday with a 38-25 victory over visiting Hallock.

The Skippers, now 14-0, had quarter leads of 10-7, 19-9 and 30-15.

Kari Skoglund of the Skippers, who had 16 points, was the game's only double figure scorer.

"We played good defense. That won it for us," explained Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. He wasn't as impressed with the Skippers' offense, though: "Our offense wasn't very good," he admitted.

Middle River had just a 12-11 edge in field goals, but the Skippers were 14-for-23 at the free throw line (60 per cent) while the Bears were only 3-for-8 (38 per cent).

First Place Warriors Knock Off MCC 51-44

Warroad, the surprise leader in the North Border Conference, tightened its hold on first place in the seven-team league standings Tuesday with a 51-44 win over visiting Marshall County Central.

The defending conference co-champion Nordics, 66-63 overtime losers at Badger last Friday, fell to 4-3 in league play, 5-7 overall. Warroad, meanwhile, ran its league record to 7-1 and overall mark to 9-5.

Warroad jumped out to a 19-10 first quarter lead and maintained a 29-20 advantage at halftime and a 40-35 edge through three quarters.

Dave Phillipe scored 22 points for the winners and Chris Runnels added 16. Scott Anderson and Larry Larson had 10 points apiece for the Nordics, who will visit Grygla Friday.

"Basically, the game was decided in the first quarter," explained Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland, pointing to the Warriors' hot hand from the field at the start (9-for-15). "They just scorched the nets. It wasn't a case of bad defense, either. They really shot well."

Phillipe had half of his 22 points in the first eight minutes.

Tues., Feb. 8 — Middle River at Grygla, Lake of the Woods at Roseau.

Marshall County Central came back from that early deficit, getting within a basket and having possession of the ball in the fourth quarter, but the Nordics couldn't overtake the Warriors in the game worth two points in the North Border Conference standings because they meet just once this winter.

For the game, Warroad shot an even 50 per cent from the field (22-for-44) and 58 per cent from the free throw line (7-for-12). Marshall County Central shot only 37 per cent from the floor (19-for-52) and 86 per cent at the line (6-for-7). The Nordics had a slight 27-25 rebound edge and turnovers were even at 12 apiece.

Marshall County Central visits Grygla Friday and hosts Strandquist Monday.

Loretta Lynn Is Chairperson Of National Wildlife Week

Loretta Lynn, the "First Lady" of country music, has been named chairperson for the 1983 observance of national wildlife week, entitled, "This Is Your Land: Public Lands Belong to All of Us."

More than 15 million school children, teachers and conservationists will observe the 46th annual wildlife week, sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation, from March 20 to 26. They will be actively involved in understanding the responsibilites we all have as owners of America's 740 million acres of public lands.

Loretta Lynn is an outdoor enthusiast and practicing conservationist. She said, "The Federation's cause — and mine — is to remind the people of their responsibility to see to it that our public lands are used wisely. This is critically important as our country's demand for limited resources increases."

Lynn, the first country music singer to be named wildlife week chairperson, succeeds actor and environmentalist Robert Redford, who headed last year's wildlife week. Lynn has made radio and television public service announcements that will be aired all year, singing Woody Guthrie's popular song, "This Land Is Your Land," and talking about the importance of public lands.

She has donated her time to the National Wildlife Federation for her work as chairperson.

Federation President C. Clifton Young said of Lynn's selection as chairperson, "Loretta Lynn is a sincere, honest country person who appreciates the land and its valuable resources. She will be a valued spokeswoman for us because of her personal commitment to preserving our natural resources, and her credibility with her millions of fans."

Honored as the first woman to receive the prestigious Country Music Association's "Entertainer of the Year" award, Loretta Lynn has recorded more than 30 albums in her 20-year career.

"Much of this great land in America was set aside for you — years ago — to give you room to stretch, and to give wild animals room to live and grow," Lynn said. "Today, your land is also helping the country with jobs and precious resources.

"But as more needs are found for your land, it's more important that your voice is heard — so your land is maintained for you, for your children and mine."

National wildlife week was first proclaimed in 1938 by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to rally public support for the restoration of a healthy and abundant wildlife population, and is now the highlight of each of the National Wildlife Federation's year-long conservation education campaigns. This year's public lands theme was chosen to remind the public of its stake in ensuring that our public lands are used wisely and taken care of for citizens to use and enjoy.

Nearly half a million educational kits about wildlife week are being distributed by the National Wildlife Federation to schools and other conservation centers throughout the country to promote understanding and discussion of this country's public lands.

"These lands are some of the world's most cherished areas: parks, forests, refuges and wilderness," Lynn said. "They range from wilderness in New Mexico and Alaska to fishing streams in the Pacific Northwest and barrier islands along the Atlantic Coast. They are rich in natural resources, and home for an undetermined variety of wildlife and plants.

"It's time for all Americans to understand their role in taking care of this land — and using it wisely, to maintain it not just for this generation, but for generations to come."

Thief River Falls VFW Bantam A team saw its record fall to 10-12 with losses to Alexandria 6-2, Moorhead 5-4 and Bemidji 4-3.

In Sunday's home contest with Bemidji, Thief River Falls fell behind 2-0 after one period, then took a 3-2 lead on goals by Scott Novak (2) and Al Erickson only to see the highly rated Bemidji club score two goals in the last three minutes to win.

VFW Bantam B team defeated Bemidji 4-3 in overtime as Bret Haugen scored the winning goal, assisted by Steve Gillespie and Marty Levin. Thief River Falls had tied the game late in the third period on a slap shot from the blue line by Jason Lee. Peter Bortnem and Lee had scored earlier. Kraig Anderson played a strong game in goal for the winners, who also lost at Fargo North 3-1 and at Moorhead 7-2. Haugen scored the only Thief River Falls goal at Fargo North on a Penalty shot, while Bortnem and Haugen scored against Moorhead.

Merchants Pee-Wee B team split a pair of weekend games, losing to Fargo South 1-0 and winning at Moorhead 4-1 for an 8-10 record.

Eagles Pee-Wee A team shut out Moorhead 6-0 with Kent Hamre (2), Rick Looker, David Stengrim, Shawn Heinze and Mitch Wilebski getting goals.

It was a fun weekend in Moorhead as Thief River Falls teams posted a 4-2 record against Moorhead opposition. Many fans and players stayed all day and watched the Prowlers play the Spuds that night. That kind of scheduling is both economical and fun for parents, coaches and players.

State Groups For Waterfowl Are Combining

Two largest organizations focusing on development of waterfowl habitat within Minnesota have unified their membership and program resources into a nearly 3,000 member group under the leadership of the Minnesota Waterfowl Association. The joint announcement is made by Ray Norgarrd executive director and Dennis Haines president of the Minnesota Waterfowl Association (MWA) in conjunction with Howard Hansen president of Waterfowl Habitat Inc., whose 450 members will become part of the larger MWA organization.

The unified organizations are the only habitat-oriented waterfowl associations which raise funds from Minnesota sportsmen and invest those funds in acquisition and development of Minnesota habitat. Other organizations raise funds in the United States for habitat improvement in Canda.

Combined membership of the two organizations will be nearly 3,000 under the Minnesota Waterfowl Association name. A committee will be formed to consider creating a possible name change to reflect the broader programs.

Waterfowl Habitat Inc. is the newer of the two organizations according to WHI president Howard Hansen, which has focused its efforts since June 1981 in the "prairie pothole" regions of Minnesota. This activity will continue in combination with the ongoing efforts of MWA statewide.

Minnesota Waterfowl Association was formed in 1967 and has since established over 40,000 acres of waterfowl habitat in Minnesota. Since 1980 alone, there have been 134 individual private projects in habitat acquisition and development under MWA direction and support.

"The added resources of WHI will provide additional financial and membership strength with which we can expand our habitat development efforts in Minnesota". Norgarrd said. Selection of new programs, habitat locations, and resources commitments will be maintained under the MWA board of directors.

For further information contact Norgarrd by writing, Minnesota Waterfowl Association, 416 East Hennepin Ave., Minneapolis, MN 55414, or call 379-1654.

DNR NEWS

DNR Hunter Meetings

Minnesota hunters who would like to have a voice in setting the fall seasons have been invited by the Department of Natural Resources to attend one or more of several public meetings to be held around the state starting February 15.

Joseph Alexander, DNR Commissioner, said the meetings will afford hunters an opportunity to express their views on the status of wildlife populations, game management practices and regulations.

DNR began holding public meetings on the hunting seasons a few years ago and initiated similar meetings on fishing regulations this year.

Meetings, all of them beginning at 7:30 p.m., will be held Feb. 15 at Marshall; Feb. 22 — Hutchinson; March 3 — Twin Valley (Community Center); March 8 — Lake City; March 10 — Parkers Prairie; March 17 — Walker (high school auditorium); March 24 — Cambridge; March 31 — Ely; and April 7 — Twin Cities.

National Wildlife Week

With the theme "This is Your Land" the National Wildlife Federation will emphasize the values of public lands in America and the citizen's responsibility to insure they are protected and managed wisely.

Reminding that "public lands belong to all of us", the NWF will carry out a year-long effort on behalf of the benefits of the public domain, highlighted by a National Wildlife Week observance March 20-26.

"Our Nation's growing population and increased demands for natural resources have greatly intensified the need to manage our national public lands effectively," said Jay D. Hair, Executive Vice President of the NWF. "The more we learn about these lands, the more fully we can enjoy their benefits and actively contribute to their wise management."

Shoreland Problems

Despite efforts of the past ten years, says the Department of Natural Resources, there are still a large number of sewer systems posing problems in shoreland areas.

"Non-conforming" sewer systems are those which do not meet sewer standards and as a result can contaminate lake, river and ground water resources.

Human health is affected when residential wells tap contaminated ground waters. Polluting systems also lead to lake "eutrophication" — indicated by excessive weed and algae growth and a decline in water clarity and quality.

DNR's shoreland management program has attempted to deal with the problem by requiring counties to ensure the upgrading of all non-conforming systems within five years of the passage of their shoreland ordinances.

The five year period has long passed and during that time there have been both successes and failures, says the DNR. Statewide, more than 18,000 non-conforming sewer systems have been upgraded, representing a substantial improvement over pre-existing conditions. Several counties have developed aggressive programs to inspect and enforce compliance with the standards.

However, many other counties have been unable to marshall the resources needed to effectively address the problem. In three-fourths of the counties, fewer than one third of the non-conforming systems have been upgraded.

Some counties do not even have a sewer system inspection staff. An effective program requires an ongoing commitment to funding and a trained staff.

Although some counties are concerned about the cost of upgrading systems, the cost of lake restoration is many times more expensive. In fact, counties with strong efforts have experienced substantial voluntary compliance and at the same time given the local economy a substantial boost.

DNR officials are concerned that the budget problems being experienced at all levels of government, existing programs to ensure compliance may be de-emphasized.

High quality lakes and rivers are vital to the state's recreational economy. Counties are encouraged by the DNR to maintain or develop sewer inspection and correction programs in order to maintain the attractiveness of lake and river resources for the benefit of residents and tourists.

DNR has more informaton about this issue and the variety of programs instituted by counties. Contact Steve Prestin at 296-9226.

Public Notices

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Thief River Falls water utility announced today that the State maximum allowable limit for turbidity in drinking water is being exceeded.

Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand or organic matter in the water. Turbidity can be a problem if it interferes with chlorine disinfection. However, the high turbidity levels, do not create any health hazard because the water utility is able to maintain effective levels of chlorine for disinfection.

The Thief River Falls water utility staff is working closely with State Health Department officials to reduce the turbidity to acceptable levels.

Any citizen seeking additional information should contact Allen Lemm at the Water Plant, phone number 681-3889.

Human Blood - There Is No Substitute

"There has been recent publicity on artificial blood that has raised questions from many donors," according to Robert E. Ware, executive director of United Blood Services of the Upper Midwest, Fargo.

To answer these questions and to allay the belief that artificial blood will replace human blood for transfusion, Dr. Ernest Simon, corporate medical director of Blood Systems, Inc., has issued the following statement:

"The recent publicity on artificial blood and blood substitutes has led some blood donors to believe that blood donations are no longer necessary. However, we wish to assure all blood donors that human blood is still needed to save the lives of millions of people who require transfusions each year.

"The product now receiving publicity as artificial blood, a perflourocarbon, functions only as a mechanism for transporting oxygen under very special and extreme conditions and only for several hours. Accordingly, it may temporarily fill in for the red blood cells in carrying oxygen and serve as a substitute for only one of the components in blood.

Perfluorocarbons are synthetic chemicals and do not provide the other necessary blood components such as platelets, leukocytes, clotting factors and proteins found in human blood."

American association of blood banks notes, 'Clinical research is just beginning in the United States on these chemical substitutes. Data is not yet available on the long term effects of perfluorocarbon use and the substance may be toxic if not used correctly. Also, prolonged retention in the body could cause problems for recipients.'

Although perfluorocarbons show promise for use in certain special emergency situations and when there are religious prohibitions regarding the transfusion of human blood, they are not licensed for use in this country. Experts anticipate it will be five to 10 years before such chemicals are thoroughly tested, before indications for use are established, and before license for human use is granted.

Blood donations are needed every day to save lives. Although over 12 million units are transfused each year, fewer than 5 per cent of the eligible population gives blood. Few, if any, of the patients needing blood during the next few years will be helped by artificial blood. Donors are crucial to the assurance of an adequate supply of blood for the nation."

Fires in the fireplace and wood stove were used to warm up and brew coffee and chili for lunch.

Board of Review was held on January 17. Scouts who went before the board and were advanced to Star Rank included David Novak, William Nygaard, Greg Hall and Andy Melby. Tony Hoffard advanced to Tenderfoot, Wayne Borsheim and Jon Hall to Second Class, and Jeff Shafland to First Class.

Court of Honor was held at Zion Lutheran church on January 24, with Cobra Patrol in charge of opening and closing ceremonies, skits by Wolf and Indian Patrols, and announcing by the Panther Patrol. Scoutmaster Jim Hoks and Assistant Scoutmaster Jim Giles presented the scouts with their rank advancements, merit badges and skill awards. These were as follows:

Outstanding Scouting trophy for Troop 59 was presented to Tony Quevedo, by Travis Unruh.

Assistant Scoutmaster Jerry Unruh was introduced at the close of the court of honor. Refreshments were served to the parents and scouts attending and plans were worked on for summer camp, a ski trip on February 19 and 20, and signing up as merit badge counselors.

School Safety Patrol Week Feb. 13 To 19

Gov. Rudy Perpich has proclaimed February 13-19 as school safety patrol week in Minnesota, marking the 62nd anniversary of an organization which has helped protect the lives of millions of school children since its inception.

Perpich, in the proclamation, asked communities to give special recognition to the estimated 40,000 young people who serve in the school safety patrols throughout Minnesota.

Public safety commissioner Paul Tschida said that the school safety patrol last year continued its perfect record of never having had a life lost at crossings guarded by patrol members.

First school patrol program began in St. Paul in 1921 when Sister Carmela organized a group of students to protect school children crossing the busy intersection at Summit avenue and Kellogg boulevard.

St. Paul city council established a city-wide system of school police in 1922. By 1930 similar patrols were being formed in the state. In 1933 the Minnesota legislature authorized a statewide school safety patrol system.

Patrol members will receive further public recognition at the governor's award banquet in May when the Minnesota safety council recognizes outstanding school safety patrol activities.

Lions Telethon For Hearing March 19-20

Auditions for musical variety artists for the 1983 Lions telethon for hearing have been scheduled for Sunday, February 20, at the Carlton celebrity room in Bloomington, MN.

Telethon will be broadcast statewide live from the Carlton for 20 consecutive hours on Saturday and Sunday, March 19 and 20. National cast including puppeteer Shari Lewis and Sesame Street's Bob McGrath will be featured. Approximately 15 volunteer Minnesota performers or acts — both professional and amateur — will complete the cast.

Performers seeking to audition for the broadcast must reserve an audition time by calling the Lions telethon for hearing office at (612) 938-1106. Performers may furnish a record or tape in lieu of an audition. Materials should be mailed to the Lions telethon for hearing, 5780 Lincoln Drive, Edina, MN 55436.

Broadcast begins at 5 p.m. Saturday, March 19, and continues until 9 p.m. Sunday, March 20. Telethon will be carried by KSTP-TV Minneapolis-St. Paul, KBJR-TV Duluth-Superior, KTTC-TV Rochester, KCMT-KNMT-TV Alexandria-Walker and KEYC-TV Mankato.

The 1982 Lions telethon for hearing generated more than $642,000 in cash and pledges to partially complete the Lions 5M hearing center at the university of Minnesota. This year's event will raise money to finish the hearing center's physical plant, and will include special features to help raise money to purchase much needed laser equipment for the Minnesota Lions eye bank and children's eye clinic, also at the university of Minnesota.

Senator Would Again Extend Jobless Pay

Senator Rudy Boschwitz has introduced a bill in the Senate that seeks to extend unemployment benefits for those whose coverage has expired by six months.

The bill extends an existing program, the federal supplemental compensation program (FSC), which was passed in two phases last August and December. The provisions of the program are currently due to expire on March 31, 1983.

Boschwitz said he decided to introduce the bill after his town meeting on jobs held in Hibbing in conjunction with Governor Rudy Perpich earlier this month.

Earlier this week he forwarded his intention to introduce the legislation to the White House. He said he was "delighted" that President Reagan gave the bill a prominent endorsement during the state of the union message.

"This extension will not be cheap," Boschwitz said. "The labor department estimates that it will cost $2.4 billion. But what choice do we really have? The President clearly understands the human costs of unemployment and I think the rest of the Congress should follow that lead and pass this legislation quickly.

"It is vital that we offer some hope," he added. "The value of this program is clearly demonstrated in one startling statistic — without FSC, a half-million people would have exhausted their benefits last October."

Boschwitz was one of the senators who originally supported a resolution that led to a 10-13 week program to extend unemployment benefits. In December, Boschwitz cosponsored an amendment to the gas tax that extended benefits by up to an additional four weeks.

Ferren Guest Speaker For Grygla Meet

Guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district will be Donald Ferren, state conservationist with the soil conservation service. The annual meeting will be held on Tuesday, February 15, at 1 p.m. at the Grygla community center.

Ferren came to Minnesota as assistant state conservationist for operations in May of 1974. He was promoted to deputy state conservationist in December of 1980, and moved into his present position as state conservationist on Jan. 9, 1983.

A native of New Hampshire, Ferren began his career with SCS as a conservation aide at Milford, N.H. in March of 1954. He attended the University of New Hampshire while on leave from SCS and obtained a B.S. degree in agronomy in 1959.

Ferren held positions as district conservationist at Woodsville, NH; area conservationist at Ithaca, NY; and assistant state conservationist for operations and watersheds at Burlington, VT, before coming to Minnesota in 1974.

He has participated in numerous civil service, university and SCS training courses and has received many outstanding performance and special achievement awards for superior performance in his various positions.

Deadline Set For Emergency Crop Loss Loan

Farmers in Pennington county are reminded that February 10 is the last date that they can apply to the Farmers Home administration (FmHA) for an actual loss emergency loan for crop losses suffered in 1981.

Local FmHA office was authorized to approve only 25 loans as a result of this disaster designation and being that 25 loans have already been approved, additional loans will be made for only extreme emergency cases.

Request for a disaster designation has been made for crop losses suffered in 1982. If this request is approved, lower interest loans will be available for those farmers who have suffered at least a 30 per cent crop loss in 1982.

Farmers Home administration office in Thief River Falls may be contacted at 681-2843 for further information.

TV Show Helped Kids To Choose Their Own Style

by Paul Dienhart
'U' M News Service

Parents who worry that their children might pick up bad values from watching television now have some cause for hope. A recent study shows that one public television series, at least, helped make children more self-confident and more tolerant toward others.

"To some extent, television is a school for life. It shows the way the world works," said James Ettema, assistant professor of journalism at the university of Minnesota. "Judging by many of the programs, the world is mean and dangerous and you've got to be tough to survive. There's some evidence that children who watch a lot of television tend to be more aggressive."

But children who watched the program "Freestyle" on the public broadcasting system in the past few years also saw a world that worked in idealistic ways. It was deliberately made a world where children were rewarded for behavior that didn't fit sexual stereotypes. Girls were allowed to excel in athletics and there was nothing odd about boys caring for old people at a nursing home.

When the national institute of education funded the "Freestyle" project it asked Ettema and Jerome Johnston, a scientist at the university of Michigan's institute for social research, to test whether the program accomplished its objective: to give children between nine and 12 a less sexist view of each other's abilities. In their book, "Positive Images," recently released by Sage publications, Ettema and Johnston conclude that "Freestyle" largely succeeded in its mission.

"The children did seem to see the world differently after seeing the series," Ettema said. "Not only did boys and girls decide that the opposite sex was better at things than they had thought, but they decided it was OK for the opposite sex to have these nontraditional skills."

Take the story of Chris, a 13-year-old girls who wants to be an auto mechanic. Even in "Freestyle's" idealized world this isn't presented as easy. First she has to convince crusty old Matt at the service station that he should hire her despite his "Boy Wanted" sign. She wins his reluctant approval by helping to pump gas during an especially frantic time at the station. She gets the job only to tackle a major engine repair the first time she's left alone at the station. It's a disaster. But in true television fashion she plucks up her courage, returns to work, learns more about fixing cars and saves the day the next time there's an emergency.

Such stories avoid instruction and sermonizing and they do what television does best, Ettema said. "The dramas create an alternative reality that has the potential to become the audience's own. In "Freestyle" both boys and girls achieve, but never at the expense of each other. It's certainly an idealized world, but apparently a credible one to boys and girls."

Ettema and Johnston's research covered more than 6,000 children in 88 schools in seven cities. The children were divided among three test groups. Some never saw "Freestyle," some were shown the program at school and some both viewed it and discussed it with their teachers. Children were given tests on their acceptance of sexual stereotypes before they were shown the series, during the time they viewed the series and up to six months after the series went off the air.

Study was designed to measure beliefs — for example, whether girls were capable of repairing bicycles — and values — whether it was a good idea for girls to be fixing bikes. Both beliefs and values changed upon viewing the series. Boys' and girls' estimates of each other's abilities rose, making their beliefs and values more similar than before.

Boys changed the most because they had a poorer opinion of girls' abilities than girls did of boys'. Girls received a double advantage from the series (not only did it change the boys' opinions, it helped give the girls a better view of their own abilities. They decided it might be possible to do some things they hadn't thought of before. One of the goals of the series was career awareness, because boys generally express interest in three times as many occupations as girls of the same age.

"Overall the series was successful," Ettema said. "It made boys and girls more tolerant of non-traditional behavior and freed them to take advantages of opportunities. It did something good."

There was some drop in the new attitudes over time. But even months after the series ended, significant changes in the children's beliefs about the competence of the opposite sex remained. Values about these capabilities were even more stable. If some boys began to doubt the general ability of girls to fix cars, they still thought it was all right for a girl to do mechanical work.

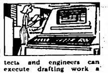
Series was much more effective when it was discussed in the classroom, the researchers found. Using a study guide provided with the series, the teachers were able to make the lessons in the dramas more obvious.

Series was least successful at instilling new interests in the children, Ettema said. While the dramas made girls more inclined to believe it was possible for them to be auto mechanics, it didn't motivate girls with no interest in mechanics to run out and learn how to tune an engine.

"Actually I think it's somewhat comforting that television can't make you into a new person, that factors like natural inclination and support from parents may be more important in determining interests," Ettema sais. "It's also true that television alone is not going to create ciminals. Television is part of a society that can create criminals."

Projects like "Freestyle" have been criticized by some conservatives for trying to program children with values the conservatives don't like, Ettema said. "Freestyle" wouldn't appeal to someone who thinks women should stay at home. But if it's propanganda, it's benign propaganda. The message is not what you have to do, but what you could do."

INGENIOUS IDEAS DEPT.

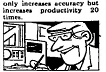


Here's a quick look at a number of ingenious ideas that have let us do things a lot faster.

Orville and Wilbur Wright's idea that man could fly led to the first successful air flight. It took place in 1903 near Kitty Hawk. Since then, we have been able to travel from one place to another a lot faster.

An ingenious idea, called a computer, has helped us do mathematical figuring a lot faster. The first electronic computer, built in 1946, had 18,000 vacuum tubes and was so large it filled an entire room.

Today, computers are much smaller and aid us in many different ways. Architects and engineers can execute drafting work a great deal faster and more accurately, thanks to a computer-aided drafting system. Called EasyDraf2, developed by engineers and architects at Bruning, it not only increases accuracy but increases productivity 20 times.



This ingenious idea reduces overtime and speeds completion of projects. Architects and engineers have also discovered when the drafting cycle is reduced, profits increase. A free brochure on one of these computer-aided drafting systems is available by writing to: Bruning, Dept. S, 1800 Bruning Drive West, Itasca, IL 60143.

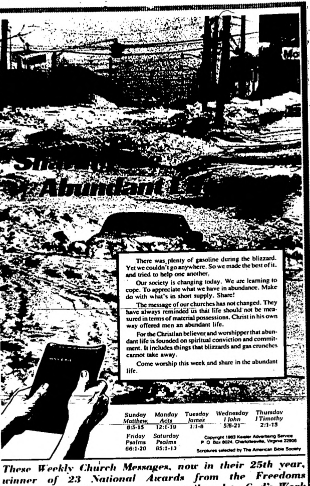
FOR A PRAYER PARTNER CALL:
681-4716



There was plenty of gasoline during the blizzard. Yet we couldn't go anywhere. So we made the best of it, and tried to help one another.

Our society is changing today. We are learning to cope. To appreciate what we have in abundance. Make do with what's in short supply. Share!

The message of our churches has not changed. They have always reminded us that life should not be measured in terms of material possessions. Christ in his own way offered men an abundant life.

For the Christian believer and worshipper that abundant life is founded on spiritual conviction and commitment. It includes things that blizzards and gas crunches cannot take away.

Come worship this week and share in the abundant life.

NEWS FOR PARENTS

ACTIVE KIDS NEED EXTRA FLUIDS

Whether your kids are into skating, sledding, skiing, or just shuffling around in the snow this winter, make sure they get plenty of liquids.

When the temperature drops, we bundle them up with additional sweaters, mufflers and caps. But keeping young, active bodies properly hydrated in cold weather is as important as keeping them warm.

It doesn't take a football game or tennis match in the hot sun to raise body temperature and cause water loss. Young snow enthusiasts, just like young ball players, need extra fluids to rehydrate during and after an active day. An extra glass of water, cider, or isotonic beverage like Gatorade® thirst quencher, formulated for effective, easy absorption into the system, may be helpful to prevent dehydration.

Professional athletes in all seasons often use isotonic drinks like Gatorade® to quench their thirsts, help replace fluid loss, and help maintain critical energy reserves and electrolytes. Your kids will enjoy and benefit from the drink of the superstars, too, all year long. It's refreshing after a hard day at play, and it has no caffeine. Serve it hot this winter with a cinnamon stick or fruit slice for a special taste treat.

Selective Vision

How easy it is for people to develop selective vision — to see what they want to see in a given situation and be blind to the viewpoint of others who may be affected.

One of the prime examples in our area has been surface drainage. In the effort to make the level land of our area more suitable for crop production, landowners have established drainage systems to move water off the land as quickly as possible. The selective vision has allowed the farmers to see their improved production capabilities without seeing that their drainage adds to floodwaters downstream.

Opponents of commercial fishing on Lake of the Woods have taken somewhat the same attitude, looking at the fish resource of the lake as the property of the sports angler only. Ignoring the commercial fishing tradition and the thousands of people who are able to enjoy meals of fish without going to catch them, they condemn the net fishermen as being exploiters of the resource. Netters believe they are providing a service.

Among the people most visible in opposition to commercial fishing have been resort operators near the mouth of the Rainy river who have pointed out that their industry generates many times the revenue for the area and the state than the relatively few commerical fishermen do. In that assessment they are right, of course. Times have changed, they say, and the lake can no longer take the stress of the commercial fishing harvest without damage. That assessment has yet to be verified.

Now the provincial government of Ontario has seen fit to propose regulations which would drastically alter the use of its lands and waters for hunting and fishing. Among those most adversely affected would be the resort operators whose customers have been squired into Ontario waters on launches, or who have fished Ontario waters from private boats out of United States resorts. Ontario officials have now apparently determined that a few dollars for a license to fish don't adequately compensate the province for the use of its fishery resource. They want more money spent in Ontario.

Resorters who were upset that commercial fishermen are allowed to "exploit" the resource in Minnesota are now upset because they may not be allowed to "utilize" the resource in Ontario. Their concern is understandable for their livelihood may be at stake — just as the commerical fishermen's livelihood is at stake.

And while the Ontario officials look at the use of their lands and waters and the capability of those resources to produce revenue for Ontario, they may be oblivious to the larger picture of total United States and Canada relations.

Compromise is sure to come and a workable solution for use of boundary waters should be reached, although it will likely be to neither country's total satisfaction. Horizons of vision will have to be extended and things will not be the same in the future as they were in the past.

Thinking About PIK

Following editorial is from the Sleepy Eyer Herald-Dispatch and was written by Mark W. Beito:

President Reagan's new Payment In Kind (PIK) proposal to give government-owned grain to farmers to encourage them to idle a large share of their cropland this year is typical of the sort of new ideas that have come from his administration: daring, original, and not very well thought out.

American's farm production system is the pride of this country and the envy of the rest of the world. But the system is not made up of just farmers. It includes equipment manufacturers and dealers, fertilizer companies, chemical companies, railroads and trucking companies, grain elevators, and grain bin manufacturers, to name a few of the more obvious ones.

If we assume that PIK is in the best interests of the farmer — an issue that farm organizations are hotly disputing — what will the effect be on the other members of the system? More to the point, has anyone in the Reagan administration ever considered what the impact will be? Fewer acres being tilled will lead to a lower demand for farm imputs — equipment, fertilizer, chemicals, seed, and so forth. That means that businesses on Main Street, and on Main Streets everywhere will also be affected by the Reagan proposal.

Perhaps PIK will be the salvation of American's farmers. It would be a shame if it came at the cost of damaging the system which made America's great agricultural productivity possible.

Unusual Example

Following editorial is from the Huron (SD) "Daily Plainsman":

Once more it seems that South Dakota has provided an example in the management of governmental affairs that the powers in control of the federal government would do well to emulate.

State Budget Director Steve Zellmer's report to the Legislature's Joint Appropriations Committee was of a type unheard of in the nation's capital in many years. "We'll really be in better shape June 30 than the plan called for," Zellmer told the legislators. That, in spite of the same sort of a revenue shortfall that is contributing to a mushrooming federal deficit.

Projections now show that state general revenue will fall about $7.9 million short of expectations. That shortfall is in part attributable to the recession which has cut into federal tax revenues. The big difference in the prospect for the fiscal year is management.

The state ended the last fiscal year with an extra $9.7 million in the treasury. Most of that was accumulated by state agencies through tighter management and frugal spending. And it was turned back to the treasury at the direction of Gov. Bill Janklow.

Federal government operates in exactly the opposite manner. When tax revenues fall, expenditures rise. And even when Congress attempts to pass laws to slow spending, the reduction of spending growth always comes out to a lesser figure than planned.

When state agencies cooperated to turn back unused funds in South Dakota, federal bureaucrats are inclined to spend all remaining funds prior to the end of the fiscal year if for no other reason than to convince the lawmakers that they needed the money. This is one practice that should be brought to a halt if it requires removal of those in charge to effect the change.

Due to good legislative planning and careful administration, South Dakota will end the fiscal year with a slightly larger cushion that projected earlier. And that is in spite of an anticipated $7.9 million shortfall in tax revenues.

Voters rewarded Gov Bill Janklow for his efforts with a record plurality on election day. And they increased the authority of the majority Republican Party in both houses of the Legislature at the same time.

That sort of voter response to good government is encouraging. It ignored some irresponsible Democratic campaign charges that the state was broke and the majority party was postponing the budget director's report until after the election to conceal that fact.

Actually, the figures released this last week are not much different than the projections released prior to the election. The difference here is that voters obviously have a great deal more confidence in their state government than they do in Washington.

There is good reason. State government has faced up to realities, made some hard decisions, and lived within its means. Federal government has not. And there is little evidence that it intends to.

There is a lesson here in South Dakota for the Reagan administration and for individual members of the Congress. Obviously, the people to call it to the attention of the powers in Washington are our own members of the congressional delegation.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Mrs. Rich: "I'm going to fire that chauffeur! This is the third time this week he's nearly killed me!"

Mr. Rich: "Now, now, dear; give the poor man another chance."

Overheard at Coffee: "They say he has one of the best minds in the state legislature — which is something like being one of the 10 best dressed men in a monastery."

Interesting Opinions:

"As your journey (through a winter woods) comes to a close, ponder the winter snow — how it covers the details, hides the clutter, renders the complex simple. With things less complicated contrasts are sharpened; subtle colors before unnoticed can now be seen. Reducing things to their essence, we can more quickly recognize the difference between the trivial and the basic, the fleeting and the lasting. Snow, by giving us less to look at, gives us more to see."

NEW MORTGAGE PLAN AVAILABLE

The key to buying or selling a home is often affordable financing.

The good news for Americans who want to sell their homes—and those who want to buy one—is a new mortgage plan that makes home financing more affordable. In some cases it can reduce the effective interest rates into the single digit range.

The new plans, available to homeowners whose current mortgage is owned by the Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA)—known as Fannie Mae—and to buyers of their homes, provide consumers with three below-market financing alternatives: an adjustable rate mortgage (ARM) and a graduated payment adjustable rate mortgage (GPARM), as well as the 30-year, fixed-rate loan which has been available since the plan's introduction in early 1981.

Under the plan, existing FNMA loans can be "traded in" by the home owner or buyer for a new Fannie Mae loan. Fannie Mae is the nation's largest single source of mortgage money. It makes funds available by buying mortgages from originating lenders. Consumers can find out if Fannie Mae owns a particular mortgage by contacting the lender currently collecting the monthly payments.

For resale mortgages, financing for up to 95 percent of the home's current value is available; for refinances the new mortgage can be for up to 90 percent of current value—and the loan proceeds can be used for any purpose—college education, home fix-up, business, medical expenses, etc. One- to four-family homes which are non-owner occupied are eligible for up to 80 percent financing.

The key whether one is selling or buying a home—is affordable financing.

A free booklet on this new plan is available by writing to: Federal National Mortgage Association, Mortgage Solution, 3900 Wisconsin Avenue, Washington, D.C. 20016.

CAPITOL COMMENTARY

by LeRoy Stumpf

State Senator — District I

I am happy to report to you this week about a long-awaited farm loan program that will begin offering assistance to farmers next month.

The program, which was approved by the state legislature last session, allows the small business finance agency to offer guaranteed loans of up to $100,000 for buying, installing, improving and removing buildings on farm land. Eligible borrowers will be able to secure the loan through their local banks.

This program will offer some long-overdue help, for our sagging farm economy. I encourage all farmers needing assistance to apply. For more information, contact the small business finance agency in St. Paul at (612) 297-3547, or write to me at my office (306 Capitol Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155).

I also want to tell you about a study recently completed by the higher education coordinating board that identified ways to cut costs in our state's public universities, community colleges and vocational-technical institutes. The legislature asked the board to conduct the study in light of limited state funding and declining enrollment.

As chairman of the Senate education committee's subcommittee on post-secondary and higher education, I will lead a review of this study. I would like to share with you some of the findings that concern our district.

The board projected that enrollment at all public, post-secondary institutions will drop dramatically during the next 15 years, mainly because of a decline in the number of students in that age bracket. Compared to enrollment in 1981-1982, the board projects a 20 to 25 per cent drop in enrollment by the mid-1990's.

The colleges, universities and vo-tech institutes have responded to the challenge of fewer students and less state funding by proposing many changes. These include fostering cooperative agreements between institutions in the same geographic area; improving planning at the schools and reducing low-priority programs; reducing staff through attrition; and improving the efficiency of some offices by using new technological equipment.

The community college system has suggested that smaller colleges located in the same general area share some of their administrative employees. Five campuses in northeastern Minnesota already have been clustered together into Arrowhead community college, a change that will cut 9.5 jobs by centralizing personnel, business and student records offices.

A similar reorganization plan is being considered for four northwestern colleges, including Northland community college in Thief River Falls. If the plan is approved, Northland and the other three colleges in the cluster (Brainerd, Fergus Falls and Willmar) will all remain in operation. However, the administrations of those schools will be pooled, eliminating eight positions.

The community college system expects to save $900,000 by such administrative consolidation throughout the state.

It is always painful to think of cutting back in the area of post-secondary education. Over the years, Minnesota has built a system that is among the best in the country. I will take a close look at all proposals to make sure that any cuts have as little effect as possible on the education provided to our students.

News for TEA LOVERS

Winter-Tea Warm Up Ideas

Step aside from the traditional calorie and caffeine-laden winter beverages into the warming world of herbal teas. These caffeine-free hot beverages are a good-tasting way to warm up on a cold winter's day.

Herbal teas, once available only in health food stores, are now commonly sold in supermarkets too. They are made by carefully blending all-natural herbs and spices and other ingredients to achieve their enticing aromas and full, gentle tastes.

These beverages are caffeine-free since they do not actually contain black tea. That also lends to a more delicate color and flavor than is found in beverages containing black tea. Yet, they still have a full-bodied taste that's enjoyable for an afternoon break, for evening relaxation...or simply anytime!

But don't think this age or culture has the "corner" on these relaxing hot beverages. They have been enjoyed since medieval times in Europe when they were used for everything from curing illnesses to restoring hair.

While herbal teas are no longer used for their medicinal effect, their natural benefits are enjoyed as a convenient, change-of-pace beverage. By simply pouring boiling water over an herbal tea bag and brewing for approximately 3 minutes, you have a good-tasting, hot beverage sure to warm the coldest of winter days.

Once you've discovered the delicious taste of almond pleasure, cinnamon apple, gentle orange, quietly chamomile and toasty spice herbal teas, you'll want to take advantage of some special drinks you can create with them, as well. Try Cran-Almond Cup for a quick and toasty warm-up on a cold winter day!

CRAN-ALMOND CUP

2 cups boiling water
6 Lipton ® Almond Pleasure Herbal Tea Bags
2 strips fresh orange peel
1 cup cranberry juice cocktail
1/4 cup brown sugar

In medium saucepan, pour boiling water over almond herbal tea bags and orange peel; cover and brew 5 minutes. Remove tea bags. Stir in remaining ingredients; heat through. Makes about 4 servings.

October 1982 figures reveal over 18,000 applications received by the agency for loans with a 12½ per cent interest rate. In January 1982, only 8,462 applications were received when the rate was 16½ per cent. The current GI home loan interest rate is 12 per cent.

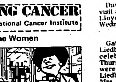
CONQUERING CANCER

Facts From The National Cancer Institute

New Hope For Some Women



Thanks to recent research many women are living longer and happier lives.

In recent years, scientists have come up with a variety of ways of dealing with breast cancer that are far less radical than methods used in the past.

Although about one of every 11 American women will develop breast cancer sometime in her life, results of research have led to remarkable improvements in a breast cancer patient's potential for healthy, long-term survival.

For example, in 1979, a panel of experts in breast cancer surgery concluded that "total mastectomy with axillary dissection" should be the standard treatment for women with early-stage breast cancer. The operation involves removing the breast and lumps under the arms, but leaves the chest muscles intact. Fully 85 percent of American women with breast cancer are candidates for this surgery.

Mastectomy is not the only treatment for breast cancer. Radiation therapy is a promising technique for women who have early-stage breast cancer. This procedure involves removing only the breast lump and some or all of the underarm lymph nodes. The remaining breast tissue is then treated with radiation.

With this trend toward simpler surgery, at least 80 percent of women who undergo mastectomy may be eligible for breast reconstruction, which itself has been greatly refined by improvement during the 1970s both in implant materials and surgical technique.

These new techniques are helping many women live longer and happier lives. For a free pamphlet with step-by-step instructions on breast self-examination, you can write to the National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, MD 20205.

Cancer Treatment For Children Is Better Each Year

It's unusual for children to have cancer, but for those who do, cancer is not a death sentence.

Six out of every ten children who have cancer are cured. Generally, a child with cancer stands a better chance of surviving than an adult with cancer.

Advances in medical treatment have produced dramatically brighter outlooks than ever before for children with cancer. Some common types of childhood cancer have very high cure rates.

Children diagnosed as having cancer this year have better chances of survival than children five or ten years ago, said John R. Priest, a specialist in childhood cancer.

More effective treatment programs, including new drugs, are a main reason for that improved outlook. Progress in treating children's cancer also has come about because of standardized treatment for children across the United States.

Although cancer in children is rare, it's the chief cause of death by disease among children ages three to 14, according to the American cancer society.

About one in every 8,000 children a year develops cancer. In a state like Minnesota, that adds up to 100 to 150 new cases each year.

Kinds of cancer that occur in children are different from the cancers that strike adults.

Most common sites of cancer in children include the blood, lymph nodes, nervous system, bone, kidney and muscle. A child's chances for recovery depend on the type of cancer the child has.

For example, 90 per cent of the most common forms of kidney tumors are cured. Most common brain tumor is cured more than 80 per cent of the time.

Leukemia, which is cancer of the blood-forming tissues, is the most common type of cancer in children. There is a 50 to 60 per cent chance that a child with leukemia will survive for five years after the diagnosis. Many, but not all of the children who survive after five years would be cured, Priest said.

Less common form of leukemia is cured in fewer than 20 per cent of cases, but new therapies to improve treatment are being tried.

Treatment involves a combination of surgery, drugs or radiation therapy. Treatment can range from six months to four years, but in most cases it takes two to three years.

At many pediatric cancer centers in the United States, treatment follows specific schedules set by the children's cancer study group. The group is a network of cancer centers that cooperate in exchanging information on treatment results. It operates under the sponsorship of the National cancer institute.

Children's cancer study group compiles information from large numbers of cancer patients who are being treated by physicians at the many cooperating centers. New treatment methods are verified or discarded quickly because they can be tested simultaneously on a large number of patients.

Progress toward effective therapies is made faster through this cooperative program than if physicians worked independently.

Assembling of teams of medical specialists also contributes to greater success in treating cancer, Priest said.

At pediatric cancer centers, physicians on the team are pediatric oncologists (pediatricians who specialize in cancer), pediatric surgeons, radiologists and pathologists. Also included are oncology nurses, radiation therapists and family support specialists.

Give Your Home A Touch Of Americana

The Americana look—a warm style that's here to stay can even include a new—but old-looking—telephone.

One of the warmest looks in decorating these days recaptures the flavor of America's yesteryear. Some decorators define it as "yesterday's virtues in today's decorating style." Others point out that it's an inexpensive way to have a new home at your old address.

Small, personal touches, interesting and individual selections can impart a very personal style.

Today's Americana style adds warmth and it mixes well with just about any decorating period.

Joining in this search for the American look are the people of the Bell System. In honor of the 100th year of Bell Phones for the Home, they have created an Americana collection of telephones crafted in oak, designed especially to complement the versatile Americana decorating style.

You can find a phone in this collection to suit most any room, any personality, any theme. There's the adaptation of the first Bell home phone, the Americana Edition Circa 1882* . For a more rural feeling, you might prefer the Country Junction * , an adaptation of a vintage 1913 model.

Other selections include the Country Squire * , a cradle phone, and the clever Stowaway * Rolltop phone, that resembles a miniature rolltop desk with a phone inside. All combine up-to-the-minute technology with their Americana styling and are available at your nearest Bell PhoneCenter.

For a free booklet that can help you put the Americana glow in your home, write for The New Americana Style at Home Anywhere, Susan Ames, The Bell System Home Consultant, P.O. Box 2763, Grand Central Station, New York, NY 10017.

Feb. 6-12 Week Observes Crime Prevention

February 6-12 has been proclaimed 1983 crime prevention week by Governor Rudy Perpich. It is a week when everyone is encouraged to increase his or her efforts in reducing all types of crime, said Paul Tschida, commissioner of the Minnesota department of public safety.

"Conscientious crime prevention efforts by all of us could continue the decrease in crime that we're now experiencing in Minnesota," said Tschida. "There was a 9.4 per cent decrease in crime throughout the state during the first nine months of 1982."

Crime prevention specialists recommend several techniques people can use to stop crime.

Most burglaries can be prevented by:

+ Installing one-inch throw deadbolt locks.

+ Locking doors and windows.

+ Joining operation identification and asking for a home security premise survey.

Operation identification and security surveys are offered free by police departments and sheriff's offices. Neighbors uniting in block watch groups to watch each others' homes is another effective way to reduce burglary.

More burglary prevention tips are in the Minnesota crime watch publication, "What to Do Before the Burglar Comes." Brochure is available free of charge from local law enforcement agencies.

Charles Rix, Minnesota crime watch coordinator, cautioned people to guard against being assaulted when out at night. "Walking with a friend, staying on well-lighted streets and not hitchhiking are excellent ways to avoid rapists and muggers," Rix said. "When approached by a suspicious person, run away and towards a group of people if possible. If forced to defend yourself, hit an unarmed assailant in the nose. This sudden blow can temporarily immobilize the attacker, making escape possible."

"Be on the Safe Side," another free crime watch publication with personal protection information, is also supplied by law enforcement agencies.

Vehicle thefts can be prevented by locking doors, closing windows and keeping packages out of sight, according to Crime Watch. Other suggested tips for stopping vehicle theft are:

+ Do not leave a set of keys hidden in the vehicle.

+ Do not put the vehicle's license number on a key chain.

+ Park in well-lighted areas on streets, with front wheels turned to the curb.

Free crime watch publication, "Crime on Wheels", has more vehicle theft prevention information.

Crime prevention week is observed to promote the use of crime fighting techniques by everyone, according to Commissioner Tschida. "But these techniques require year-round practice if crime is to be prevented," he added.

Dinosaur Show Featured At Planetarium

"The Death of the Dinosaurs," a look at science's search to understand one of the earth's great disappearing acts, will be the featured show February 3 to March 6 at the Moorhead state university planetarium.

Showtimes are at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and at 3 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

Show, produced by the MacMillan planetarium in Vancouver, B.C., takes a look at some cosmic evidence that may explain why the dinosaurs became extinct over 64 million years ago. Theories range from a giant supernova that rained radioactivity down on earth to an asteriod that collided with this planet and altered surface termperatures.

Planetarium is located in Bridges hall on campus, near the intersection of Eighth avenue and 11th street south.

For private group showings or more information, contact the planetarium office at 236-3982.

FmHA Urges Farmers To Use PIK Program

Farmers home administration (FmHA) state director Russ Bjorhus is directing FmHA district directors and county supervisors throughout the state to encourage Minnesota farmers to seriously consider participating in the new Payment-in-Kind (PIK) or "crop swap" program.

Bjorhus, who just returned from a department of agriculture briefing in Washington, said he is "thoroughly convinced that the PIK program can go a long way toward solving surplus grain problems and easing the cost-price squeeze, while at the same time, holding down federal spending."

Meeting in Washington, Bjorhus said, was called by Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block. It included comments by the Secretary and detailed briefings by agriculture stabilization and conservation service (ASCS) Administrator Everett Rank and FmHA Administrator Charles W. Shuman, among others. ASCS executive directors and ASCS committee members from around the country also attended the meeting.

"There is no doubt in my mind", Bjorhus said, "that this innovative PIK program can be of great benefit to Minnesota's farmers. It can help reduce the need for operating capital, reduce interest costs, and hold production to a more realistic level this year and, if necessary, next year. It can help relieve cash flow problems for many farmers and in the long run improve the general agricultural economy.

"I sincerely hope that every farmer will study the details of the new program with an open mind and determine its benefits before the end of the sign-up period, March 11," Bjorhus said.

Awareness By Citizens Can Halt Con-Games

By relying on the human inclination to be helpful or get something for nothing, criminals use confidence games to swindle thousands of dollars from people each year, according to Minnesota crime watch — a program of the Minnesota department of public safety.

Most people feel they are wise enough to rebuff confidence games before being victimized by a usually well dressed, talkative, intelligent con-artist. But almost anyone can be deceived if they are approached with the right scheme at the right time.

"People can reduce their chances of being swindled by confidence games if they recognize and know how to stop them," said Charles Rix, Minnesota crime watch coordinator.

Common confidence game is the bank examiner fraud. Person posing as a bank examiner asks an individual to withdraw cash from his or her bank account to catch a bank employee suspected of misusing funds. "Examiner" says the money's serial numbers will be recorded and the funds redeposited so it can be traced to the suspect. Victim is told to keep the withdrawl secret so the suspected employee will not become suspicious. Wanting to help catch an embezzler, the victim withdraws the cash and gives it to the "examiner." This is the last time the victim sees the money or the criminal.

"Always refuse to withdraw money for any so-called bank examiner," said Rix. "Banks do not use their customer's money to catch a suspected employee. Also, be suspicious of anyone who asks that a withdrawal be made in secrecy. Reason may be that they do not want bank or law enforcement officials to know of their scheme."

Another confidence game involves a con-artist claiming to be a door-to-door salesperson who offers a product to homeowners at no cost. After a flattering conversation and an offer of bonuses for referrals that result in product sales, the homeowners signs what the "salesperson" says is a product promotion contract. Unfortunately, the contract does not offer bonuses and forces the homeowner to pay for a product he or she thought was free.

"Always examine a contract before signing it to be certain that all statements made by the salesperson appear in the contract," said Rix. "Check the reputation of the company being represented by calling the Better Business Bureau and asking for a list of company customers."

+ Never discuss personal finances with strangers.

+ Never withdraw cash from the bank at the request of strangers.

+ Don't expect something for nothing.

+ Report suspected confidence games to the police or sheriff department.

Over 600,000 Vehicles Bought Or Sold In '82

Over 600,000 vehicles were bought or sold in Minnesota in 1982, according to the records of driver and vehicle services, a division of the Minnesota department of public safety.

"Even with the great volume of transactions processed by driver and vehicle services each year, the transferring of motor vehicle ownership titles is surprisingly quick and can be relatively easy for the people involved," said Marlene Swanson, director of driver and vehicle services.

Swanson offered the following suggestions to make the process as uncomplicated and streamlined as possible:

Fill out the title application completely. That requires the seller's signature, buyer's name clearly printed and a sales receipt completed by the buyer.

Make sure the title form includes the date of sale.

An odometer statement signed by both the seller and buyer is required. If it does not appear on the title, a special form can be obtained at any deputy registrar's office.

Insurance information stating the company name and policy number is needed to complete the application for title. Also, the Minnesota driver license numbers of all buyers must be included.

A prospective buyer should make arrangements to be released from any financial obligations (or liens) generated by the previous owner.

Vehicle must have valid license plates. In Minnesota, license plates are issued to a vehicle and must stay with that vehicle. However, if special plates or personalized plates are involved, the seller may keep the plates if the person obtains regular plates before the transfer.

It is very important that the seller and the buyer go to the Deputy Registrar's office at the same time to transfer the title. Then any questions or problems can be cleared up on the spot.

Buyer must complete a receipt of the sale which includes the serial number, plate number, make, model, date of sale and the buyer's name and address. Seller will retain the receipt and the buyer keeps the completed title.

Expect 65-70 Exhibitors At TRF Gun Show

From 65 to 70 exhibitors are expected to fill 110 tables with guns, coins and antiques at the third annual Thief River Falls gun show February 19 and 20 at the national guard armory in Thief River Falls.

Hardy Hodge, who is coordinating the show, said that guns will be the main attraction of the show with more than 60 tables already reserved by gun dealers alone. Coin dealers have arranged for about 10 tables and several antique dealers have made arrangements to participate.

Public will be admitted to the show for a $1 entry fee on both Saturday and Sunday, February 19 and 20, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. A limited number of tables remain and will be allocated in order of reservations, Hodge said. Individuals who have one to several guns which they are interested in selling or trading are encouraged to bring them with them to the show.

Hodge said that 24-hour security will be provided at the armory and that a special secure room with electrical outlets is being provided for coin dealers and exhibitors. Eight-foot tables for display cost $10 each with a one dollar discount for pre-registration.

The national guard will again have a large military display at the armory, featuring M16 and M60 weapons and other military items. The show is advertised in three states and dealers from a wide area of Minnesota and North Dakota will be represented.

KNOX ELEMENTARY SCHOOL is being considered for closing by the School District 564 board of education as a cost-saving measure on the 1983-84 school budget. Closing of the school is projected to save the district $115,708 in operating costs — a substantial portion of the $944,160 in cuts being considered for the coming year. Public input is encouraged at a meeting to be conducted Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. A limited number of the lengthy budget summary books are available for viewing at the superintendent's office in the school district service center.

School Budget Cuts May Include Closing Of Knox

With cries of anguished St. Hilaire community residents still ringing in their ears following closing of the St. Hilaire school last year, the Thief River Falls board of education is giving serious consideration to closing a Thief River Falls elementary school for the 1983-84 school year.

The closing would be a large chunk of the proposed $944,160 in budget cuts offered for board consideration and reviewed with the board Thursday morning by Supt. Robert Block. The superintendent had been directed by the board at an earlier meeting to come up with a proposal to trim about $900,000 from next year's budget.

"There isn't any fat to trim," Supt. Block said in discussing the proposed changes in budget for the coming year. "We're well into the flesh with these cuts and there's no question that programs are going to be hurt by them. Our present trust is survival and that is a very real challenge."

Proposed closing of Knox elementary school is projected to save the school district $115,708 — the biggest individual item in the long list of budget cuts.

Public meeting on the proposed budget cuts — to seek input from citizens — has been scheduled for Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. Questions will be answered and testimony received. The budget reduction summary — a document approximately half an inch thick — is available in limited numbers at the school district service center superintendent's office for anyone who would like to review it prior to the public meeting. Because of its size, the summary copies must be left in the school district service center.

"The closing of Knox elementary school will result in shifting district attendance areas and removal of a neighborhood school," the budget summary information states. "Upon closing this building, the board must address the question of building disposal and its relationship to future enrollment projections. The closing of Knox is based on the five-year projection and reduction of students within the district.

"However, the closing of the building will result in some positive benefits to the district," the summary continues, "including a saving of operating costs of approximately $115,700 resulting from cuts in the areas of power and utilities, staff, school lunch and maintenance. This, in light of our current financial condition, is a major reduction in expenditures that can result without any accompanying curtailment of programs.

"The closing of the building does not impact class-size ratio to staff. Reductions presented in other areas may effect that ratio. There currently exists another elementary school located in the same section of town (Mark Twain elementary). Knox, if left open, will require a substantial amount of capital outlay money in terms of a new roof and new windows to become energy efficient and reduce maintenance cost."

The projection on closing Knox school shows projected savings of $24,000 in fuel, $3,377 in electricity, $3,401 in water and sewer, $3,462 in custodial supplies, $45,292 in custodial salaries and fringes, $4,960 in food service, $1,000 in mail run, $14,478 in secretarial and fringes, $11,296 in aides and fringes, $2,700 in maintenance and $1,742 in other savings for the $115,708 total.

Necessity for budget reductions is based on a number of factors, Supt. Block explained. "It is necessary that the board of education establish what should be our projected fund balance as of June 30, 1984. Without that base, we really have no way to determine how much our budget must be reduced," he said.

"As of June 30, 1982, the K-12 unappropriated operating fund balance was $630,011, compared with $883,980 as of June 30, 1981. The operating funds include the general, food service, transportation and community service funds. We are projecting the June 30, 1983 operating fund balance to be $225,695. With no cuts in expenditures and receipt of projected full state aids, our June 30, 1984 fund balance would be a minus $53,778," he said.

He noted that payments have been below formulas or have been delayed by the state
